New Books and New Editions

In Preparation and to be Published during the Autumn of 1888.

Arranged Alphabetically by Names of Authors and Titles of Series.

American Commonwealths.

INDIANA. A Redemption from Slavery. By J. P. DUNN, Jr., author of "The Massacres of the Mountains."

OHIO. Historical Sketches of the First Fruits of the Ordinance of 1787. By RUFUS KING.

Each with a Map, 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

Like the writers of the volumes previously published in this series, the gentlemen above named are sons or residents of the States whose history they write, and by adequate knowledge and literary skill are peculiarly competent to treat their subjects broadly and in accordance with the scope of the series, which has been well stated by a competent critic: "The books are not mere State histories; they are something much more and very much better than that. They are attempts to embody what is most distinct and peculiar in the political life and history of each State, and to show how that has contributed to the development of the whole. The widespread interest awakened in the past of our nation will find much to satisfy it in these volumes, for the design is original and the execution excellent."

Mr. Dunn's book is the only record of the official and political life of William Henry Harrison while he was Governor of Indiana Territory, and gives for the first time the details of the struggle over the question of Slavery in that Commonwealth.

Books already published in this series:—

VIRGINIA. By JOHN ESTEN COOKE.

OREGON. By WILLIAM BARROWS.

MARYLAND. By WILLIAM HAND BROWNE.

KENTUCKY. By NATHANIEL SOUTHGATE SHALER.

MICHIGAN. By THOMAS M. COOLEY.

KANSAS. By LEVERETT W. SPRING.

CALIFORNIA. By JOSIAH ROYCE.

NEW YORK. By ELLIS H. ROBERTS. (In two volumes.)

CONNECTICUT. By ALEXANDER JOHNSTON.

MISSOURI. By LUCIEN CARR.

With Maps. Each volume, 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

(Other volumes in preparation.)

edition, it embodies the results of modern scholarship, and is designed to be the best possible combination of practicability and scientific accuracy. The favor with which the new edition [in manuscript] has already been received by teachers in Preparatory Schools and by professors in Colleges warrants us in assuring teachers of Latin that they will find it well worthy of their careful examination.

Theodore Bacon.

THE LIFE OF DELIA BACON. By THEODORE BACON. With a portrait.
In one volume, 8vo.

Miss Delia Bacon was one of the most intellectual women America has produced, and after making all proper deduction for her eccentricities, there were many features in her career which are worthy of the discriminating and admirable commemoration which they receive in this book at the hand of her nephew. Miss Bacon, as is well known, was the first to suggest that Shakespeare was not the author of the plays which for two centuries and a half have borne his name, and she brought to the discussion of this question an acuteness and an enthusiasm which made her work very engaging, even if it did not produce conviction. The biography contains, as elements of special value and attraction, many letters written to Miss Bacon by Hawthorne, Carlyle, Emerson, and others, and altogether the book is one of exceptional interest.

Björnstjerne Björnson.

SIGURD SLEMBE. A Drama. By BJÖRNSTJERNE BJÖRNSON. Translated by WM. M. PAYNE. In one volume, crown octavo, $1.50.

Although Björnson is known to most English and American readers only as a novelist, his reputation in Norway is based chiefly on his dramatic writings; and his trilogy, "Sigurd Slembe," has been pronounced "the greatest work in Norwegian literature." It is a semi-historical drama, written partly in prose and partly in verse, and dealing with the career of a pretender to the throne of Norway in the twelfth century. Though Björnson's masterpiece, it has never been translated into English, and Mr. Payne's forcible, idiomatic, and graceful translation of it can hardly fail of a hearty welcome.

W. R. Bliss.

COLONIAL TIMES ON BUZZARD'S BAY. By W. R. BLISS. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $2.00.

This book serves the excellent purpose of preserving, in convenient form and with sufficient explanation, the historical records of early times in one part of the Old Colony. It throws much light on the character of the people, their ideas, customs, and aims; and, while limited to a small section, it virtually portrays many of the most characteristic features of colonial times in numerous places on the northern Atlantic coast.

Books in Fancy Silk and Vellum Cloth.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL. By CHARLES DICKENS.

THE SCHOOL-BOY. By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

EVANGELINE. By H. W. LONGFELLOW.

THE HANGING OF THE CRANE. By H. W. LONGFELLOW.

TWENTY POEMS from H. W. LONGFELLOW.

HOME BALLADS. By BAYARD TAYLOR.

SNOW-BOUND. By JOHN G. WHITTIER.

MABEL MARTIN. By JOHN G. WHITTIER.

BALLADS OF NEW ENGLAND. By JOHN G. WHITTIER.

WINTER POEMS.

Each volume, 8vo, fully illustrated, and bound in fancy silk and vellum cloth, $2.50.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

ROMANCES, LYRICS, AND SONNETS from the Poetic Works of ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING. Uniform with the Lyrics, Idyls and Romances from Browning's Poems. In one volume, 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

The little volume of selections from Browning's poetical writings was one of the most tasteful and popular of inexpensive gift-books published last year. A little companion volume has been prepared, containing the choicest of Mrs. Browning's shorter poems. The book will be brought out in the same attractive style, and can hardly fail to receive a welcome as hearty as that accorded to the selections from Mr. Browning.

B- B- B-

Three Excellent Books for Boys.

THE STORY OF A BAD BOY. By THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

BEING A BOY. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY. By JAMES PARTON.

Each volume, 16mo, $1.25. The set, 3 volumes, in a box, $3.75.

An admirable set of books, thoroughly interesting and wholesome.

“Charles Egbert Craddock.”

THE DESPOT OF BROOMSEDGE COVE. A Novel. By “CHARLES EGBERT CRADDOCK,” author of “In the Tennessee Mountains,” “The Prophet of the Great Smoky Mountains,” etc. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

While appearing serially in the Atlantic Monthly, “The Despot of Broomsedge Cove” has been generally recognized as perhaps the strongest novel Miss Murfree has yet written. The scenes of the story are laid in the East Tennessee mountains, which she knows so thoroughly and loves so well, and the characters are the mountaineers whom she finds so attractive and so available for her indisputable art as a novelist. In this story her gift of description and her skill in depicting character and in dialogue are shown at their best.

Henry S. Dana.

HISTORY OF WOODSTOCK, VERMONT. By HENRY S. DANA. With several Portraits. 1 vol. 8vo.

The history of a typical New England town from its settlement, through the development of its self-governing town-meeting, its social, educational, and religious institutions ; its patriotic response to the call for men in the Revolution, the War of 1812, and especially in the War for the Union, — this history is at once deeply interesting and profoundly instructive. Such a history is here presented of a Vermont town, and it will doubtless find not a few readers outside of the circle to which it naturally appeals with especial force.

Katharine Floyd Dana.

OUR PHIL, AND OTHER STORIES. By KATHARINE FLOYD DANA. With Illustrations by E. W. KEMBLE. 1 vol. 16mo.

Several years ago Mrs. Dana, under the nom de plume of Olive A. Wadsworth, contributed to the Atlantic Monthly three stories: "Our Phil," "Aunt Rosy's Chest," and "Marty's Various Mercies." They were so good stories, and so well told, that they are altogether worthy of being brought out in a permanent and attractive form.

Dante Alighieri.

THE DIVINA COMMEDIA OF DANTE ALIGHIERI. Translated into English Verse, with Notes and Illustrations, by JOHN AUGUSTINE WILSTACH, Translator of the Complete Works of Virgil. In two volumes, crown octavo, $5.00.

Mr. Wilstach is known to the literary and classical world by his translation of the complete works of Virgil. He has now prepared, upon the same plan, a translation of the great work of Dante, to the study of which he has given years of careful and critical labor, and his work cannot fail to challenge the attention of all who are interested in Dante's masterpiece.

Charles Carroll Everett.

POETRY, COMEDY, AND DUTY. By CHARLES CARROLL EVERETT, D. D., Bussey Professor of Theology in the Divinity School of Harvard University. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $1.50.

CONTENTS: Poetry, — The Imagination, The Philosophy of Poetry, The Poetic Aspect of Nature, The Tragic Forces in Life and Literature. Comedy, — The Philosophy of the Comic. Duty, — The Ultimate Facts of Ethics, The New Ethics. Conclusion, — Poetry, Comedy, and Duty considered in their Relation to one another.

Professor Everett is well known as an unusually clear thinker, a sound scholar, and a writer of admirable clearness and force. Some portions of the attractive volume here announced have appeared in the most scholarly periodicals of America, and others are here printed for the first time. The subjects treated, and the eminent ability and candor which Professor Everett brings to them, will commend the volume to the best readers. The book will be a welcome addition to a department of literature which, in America, is quite limited.

John Fiske.

THE CRITICAL PERIOD OF AMERICAN HISTORY, 1783-1789. By JOHN FISKE, author of "Myths and Mythmakers," "Outlines of Cosmic Philosophy," etc. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $2.00.

This book is devoted to the obscure period between the close of the Revolution and the definite organization of the present Constitutional Government of the United States. It is the result of minute research, and sheds a flood of light on the various opposing views and interests then prevailing in the thirteen States with regard to the most desirable form of government, or the form most likely to be satisfactory in practical operation. The various general conventions and legislative proceedings in the several States, which have a bearing on this subject, are carefully described; the commercial, industrial, and financial condition of the country is accurately portrayed; and, in short, the history of the country for those years, hitherto very imperfectly understood, is made thoroughly clear and intelligible by virtue of Mr. Fiske's profound study of the subject and his remarkably lucid style.

The Gentleman's Magazine Library.

The chief Contents of the "Gentleman's Magazine," from 1731 to 1868.

Edited by G. LAURENCE GOMME, F. S. A. In fourteen volumes. Each volume, 8vo, $2.50; *Roxburgh, printed on hand-made paper, $3.50, net; *Large-Paper Edition, Roxburgh (50 copies), printed on hand-made paper, $6.00, net. Eight volumes have already appeared.

Vol. 9. LITERARY CURIOSITIES. Vol. 10. TOPOGRAPHY.

Single volumes sold in cloth only; the Roxburgh style and Large-Paper Edition are sold only by subscription for the entire set.

The volumes already issued of the Gentleman's Magazine Library have more than met the high anticipations produced by the original announcement. They form a valuable and exceedingly interesting collection of facts in the departments of Manners and Customs; Dialect, Proverbs, and Word-Lore; Popular Superstitions; English Traditions and Foreign Customs; Archæology; and Romano-British Remains.

The Guardians.

THE GUARDIANS. A Novel. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

This novel, though published anonymously, is from no unpracticed hand. Some of the best pages of the Atlantic Monthly for the current year are from the same source, and have delighted a host of readers by their excellent qualities of thought and style. "The Guardians" has so good a plot, characters so well-defined and generally so attractive, and the story is told with so much spirit and grace, and is so well worth telling, that a genuine success both with the critics and with the host of readers of good novels is confidently anticipated for it.

Rowland G. Hazard.

ESSAY ON LANGUAGE, AND OTHER PAPERS. By ROWLAND G. HAZARD.
New Edition. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

CONTENTS: Language; Causes of the Decline of Political Morality; The Adaptation of the Universe to the Cultivation of the Mind; Intemperance; The Philosophical Character of Channing; Public Schools; The Character and Works of the late Chief Justice Durfee, LL. D., of Rhode Island; The Duty of Individuals to support Science and Literature; Our Resources.

FREEDOM OF MIND IN WILLING; OR, EVERY BEING THAT WILLS A CREATIVE FIRST CAUSE. By ROWLAND G. HAZARD. New Edition. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

CONTENTS: Of the Existence of Spirit; Of the Existence of Matter; Of Mind; Liberty or Freedom; Of Cause; Of the Will; Of Want; Of Matter as Cause; Of Spirit as Cause; Freedom of Intelligence; Instinct and Habit; Illustration from Chess; Of Want and Effort in Various Orders of Intelligence; Of Effort for Internal Change; Conclusion. Review of Edwards on the Will, — Edwards's Definition of Will; Liberty as defined by Edwards; Natural and Moral Necessity; Self-Determination; No Event without a Cause; Of the Will's Determining in Things Indifferent; Relation of Indifference to Freedom in Willing; Contingence; Connection of the Will with the Understanding; Motive; Cause and Effect; God's Foreknowledge; Conclusion.

TWO LETTERS ON CAUSATION AND FREEDOM IN WILLING, addressed to John Stuart Mill. With other Papers. By ROWLAND G. HAZARD. New Edition. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

CONTENTS: Letter on Causation; Letter on Freedom in Willing; The Existence of Matter; Our Notions of Infinite Space; Animals not Automata; Letter on Causation to Francis Wharton, LL. D.

Mr. Hazard was one of the clearest and closest thinkers America has produced, as his books amply testify. They also show that his views and hopes of human nature were unusually lofty and generous. It is to be desired that this new edition of his principal works, which includes a considerable number of noteworthy papers not contained in previous editions, may have the wide and careful reading it merits.

Hamilton A. Hill.

A HISTORY OF THE OLD SOUTH CHURCH, BOSTON. By HAMILTON A. HILL. With numerous illustrations. In two volumes, 8vo.

The Old South Church is perhaps the most famous historic building of Boston. The Old State House, Faneuil Hall, King's Chapel, have their special associations with the history of Boston and of the country, but the Old South Church is peculiarly a landmark and cherished memento of the Colonial and Revolutionary periods. It is eminently fit that its great story should be told, and that this and succeeding generations should know not only the external history of this venerated structure, but also the principles and struggles identified with it, and the multitude of personal, religious, and political associations connected with it. Mr. Hill has told this story with much fullness, and with the warmth of appreciation which genuine loyalty imparts. Numerous illustrations and fac-similes add much to the interest and historic value of the work.

Nathaniel Holmes.

REALISTIC IDEALISM IN PHILOSOPHY ITSELF. By NATHANIEL HOLMES, author of "The Authorship of Shakespeare." In two volumes, crown 8vo, $5.00.

Judge Holmes is well known for the ability and acumen of the work in which he has discussed the Authorship of Shakespeare. He brings to the present work great maturity of thought, and the results of long study upon questions of a philosophical character. The work has for its main scope a demonstration of the inner identity of the Real and the Ideal, as the two sides or aspects of the one essential whole. The first volume treats of method in philosophy, discusses principles and theories, and ends with the metaphysical bridge over from external analysis to internal synthesis. The second volume, in a critical review of what the sciences have demonstrated concerning evolution in the world of nature, endeavors to exhibit the identities and the distinctions of mind and matter, of reflex action and of self-conscious will, and of the universal and the finite soul. It presents a summary of the inner synthesis of the physical and the metaphysical in a philosophical theory of the universe; and there is a general conclusion on Providence and Fate, on Will and Power, on a metaphysic of Ethics and Law, and on Immortality.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

THE HOLMES BIRTHDAY BOOK. Containing selections for each day of the year, from the prose and poetic writings of OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. Uniform with the Longfellow, Whittier, and Lowell Birthday books. 24mo, cloth, $1.00; seal, limp, $2.50.

James K. Hosmer.

YOUNG SIR HENRY VANE. By JAMES K. HOSMER, author of "Samuel Adams" in the series of American Statesmen. With a portrait of Vane engraved on Wood, Plans of the Battles of Marston Moor and Naseby, a fac-simile of a letter by Vane, and a copy of the Great Seal of the Commonwealth under Cromwell. In one volume, octavo, $4.00.

Young Sir Henry Vane was one of the most interesting and noteworthy figures in the early colonial history of Massachusetts. He was also intimately connected with the leaders of the Commonwealth in England. Professor Hosmer, whose excellent book on Samuel Adams is one of the notable volumes in the series of American Statesmen, has made a prolonged and exceedingly careful study of the career and times of Vane, examining minutely the full records in the British Museum, and has produced a book of great biographical and historical interest. It is, as few books could be, of almost equal interest to Englishmen and Americans, and will serve to bring it into clearer relief one of the most striking and admirable characters of a memorable era.

Edward Hungerford.

THE AMERICAN BOOK OF CHURCH SERVICES, with Selections for Responsive Reading, and full Orders of Service for the Celebration of Matrimony, and for Funerals and other Occasional Ministrations; also, an ample list of Selections of Sacred Music, with References for the guidance of Pastors and Choristers. Arranged by Rev. EDWARD HUNGERFORD. 1 vol. 16mo.

This book is intended to serve for Churches which now use no liturgy, the purpose served in the Episcopal Church by the Book of Common Prayer. It contains outlines of Morning and Evening Service, brief and longer; a service for Sunday Schools; marriage, baptismal, and burial services; a service for uniting with the church, and for communion; services for special days and occasions.

The compiler has drawn from the Prayer Book and from a large variety of volumes containing liturgical forms, and has produced a book remarkably full and admirably suited for use, especially in Congregational churches.

Leonard A. Jones.

*A TREATISE ON LIENS. Common Law, Statutory, Equitable, and Maritime. By LEONARD A. JONES, Esq. In two volumes, 8vo, sheep, $13.00, net.

This work includes Common Law, Equitable, Statutory, and Maritime Liens; Liens upon Personal Property and upon Real Property. Among the particular liens treated are those of Attorneys, Bankers, Carriers, Corporations, Factors, Finders, Innkeepers, Laborers, Landlords, Livery Stable Keepers, Lumbermen, Mechanics, Vendors of Real Property, Vendors of Personal Property, Stoppage in Transitu, Warehousemen, etc., etc.

Mr. Jones is so favorably known by his works on Mortgages, Pledges, Railroad Securities, etc., that this work will be warmly welcomed by the profession. The thoroughness, care, and lucidity which characterize all of Mr. Jones's books render them peculiarly valuable and justly popular.

*LAW OF MORTGAGES OF PERSONAL PROPERTY. Third Edition, revised and enlarged. By LEONARD A. JONES, Esq. In one volume, 8vo, law sheep, $6.50, net.

Mr. Jones has thoroughly revised this book and brought it down to date. The new edition will be even better than the previous one which the American Law Review pronounced "a model in all that makes a useful practical book of reference for a busy profession." The Albany Law Journal said of it:—

We feel no hesitation in commending this work as in a very high degree comprehensive, succinct, clear, and trustworthy. We have never found any work more free from diffuseness and padding. The topic is a very vexatious and difficult one, but Mr. Jones has exhibited and treated the conflicting rulings with great method, fullness, and discrimination. It will prove an invaluable assistant.

LAW OF MORTGAGES OF REAL PROPERTY. By LEONARD A. JONES, Esq. Fourth Edition, revised and enlarged. In two volumes, 8vo. Price in law sheep, $13.00, net.

Joseph Kirkland.

THE McVEYS. A Novel. By JOSEPH KIRKLAND, author of "Luxy." 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

Major Kirkland's previous story, "Zury," has gained in certain respects a quite unusual success. It depicted with wonderful force and fidelity the conditions and experiences of pioneer life in Illinois. His new story, "The McVeys," reintroduces some of the characters that figured in "Zury," and may be considered, in some sense, a continuation of the former story. With the greater facility which practice has given Major Kirkland, it is safe to assume for "The McVeys" even a greater degree of readableness than "Zury" had, with no loss of clear and unusually accurate character-drawing.

Rodolfo Lanciani.

ANCIENT ROME IN THE LIGHT OF RECENT DISCOVERIES. By RODOLFO LANCIANI, Professor of Topography in the University of Rome and Director of the Roman Museum. With two Maps and about 100 Illustrations. 1 vol. 8vo.

The excavations which the Italian Government has made since 1871, under Professor Lanciani's observation, and latterly under his direction, are here described. They have brought to light the Forum, the House of the Vestal Virgins, the Palace of the Cæsars, the walls of the Senate-house, and multitudes of statues, inscriptions, and other objects of historic interest. The New York Evening Post, in speaking of Professor Lanciani and his lectures on this subject, remarked:—

It is not over once in a lifetime that one has a chance to hear the story of such work told by a man who has done it. Usually we hear of it from somebody who has read about it. He speaks English with great fluency and perfection. . . . Many of his discoveries, in fact, sound like fairy tales, or would do so if they were told by anybody but a man of science, who never for a moment allows his fancy to get away from the facts, and never produces a theory until he has placed the authorities under our eyes. No one, too, who has not followed the explorations of the last ten years in Rome, can guess, without hearing him, what these explorations have done to fill up the vast gaps in our knowledge of Roman institutions or manners. They in truth almost amount to a reconstruction of Roman history.

The numerous excellent illustrations add greatly to the value and interest of this work.

Henry W. Longfellow.

THE COURTSHIP OF MILES STANDISH. By HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. A Holiday volume, including numerous illustrations by GEO. H. BOUGHTON, F. T. MERRILL, and others. In a handsome quarto volume, $6.00.

This superb volume contains several illustrations of the early colonial days of Plymouth, and incidents in the career of Miles Standish as depicted by Longfellow, from the pencil of George Boughton, who is unsurpassed in his appreciation of the Pilgrim character and in the artistic skill and felicity with which he represents it. Mr. Merrill has also given much studious attention to this subject, and has produced for this work six full-page pictures of positive excellence. These are admirably reproduced by the photogravure and phototype processes. The work, in addition to its numerous and engaging art features, will contain notes relating to the antiquities of Plymouth, together with fac-similes and other pictorial representations of objects of great historic interest. Altogether the work will be one of decided excellence, beauty, and varied attractions.

Percival Lowell.

THE SOUL OF THE FAR EAST. By PERCIVAL LOWELL, author of "Chöson," etc. 1 vol. 16mo.

Mr. Lowell spent several years in Eastern Asia, Japan, and Corea, and in this book he presents an exceedingly careful, thoughtful view of the people of those nations, their language, art, religion, and imagination, their views of life, and the method of their mental operations, so unlike, in most important respects, to people of the West. The book will possess peculiar value and attraction for persons who are interested not merely in the material prosperity and the commercial prospects of Eastern nations, but in the social, intellectual, and religious history and character of the people.

Lucy Gibbons Morse.

THE CHEZZLES. By LUCY GIBBONS MORSE. With illustrations by the author. 1 vol. 16mo.

The scene of this very engaging story for children is partly in America, partly in France. The characters are bright and interesting, the dialogue portion is managed with rather unusual skill, the tone of the story is entirely wholesome, its course true to nature, and as a whole it is a book of more than ordinary attractions for children, while at the same time it has qualities of character and style which will cause parents to read it with hardly less interest than their children. The book contains several excellent and some humorous illustrations by the author.

The Notable Series.

ONE SUMMER. By BLANCHE WILLIS HOWARD.

THE LUCK OF ROARING CAMP, AND OTHER STORIES. By BRET HARTE.

BACKLOG STUDIES. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

Each volume, 16mo, $1.25; the set, three volumes, in a box, $3.75.

Three very popular books, which have already had a wide reading, but are well worth being read by everybody.

Catherine Owen.

MOLLY BISHOP'S FAMILY. By CATHERINE OWEN, author of "Ten Dollars Enough," and "Gentle Breadwinners." 1 vol. 16mo, $1.00.

Like the other excellent and popular books by Mrs. Owen, "Molly Bishop's Family" is a story and something more. The "something more" in this case is the ideal method of arranging and methodizing the home life of a family which is somewhat limited in income, but which possesses intelligence, thrift, good-nature, and a purpose to succeed, especially in that finest of achievements, making a happy home. The book cannot fail to be of great interest and to contain numerous helpful suggestions to a multitude of families, especially to those who are beginning their domestic life.

Edward Payson.

THE LAW OF EQUIVALENTS, in its Relations to Political and Social Ethics. By EDWARD PAYSON. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

The object of this important work is to suggest to the American people that great advances and approaches toward perfection in the domain of morals are not to be made in the same way and with the same celerity with which the experience of America has accustomed us to see miracles wrought in the domain of material enterprise. Mr. Payson points out that the methods of advance in the domains of matter and of morals are entirely unlike, and endeavors to recall the thought of America from its intense devotion to material pursuits and acquisitions to the far more important objects which demand attention in the realm of ethics and social life. He regards American theology as largely infected by romance, discourages the idea that morality can be enacted by statute, and suggests very important considerations with regard to the Family, indicating wherein it differs from Society, from the State, from the School, and from the Church. The book treats large and important subjects in a sincere spirit and with excellent ability.

James Phelan.

THE HISTORY OF TENNESSEE. By JAMES PHELAN, M. C. With a map.
1 vol. crown 8vo, $2.00.

Mr. Phelan, who is a native of Tennessee and now represents one of its districts in Congress, has made a very careful study of the history of Tennessee, and in this work contributes an excellent addition to the State histories of our country. In his preface he says: "In Tennessee we have, within the limits of a century, a picture of national life as complete as that of England through its two thousand years, or that of Rome from the kings to the emperors." After describing in a few sentences the development of civilization and government in Tennessee, with its processes and results, and stating that these form the real history of the State, he adds: "It is the story of this history which I have attempted to narrate without going unduly into detail, and not passing over wholly in silence the individuals who have been the factors of this law, or the occasional adventures which surround them with the golden light of mediæval romance. This story, if accurately and impartially told, the author imagines may not be altogether without interest; showing to the outside world the justice of this State's claim to a place of honor among the commonwealths of the Union, and recalling to the minds of her children the fact that their forefathers were men of brave hearts, of pure ambition, and of great achievements, worthy to be ranked among the noblest of those who, by undaunted courage, calm foresight, and liberal statesmanship, founded in the midst of danger, solitude, and even desolation, the empire which is now greater than all the rest."

William F. Poole and William I. Fletcher.

*INDEX TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE. First Supplement, January 1, 1882, to January 1, 1887. By WILLIAM FREDERICK POOLE, LL. D., Librarian of the Newberry Library, Chicago, and WILLIAM I. FLETCHER, Librarian of Amherst College. With the coöperation of the American Library Association. 1 vol. royal 8vo.

This work is prepared on the same plan which was found so satisfactory in the previous volume, and is not only a continuation of that, supplying a full index to American and English periodical literature of the five years 1882-1887, but it contains indexes of twenty-eight sets of periodicals not included in that. It is especially valuable in libraries, and to all who have any occasion to refer to the almost countless articles of greater or less importance which have appeared in the magazines of America and of England during these years. Mr. Justin Winsor, Librarian of Harvard University, says of the first volume: "Poole's Index has been of daily use to me personally, and in this library it is nearly the most used of books. It has opened the whole field of English Periodical Literature in an unprecedented way, and this portion of any library derives much additional importance from having its contents made thus traceable through such a key."

The Popular Dollar Series.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN. By HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

THE LAMPLIGHTER. By MARIA S. CUMMINS.

THE SCARLET LETTER. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

TWO YEARS BEFORE THE MAST. By R. H. DANA, JR.

Each of these remarkably popular books is now published in cloth for One Dollar.

J. P. Quincy.

THE PECKSTER PROFESSORSHIP. By J. P. QUINCY. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

"The Peckster Professorship" is not a mere story told for the beguiling of a leisure hour. It is based on, or suggests, facts that might well engage the attention of the Society for Psychical Research. This hint will sufficiently indicate the special kind of interest which one would anticipate in reading the story. It is written with admirable care and has an atmosphere of high breeding which is peculiarly welcome and by no means too common.

Agnes Repplier.

BOOKS AND MEN. By AGNES REPPLIER. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

CONTENTS: Children, Past and Present; On the Benefits of Superstition; What Children Read; Curiosities of Criticism; The Decay of Sentiment; Some Aspects of Pessimism; The Cavalier.

These essays cannot fail to attract the hearty admiration of all discriminating readers by their freshness of view, their wise vein of thought, and their unusual felicity of style. Their tone is eminently sane and wholesome, and they have the qualities of the best modern essays, — thoughtfulness, individuality, a simplicity which is one of the most charming characteristics of the finest literature of this age, and — without moralizing the theme tediously — a cheerful seriousness which foresees and would promote a more perfect civilization.

Riverside Literature Series.

*STORIES, ESSAYS, AND POEMS, by the best American authors, for schools and families. To be published from September, 1888, to May, 1889.

Thirty-six regular and three extra numbers of this series have already been issued, and they have been used in schools with admirable results in reading and in the study of literature. The numbers to be issued the coming season will include —

No. 37. CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER'S A-HUNTING OF THE DEER, How I Killed a Bear; Lost in the Woods; Camping Out; A Wilderness Romance; What Some People call Pleasure.

38. LONGFELLOW'S THE BUILDING OF THE SHIP; Pandora's Box; and Other Poems. With Notes.

39. LOWELL'S BOOKS AND LIBRARIES, and other Essays.

With three others to be announced later. There will be two extra numbers.

Paper covers, price 15 cents each.

The Riverside Natural History.

THE RIVERSIDE NATURAL HISTORY. By a corps of Forty-three Writers, including the most eminent American Naturalists. With full Bibliography, over 2200 Woodcuts in the text, 168 Full-Page Engravings, and 12 Colored Plates. In six volumes, imperial octavo, cloth, each, $5.00; sheep, $6.00; half morocco, $7.00. (Sold only by subscription for the entire work.)

The Riverside Natural History was not prepared primarily for the special student, but for readers interested in natural history. The writers have avoided technicalities, but have written from full, accurate knowledge, and have sought to set forth the facts clearly and effectively. The book is at once scientific and popular.

While living forms from all countries are sufficiently described in this work, North American species receive special consideration.

In each article is given a general account in popular terms of the structure and life history of the group, followed by an outline of the classification; and then the more prominent species are mentioned with such detail as their importance seems to demand. The last portion of each article is devoted to an account of the general distribution of the forms over the face of the earth. Especial attention is paid to the economic importance of the various forms, whether directly or indirectly injurious to man, of value as food, or of use in any agricultural, industrial, or manufacturing operation.

Each volume contains an excellent list of accessible publications which may be consulted if the reader wishes to pursue inquiry in any given direction. This list includes periodical literature, many of the most valuable recent contributions having been made through the magazines. No general bibliography on this subject has been published elsewhere, and this feature, while highly valuable to the general reader, makes the work peculiarly important to students and librarians.

The subjects and order of the volumes are as follows: —

VOL. 1. The Lower Invertebrates. General Introduction to the whole Animal Kingdom: Protozoa, Sponges, Jelly Fishes, Sea Anemones, Corals, Worms, Star Fishes, Sea Urchins, and Mollusks.

VOL. 2. Crustacea and Insects. The Lobsters, Crabs, Shrimps, Spiders, Thousand-legged Worms, Dragon-flies, Grasshoppers, Bugs, Beetles, Flies, Moths and Butterflies, Ants, Wasps, and Bees.

VOL. 3. Fishes and Reptiles. The Lancelet, Hag-fish, Lampreys, Sharks, Skates, and the true Fishes, Salamanders, Frogs, Toads, Snakes, Lizards, Turtles, and Alligators.

VOL. 4. The Birds. Taking up the latest classifications, the fossil forms, the Ostriches, Water Birds, Doves, Gallinaceous Birds, etc., the Eagles, Owls, Parrots, Woodpeckers, Humming-Birds, and the Singing Birds.

VOL. 5. The Mammals. The Duck-mole, the Kangaroos, the Sloths, the Rodents, Hedgehogs, Moles, Bats, Whales, Elephants, the Ungulates, the Carnivores, the Apes and Monkeys.

VOL. 6. Man. A general account of the races of man, from the lowest Australian type to the European.

Marianne C. D. Silsbee.

A HALF CENTURY IN SALEM. By MARIANNE C. D. SILSBEE. New (Fourth) Edition, revised and considerably enlarged. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

Mrs. Silsbee has made her charming book about one eighth larger than before. The Salem Gazette said of the first edition: —

This charming volume of reminiscence, by one who not only knew but was a part of much that she describes, . . . must receive a wide welcome from all dwellers in and lovers of our old town, but perhaps only those who, like the present writer, have been absent from it can appreciate in the fullest sense the delicious aroma of Old Salem which breathes through these pages. The generation of rare men and women who made a society of gentle breeding and fine culture, . . . the customs of a past simple but hospitable, abounding in comfort, unspoiled by luxury, — all are made to live again, in the light of a vivid memory and illuminated by the felicitous description of a keen but kindly pen.

Small Quartos in Brocaded Binding.

EVANGELINE. By H. W. LONGFELLOW.

THE BUILDING OF THE SHIP. By H. W. LONGFELLOW.

THE VISION OF SIR LAUNFAL. By J. R. LOWELL.

Each volume, illustrated, small quarto, prettily bound in a new style, $1.50; the set, three volumes, in a box, $4.50.

Harriet Beecher Stowe.

FLOWERS AND FRUIT, from the Writings of HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

In one volume, 16mo, $1.00.

This little book has been prepared with much intelligence and care, and includes the most striking and quotable passages from Mrs. Stowe's various works. They range "from grave to gay, from lively to severe," and form a book of quite remarkable variety, admirable for brief leisure moments. Side titles are inserted in the text for each quotation, so that one can see at a glance, by running his eye along the page, what is the subject of each of the selections, and can choose to suit his taste or mood.

*SCENES FROM THE WORKS OF MRS. STOWE. Selected by EMILY WEAVER. For the use of Schools and Entertainments. In the Riverside Literature Series. Paper, 15 cents net.

Tatian's Diatessaron.

THE DIATESSARON OF TATIAN. Translated from the Arabic, with an historical and critical Introduction, by A. L. FROTHINGHAM, JR., Professor of Archæology at Princeton.

Tatian, who was converted to Christianity by Justin Martyr, prepared a Diatessaron, or Harmony of the Four Gospels, which was extensively used in place of the Gospel texts during the second, third, and fourth centuries, in the Eastern Churches. It then disappeared, and for more than a thousand years no allusion is made to it. Two manuscript copies in Arabic have recently been discovered, and from these Professor A. Ciasca, of Rome, has made a Latin translation, and Professor Frothingham, of Princeton, has prepared an English translation. The work cannot fail to possess remarkable interest for all New Testament students.

Charles Dudley Warner.

ON HORSEBACK, AND MEXICAN NOTES. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, author of "In the Levant," "My Summer in a Garden," etc. 1 vol. 12mo.

Mr. Warner's previous books of travel have not only possessed the delightful humor and the charming style which characterize all that he writes, but they have shown marked sagacity in observation and the genius to emphasize the most noteworthy features of any country or people. This book includes his observations during tours in Virginia, North Carolina, and Tennessee; and in Mexico and California. It is full of information, and its comments and reflections prove anew the truth of the London Examiner's verdict that Mr. Warner is "a genial exponent of the best American thought."

H. N. Wheeler.

*SECOND LESSONS IN ARITHMETIC. Designed to follow Colburn's First Lessons. By H. N. WHEELER. 16mo.

Wheeler's "Second Lessons," although complete in itself, has been prepared to follow Colburn's "First Lessons." Its brevity, the emphasis that it places on fundamental principles and their applications, and the omission of useless subjects, will make it acceptable, it is hoped, to those teachers and business men throughout the United States who demand that the essentials of Arithmetic shall be better taught than now and in less time, and that non-essentials shall be omitted.

These two books form a complete course in Arithmetic, which is characterized throughout by a careful application of the Inductive Method of instruction, by the aid of which the pupil is led to regard a new word as a labor-saving device for the expression of an idea, a definition as a brief statement of the net result of personal observation and thought, and a rule as a brief statement of how he has done something.

Margaret E. White, Editor.

AFTER NOONTIDE. Selected and edited by MARGARET E. WHITE. In one volume, 16mo, $1.00.

This little book contains passages designed to add sunshine and comfort to the afternoon of life. The selections are made from numerous writers, of widely differing schools of literature and religion, but they are rendered harmonious by the spirit which pervades them all of cheerful acceptance of the peculiar blessings which advancing years bring, and the recognition of the fact that though some burdens and infirmities may accompany these years, yet they are, or at least may be, full of cheer, of pleasant memories, and of serene hope. The book can hardly fail to be read with interest and with profit by those for whom it has been specially prepared.

John Greenleaf Whittier.

THE POETIC AND PROSE WORKS OF JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER. New Riverside Edition, from entirely new electrotypes plates. With Notes by Mr. Whittier. The Poetic Works in four volumes, crown 8vo; the Prose Works in three volumes, uniform in all respects with the Riverside Edition of Longfellow's Works. With two Etched Portraits and three Steel Engraved Portraits of Mr. Whittier. The set, seven volumes, $10.50; half calf, $19.25; half levant, $28.00.

This is an entirely new edition of Mr. Whittier's Complete Works. The poems have been rearranged and classified, and the text has been carefully revised by the author, who has added such notes as seemed desirable concerning the occasion of any poem or prose article, or the circumstances under which it was written. This feature lends especial value and interest to the edition. The last volume of the Poetic Works will contain, in an Appendix, poems heretofore omitted by Mr. Whittier from the successive general collections of his poetry. It will also include an Index to the four volumes, and a table of First Lines of all the poems.

The Prose Writings, in addition to those heretofore collected, will embrace a number of essays, sketches, prefaces, and letters, brought together from a variety of sources, and indicating the breadth of the writer's sympathy and the interest which he has always taken in politics, religion, and literature. The volumes containing the prose follow the same general plan as the volumes of poetry, and are furnished with all requisite apparatus of notes and indices.

When it is considered that Mr. Whittier has been publishing his writings in various forms from his first venture in newspapers in 1826 until the present time; that both in prose and verse he has taken a wide range and has been a great power in historic movements; that many heroes, famous and obscure, are enshrined in his verse; and that he is the dean of living American poets,—it will be evident that the publication of this carefully prepared, definitive edition of his works is a literary event of great importance. The publishers congratulate themselves and the public that Mr. Whittier has been able to prepare his works for their permanent form in American literature.

The five portraits represent Mr. Whittier at different periods from the beginning of his career as a writer to the present date.

The style of the volumes will be the same as that of the Riverside Longfellow, which has proved very acceptable.

THE SAME. **Large-Paper Edition*. Limited to four hundred copies. In paper, press-work, and every mechanical detail, it will be as perfect as the Riverside Press can produce. The form will be that of the Large-Paper Edition of Mr. Longfellow's works, and the volumes will be neatly bound in cloth, uncut edges, with paper labels. Price, $4.00 per volume, net.

Kate Douglas Wiggin.

THE BIRDS' CHRISTMAS CAROL. By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN. With Illustrations. Square 12mo, ornamental boards, 50 cents.

The Birds are not birds, but boys and girls named Bird. Their sayings and doings are so bright and so well told, and the Christmas spirit of good will and unselfishness so pervades the story, as to make the little book altogether appropriate and charming for the Holiday season.

Count Tolstoi has impressed himself upon our time as one of the world's prophets, a personality more potent than any other writer of this century. As a novelist, he is, in the eyes of many, supreme ; as a philosopher, he merits deep consideration ; as a historian, he has stirred the dead bones of conventionality ; as a religionist, he is nearer the Christ whom he takes as his ideal than any sectary of the day except Mozoomdar. These thirteen volumes of his writings show him in all these phases, and they have become a part of the literature that will not die.

WASHINGTON IRVING'S COMPLETE WORKS.

Edward Everett advised a young writer, "If he wishes to study a style which possesses the characteristic beauties of Addison, its ease, simplicity, and elegance, with accuracy, point, and spirit, let him give his days and night to the volumes of Irving."

GOLDEN WORDS FOR DAILY COUNSEL.

Selected and arranged by ANNA H. SMITH, with Introduction by HUNTINGTON SMITH. Cloth, 16mo, $1.00; gilt, $1.25.

The hope of both compiler and editor is that it may serve in some manner to enlarge the idea of personal duty, to lessen the little offences that are so apt to make the life in common unbearable, to incite to words and deeds of mutual kindness, to broaden and deepen the sense of charity, which is the sense of love.

AT HOME AND IN WAR.

By ALEXANDER V. VERESTCHAGIN, with 23 portraits, 12mo, $1.75. Translated from the Russian by ISABEL F. HAPGOOD.

The author was General Skobelev's adjutant and is an intimate friend of many of the leading military men of Russia. Count L. N. Tolstoi declares that this is the very best war-book ever written in Europe.

THE LIFE OF LAFAYETTE.

"The Knight of Liberty," by Mrs. LYDIA HOYT FARMER, author of "Boys' Book of Famous Rulers," etc. Fully illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

This volume is a studious portrayal of the career of the Knight of Liberty in two worlds and two centuries. America, which is so indebted to this eminent son of France for his revolutionary aid, will prize the present book. Every student of history should have it.

THE CAPTAIN'S DOG.

By LOUIS ENAULT. Translated from the French by HUNTINGTON SMITH. 18 illustrations, 12mo, $1.00.

A charming book, in which the adventures of "Zero," the Captain's dog, are set forth in that inimitable style which only French writers possess.

FAMOUS AMERICAN STATESMEN.

By SARAH K. BOLTON, author of "Poor Boys Who Became Famous," etc. With portraits of Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Hamilton, Webster, Sumner, Garfield, and others. A companion book to "Famous American Authors." 12mo, $1.50.

The book has all the elements of popularity. It is simple, honest, pure-minded, and patriotic. It is intended for young readers, and will certainly do them good.

MAXIMINA.

A novel by DON ARMANDO PALACIO VALDÉS, author of "The Marquis of Peñalta." 12mo, $1.50.

"One of the best books of the year. Such a novel is something to be grateful for. It makes goodness interesting; it idealizes realism, it shows love to be lovely, and heroism possible."—Critic, N. Y.

SUMMER LEGENDS.

Translated from the German of RUDOLPH BAUMBACH by Mrs. HELEN B. DOLE. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

"Nothing of half the merit has been published since the translation of Laboulaye's Fairy Tales and the Stories of Haaf."—Commercial Bulletin.

"Light, fascinating, and pure."—Albany Press.

Bronzed Arabesque. (New style for the season of 1888-9) .....	$1.50
Cloth, Ivory Finish, or Imitation Wood .....	1.50
Seal .....	2.50
Flexible Calf, Extra, or Tree Calf .....	5.00

These noble and beautiful songs have been for many years popular with the American people, from Maine to California, and there is hardly a man or woman in the Republic that does not know and love them. They are now for the first time published in sumptuous Holiday editions, with remarkable richness and beauty of illustrations and bindings, and will find thousands of buyers everywhere.

The Southern scenes, illustrated in these poems with so much eloquence and pathos, have been reproduced in admirable pictures, drawn on the spot, by the well-known artist, Charles Copeland, who has recently spent a long season in Georgia and other Southern States, following the track of Sherman's army "from Atlanta to the sea," and making also many very telling sketches of scenes on the old plantations. With the painstaking accuracy of Meissonier or Detaille, he has also collected a great number of uniforms, weapons, standards, etc., of the time of the great Civil War, to make correctly his scenes in the march of the grand army.

A Companion to "A Year of Sunshine."

The Rainbow Calendar for 1889.

Compiled by KATE SANBORN. 1 vol. 12mo. Illuminated Covers .....	.50
Also in Cloth, uniform with "A Year of Sunshine" .....	1.00

One of the most successful calendars of the last ten years was "The Sunshine Calendar," of which many thousand were sold; and this new work, compiled by the same well-known author, will doubtless be welcomed by a constituency even greater in numbers.

A Dream of Fair Women.

By ALFRED TENNYSON. 1 vol. 8 vo. Richly and appropriately bound. With bevelled boards and full gilt edges. With forty elegant illustrations. In cloth ...	2.50
In padded seal .....	4.00

This exquisite gift-book was published at $5.00, a few years since, and made a phenomenal success during the seasons following its publication. In response to a great popular demand, a new edition of this famous work has just been prepared, with all the original illustrations, and at a greatly reduced price.

Ticknor and Company's New Books.

Uniform with "Davy and the Goblin," "The Peterkin Papers," etc.
Recollections of a Drummer Boy.

By REV. HARRY M. KIEFFER, late of 150th Pennsylvania Volunteers. Copiously illustrated with scepes in camp and field. 1 vol. Square 8vo. Revised and enlarged, and printed from entirely new plates ..... $1.50

A new and enlarged edition of this admirable book, which is particularly adapted for youths, and should be placed in the hands of every lad in the country, to impart a knowledge of the old war-days.

The position of the author, as a clergyman of the Reformed Church, gives the book a certain value to all persons interested in true and pure literature, which is also of the greatest power of attraction. "The Recollections of a Drummer Boy" has become a very popular book for Sunday-school libraries; and should be read by all old soldiers and their children. The great demand for the book has compelled the publishers to issue this enlarged and beautified new edition.

The Dead Doll

AND OTHER VERSES. By MARGARET VANDEGRIFT, author of "Little Helpers," etc. 1 vol. Square 8vo. Illustrated ..... 1.50

A charming collection of wise and witty verses for children, many of which, like "The Dead Doll," "The Face-Maker," etc., are very popular, and have been copied all over the country; and are household words in thousands of families, where this complete and beautiful edition will be eagerly welcomed.

Little Helpers.

By MARGARET VANDEGRIFT. Uniform with "Davy and the Goblin," "The Peterkin Papers," etc. 1 vol. Square 8vo. Illustrated ..... 1.50

Mrs. Austin, the author and critic, pronounces this "A sweet and lovely story of family life and the amusements and interests of John and Tiny Leslie, the hero and heroine. It is exactly the book parents would like to give either girls or boys as a Christmas present. The moral influence is admirable, and the language pure and elegant. It is well adapted to children of ten or twelve years old; but, withal, very interesting to other readers."

A Companion to "A Flock of Girls."

The Youngest Miss Lorton

AND OTHER STORIES. By NORA PERRY, author of "A Flock of Girls," "A Book of Love Stories," "After the Ball," etc. Illustrated. 1 vol. 12mo. .... 1.50

Nothing better has ever been written than Nora Perry's stories, for the delectation of girls, and all those who appreciate their sweetness and purity and beauty. "Miss Perry is often exquisitely pathetic, sweet and persuasive, as, in other moments, she is clear, bright, and piquant," says the Boston Beacon; and the Boston Transcript adds: "Her prose is always as charming as her poetry, which is saying a great deal."

Bagots for the Fireside.

By LUCRETIA PEABODY HALE, author of "The Peterkin Papers." Illustrated. 12mo ..... 1.50

A valuable home and family book, consisting of a bright story by this well-known author, in connecting the descriptions and directions for more than one hundred home games and amusements, old and new. E. L. Bynner says: "An excellent book of reference. It is comprehensive, and covers the whole ground; that is, embraces all sorts of games suitable for dull folks as well as clever, for young as well as old."

A Valuable and Entertaining Work.

The Letters of Felix Mendelssohn to Ignaz and Charlotte Moscheles.

Translated and edited by FELIX MOSCHELES. 1 vol. 8vo. Gilt top. Beautifully illustrated ..... 3.00

The deeply interesting Mendelssohn-Moscheles letters have been carefully edited and translated by M. Felix Moscheles, the son of the recipient of the letters; and this fascinating volume has been awaited with great interest by all readers, and especially by all lovers of music and Mendelssohn. The illustrations are numerous and interesting, and include several fine portraits of the great composer, others of his father and mother, his wife Cecile, his friend and teacher Moscheles; pictures of his home and study; fac-similes of some of the original drafts of the "Songs without Words," etc.; and many of Mendelssohn's quaint comic drawings, as droll as Thackeray's caricatures. The book will be published in October, in the same sumptuous manner as the Longfellow Correspondence.

Ticknor and Company's New Books.

Interesting and Valuable War-Books.

Four Years with the Army of the Potomac.

By REGIS DE TROBRIAND, Brevet Major-General, U. S. Vols. Translated by GEORGE K. DAUCHY, late Lieutenant Commanding 12th N. Y. Battery, Light Artillery, U. S. Vols. 1 vol. 8vo. With maps; and a steel portrait of Gen. De Trobriand ..... $3.50

This volume is well known as the work of Gen. De Trobriand, a distinguished and gallant French nobleman and officer, who served with distinction in the great Civil War in America. Though highly praised in its original form, it has never till now been translated. While not as extensive and elaborate as the work of the Comte de Paris, the volume will be found in many ways more interesting and valuable, being more popular and less technical in form, and the work of an elder and more experienced officer, who was actively engaged in the heaviest fighting in Virginia, where he won successive promotions.

The Other Side of War.

With the Army of the Potomac. Letters from Headquarters of the United-States Sanitary Commission, during the Virginia Campaign of 1862. By KATHARINE PRESCOTT WORMELEY. 1 vol. 8vo. Illustrated ..... 3.00

Miss Wormeley was a prominent worker in the United-States Sanitary Commission with the Army of the Potomac, and at that time prepared these vivid and powerful chapters on the personal aspects of soldier-life, in camp and hospital and on the battle-field. The author's reputation as translator of Balzac, and in other departments of literature, guarantees the successful treatment of the theme.

A Short History of the Secession War.

By ROSSITER JOHNSON, author of "The History of the War of 1812-15," etc., etc. 1 vol. 8vo. Gilt top. With maps and plans ..... 3.00

A plain and consecutive record of the Rebellion, with many interesting and picturesque details not found elsewhere, exhibiting the daily life and conduct of the soldiers, as well as the fortunes of great campaigns and famous battles.

Pen and Powder.

By FRANC B. WILKIE, of the Chicago Times. 1 vol. 12mo. .... 1.50

A series of chapters and monographs about the Secession War in the West, based on the personal observations and experiences of the writer. Nora Perry says: "These papers are absorbingly interesting. They treat of events swiftly and with a flying finger. This flying finger, however, is strong and skilful. The events, the light and dark details, are given with a glow of wit and humor and picturesqueness which imprint themselves on the mind of the reader with a vivid force that shows the power of the writer."

Buddha and the Buddhists.

Western China.

A Journey to the Great Buddhist Centre of Mount Omei. By the REV. VIRGIL C. HART, B.D., Fellow of the Royal Asiatic Society. 1 vol. 12mo. With map; and 12 full-page illustrations ..... 2.00

An exceedingly interesting account of a singular region, almost unknown to travellers and explorers, and full of strange things. The explorations made by this devoted missionary are of quite recent date, and open to the world's vision the heart of Asia. The illustrations are to the last degree quaint and interesting, reproducing scenes rarely before witnessed by Christian travellers.

The Ticknor Series of Pocket Poets.

- "LUCILE," by OWEN MEREDITH.
- "THE LADY OF THE LAKE," by SIR WALTER SCOTT.
- "THE LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL," by SIR WALTER SCOTT.
- "MARMION," by SIR WALTER SCOTT.
- "THE PRINCESS," by ALFRED LORD TENNYSON.
- "ENOCH ARDEN," and other Poems, by ALFRED LORD TENNYSON.
- "CHILDE HAROLD," by LORD BYRON.

Seven volumes, elegantly and uniformly bound, with many illustrations. New basket pattern. Full gilt. In box. Per vol. .... 3.00
New edition in half-seal, French-board sides, marbled edges. 7 vols. in handsome leatherette box to match. Sold only in sets. Per set ..... 10.50
In full stamped seal, gilt edges, in leather box to match. Sold only in sets. Per set ..... 20.00

Ticknor and Company's New Books.

New and Brilliant Novels.

Better Times.

Stories by the author of "The Story of Margaret Kent." 1 vol. 12mo. .... $1.50

A very notable series of short stories, full of the same brightness and genius that made "Margaret Kent" so amazingly popular. No volume of short stories published for years has merit equal to this collection, each of whose complete novelettes is a clear and shining gem of literature.

Young Maids and Old.

By CLARA LOUISE BURNHAM, author of "Next Door," etc. 1 vol. 12mo ..... 1.50

An admirable new story, piquant and entertaining, by one of the best-known contemporary novelists.

The Philistines.

By ARLO BATES, author of "A Wheel of Fire," "Mr. Jacobs," "The Pagans," "Patty's Perversities," etc. 1 vol. .... 1.50

A new novel by this vigorous and fearless writer will be awaited with keen interest by all lovers of good literature, and all people interested in the phenomena of modern society. This work completes the scheme of social illustration begun in "The Pagans."

A Man Story.

By E. W. HOWE, author of "The Story of a Country Town," etc. 12mo ..... 1.50

"A Man Story" is a more elaborate and larger work than Mr. Howe's two preceding novels, and will renew the popular enthusiasm that welcomed "The Story of a Country Town." It is a record of double identity, though not patterned after "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." The title will be fully understood after reading the first few pages. It simply means the story of a man.

"Mr. Howe is the strongest man in fiction that the great West has yet produced. Indeed, one of the strongest of his generation anywhere, and much may be confidently looked for as the results of his future studies of the social conditions of the middle West." — Boston Transcript.

Steadfast.

By ROSE TERRY COOKE, author of "The Sphinx's Children," "Somebody's Neighbors," "The Deacon's Week," etc. 1 vol. 12mo. .... 1.50

The first long novel by this foremost of writers on New-England home-life will be welcomed by thousands of delighted readers.

"In spite of a style which is carefully clear and elegant, in spite of a tone that is wonderfully pure and healthy, what one remembers longest in Mrs. Cooke's writings is the dialect passages, forgetting for their sake her delectable descriptions of quaint, old-fashioned gardens, pretty girls, odd old maids, and odder old men, and even forgetting the bit of a moral usually concealed in each story; and her new book is full of bits that one reads over and over again, enjoying their flavor anew each time." — Transcript.

Safe Building.

By LOUIS DE COPPET BERG. Vol. 1. Square 8vo. Illustrated ..... 5.00

These papers are the work of a practising Architect, and not that of a mere book-maker or theorist. Mr. Berg, aiming to make his work of the greatest value to the largest number, has confined himself in his mathematical demonstrations to the use of arithmetic, algebra, and plane geometry. In short, these papers are in the highest sense practical and valuable.

Ancient and Modern Light-Houses.

By MAJOR D. P. HEAP. 1 vol. Square 8vo. Fully illustrated ..... 5.00

An interesting scientific and historical treatise, exhaustively considering this important theme.

Songs and Ballads of the Old Plantation.

By JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS and ELI SHEPHERD.

A collection of quaint and interesting negro dialect songs, with their weird refrains.

A New Volume of Essays.

From the papers of EDWIN PERCY WHIPPLE, author of "Recollections of Eminent Men," "American Literature," etc. 1 vol. 12mo. Gilt top ..... 1.50

By JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY, Editor of the Pilot, Author of "Moondyne," "Songs, Legends, Ballads," etc. 1 vol. 12mo. .... 1.50

New Books for Boys

Howling Wolf and His Trick-Pony.

By LIZZIE W. CHAMPNEY.

Boys never tire of Indian stories and Western people agree that this is in many respects the best Indian story yet written. No more picturesque and romantic figures ever stood forth in a story than Howling Wolf and his pony, and no adventures more thrilling than the rides and fights alongside Gerouimo can be imagined. $1.25.

Same style.

A Young Prince of Commerce.

By SELDEN R. HOPKINS.

In these days of mercantile activity every boy should have some knowledge of business methods. In this volume the author takes his young hero through a series of business experiences, illustrating what to do in a great variety of situations and how to set about it. The chapters explanatory of banking and railroading are especially clear. $1.25.

A Midshipman at Large.

By CHARLES R. TALBOT.

A title given to the midshipman at Annapolis appointed directly by the President. Flagler Hamlyn, one of these appointees is the hero of the story. While on leave of absence he goes to Newport, disguised as a common sailor and ships on board his uncle's yacht. He meets with many adventures before disclosing his identity, one of the most exciting being a race with an English yacht.

My Uncle Florimond.

By SIDNEY LUSKA.

Sidney Luska has perhaps never written anything better than this delightful boys' story. In contrast with the many feverish, unhealthy books for boys, its tonic effect is like that of a clear, bracing wind from the northwest. The old French nobleman who stands for an ideal to the young hero of the story, and represents the motif of his actions, is drawn with great skill, while the two Jews who help make Gregory's good fortune, are, with their dialect, simply inimitable. $1.00.

Same style.

Little Joe.

By JAMES OTIS.

Little Joe is a newsboy waif in one of our great cities. But he does not remain one long for he is made of the right sort of stuff. He has courage and persistence, which carry him through some thrilling experiences, and when at the end of the book he becomes a happy farmer boy with a bright future before him we feel that he has earned it all. $1.00.

New Books for Girls.

Some Successful Women.

By SARAH K. BOLTON.

A dozen biographies of American women who have earned success so noble and complete that the stories of their lives are legacies to the world; among them Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer, the college president; Rachel Bodler, the physician and dean of the Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia; Marion Harland, the author; Miss Booth, the editor; and Juliet Corson, the apostle of good cooking. $1.00.

Margaret Regis.

By ANNIE H. RYDER.

A cheerful story of school-girl life. It traces the development of a perplexed, restless girl, ready to sit down and cry with vexation, into a woman with a purpose. The Cleveland Leader says: "Margaret Regis is a splendid creation of the author's fancy, just such a young woman as all of us like to read about." In its frank, ingenuous style there will be found much of the charm of "Little Women." $1.25.

Same style.

The Doctor of Deane.

By MARY T. PALMER.

One of the few notable novels of the year; received with marked commendation from the press. $1.25.

"It holds an uncommonly distinct and agreeable group of portraits."—N. Y. Nation.

"A story which only a woman could write."—Woman's Journal.

"Some of the situations and characters are suggestive of 'Middlemarch.'"—Northern Christian Advocate.

"The author possesses the fine faculty of investing the commonplace with appealing interest. . . . Helen Fairlie is a rare character—an eager, active, sparkling, magnetic soul; a rich nature enhanced by fine culture."—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

Royal Girls.

By MRS. M. E. W. SHERWOOD.

We are apt to forget that royal girls are very much like other girls, that they have hearts subject to the same joys and sorrows. Mrs. Sherwood reminds us of this fact by giving us an insight into their home-life and heart-life. She describes the royal families of Italy, Austria, Russia, Germany, Spain, England, Denmark, France and Roumania. Illustrated with twelve portraits. $1.50.

Travel Stories—Illustrated.

All Among the Light-houses.

By MARY B. CROWNINGSHIELD.

The story of a summer cruise made with a light-house inspector by a party of young people off the Maine coast. It is full of exciting incident. The many curious facts it contains about navigation and light-house construction and management, will be as new to most older people as to the young people for whom it was written. $2.50.

Beautifully Illustrated Quartos in Cloth Binding.

A Queer Little Princess.

By FRANCES EATON.

This story has an indescribable charm not unlike that of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," though totally unlike in character, and like that is destined to become a famous "child-classic." The little girl who was nicknamed "Princess" from her babyhood is a charming creation and will win all hearts by her ingenuousness and grace. $1.50.

The Ignoramuses.

By MARY B. CROWNINGSHIELD.

The "Ignoramuses" are the same family party of five found in "Among the Light-houses" with additions. This time they go from New York to Hamburg, Berlin, the favorite resorts of Switzerland, Dresden and Nice. They have many amusing adventures especially in their attempts with the German language. They learn much geography and history of course, but also what is far better—lessons of life. $2.50.

Dame Heraldry.

By F. S. W.

This large and beautifully printed volume is a popular account of the origin of heraldry and its development from the Crusades down. The different kinds of armorial bearings, crests and orders of knighthood are fully described as well as the brave deeds by which they were won. There are 117 illustrations, nine of them full-page and in colors. $2.50.

Days and Nights in the Tropics.

By PROF. FELIX L. OSWALD.

A few years ago Prof. Oswald was employed by a number of Brazilian gentlemen to make a journey into the interior to collect specimens for a Natural History Museum at Rio Janeiro. This volume relates the many strange adventures with which the exploring party met in the dense forests on the banks of the Tocantina and the Amazon. 40 illustrations. $1.50.

Adventures of the Early Discoverers.

By FRANCES A. HUMPHREY.

Legend, history and biography told in a way to interest and instruct young people. First we have the strange search after the "Hide and Seek Islands"—Atlantis, Bimini, The Island of the Seven Cities and the Isle of St. Bruno; then the obscure voyages of the Northmen, and finally those of Columbus, Vesputius, DeSoto, Sir Francis Drake and Sir Walter Raleigh. $1.00.

Ned Harwood's Visit to Jerusalem.

By MRS. S. G. KNIGHT.

A story of travel in the Holy Land. The manuscript was read and approved by Rev. Selah Merrill, for many years the U. S. Consul at Jerusalem. The strictest accuracy has thus been secured without impairing in the slightest degree the reader's interest.

The Look-About Club.

By MARY E. BAMFORD.

It is not easy to make genuine science entertaining to children, but we believe the authors of this series have succeeded in doing this. Eight volumes: My Wonder Story, by Anne K. Benedict; Look-About Club and My Land and Water Friends, by Mary E. Bamford; Overhead, Underfoot, Up Hill and Down Dale, Nelly Marlow in Washington.

Annuals for 1888.

Wide Awake.

A handsomely bound and illustrated volume of four hundred pages for older boys and girls. Among the serials are "The Story of Keodon Bluffs" by Charles Egbert Craddock, and a thrilling Indian story by Lizzie W. Champney, entitled "The Lost Medicine of the Utes." The poems and short stories—a host of them—are all supplied by well-known authors. $1.75.

The Pansy

The Pansy is for children not quite old enough to read Wide Awake. It contains stories of child-life the world over, with pictures to match. "Pansy," the children's favorite, is its editor, and her writings must teach just the lessons they need to learn. Among the continued stories are "The Old Brimmer Place" by Margaret Sidney. $1.25.

Illustrated Quartos.

Story Time.

Highly named Story Time. It is just the book to go to when the children are calling for a story. Ella Farman tells about Betty's funny experience with tramps. Maurice Thompson tells about Claude's big trout, and S. G. W. Benjamin describes sail-boats. The frontispiece is a beautiful colored lithograph and the whole volume is finely illustrated. $1.00.

Sunday Chat.

It is edited by Pansy and she herself contributes several religious stories, and a number of delightful sermonettes. Mrs. C. M. Livingston tells "What Our Rose Did," and Margaret Sidney gives us "The Baby's Prayer" in verse. There are many other stories and sketches well suited for our boys and girls Sunday reading. The illustrations are numerous. .75.

Our Little Men and Women.

Three hundred pages, full of stories, short poems, sketches and pictures for the very young just beginning to read for themselves. "The Story of Captain John Smith," runs through all the numbers and will give the little folks their first knowledge of history, while there are bright bits of fun and stories of every day life scattered in between. $1.50.

Chit-Chat.

A volume of selected pieces upon every conceivable subject. As a distinctive feature, it devotes considerable space to "Home Life" and "Sports and Pastimes." Among the longer stories are "Dick Fearing's Lesson," "Four Christmas Highwaymen" and "How Our Girl is going to College." Profusely illustrated. Cover in colors. .75.

Babyland.

With Babyland in the home the little tots may look at pictures and hear mother read long before they have learned to read themselves. The poems and stories are short and have to do with dolls, toys, kittens, puppies and babies. The bright cover is alone worth more than several bottles of soothing syrup. Baby's eyes will sparkle when he sees it. .75.

Good Cheer.

Short stories, sketches, poems, bits of history, biography and natural history bound together in one illustrated volume of 100 pages. Note some of the titles. "The Sea Gull," "Spruce Grouse," "Indians and their Child," "How Cicero is Made," "The Story of Fluffy," "Some Chinese Superstitions," "David Livingstone," etc. With such a variety boys and girls must be content. .75.

Popular Illustrated Histories.

For Adults

By ELANDER S. BROOKS.

The Story of New York.

In 1657 young Teunis Jansen came to New Amsterdam as a colonist. In the story of his life and that of his descendants as told in this book is mirrored the history of the Empire State. The life of the infant colony, the hardships of English rule, the fight for independence, the subsequent development, the civil war and the progress that has come with peace are clearly and accurately set forth. $1.50.

The Kingdom of Home.

Edited by ARTHUR GILMAN.

A collection of the most exquisite home songs and poems in the language. Its illustrations which extend from full-page engravings to artistic head and tail pieces, render the volume peculiarly attractive. All that makes home sacred, its joys and sorrows, its welcomes and farewells, its cradle songs and its wedding melodies, find expression in this volume, which forms a rare gift-book for all times and occasions.

American Indian.

This is history with all the fascination of romance. Mr. Brooks goes back to earlier times, discusses the probable origin of the Indian, gives a vivid picture of the life he led before Columbus came, shows how he has been pushed to the wall by the injustice of the colonists and their descendants, and prophesies his destiny. A list of the best hundred books upon the subject is given at the end of the volume. $2.50.

The Midnight Sun

By J. M. BUCKLEY, LL.D.

A journey of nearly ten thousand miles through Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Russia. Readers weary of the "beaten track of travel" will like to accompany Dr. Buckley to the "Venice of the North" and Russia's "Window looking into Europe." There is a clear view of the inner life of these strange people and an able discussion of Nihilism and the Russian religion. $2.50.

The Story of the American Sailor.

This is uniform with "The Story of the American Indian" by the same author. There is no writer in America who surpasses Mr. Brooks in the art of story-telling, and this is the first consecutive narrative yet attempted, sketching the rise and development of the American seaman on board merchant vessel and man-of-war. $2.50.

Volcanoes
and Earthquakes.

By SAMUEL KNEELAND.

A popular account of the nature, causes, effects and geographical distribution of volcanoes and earthquakes, from personal observation in the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands, Japan, Iceland, the Mediterranean Basin, Spain and the United States. The Charleston earthquake and other recent disturbances are included. The illustrations from photographs and drawings made on the spot, explain much that words cannot fully describe. $2.50.

The New York Jobbing House.

IN removing from the old stand, 678 Broadway, occupied for so many years as the great central distributing house of the United States for the book-trade, to the more commodious quarters,

718 AND 720 BROADWAY,

we desire to call the attention of our customers and the trade generally, not only to the better warehouse room we possess for the display of the most extensive stock of books in every department of literature to be found in the country, but also to the great facilities for the prompt despatch of all business intrusted to us, from a single "pick-up" to that of one hundred cases, or from one volume to the thousand, offering, as we do, greater advantages to the trade as a jobber than can be found anywhere else, and always carrying a full stock in all descriptions of books. It is unnecessary to assure booksellers that we sell at the lowest prices possible; oftentimes lower than the publishers will.

THE REMOVAL HAS UNEARTHED An Overstock of Many Books

accumulated by large purchases which our limited quarters heretofore have prevented our properly presenting. These we are offering at especially low prices. The stock embraces Standard Library Books as well as General Literature, Text-Books, Juveniles, etc., etc.

(This last is for sale only by McDonnell Bros., Chicago, to whom all orders and inquiries should be addressed.)

"The large type, the broad page, the substantial and tasteful binding of these volumes give them an appearance of finality. No one certainly could desire to possess the works which have appeared in this edition in any more elegant or substantial form."—Christian Union.

OCTAVE FEUILLET.

The Romance of a Poor Young Man. BY OCTAVE FEUILLET. With 100 illustrations and portrait of the author. From designs by Mouchot, engraved by Méaulle, 4to..... 7 50

Limited (numbered) edition.

The first really fine edition in which this immortal classic has appeared. The paper, typography, presswork, illustration and engraving leave nothing to be desired in furnishing a suitable dress to this ever delightful love story.

George Routledge &amp; Sons,

LOTI, SAND AND DAUDET.

In Uniform Style.

Madame Chrysanthème. By PIERRE LOTI. With 199 illustrations from designs by Rossi and Myrbach. 8vo, paper, $5.00; half leather..... $6 00

Francis the Waif. By GEORGE SAND. With 100 illustrations from designs by Eugene Burnand. 8vo, paper, $5.00; half leather..... 6 00

Robert Helmont : Diary of a Recluse, 1870-1871. By ALPHONSE DAUDET. Translated by Laura Ensor. With 123 illustrations from designs by Picard and Montégut. 8vo, paper, $5.00; half leather..... 6 00

Limited (numbered) editions.

The illustrations for these books are by the same hands that designed those for the "Tartarin" books and for "Sappho," and possess the same lightness, grace and delicacy which characterize all the work of these artists. These editions, however, are printed on much heavier and richer paper, with broader margins, than are the other works of Daudet, and may be more appropriately regarded as editions de luxe.

LAURENCE STERNE.

A Sentimental Journey Through France and Italy. By LAURENCE STERNE. Illustrated with 75 engravings on wood by Bastin and G. P. Nicholls, from original designs by Jacque and Fussell. 12mo, half levant, gilt top, in a box..... 4 00

(This edition is limited to 500 copies for both the English and American markets.)

This, unquestionably the most enjoyable of Sterne's writings, is issued uniform with Mérimée's "Carmen" published last year. The beauty of typography, fineness of paper and elegance of binding that distinguished the "Carmen" are no less noticeable in the "Sentimental Journey," and the engravers' interpretations of the artists' conceptions show the same high degree of skill that added so much to the success of the "Carmen."

GÉRARD DE NERVAL.

Uniform with Mérimée's "Carmen" and Sterne's "Sentimental Journey."

Sylvie : Recollections of Valois. By GÉRARD DE NERVAL. Preface by Ludovic Halévy. With 42 etchings by Ed. Rudaux. 12mo, half levant, gilt top, in a box..... 4 00

A leaf from the biography of the hapless author, fragrant with the memories of the days of early love, written in a most tender, charming, yet simple style.

PROSPER MÉRIMÉE.

A few copies still remain of

Carmen. By PROSPER MÉRIMÉE. With illustrations from designs by S. Arcos, engraved by A. Nargeot. 12mo, half levant, gilt top, in a box..... 5 00

The finest edition in which any of Mérimée's works has ever appeared, both as regards quality of paper, width of margin, attractiveness of letter-press, and tastefulness of binding, as well as exquisiteness in illustration and artistic sympathy in engraving.

RANDOLPH CALDECOTT.

Gleanings from the "Graphic." Comprising all of Randolph Caldecott's contributions to the London Graphic not included in the "Graphic Pictures" series already published. Printed in colors, and black and white, by Edmund Evans. Oblong 4to, boards..... 3 00

In similar style to the "Graphic Pictures" and "More Graphic Pictures" previously issued; overflowing with good-natured laughs at human follies and weaknesses.

Uniform with "Our Darlings."

Friends and Playmates. With colored illustrations designed by MARS. Oblong 4to, cloth, $3.00; boards..... 2 50

As in its companion volume, "Our Darlings," the graceful and varied illustrations leave the text but scant room to say what it has to say. But this the reader, whether young or old, will readily forgive when he has once looked within the covers and discovered the delights they hide.

9 Lafayette Place, New York.

ANOTHER DAUDET VOLUME.

Thirty Years of Paris and of My Literary Life. By ALPHONSE DAUDET. Translated by Laura Ensor. With 120 illustrations from designs by Bieler, Montégut, Myrbach, Picard and Rossi. 12mo, paper, $1.50; half leather. . . . . $2 25

A book of picturesque reminiscences of the author's Parisian experiences, in which the origin of many of his own works is recounted, and most entertaining descriptions given of his literary contemporaries.

Preceding issues in this uniform edition of Daudet's Writings.

Tartarin of Tarascon : Traveller, "Turk" and Lion-Hunter. With 115 illustrations from designs by Montégut, Myrbach, Picard and Rossi.

Tartarin on the Alps. With 150 illustrations from designs by Rossi, Aranda, Myrbach, Montenard and De Beaumont.

La Belle Nivernaise, the Story of an Old Boat and her Crew ; and other Stories. With 185 illustrations from designs by Montégut.

Sappho : A Picture of Parisian Manners. With 70 illustrations from designs by Rossi, Myrbach and other French artists. 12mo, each, paper, $1.50; half leather. . . . . 2 25

These 5 vols. of Daudet are also issued in three-quarters morocco, gilt tops, in a box, per set, 20 00

"Daudet's work is always the work of a supreme literary artist, who handles every subject with that grace which is the most delightful of literary gifts."—Boston Advertiser.

"The beautiful page, with its ample margins, is admirable in proportion and typography, and the text is supplemented by illustrations of delightful quality. The artists have entered thoroughly into the humor of the conception, and interpreted it with all the refinement and delicacy of line and figure which are characteristic of the best French work in this department. No more tasteful and elegant books have come from the press for many a day."—Christian Union.

COMPANION VOLUMES.

Our Country House. With illustrations by JULIUS KLEINMICHEL. Printed in colors by Meissner and Buch. 4to, boards. . . . . 1 50

A Journey Round the World. With illustrations by CHARLES MARR. Printed in colors by Meissner and Buch. 4to, boards. . . . . 1 50

Every page in each of these volumes has its picture, large or small, and they cannot fail to excite the admiration of young children, both on account of brilliancy in color and variety of scene and subject.

A BOOK FOR GIRLS.

Pythia's Pupils. From the German of Eva Hartner. By Mrs. J. W. DAVIS. With original illustrations. 12mo, cloth. . . . . 1 25

A bright story of girls just out of school ; beginning with a cup of tea and ending in a double wedding ; the whole threaded upon the adventures and misadventures of a cooking-class.

BOOKS OF TRAVEL.

My Trip Round the World. By W. S. CAINE, M. P. With 250 original illustrations and portraits from sketches by the author. 12mo, cloth. . . . . 2 50

A Thousand Miles Up the Nile. By Miss AMELIA B. EDWARDS. With many illustrations by the author. New and Revised edition. Cloth. . . . . 2 50

By the author of "Walks in Rome."

Walks in Paris. By AUGUSTUS J. C. HARE. With 50 illustrations and an index. 12mo, cloth. . . . . 3 00

Days Near Paris. By AUGUSTUS J. C. HARE. With 42 illustrations and an index. 12mo, cloth. . . . . 2 50

The numerous citations from French authorities illustrative of the historical associations of the various buildings, streets and localities in Paris and its environs have in these editions been translated into English, thus greatly facilitating their use by American readers.

George Routledge & Sons,

A NEW EDITION OF

The Chess-Player's Manual. By G. H. D. GOSSIP. With an American Appendix by S. Lipschütz. 8vo, 1020 pages, cloth..... $3 00

The American appendix to this well-known English work comprises 120 pages, and includes not only a discussion of the variations introduced into the game since Mr. Gossip's book first appeared, but also a number of new games as well as some recent first-prize problems. Mr. Lipschütz (winner of the championship of the New York Chess Club in 1886, and of the Manhattan Chess Club in 1887) has had the advantage of Mr. Steinitz's advice in preparing this edition.

The Handy Reference Atlas of the World. By JOHN BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S., etc. With 100 maps and plans, full geographical statistics, and a complete index. 12mo, cloth, $3.00 ; half morocco, $4.00 ; Persian morocco..... 5 00

The maps (strongly mounted on guards) are made from the latest surveys and give not only the most recent geographical and political information, but also the principal physical and commercial features of the world. Nearly fifty pages of the volume are devoted to closely (yet clearly) printed statistics, and a copious index ingeniously indicates both the map and exact spot on it where any given place can be found. Its 12mo size enables the reader to readily consult it in his hand without recourse to stand or table, and permits of its being placed on the shelf with other library volumes.

CARLYLE'S WRITINGS.

The French Revolution.

"As stories every one of these has its individual charm. Their men are manly and their women are womanly. Honor and gentlehood form the theme of all the novels. It is this which gives them their potent charm. To the fancy of these writers every good girl is a princess, and every young man is a knight, sworn to pay her reverence and to defend her against all breath of evil. And as long as such suggestions appeal to the truest and highest of feelings, Besant and Rice will have a deserved popularity."—The Epoch.

Paul and Christina.

Master of His Fate.

"The world does not yet fully appreciate Mrs. Barr. In our opinion there is no living American woman novelist superior to her in healthiness of perception and helpfulness of purpose. There is not a trace of morbidness in her books. Let the reader who is disposed to question the title of Mrs. Barr to the place we have assigned ask himself which of the American women novelists of the day could have written 'Jan Vedder.'"—The Advertiser, Boston.

PARTIAL FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

MR. REVELL invites correspondence regarding his varied publications. Catalogues or Lists of the different lines will be cheerfully sent on application.

AN ENTIRELY NEW EDITION FROM NEW PLATES.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life. (HANDY CLASSIC EDITION.) By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. 274 pp., 16mo, cloth, gilt edges, 85 cents; French mor., $1.50; calf, $2.00.

This work, the demand for which has been so great as to wear out two sets of plates, has now been put in entirely new form. The book having become an accepted classic in devotional literature, it was thought wise to issue this new edition in a compact form and in a variety of bindings. Occasion has also been taken by the author to thoroughly revise the whole work, besides adding considerable new matter.

New Notes for Bible Readings. By S. R. BRIGGS. With selections from D. L. MOODY, Major WHITTLE, J. H. BROOKES, D.D., Prof. W. G. MOREHEAD, Rev. E. P. MARVIN, JNO. CURRIE, Rev. W. J. ERDMAN, Rev. F. E. MARSH, Dr. L. W. MUNHALL, and others. Also brief memoir of the author, by Dr. J. H. BROOKES. This latest collection of Notes for Bible Readings will, it is confidently believed, be found more carefully prepared and therefore more helpful and suggestive than any other similar work issued. Cloth, 8vo, $1.00; cloth flexible, 75 cents.

Bible Characters. By D. L. MOODY. Embracing the lives of Daniel, Lot, John Baptist, Joseph of Aramathea, and others. 149 pp., cloth, 60 cents; paper, 30 cents.

A Complete Dictionary of Synonyms and Antonyms. By the Rt. Rev. SAMUEL FALLOWS, A.M., D.D. With an Appendix embracing a Dictionary of Briticisms, Americanisms, Colloquial Phrases, etc., in current use; the Grammatical Uses of Prepositions and Prepositions Discriminated; a list of Homonyms and Homophonous Words; a Collection of Foreign Phrases, and a Complete List of Abbreviations and Contractions used in Writing and Printing. 512 pages, cloth, $1.00.

Smith's Bible Dictionary. A new edition of this great work abridged by the author, WM. SMITH, LL.D. 776 pages, cloth, $1.50.

Jamieson, Fausset, and Brown's Popular Portable Commentary. Critical, Practical, Explanatory. Four vols. in neat box, fine cloth, $8.00; the same half bound, $10.00.

A new edition, containing the complete unabridged notes, in clear type, on good paper, in four handsome 12mo volumes, with copious index, numerous illustrations and maps, and a Bible Dictionary compiled from Dr. WM. SMITH's standard work.

Whiston's Josephus. The works of Flavius Josephus, translated by WILLIAM WHISTON, A.M. with Life, Portrait, Notes, and Index.

A new cheap edition in clear type; cloth, $2.00.

Foreign Missions of Protestant Churches. THEIR STATE AND THEIR PROSPECTS. By Dr. J. MURRAY MITCHELL, M.A. 16mo, cloth, 50 cents.

"This timely little work presents a wide general view of the field of missions. Having shown what missions have done, the author sets forth the state of the chief pagan religions, the different modes of missionary action, and then, in an eminently practical way, discusses the actual situation, both as to the needs of the heathen and the mind and attitude of the Christian public."—The Christian.

The Lord's Return, and Kindred Truth. By Dr. L. W. MUNHALL. 16mo, 192 pages; cloth, $1.

"We know of no work better suited to place in the hand of one who has not fully made up his mind on this important question."—Episcopal Recorder.

"Can be read with profit, whether you agree with the author's views or not."—Evangelical Messenger.

Life in a Look. By the Right Rev. M. S. BALDWIN, Bishop of Huron. 16mo, bound in flexible cloth, 25 cents.

"'Life in a Look' deserves far more than a brief notice. It contains but 104 pages, and it is below its value to say that it is worth its weight in gold. Seldom can one find even in 1000 pages so much vital and saving testimony so clearly and admirably given."—The Truth.

Students' Handbook of Topical Texts. A Scripture Text-Book for the Use of Ministers, Teachers, Visitors, etc. Parts I. and II. in one volume, 292 pages, 60 cents.

*Revell's Imperial Globe Atlas of Modern and Ancient Geography. Containing thirty-three imperial quarto maps and an alphabetical index of 20,000 names.

A wonderful volume at a marvellously low price. The cheapest fine atlas of the world ever produced. Large quarto, size of page 12 x 14, full cloth, net, $1.00.

Bible Stories and Pictures. Large square quarto, cloth, gilt edges. Bound in rich silk cloth, with handsome gilt dies, $1.50. Containing 24 large full-page colored plates and 40 pages of vignettes, in sepia tints, besides beautifully printed letter-press pages.

The Bible Picture-Book. By JAMES WESTON.

Vol. 1, New Testament. Vol. 2, Old Testament. Boards, 50 cents, cloth, $1.00.

Each volume containing forty-eight full page illustrations of exceptionally fine engravings and printing.

TEACHERS' BIBLE.

With New Helps, New Concordance, Indexed Atlas, and the Complete Bagster Bible.

THE ONLY TEACHERS' BIBLE PUBLISHED SINCE THE REVISED VERSION.

The following PRINCIPALS OF COLLEGES in Great Britain recommend it:

- Rev. F. W. AVELING, M.A.: "Invaluable to those who conduct Scripture classes. Ought to be in the hands of every Sunday-school teacher."
- Rev. J. AGAR BEET: "It is by far the best that I have seen."
- Rev. J. OSWALD DYKES, D.D., Moderator of Synod (London Presbyterian): "A beautiful Bible in all respects, most carefully edited and well up to date."
- Dr. J. G. GREENWOOD: "You have conferred a great boon, not on teachers only, but on all serious students of Holy Scripture."
- Rev. J. MORRISON, D.D.: "The information is full and marked by scholarly exactness. Just such a book as should be in the hands of every Sunday-school teacher."
- Rev. H. R. REYNOLDS, D.D.: "Excels, both in range of subject matter, order and proportion of theme, and fullness of detail, any similar effort . . . leaves nothing to be desired."
- Rev. ALEX WHYTE, D.D.: "This is well named the Teachers' Bible, and the COMPREHENSIVE TEACHERS' BIBLE, for it comprehends the whole apparatus the teacher needs."
- Rev. C. H. SPURGEON: "I do not see how it could be better."
- Professor SAYCE: "It is a marvel of completeness."
- Rev. R. BRUCE, D.D.: "It is an exquisite gem of workmanship; the helps for students and teachers are most comprehensive and invaluable."
- Rev. J. CLIFFORD, D.D. (President of the Baptist Union): "It supplies the precise information the teacher asks for and should have."
- Rev. A. MACKENNAL, D.D. (Ex-Chairman Congregational Union): "The work is admirably done; for fullness, accuracy, and present-day intelligence, I do not know any compendium equal to it."
- Rev. F. E. CLARK (Boston), Founder of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour: "I hope that we shall be able to bring it to the notice of our young people everywhere."
- Miss MARIANNE FARNINGHAM: "The Comprehensive Teachers' Bible will hence forth always lie on my library table for reference and help."
- BOOKSELLER: "Nothing short of an exhaustive apparatus criticus is placed in the hands of the instructor."
- CHRISTIAN AGE: "The most comprehensive and complete work of the kind."
- METHODIST TIMES: "A vast amount of information of the greatest value to Bible students."
- SUNDAY-SCHOOL TIMES: "A perfect help to Bible study."
- FAMILY CHURCHMAN: "More valuable to teachers than any concordance. Simply phenomenal at the price."

“I know of nothing so practically convenient and valuable as this Comprehensive Teachers' Edition.”—Rev. BASIL MANLY, D.D., LL.D., Southern Baptist Theological Seminary Louisville, Kentucky.

RANCH LIFE

AND

THE HUNTING TRAIL.

By THEODORE ROOSEVELT,

Author of "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman," President of the Boone and Crockett Club of New York, Honorary Member of the London Alpine Club, etc

ILLUSTRATED BY FREDERIC REMINGTON.

THE CENTURY CO. has already issued what Mr. Labouchere, of the London Truth, calls "the most superbly got up book of sport I have ever come across." The same publishers now put forth a volume devoted exclusively to ranch life and the game of the far West. The book consists in part of the articles on this subject recently contributed by Theodore Roosevelt to The Century Magazine, with Mr. Remington's striking illustrations. To these articles Mr. Roosevelt has added several others, not elsewhere published, relating especially to hunting, and Mr. Remington has furnished new illustrations, including initials and tail-pieces.

Both author and artist are practical ranchmen and sportsmen, and their united labors form a rarely interesting volume, which The Century Co. issue in beautiful form. The book is in size of page 12 x 9 1/4, printed by the Devine Press, on heavy plate paper. A superb gift-book. Price, $1.00.

THE GRAYSONS: A STORY OF ILLINOIS.

By EDWARD EGGLESTON, :

Author of the "Hoosier Schoolmaster," etc.

A new novel by the author of so many famous studies of Western life is an event in literature. Dr. Eggleston in this story has chosen for his theme a legendary account of one of President Lincoln's remarkable legal achievements when he was a young lawyer in Illinois, and around this he has woven a charming love story and a powerful study of character. The novel has attracted wide notice during its appearance as the leading serial novel of the present year in The Century. In attractive cloth binding, $1.50.

BOUND VOLUMES OF ST. NICHOLAS.

The new bound volume of St. Nicholas for Young Folks, now ready in its two beautiful parts of red and gold, seems more packed with good things than any previous year of this delightful magazine. Notwithstanding the great monthly circulation of St. Nicholas, thousands of people wait for the bound volume, and these annuals have become the most popular regular children's books of the year. In two parts, nearly a thousand pages and as many illustrations. Price, $4.00.

ILLUSTRATED GIFT-BOOKS.

Artists of New England and Their Work. In this work the publisher aims to make a truly elegant and sumptuous book, and one worthy of the artists represented. The first volume, which will be complete in itself, will contain an account of the career of the twenty-six artists, and others will be given in future volumes. The compilation and editing of this work has been entrusted to Mr. Frank T. Robinson, the well-known art amateur. Many of our artists have had very interesting careers, and their works are widely known, some of them on both continents, and Mr. Robinson, who has been intimate with them, for many years, has been indefatigable in the genial task of collecting the data for the biographies.

Each artist has contributed a full-page illustration, which is presumed to be characteristic of his work, and, in many cases, will be representative of his magnum opus. These have been reproduced by that process which seemed best adapted to the subject, while many are the work of the artist's own etching-needle. In addition to this, each biography will have a head and tail-piece executed by the artist himself, and a portrait in pen and ink. The fact that most of these portraits are from drawings made by the artist represented gives them an added interest.

In paper, typography, press-work, and general make-up, the work will be an example of luxuriant book-making.

The following is a partial list of the artists who will be embraced in the work: L. D. ELDRED, W. F. HALSALL, D. J. STRAIN, W. L. TAYLOR, F. P. VINTON, FRANK T. MERRILL, SCOTT LEIGHTON, F. CHILDE HASSAM, W. B. CLOSSON, J. APPLETON BROWN, I. M. GAUGENGIGL, L. K. HARLOW, W. F. LANSIL, ROSS TURNER, HY. SANDHAM, J. FOXCROFT COLE. Price, $15.00.

BEACON-LIGHT TEXT-BOOKS.

The Wings of the Morning. The new volume in this series is pronounced by all the best work yet issued. It is the work of LOUIS K. HARLOW and Miss LIZZIE K. HARLOW. Each of the thirty-one texts has a beautiful full-page illustration lithographed in monotypes, and the cover is a work of art itself. Price in bronze and colored covers, $1.50; with ivory covers, $2.00.

AN EXQUISITE SERIES.

This series of new booklets is entirely new in design and general appearance. They are the production of a well-known and favorite artist, Mrs. J. PAULINE SUNTER. Each booklet has from ten to twelve very attractive designs, very delicately executed by lithography, in sepia tints, and a cover in exquisitely delicate colors. Nothing on the market approaches these booklets for originality and beauty. They are published in paper covers, at 50 cents; in satin, at $1.25; in ivory, at $1.25.

A Little Bird's Song on My Birthday.

Summer Roses.

Wandering Winds.

Whittier Gems. This beautiful souvenir of WHITTIER contains twelve designs illustrating his most popular poems, with extracts from the same. The book is designed by the very popular artist Mr. L. K. HARLOW, and exhibits his best work. In addition to the twelve illustrations by Mr. Harlow, a very fine etched portrait of the poet is given. The cover is entirely unique and is decorated by hand and lettered in metaline. Price, $3.00.

A Souvenir of Miss Alcott. A short account of the life of Miss LOUISA MAY ALCOTT by Miss L. HARLOW illustrated by many sketches in the text by Miss E. K. HARLOW and three etchings, including an etched portrait. This attractive souvenir of the author of "Little Women" cannot fail of a popular reception. Price, $2.00.

Summer and Winter. Two popular etchings put up in a very attractive cover in a unique style. Printed on Japanese paper and matted. Size 9½ x 12. $1.25.

Morning and Evening. Two etchings of very attractive subjects bound uniform with "Summer and Winter." Size 9½ x 12. $1.25.

Coast Sketches. A series of sketches of characteristic views of the coast of New England, etched by LOUIS K. HARLOW. This is one of the most attractive productions of this very popular artist. There are nine etchings in the series. A special limited edition is printed on satin, carefully mounted and matted and put up in a cover with a beautifully hand-painted landscape, by the artist. In this edition all the proofs are signed. Price, $7.50. A special limited edition on Imperial Japanese paper mounted and matted and signed, at $5.00; the same on etching paper, $2.50; bound in vellum cloth, $2.50.

Thames Sketches with Pen and Needle. By LOUIS K. HARLOW. A series of eight etchings. Size 9½ x 12, with text. Tied cover, with a satin proof of a beautiful etching in metaline panel, $2.00. A limited edition of the above on satin, signed by the artist, and mounted in mats, with wide margins, $3.60 net. $6.00.

Etchings from Nature. A series of six brochures each containing two picturesque views etched by L. K. HARLOW. Put up in an entirely unique and attractive manner. Size 9½ x 12. Price, each $1.00.

The Tin Army of the Potomac. A Kindergarten of War. By W. H. DOWNS. Illustrated by J. F. GOODRIDGE. A book for children, and one that every boy from six to ten years will be delighted to own. Size 7 x 10, boards, $1.00.

Old Plymouth. A series of ten very picturesque sketches about this quaint and interesting place by Wm. GOODRICH BEAL, author of "Picturesque Cambridge." Price, $1.00.

Salem Sketches. A series of etched views in Salem, by H. R. BLANEY. $1.00.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO THE TRADE.

We have just published, printed from Advance Sheets,

A NEW AND ORIGINAL STORY OF THE SEA,

From the pen of W. CLARK RUSSELL,

Founded upon the LEGEND of the FLYING DUTCHMAN,

THE FLYING DUTCHMAN; or, THE DEATH SHIP.

1 vol., 12mo. Lovell's Library, No. 1232, 20 Cents.

Also from Advance Sheets a new novel by the author of "The Broken Seal," "Footprints in the Snow," etc., etc.

A STRANGE MESSAGE.

A NEW AND ORIGINAL NOVEL.

By MISS DORA RUSSELL.

1 vol., 12mo, Lovell's Library, No. 1211, 20 Cents.

"A Strange Message" is the happily descriptive title which the author of "Footprints in the Snow" gives her new work, and we are confident the story will gratify the most satiated reader of fictional literature.

Miss Russell's stories are written for the family circle, and can be enjoyed by people of all ranks and conditions of life. They are essentially sensational in plot, full of incident and interest, and calculated to arouse the most torpid reader.

OTHER IMPORTANT NEW BOOKS JUST ISSUED:

THE SILVERADO SQUATTERS, by ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON. Lovell's Library, No. 1214. 10 cents.

THE EAVESDROPPER, by JAMES PAYN. Lovell's Library, No. 1227. 10 cents.

THE NEW AND MOST TALKED OF NOVEL OF THE DAY.

ROBERT ELSMERE.

By MRS. HUMPHREY WARD.

1 vol., 12mo, paper, Lovell's Library, No. 1188, 50 cents.

"The new novel which has set England talking and writing, from the lowliest hack on provincial weekly up to the greatest mind in British statesmanship, is in three volumes, octavo, making altogether nearly 1200 pages. The author is Mary Augusta Arnold, daughter of Thomas, son of old Dr. Thomas Arnold; a niece, therefore, of the late Matthew Arnold. The relations of the Ward and Arnold families have always been intimate socially no less than intellectually. Mr. Ward is editor of the Macmillan standard series of 'The English Poets.' The general introduction is by Matthew Arnold, who also writes the preface on Keats. The 'T. Arnold' who writes a number of the prefaces is the father of the author of 'Robert Elsmere'; and the Mary A. Ward who is the writer of the commentaries upon four of the poets in the first volume is she. She was married in 1872. Mr. Ward is a leading writer on art and allied topics, and is the author of 'English Art in the Public Galleries of London.' He is the editor of 'The Reign of Queen Victoria,' reviewed in The Tribune some months ago; in that he had Matthew Arnold for a colleague. 'Robert Elsmere' is the novel of a clever woman who may turn out to be a genius."—Chicago Tribune.

Just Published from Advance Sheets a New and Sensational Story by that Sterling Writer of Romance,

FALL ISSUES.

JUDGE HAVISHAM'S WILL. By I. T. HOKKINS, author of "Good Times Girls," "Ready and Willing," "Floy Lindale," etc. 12mo. 4 cuts. 311 pp. $1.25.

A story that boys will enjoy, with finely drawn characters and scenes of deep interest, illustrating the power of firm faith under trial. The young hero will be admired for his sterling manly qualities.

MARGIE AT THE HARBOR-LIGHT. By Rev. E. A. RAND, author of "Christmas Jack," "Nellie's New Year," etc. 12mo. 6 cuts. 264 pp. $1.00.

A sequel to "Her Christmas and Her Easter," by the same popular writer, and breezy with the same fresh sea-air. A stirring and helpful book.

CHANGING PLACES; or, How One Boy Climbed Up and Another Slipped Down. By Miss C. M. TROWBRIDGE, author of "Victory at Last," "Crown of Glory," "Satisfied," etc. 12mo, cloth, 90 cents.

A narrative full of incidents suggested in the title, and more than hinting to the boys how they may succeed in life.

THE SEA IS HIS; or, Words of Comfort for Sea and Shore. By SUSAN A. BROWN

In ten colors and gold. Elegant sea and shore views and sea mosses on alternate pages, with choice gems from God's Word and our best poets. 24mo. 48 pp. 50 cents.

GARMENT OF PRAISE. By HELEN P. STRONG, author of "His Abiding Presence." Monotint booklet. Illustrated. Covers in colors and gold. Large 16mo, 36 pp. $1.00.

An elegant gift and devotional volume, full of exquisite designs in harmony with the inspired words of adoration with which the church in all ages praises God.

LIFE OF ST. PAUL. By Rev. JAS. STALKER, M.A. With map. 12mo. 183 pp. 60 cents.

A new and admirable work on this exhaustless theme. The author avails himself of the best previous writings and presents his own fresh thoughts clearly and concisely. We value it very highly.

BERNIE'S LIGHT. By MINNIE E. KENNEY, author of Mrs. Morse's Girls. 12mo, cloth, $1.10.

The charming story of a young girl whose light was kindled at a Mission Sabbath-school and brought cheer to many in dark places.

STUDIES IN ST. MARK'S GOSPEL. By Rev. C. S. ROBINSON, D.D. 12mo. 300 pp. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

The author does not follow the beaten track of commentators, but presents in his own happy manner new phases and fresh illustrations of the sacred narrative, by which the reader finds himself instructed and enriched.

These "studies" will be found useful to teachers in preparing the Sunday-school lessons for first half of 1889.

FROM THE FORECASTLE TO THE PULPIT. By Rev. C. J. JONES, D.D. 12mo. 540 pp. $1.25 New edition.

A truly wonderful story—the life of a sailor before the mast, full of its rough and strange experiences, the steps of his transformation into a faithful Christian minister, and the record of some of the wonders of grace God wrought through his labors.

APPLES OF GOLD. 200 cuts, 4 colored. 4to, cloth back, limp covers, 50 cents.

NOBODY KNOWS;

Or, Facts that are not Fictions in the Life of an Unknown. By "A NOBODY." 12mo, cloth, 270 pages. Price, $1.25.

The N. Y. Sun says: "It consists of a series of vigorously written and quaintly illustrated papers. They are infused with a somewhat rough but original humor that serves to emphasize the writer's main thought. He has set out upon very much the same mission that Tolstoi has undertaken, and is said to be an untiring helper of laboring and oppressed people."

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN OF 1896.

A scrap-book chronicle by the author of "The Battle of Bietigheim." 12mo, 163 pages. Paper, 50 cents.

This book is a compilation of newspaper clippings, political programmes, extracts, etc., by an Editor of the Period (viz., 1896). It traces the events which lead to the memorable Presidential campaign of that year, in which the alien forces of Socialism, Anarchy, and Atheism were finally overcome by the triumph of the living, active spirit of American patriotism.

Senator John J. Ingalls says: "It is a prophecy and an admonition. An interesting statement of one of the problems of our political future."

THE POLITICAL PROHIBITIONIST FOR 1888.

It contains nearly 200 pages of matter, compiled and arranged with the greatest accuracy, and gives a vast amount of information in a manner most effective for its purpose. Price per copy, 50 cents; six copies, $2.50; twelve copies, $4.25.

The New York Press, a prominent Republican paper, says of the "Political Prohibitionist for 1888": "It is a handbook for the aggressive temperance people of the United States, and must prove of great value to all temperance advocates."

THE DRINK PROBLEM.

By AXEL GUSTAFSON. A series of four lectures delivered in Exeter Hall, London, England, during November and December, 1887, under the auspices of the Central Young Men's Christian Association. Paper. Price, 15 cents.

One lecture is devoted to the effects of drink upon the individual and society, and three to the consideration of the right way to remove this awful evil.

EVERY BOY SHOULD READ

Robert Grant's Boys' Books.

Every boy fond of manly, out-door sports should read Robert Grant's two great books, "Jack Hall" and "Jack in the Bush." Base-ball, rowing, shooting, and fishing are described in these books in such a masterly and realistic manner that every boy who is a real genuine boy fairly thrills with excitement and longs for an opportunity to become a second Jack.

JACK HALL; or, The School-Days of an American Boy.

JACK IN THE BUSH; or, A Summer on a Salmon River.

Pronounced by the entire press the best boys' books ever written.

FROM THE PREFACE.—“The work has been thoroughly revised and corrected. . . . An attempt has been made to purge the book of all erroneous etymologies and to correct in the text small matters of detail. There have also been added some foot-notes, in which difficult points are discussed and where reference is given to recent authorities. . . . It is hoped that the book as it now stands does not contain in its etymological details anything inconsistent with the latest discoveries of English scholars.”

Eclectic Physical Geography.

12mo, Cloth, 382 Pages, 30 Single and Double-Page Charts and Maps.
151 Cuts and Diagrams.

THE ECLECTIC PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY differs widely from those in general use:

1. The Charts are distinct and graphically accurate. Each chart presents but a single set of physical features.
2. No scientific knowledge on the part of the young student is assumed.
3. The order of treatment is natural and logical.
4. Phenomena are not simply described, but are traced to proximate causes.
5. The treatment of Erosion is not dismissed with the usual brief paragraph. Nearly every chapter finds in erosion a cause or an effect.
6. It discards the theory that the secular cooling and contraction of the planet is the main cause of the present relief of the globe.
7. The chapters on Life, and on Weather and Climate, are full and in conformity with modern science.

The scientific accuracy of the book is attested by eminent specialists.

READY SEPTEMBER 1.

CONFESSIONS OF A YOUNG MAN.

BY GEORGE MOORE.

12mo, Paper, 50 cents; Cloth, $1.00.

"After a long course of ordinary literature, after the dull propriety of newspaper articles, the lumbering smartness of reviews, the pretty pretences of Poets—even the splendours of Burke and Urquhart—it was very strange to come across a writer who will never let you rest a second, and who has got so far over the traces that he can lash out in a fashion that makes the old coach-horses seem very cloddish."—JOHN A'DRAMS.

"Nothing more striking or original in modern letters has appeared for years than the 'Confessions of a Young Man.'"—CLARA LANZA.

BRENTANO'S ROMANTIC LIBRARY.

LEE AND SHEPARD'S ANNOUNCEMENT BOOK-LIST

For the Season of 1888-9

NEW FINE-ART PUBLICATIONS

DAYS SERENE

Original Illustrations by Margaret MacDonald Pullman

Engraved on Wood by Geo. T. Andrew, and printed under his direction. Royal Oblong Quarto. Emblematic Cover Designs in Colors. Twenty-six Full-Page, Original Illustrations. Full Gilt. Size, 10 1-2 x 14 1-2. Cloth, $5; Turkey Morocco, $12.50; Tree-Calf, $12.50; English-Seal Style, $9.

SINCE the publication of Irene E. Jerome's successful art-treasures, commencing with "One Year's Sketch-Book," her publishers have been besieged by many artists, who have submitted works of decided merit. From this array of talent has been selected "Days Serene" by Margaret MacDonald Pullman. With rare taste, a delicate touch, graceful expression, and uncommon strength, this new artist has entwined, with the household words of our favorite poets, scenes of natural beauty that in extent, variety, and excellence are unsurpassed by any book of the season.

Truly in the words of the poets that have inspired her,
"The wind makes solos through the sombre pines."

"Over the hills fair pastures lie."
"The everlasting hills rest in the joyful sunshine," in all the varied tints of morning, noon, and night, while
"High upon the topmost spray a robin gaily sings," and
"Now dance the lights on land and sea," and there is indeed
"A silence in the sombre air," which, with the the floral groups like
"The daisies, wee little rimless wheels of fate," are subjects fit companion to the couplet from Whittier:
*"The flowers drifted at our feet,
 The orchard birds sang clear,"* and are all rich in poetic thought and artistic significance.

THE "PEERLESS-JEROME" ART-BOOKS

NEW EDITIONS

The most notable series of illustrated works published in this country. Their sale is not confined to the holiday season, but they are in constant demand. Miss Jerome will publish no new book this season, she being entirely occupied in the preparation of a work for next year which it is confidently expected will surpass all her former works.

A Bunch of Violets

Gathered by Irene E. Jerome. Original illustrations, engraved on wood and printed under the direction of Andrew. 4to, cloth, $3.75; Turkey morocco, $9.00; tree-calf, $9.00; English-seal style, $7.00.

One Year's Sketch-Book

By Irene E. Jerome, containing 46 original full-page illustrations, engraved on wood by Andrew. In same bindings and at same prices as "Nature's Hallelujah."

Nature's Hallelujah

By Irene E. Jerome. Elegantly bound in gold cloth, full gilt, gilt edges, $6.00; Turkey morocco, $15.00; tree-calf, $15.00; English-seal style, $10.00.

The Message of the Bluebird

Told to Me to Tell to Others, by Irene E. Jerome, engraved on wood by Andrew. Cloth and gold, $2.00; Palatine boards, ribbon ornaments, $1.00.

SEPIATINT NOVELTIES FOR SOUVENIRS

"The Sepiatint" is original and beautiful. In offering these novelties in this style as a new feature the publishers are confident that they have originated, in unique design and unsurpassed workmanship, rich and tasty gifts that cannot fail to be greatly admired.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By Dinah Maria Mulock, Author of "John Halifax." Illustrated by J. Pauline Sunter

Printed on Heavy Board in Sepiatint and Gold, Gilt Edges, Ribboned and Boxed. Price, $1.00.

"God rest ye, Merry Gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
For Jesus Christ our Savior
Was born on Christmas day."

THE designs are exceedingly chaste and delicate—the poem one of this lamented author's gems, and the form at once novel and beautiful.

A PSALM FOR THE NEW YEAR

"A FRIEND STANDS AT THE DOOR"

By Dinah Maria Mulock, Author of "John Halifax." Illustrated by J. Pauline Sunter

Printed on Heavy Board in Sepiatint and Gold, Gilt Edges, Ribboned and Boxed. Price, $1.00.

"A friend stands at the door,
In either tight-closed hand,
Hiding rich gifts
Three hundred and three score."

MISS MULLOCK'S poems, unlike too many selected verses, touch the key-note of the time for which they were written, and are adapted to the season. The "Psalm" designs equal those of the "Carol," and both are, in the expressed words of a young lady critic, "perfectly lovely."

THE SEPIATINT CALENDAR
ALL AROUND THE YEAR

A Charmingly Illustrated Calendar for 1889. By J. Pauline Sunter

Consists of Beautiful Original Designs, on Heavy Board, in Sepiatint and Gold, Gilt Edges, Ornamented with Rings and Chains in Silver, with Silk Tassel, and Boxed. Price, 50 cents.

THIS, like the Mulock Gems, is dainty in device, beautiful in design, and decidedly original in its contents and its manufacture. For the lady's boudoir, or the centre-table, it is as charmingly useful as ornamental. The publishers predict for this Sepiatint line of souvenirs a warm welcome in the holiday rush.

FAVORITE HYMNS, SONGS, AND POEMS
NEW STYLE

THE REGAL BEAUTIES

Printed on Extra Super-Calendered Paper at the University Press. Gilt Edges. Price, 50 cents each.

A TITLE justly designating one of the most original and beautiful fancies for decorative covers of the household favorites yet offered to the public. The size is large 4to, 8½ x 14 inches. The covers are the best quality of heavy bristol board with pebbled surface, ragged edges, and original water-color designs by American artists, each cover containing two beautiful pictures. The following eight favorites have been selected for this unique style:

NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE.
HOME, SWEET HOME.
DORA, by Tennyson.

ROCK OF AGES. ABIDE WITH ME.
CURFEW MUST NOT RING TO-NIGHT.
O WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?
MY FAITH LOOKS UP TO THEE.

Of the numerous styles offered to the public none are more tasteful and elegant for presentation gifts at all seasons or on all occasions. The artistic ability displayed in the original illustrations by talented American artists, inside and out, makes these Christian and household classics in this new style still more charming. Price enveloped and gilt edges, 50 cents each.

LEE AND SHEPARD'S ANNOUNCEMENTS—Continued.

THE GOLDEN PERSIAN

In each the twenty favorites are produced, in a new rich binding of ribbed leather, gilt edges, and gold titles, each in a best box. Price, per volume, $1.75.

ROCK OF AGES.
IT WAS THE CALM AND SILENT NIGHT.
NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE.
MY FAITH LOOKS UP TO THEE.
HE GIVETH HIS BELOVED SLEEP.
THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD.
HOME, SWEET HOME.
O WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?
COME INTO THE GARDEN, MAUD.
FROM GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS.

ABIDE WITH ME.
THE BREAKING WAVES DASHED HIGH.
THE MOUNTAIN ANTHEM.
THAT GLORIOUS SONG OF OLD.
CURFEW MUST NOT RING TO-NIGHT.
DORA.
RING OUT, WILD BELLS.
OUR FATHER IN HEAVEN.
HANNAH JANE.
LADY GERALDINE'S COURTSHIP.

THE DAINTY MINIATURES

INCLUDE twelve of Lee and Shepard's favorites in particularly attractive dress. Covers of heavy bristol-board with pebbled surface, ragged edges, and decorative illustrations in manifold water-colors and gold. These little volumes are "as dainty as the leaf of a lily," of exquisite design, each cover displaying two works of art in themselves. The favorites selected for this style are CURFEW MUST NOT RING TO-NIGHT.

ROCK OF AGES.
GRAY'S ELEGY.
O WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?

HOME, SWEET HOME.
NEARER, MY GOD, TO THEE.

on receipt, and that so many of them remain unfilled. We beg to assure you, however, that in a few days we expect to clear our file of all orders, and hope to keep up with all that we receive, and fill at once. We had expected a big demand, but the orders surpass our most sanguine expectations, and the support of the trade is the most gratifying. It shows most conclusively that the aspersion so often cast upon them "of their slowness and awful conservatism" is unjust, for no publisher could ask for a heartier response from the trade than we have had.

The demand from every section of the country, from the largest city to the smallest hamlet, for these Campaign Books has been astounding. It shows the public interest in the question. It shows that both parties made the right move in throwing all their ability into these two books, and offering them to the Public. Never in our history has the public been so deeply interested in matters of National Policy as at this time, and never before has the literature on the subject been of so high character and so ably presented.

The trade are alive to this. They have determined to take advantage of it, and push their business. We are ready to do all in our power to aid them. Politics, as they say, are now Red Hot. This is the Harvest-time for the Bookseller. You can get your local papers to support you, if you sell the books. Both parties would jump at the chance, and you tread on no one's toes politically, for you are on both sides of the fence, and therefore safe. The Public Speaker will gladly call attention to the book. All the politicians and interested citizens of your locality will be delighted to know you have them. Spread your circulars broadcast at all meetings; they will be pleased with your enterprise. Use your own judgment how you personally recommend one before the other. You make a good profit on every book you sell. You can order one or a thousand at a time. Consider this at once. Don't delay. Bear in mind, the Hotter the Politics get, the greater the demand for the books and the harder it will be to supply them. But we have made arrangements to double and triple our facilities to publish and deliver. We hope to be prepared, even if every one of the Ten Million of voters should order a copy at once. We calculate on ten per cent., and we are rapidly on the road to that number. You can order at any of our stores.

Our Merchant Marine; How it Rose, Increased, Became Great, Declined, and Decayed. With an inquiry into the conditions essential to its resuscitation and future prosperity. By David A. Wells. 8vo, cloth, $1.00.

"It contains, in a compact form, everything that is necessary to an understanding of the subject. After a presentation of the facts so lucid and so complete as that which Mr. Wells makes, little argument is necessary."—N. Y. World.

The Distribution of Products; or, The Mechanism and the Metaphysics of Exchange. Three Essays. What Makes the Rate of Wages? What Is a Bank? The Railway, the Farmer, and the Public. By Edward Atkinson. Second edition, revised and enlarged, with new statistical material. 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

The Destructive Influence of the Tariff upon Manufacture and Commerce, and the Facts and Figures relating Thereto. By J. Schoenhof. 8vo, cloth, 75 cents; paper, 40 cents.

"Packed with well-arranged figures and condensed arguments."—The Nation.

The Industrial Situation and the Question of Wages. A study in Social Physiology. By J. Schoenhof, author of "Destructive Influence of the Tariff," etc. 8vo, cloth, $1.00.

Taxation; Its Principles and Methods. A translation of "The First Principles of Finance." By Luigi Cossa, Ph.D., of the University of Pavia. With an Introduction and Notes by Horace White. Together with a compilation of the State tax system of New York and Pennsylvania. Second ed. 8vo, cl., $1.00.

"It supplies a much-needed tool for students in economics. It is marked by a clear definition, orderly arrangement, exact classification, and its notes contain valuable illustrative matter. My only regret upon reading it is that there is no practicable means of making an accurate knowledge of its contents a condition of membership in all municipal councils, State Legislatures, and the National Congress."—Prof. J. F. Colby, Dartmouth College.

The American Electoral System. An Analysis of its Character and its History. By Charles A. O'Neill, of the New York Bar. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Full of valuable suggestions, and deserves a careful reading by all who are interested in our political system."—Boston Traveller.

The Constitutional History and Political Development of the United States. An Analytical Study. By Simon Sterne, of the New York Bar. Second edition, revised with additions. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"An able and instructive résumé of the political history of our country. . . . A book which every American should read. . . . Contains just the data needed by the voter."—Rutland Standard.

Industrial Liberty. An Analysis of the Existing Conditions in the United States, with Special Reference to the Relations to the Public of Railways and Trusts. By John Bonham. 8vo, cloth, $1.75.

"Mr. Bonham's work stands almost alone in treating industrial questions solely on the basis of principles, and as such it deserves careful study. It is doubtful if the baleful methods of the modern 'trusts' have ever been so lucidly set forth."—Chicago Times.

NOTES IN SEASON.

BANGS & Co. announce that their regular Fall Parcel Sale will be held Tuesday, October 30, and following days. Invoices must reach them by Monday, October 8, at the latest, at which time the catalogue must go to press.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY announce that a new edition of the "United States Dispensary" is now being bound, and will be ready in a few days. The revision has been thorough, and not merely the addition of a supplement. More than one-third of the book, or nearly eight hundred pages, is entirely new matter, while the whole work has been most carefully rewritten. The National Formulary has been incorporated.

D. APPLETON & Co. publish this week "The Advance - Guard of Western Civilization," by James R. Gilmore; "Researches on Diamagnetism and Magneto-Crystalline Action," by Prof. John Tyndall; "Westminster, and other sermons," a volume of posthumous sermons by Archbishop Trench; a new edition of Dr. Austin Flint's "Text-Book of Human Physiology;" "A History of Charles the Great" (Charlemagne), by J. I. Mombert; and "A Reconciling Vengeance," a novel, by Frank Barrett.

ROBERTS BROS. will publish on the 1st of October the second and concluding volume of "Franklin in France," by E. E. Hale, senior and junior, which will contain a fine portrait of Franklin in his old age, by Duplessis, never before engraved, and numerous illustrations. They have also just ready, "The Book of Christmas," by Thomas K. Hervey, descriptive of the customs, ceremonies, traditions, superstitions, fun, and festivities of the Christmas season, with original illustrations by R. Seymour; "Prince Vance," the story of a prince with a court in his box, by Eleanor Putnam and Arlo Bates, with numerous illustrations by Frank Myrick; and "Sparrow, the Tramp," a fable for children, by Lily F. Wesselhoef, illustrated by Jessie McDermott, a thoroughly delightful child's story.

THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS CO. announce some attractive gift-books for the young folks in their Moving Picture Series, containing three volumes, by L. Meggendorfer, comprising "Live Animals," "More Living Animals," and "Moving Animal Pictures," also in the Shoreman's Series, containing four volumes, devoted to "Living Pictures," "The Mammoth Menagerie," "The Theatre Picture-Book," and "The Children's Year," telling of happy days in spring, summer, autumn, and winter. These two series are a complete novelty, and are made very striking by large, clear type, and handsome, illuminated covers. By special arrangement with publishers in Japan the house also offers a line of genuine Japanese picture-books, in which all the wonderful designs are printed in bright colors on fine plant-paper, and all the representations of Japanese country scenes, flowers, birds, and insects, as well as Japanese ladies, gentlemen, manners, and customs, are explained in English text.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

PRESUMABLY the last literary work of Prof. Richard Proctor appeared in Harper's Weekly, published September 19. It is entitled "The Moon a Dead World, but Never Like Our Earth." A portrait of Mr. Proctor is published in the same number.

Once a Week, published by P. F. Collier, 104-110 Attorney St., N. Y., prints in its issue of September 29 a weird poem by Amélie Rives (Chanler), entitled "Asmodeus," illustrated by Sterner, and a story by Dion Boucicault entitled "Hy-Bras-Ayl, or, the nine lives of Con O'Neill." Other contributors to this enterprising journal are Marion Harland, Julian Hawthorne, Benson J. Lossing, Bill Nye, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Edgar Fawcett, R. K. Munkittrick, J. W. Riley, J. Howard, Jr., Mary Kyle Dallas, Maurice Thompson, Patience Stapleton, Charles Barnard, and Minnie Irving. The art department is in charge of Matt Morgan. The periodical is edited by Mr. Nugent Robinson, who is showing great energy and ability in his work. The intention is to spare no money or pains to make the paper the best of its class. Among the attractions secured for the near future is a new story by Rider Haggard, entitled "My Fellow Laborer."

son, settles on a small farm, and soon opens a milk route. The cousin raises chickens, vegetables, and fruits, opens a store, and the young brother goes to work in an iron foundry. After two years they all prosper. The story is founded on fact. Many details of farm life are interestingly told.

Cox, Palmer. Queer people, such as goblins, giants, merry-men, and monarchs, and their kweer kapers. Phil., Hubbard Bros., 1888. c. 112 p. il. sq. O. bds., $1.

The three amusing books comprised under the general title of "Queer people" include contributions of the author of "The Brownies" to Harper's Young People, St. Nicholas, and Little Folks, with quite a good deal of new matter never before published. The illustrations and the text are both brimming over with proofs of the rare humor for which Mr. Cox is celebrated. Grotesque animals, birds, giants, and goblins are the heroes of the most grotesque narratives in verse.

Cox, Palmer. Queer people with paws and claws and their kweer kapers. Phil., Hubbard Bros., [1888.] c. 112 p. il. sq. O. bds., $1.

Cox, Palmer. Queer people with wings and stings and their kweer kapers. Phil., Hubbard Bros., [1888.] c. 80 p. il. sq. O. bds., 75 c.

Orake, Rev. A. D. Brian Fitz-Count: a story of Wallingford Castle and Dorchester Abbey. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1888. 7+264 p. S. cl., $1.

Wallingford Castle was the most important stronghold on the Thames during the civil war of the first half of the 12th century, when Dorchester Abbey was founded. The tale is all too true to mediæval life in its darker features. Brian Fitz-Count was a real personage; the terrible descriptions of the dungeons of the Castle and the sufferings inflicted are taken from historic records. The details given of the lepers in the Lazar-House at Byfield are almost minute enough for a medical work.

Crawford, Oswald. Sylvia Arden: a novel. N. Y., M. J. Ivers & Co., 1888. 220 p. D. (American ser., no. 93.) pap., 25 c.

*Dasent, Sir G. Webbe. Popular tales from the Norse; with an introductory essay on the origin and diffusion of popular tales. 3d ed., with 13 new tales. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. O. cl., $2.50.

Davidson, H. C. Entrées and table dainties for the epicure. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889 [1888.] 1+124 p. S. bds., 50 c.

Two hundred and eighty-five recipes of dishes easily made, and yet seemingly very dainty and appetizing.

De Quincey, T. Confessions of an English opium-eater; reprinted from the 1st ed., with notes of De Quincey's conversations by R. Woodhouse, and other additions; ed. by R. Garnett. Empyrean ed. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 21+275 p. por. S. cl., $1; hf. levant mor. or hf. polished cf., $2; full crushed levant mor., $4.

*Dexter, Ransom, M.D. The kingdoms of nature; or, life and organization from the elements to man; being a following of matter and force into vitality, vitality into organization, and organization into the various types of being culminating in man. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., 1888. O. cl., $3.50; shp., $4.50; hf. mor., $6.

*Euripides. Hecuba and other plays; tr. into English verse by Michael Wodhull; with an introduction by H. Morley. N. Y., G. Routledge & Sons, 1888. 288 p. D. (Morley's universal lib., no. 61.) cl., 40 c.; hf. parch., 60 c.

*Evans, W. A treatise on the law of principal and agent in contract and tort; from 2d Eng. ed. (1888), with notes and Amer. cases, by J.

C. Bedford. V. 1. Phil., The Blackstone Pub. Co., 1888. c. 362 p. O. (Text-book series, v. 1, no. 22.) pap., subs., $1.25.

Federalist (The): a commentary on the constitution of the United States; being a collection of essays written in support of the constitution agreed upon Sep. 17, 1787, by the Federal Convention; reprinted from the original text of Alexander Hamilton, J. Jay, and Ja. Madison; ed. by H. Cabot Lodge. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 42+586 p. O. cl., $2.

These celebrated essays are introduced by an article on the authorship, the bibliography, and the texts of the "Federalist"; and supplemented by the articles of confederation and the constitution of the United States.

Fitzgibbon, H. Macaulay, ed. Early English and Scottish poetry, 1250-1600; with a critical introduction and notes. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 88+437 p. D. (Winsor ser.) cl., $1.25; hf. cf., $2.50.

The object of this volume is to give typical specimens from the English poets from Layamon to Spenser.

*Flint, Austin, M.D. A text-book of human physiology, 4th ed., rewritten. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 890 p. il. O. cl., $6; shp., $7.

*Fradenburgh, Rev. J. N. Living religions; or, the great religions of the orient from sacred books and modern customs. Cin., Cranston & Stowe, 1888. 512 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Gay, J. Fables; with a memoir by Austin Dobson. Empyrean ed. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 37+238 p. por. S. cl., $1; hf. levant mor. or hf. polished cf., $2; full crushed levant mor., $4.

Gerard, Emily de Laszowska. The land beyond the forest; facts, figures, and fancies from Transylvania. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 6+403 p. map and il. O. cl., $1.50.

The author's husband was ordered to take command of two Hussar regiments in Austria, to which circumstance is due this interesting book. Transylvania is in the southeastern part of the Austro-Hungarian empire. Its inhabitants include Saxons, Hungarians, Roumanians, Jews, Armenians, and gypsies, all these races seeming to keep their distinct characteristics. They are a very illiterate, agricultural people. The facts given of their manners, customs, superstitions, creeds, etc., make strangely fascinating reading.

Goldsmith, Oliver. Poetical works; il. by wood-eng. from the designs of Cope, Creswick, Horsley, Redgrave, and Frederick Tayler; with a biographical memoir and notes. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889 [1888.] 24+235 p. O. cl., $4.50; hf. levant mor. or hf. polished cf., $7.50; full levant mor., $12.50.

A narrow page, freely spaced, beautiful print on fine linen paper, wide margins and uncut edges, are the characteristics of this handsome edition. The designs are printed on Japan paper and pasted on the leaf. The edition is limited to 500 copies, 250 for England, and 250 for America.

*Goldsmith, Oliver. The traveller; ed. with introduction and notes, by G. Birkbeck Hill. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 13+53 p. S. (Clarendon Press ser.) bds., 25 c.

Goldsmith, Oliver. The vicar of Wakefield; with a preface and notes by Austin Dobson. Empyrean ed. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 18+308 p. 1 il., $1; hf. levant mor. or hf. polished cf., $2; full crushed levant mor., $4.

Grant, Robert. Jack in the bush; or, a summer on a salmon river. Bost., Jordan, Marsh & Co., 1888. c. 5-374 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Jack Hall, the hero of Mr. Grant's former story, is one of six boys selected by a teacher to spend a few weeks of summer in the woods. They choose the far northeastern corner of the Province of Quebec; and most delightful hours are spent principally in salmon-fishing.

Guardians (The); by the authors of "A year in Eden" and "A question of identity." Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 2+412 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The authors seem to have a distinct purpose in this novel, and that is to show that the most careful education has no influence upon hereditary traits. Amory Wallis, a handsome man of about forty, is suddenly called to the death bed of the only woman he has ever loved, and made guardian of her two girls. A misunderstanding had separated Amory and Cornelia Curwen in early youth. Cornelia, fiercely resenting his supposed falseness, marries a man she despises in every way. He dies a few months before she does, and Amory Wallis finds himself about the only friend her little girls possess. Associated with him is old Judge Ford, but it is in Amory's family, under the care of his mother, Mrs. Rothery, the girls are brought up. Mrs. Rothery is strong-minded and has theories about education with which she is delighted to experiment. The story is well told, proving, in spite of Mrs. Rothery, that the mother and father's ill-regulated natures count for something in the fates of passionate Constance and morbid Ruth.

Guiney, Louise Imogen. Brownies and bogies; ii. by Edmund H. Garrett. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 4-174 p. il. D. cl., $1.

This little volume might be fitly styled a fairy handbook, as in it the author describes every kind of the "little people" that is found in traditions or literature in all the countries of the world. There are the brownies and waterknips of Scotland, the troll and necken of Sweden, the German kobolds, the English fairies, pixies, and elves, the Norwegian and Danish dwarfs and bjerg-falls, the Irish leprechauns, and a score of others. The author mingles her descriptions with anecdotes illustrative of the different qualities and dispositions of the various fairy folk described.

Hall, H. S., and Knight, S. R. Arithmetical exercises and examination papers, with an appendix cont. questions in logarithms and mensuration. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 6+180 p. S. cl., 60 c.

Harland, H.; ["Sidney Luska," pseud.] My uncle Florimond. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 5-108 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Little Gregory, the hero, is introduced as an orphan, living with his uncle and grandmother, a dear old French lady of the old school, in Norwich, Conn. My uncle Florimond is the grandmother's brother, of whom from his earliest years Gregory makes a hero, although he has never seen him. After his grandmother's death he leaves his cruel uncle and comes to New York, where he meets with the kindest friends and protectors among Jews. The author again has opportunity to describe Jewish home life and also to introduce his knowledge of law. The story is charmingly told.

Heine, H. Prosa; selections from Heine's prose works. 2d ed., rev. V. 7 of German classics, ed. with English notes by C. A. Buchheim. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 40+322 p. S. (Clarendon Press ser.) cl., $1.10.

Iron, Ralph. [pseud. for Olive Schreiner.] The story of an African farm: a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 256 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1203.) pap., 25 c.

Irving, Washington. The sketch book of Geoffrey Crayon, gent. Katrina ed., 2 v. in 1 v., of author's rev. ed. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. '64. 307+290 p. por. S. cl., $1.25.

Johnson, Rossiter. A short history of the war of secession, 1861-1865. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1888. c. 14+552 p. O. cl., $3.

As Mr. Johnson says in his preface: "Current literature abounds in minute studies of the separate campaigns and engagements, most of them purely military and many of them exceedingly valuable, but the reader finds no ready answer to his question, How did it happen that the war took place at all, what was its general course, and what were the motive forces that brought it on, prolonged it, and finished it?" To answer this question within the compass of a single compact volume is the purpose of this work. It is an admirable résumé, told in a rapid, picturesque style, which gives the reader a perfect picture of the period, and also the feeling and spirit of the time. The narrative is "easy reading," as the author intended it should be, and is unaltered by many foot-notes and references.

Johnson, S. Lives of the poets: Milton, ed. with notes, by C. H. Firth. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 12+144 p. S. (Clarendon Press ser.) bds., 40 c.

Jones, J. W.; D.D. Christ in the camp; or, religion in the southern army; with an introd. by Rev. J. C. Granbery, D.D. Richmond, Va. B. F. Johnson & Co., 1888. 650 p. il. O. cl., subs., $2.50; $3; Amer. mor., $3.50.

Kleiser, Harry M. The recollections of a drummer-boy. 6th ed., rev. and enl. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. '81, '83, '85. 9-250 p. il. sq. O. cl., $1.50.

These sketches have long been out of print; the demand, however, for them has been so great that the publishers have sent them out in a new and greatly improved dress, and enlarged by the addition of some newly remembered incidents.

Landon, Walter Savage. The pentameron: citation and examination of William Shakespeare; minor prose pieces, criticisms. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 10+419 p. D. cl., $2.

The works embraced in this volume are among the most celebrated of Landon's writings. The "Pentameron" relates to five imaginary interviews between Boccaccio and Petrarca in which they discuss Dante. The second work describes the citation and examination of William Shakespeare and others before Sir Thomas Lucy touching deer-stealing on the 19th Sept., 1584. The criticisms are on the idyls of Theocritus, the poems of Catullus, and on Francesco Petrarca.

Leah, E. Nonsense books with the original B. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. ed. 85+79+74+107+79 p. por. D. cl., $2.

Contents: 1. A book of nonsense; 2. Nonsense songs, stories, botany, and alphabets; 3. More nonsense pictures, rhymes, botany, etc.; 4. Laughable lyrics, a frab book of nonsense poems, songs, botany, etc.

Leffingwell, W. Bruce. Wild fowl shooting; scientific and practical descriptions of wild fowl, their resorts, habits, flights, and the most successful method of hunting them. Chlc., Rand, McNally & Co., 1888. 400 p. il. O. cl., $2.50; hf. mor., $3.50.

Treating also of the selection of guns for wild fowl shooting, how to load, to aim, and to use them successfully, decoys, and the proper manner of using them; blinds, how and where to construct them; boats, how to build and use them scientifically; retrievers, their characteristics, how to select and how to train them.

Lewin, T. A practical treatise on the law of trusts; 1st Amer. from the 8th Eng. ed. by J. A. H. Flint. V. 2. Bost., C. H. Edson & Co., 1888. c. 847-1635+17-84 p. O. (Amer. law series, v. 2, no. 6.) pap., subs., $1.25.

Lindley, Sir Nathaniel. A treatise on the law of partnership; 5th Eng. ed., 2d Amer. ed., annot. by M. D. Ewell. 2 v. Chlc., Callaghan & Co., 1888. c. 24+928; 102+929-1658 p. O. sbp., $5.

Lindley, Sir Nathaniel. A treatise on the law of partnership. 5th ed. Amer. notes by A. B.

- Wentworth. In 2 v. V. 2. Bost., C. H. Edson & Co., 1888. c. 527-1012 p. O. (Amer. law series, v. 2, no. 7.) pap., subs., $1.25.
- *Lindley, Sir Nathaniel. A treatise on the law of partnership; from the 5th Eng. ed., with Amer. notes by C. Y. Audenried. In 2 v. V. 2. Phil., The Blackstone Pub. Co., 1888. c. 4+373-916 p. O. (Text-book series, v. 2, no. 21.) pap., subs., $1.25.
- McCahey, J. P., comp. Franklin sq. song collection: two hundred favorite songs and hymns for schools and homes, nursery and fireside, no. 5. N. Y., Harper, [1888.] c. 184 p. O. cl., $1; bds., 60 c., pap., 50 c.
- Another excellent collection of words and music from the best sources. The arrangement is the same as in the former volumes. Each song is complete on one or two pages, so the page need not be turned while singing and playing. The space sometimes left on the page by this arrangement is filled with interesting quotations and matter relating to music, singing, training of the voice, and comment upon the song on the page.
- Macquoid, Gilbert S., ed. Jacobite songs and ballads (selected); with notes, genealogical table of the Stuarts, introduction, glossary, etc. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 20+534 p. 1 il. D. (Winsor ser.) cl., $1.25; hf. cf., $2.50.
- The arrangement of the poems and ballads is as nearly as possible chronological, so as to give in some measure a history of the events which they commemorate. Among the poems will be found many of great beauty, dramatic power, and pathos.
- Marshall, Emma. Alma; or, the story of a little music mistress. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889 [1888.] 5+352 p. D. cl., $1.25.
- Alma, a girl of twenty, supports her invalid mother, two romping boys, and a little blind brother by giving piano lessons. The trials she encounters from a snobbish employer, the recognition her talent receives from an authority, her tender care of her family, and her final happiness make a pretty story. A mysterious lodger who turns out a rich nobleman helps to bring happiness to all the family.
- Mayflower (The); for youngest readers, 1888. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1888.] c. 2+208 p. il. sq. O. bds., 75 c.
- A binding together of the weekly numbers of The Mayflower, a little paper for very little children which has just completed its first year. It is edited by Mrs. Julia H. Boynton, and contains many attractive pictures and plenty of simple reading in large, clear type.
- Meredith, G.: Beauchamp's career. Author's popular ed. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. 4+506 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- Meredith, G.: The egoist. Author's popular ed. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. 5+505 p. D. cl., $1.50.

- Nordhoff, C.: Peninsular California: some account of the climate, soil, productions, and present condition chiefly of the northern half of Lower California. N. Y., Harper, 1888. c. 3-130 p. il. sq. O. cl., $1; pap., 75 c.
- When Mr. Nordhoff published this book on California in 1872, he was believed to have overestimated the resources of the state. It has now been proved that he underestimated them. He has since given special attention to the part he now describes and in 1887 bought land there. This book embodies his reasons for doing so. There are two maps made from careful surveys and many comparative tables of climate, products, taxation, etc. The illustrations, mostly of trees, show the luxuriant vegetation of the country. From an agricultural and political standpoint this is a useful book.
- Oswald, E. J.: The dragon of the north: a tale of the Normans in Italy. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1888. 10+350 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.
- The monk, Fra Laurentio, whom the author makes the narrator of this romance of the early Middle Ages, is said to be an historic character. At that time three powers wrestled together in Southern Italy, the Greeks, the local Lombard princes, and the German emperor of the West. Their endless strife laid the land open to the attacks of the Saracens, who laid it waste or settled in colonies and fortresses along the coast, made prisoners and tortured them in the manner described. The dragon is supposed to be the original of the griffin of mediæval romance.
- Owen, Catherine. [now Mrs. C. O. Nitsch.] Molly Bishop's family. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 6+270 p. D. cl., $1.
- On a thread of story this practical housekeeper strings many excellent ideas on the management of babies, servants, and homes. The early death of Molly Bishop's husband forces her to earn her children's bread and butter, which she does by keeping boarders and making puddings, pies, and cake to be sold at the woman's exchange. The recipes for all these dainties are embodied in the story.
- Poe, Edgar Allan. Poems; with an essay on poetry by Andrew Lang. Empyrean ed. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 20+172 p. 1 il. S. cl., $1; hf. levant mor. or hf. polished cf., $2; full crushed levant mor., $4.
- *Pratt's (A. S. & Sons) manual of banking law: a short, practical treatise on the law applicable to the every-day business of banks, and the duties, powers, and liabilities of bank officers. Wash., D. C., A. S. Pratt & Sons, 1888. 170 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- *Rabelais, François. The sequel to Pantagruel; being Books 3-5 of Rabelais, "Gargantua and the heroic deeds of Pantagruel;" with an introduction by H. Morley. N. Y., G. Routledge & Sons, 1888. 320 p. D. (Morley's universal lib., no. 62.) cl., 40 c.; hf. parch., 60 c.
- Rebel rose (The): a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 252 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 627.) pap., 40 c.
- The rebel rose, Mary Stuart Beaton, a French Guinevere.

Terence [Lat. Terentius], Afer, Publius. Andria et heavton timorvmenos [Latin]; ed. with an introduction and notes by Andrew F. West. N. Y., Harper, 1888. c. ed. 39+265 p. D. (Harper's classical ser.) cl., $1.50.

Thackeray, W. M. The rose and the ring; or, the history of Prince Giglio and Prince Bulbo: a fireside pantomime for great and small children, by M. A. Titmarsh. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. 9+209 p. il. T. (Knickerbocker nuggets.) cl., $1.25.

Thwing, Rev. E. P., M.D. Out-door life in Europe; or, sketches of seven summers abroad. N. Y., Hurst & Co., [1888.] c. 252 p. por. D. cl., $1.

Ireland, Scotland, England and Wales, France and Belgium, Holland and Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Sweden, Norway, Russia, Denmark, and Spain are the special countries described. The writer gives brief but graphic pictures of the chief objects of note in each, with an intelligent estimate of the people, gathered from their out-door life.

Tomson, Graham R., ed. Ballads of the north country; ed. with introduction and notes. White & Allen, [1888.] 22+442 p. D. (Winsor ser.) cl., $1.25; hf. cf., $2.50.

Chiefly based upon Prof. Child's "English and Scottish ballads;" other older collections were also consulted. They are divided as follows: Romantic and supernatural; Border or Riding ballads; Historical; Ballads of Robin Hood; Comic, or humorous; Lullabies and nursery ballads.

Tourgée, Albion W. Letters to a king. Cin., Cranston & Stowe, 1888. 303 p. por. D. cl., $1.25; hf. rus., $2.

Trumble, Alfred. The Mott St. Poker Club; the secretary's minutes; il. by M. Woolf. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889 [1888.] c. 50 p. O. bds., 50 c.

A companion volume to "The Thompson Street Poker Club," dealing with the laughable side of life in the Chinese quarter of New York. The sketch of the club's experience with "polkel" is extremely funny, as are also the designs which illustrate it.

Tuckerman, E. Synopsis of the North American lichens; pt. 2, including the lecideacei and (in part) the graphidacei. New Bedford, Mass., sold by E. Nelson, Amherst, Mass., 176 p. O. pap., $2.50.

Vandegrift, Margaret. The dead doll, and other verses. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. '88. 3-169 p. il. sq. O. cl., $1.50.

The young readers of St. Nicholas, Harper's Young People, The Youth's Companion, and Wide Awake already know and love many of these wise and witty verses. They will find new ones quite as pretty as "The dead doll" and "The fate of a face-maker," which Miss Vandegrift sends out to the public for the first time in this volume. The volume is full of pictures and uniform with "Davy and the goblin."

Vandegrift, Margaret. Little helpers. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 6-251 p. il. sq. O. cl., $1.50.

The doings of Johnny and Tiny Leslie, a little boy and girl, fill this handsome volume. These adventures are simple enough, rarely going outside of the routine of every-day life. Such as they are, however, they are made interesting and also instructive, each episode having its own unobtrusive moral. Suitable for children between 10 and 12. With full-page and text pictures.

Vingt-cinq eaux-fortes par les principaux artistes modernes; avec une lettre préface de Roger Marx. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. Portfolio, F., satin, $7.50.

25 etchings by modern French artists; the subjects are figures, landscapes, etc. In a pink satin portfolio.

Waddington, S., ed. The sonnets of Europe; a volume of translations; selected and arranged, with notes. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 24+288 p. D. (Winsor ser.) cl., $1.25; hf. cf., $2.50.

Includes sonnets from the Italian, French, German, Spanish, Portuguese, Swedish, Polish, Greek, Dutch, and Latin, grouped according to nationality. They range in time from three hundred years ago to the present.

*Ward, Mrs. Humphrey. Robert Elsmere. New cheaper ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. D. pap., 50 c.

Wheeler, C. H., D.D. Odds and ends; or, gleanings from missionary life. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1888.] c. 10+202 p. map, D. cl., $1.25.

Information covering questions usually asked at haphazard by average people interested in mission work concerning habits, customs, modes of dealing with various problems likely to arise in mission work, etc. Dr. Wheeler has already given an historical and systematical account of missions in his "Ten years on the Euphrates;" "Letters from Eden;" "Daughters of Armenia," etc.

*Willey, H. Isaac Willey of New London, Conn., and his descendants. New Bedford, Mass., sold by the author, Henry Willey. 6+166 p. O. pap., $2.50.

Williams, J., D.D. Studies in the Book of Acts. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1888. c. 8+178 p. O. cl., $1.50.

The author, who has been Bishop of Connecticut since 1851, holds that the Acts of the Apostles should be read in the orderly way in which people read history; that the book contains not so much commands as to what was to be done as a consecutive record of what had already been done. He gives the text of the Bible, divided not by chapters, but by historical and subject divisions. There are five distinct divisions, four of which are covered here: Part 1, The great fifty days after the resurrection; pt. 2, Birthday of the Christian church; pt. 3, Mission to the Jews; pt. 4, Preparation for mission to the Gentiles. This brings in the twelfth chapter of Acts. If encouraged he will treat of the fifth division in another volume.

*Williams, Woolmer. Incidents in the history of the Honorable artillery company; being an abridged version of Major Raikes' History of the company from its incorporation in 1537 to the present time, 1887; including a brief history of the American branch of the regiment, founded in 1638, and known as 'The ancient and honorable company of Boston, Mass., U. S. A.' Bost., Laughton, Macdonald & Co., 131 Tremont St., 1888. il. and map, O. cl., net, $4.

Wilson, Rev. G. The kingdom of God developed according to the inspired records and predictions. Bloomington, Ill., published by the author, Rev. G. Wilson, 1887. c. 1055 p. O. shp., $4.

A comparison of the Biblical record with the facts of history, with some effort in the line of forecast. The work, a voluminous one and a monument of industry, is almost an entirely original interpretation of the Scriptures. It is divided into four ages, twenty-three periods, and one hundred and seventy-seven chapters divided into sections.

*Xenophon. Anabasis, Book 2, ed. for the use of schools, with introduction, notes, and vocabulary, by A. S. Walpole. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 12+98 p. S. (Elementary classics.) cl., 40 c.

*Yatman, Rev. C. H. Temple themes and sacred songs. Phil., J. J. Hood, 1888. 256 p. D. bds., 50 c.

*Zickel's (S.) illustrirter deutsch-amerik. familienkalender für 1889. N. Y., S. Zickel, 1888. 56 p. il. O. pap., 25 c.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 29, 1888.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CONVENTION OF THE TYPOTHETÆ.

THE meeting of the master printers in this city last week, of which we regret we could not give an account in our last issue, was a notable event in bringing together the masters of one of the most important crafts in the country, and a body of men of character and influence. It was perhaps to be regretted that the recent struggle between employers and employees in the printing trade had left so much feeling that the proposal of a committee of the International Typographical Union to be granted an audience for consultation was treated with rather scant courtesy by the master printers. It seems to be true that there was no special subject for consultation, and it is also true that this Conference or general meeting does not attempt to deal with wage prices, but leaves such things to the local bodies. Yet the reception of such a committee from the National organization of the printing employees would at least have promoted good feeling for the future.

In this, and in many of the matters which came before the Convention, the publishing trade is strongly interested. Among other things, the action of the Conference as to the charge for the storage of stereotype plates is of considerable importance, and it goes to suggest that when any question of prices is actively to the front the central body will be very likely to take a hand. Questions of prices are difficult to manage in this way, but the Conference will result in good to the craft, and, we trust, in good to the publishing trade.

In one direction the action or non-action of the Convention was most important. There seemed to be, at first, a general disposition to look upon the Chace Copyright Bill as inimical to the printing trade—for what reason it is difficult to understand. A committee which was appointed to investigate and report to the Conference was made up in good part of gentlemen from other parts of the country, more or less prejudiced against the bill, with several New York gentlemen representing houses which had been active in its behalf—a choice to which no one could object. The committee called into consultation other gentlemen who had had much to do with the copyright movement, and apparently those members who were disposed to report against the bill had their opinions very much modified by the explanations which were made to them. At the request of the committee, Dr. Edward Eggleston, the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Authors' League, and other representatives of the two Leagues appeared before the Conference, and the former was invited to speak in advocacy of the bill. A most interesting discussion followed, in which certain arguments of those opposing the bill proved to be boomerangs. In the controversy a paper was read from a Western gentleman, strongly opposing the bill and suggesting, if it passed, the authors of America and Europe would join together in a syndicate, which would take away the present chance of publishers and printers altogether—a suggestion met by Dr. Eggleston with the happy retort that if all the authors joined their poverty together it would certainly make a formidable rival of publishers' capital. Colonel Schleicher, of Albany, objected to the bill, on behalf of the newspaper press, and when asked why the newspapers also could not pay for material instead of stealing it, brought down the house with the observation, "We don't steal for ourselves; we steal for the benefit of the public." A representative of the English printers, Mr. Duncan, of Edinburgh, who was also invited to speak, stated that the Scotch printers had made up their minds that the bill would take away about half of their trade and send it to this country—a statement which did not produce the desired effect on the minds of those present. He afterward explained that the result would be that Scotch printers would send over a part of their plant and hands here. Whereupon the members of the Conference suggested that if American printers could not hold their own on even terms they had better go out of business. As a result of the interesting discussion, the Conference felt that the subject was too large to be adequately handled in the time at their disposal, and the whole matter was therefore laid upon the table.

We congratulate the printing trade heartily on the success of this first Conference, and trust the National organization of Typothetæ may become a permanent and useful institution.

ZOLA'S "DREAM" DISTURBED.

ON the the 17th inst. Messrs. Laird & Lee, of Chicago, secured an injunction from Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, of the Supreme Court, against Rand, McNally & Co., to restrain them from publishing and selling a translation of Emile Zola's novel entitled "Le Rêve" ("The Dream"). It was claimed by the plaintiffs that they had bought the right to publish and sell the translation in the United States from Edgar de V. Vermont, the translator, who had secured the right to publish the work in this country from Zola, and that the book had not been published even in France. The defendants claimed that Zola had sold the right of translation and publication in England to Tillotson & Son, of Bolton; that the story had been partially, if not entirely, published in serial form; that they (Rand, McNally & Co.) had secured the right of publication from Tillotson & Sons, the English publishers, and were thus protected in issuing the book here.

The case was taken under advisement, in Supreme Court Chambers, on the 25th, by Judge Barrett, who was inclined to the view that on prima facie evidence there was not warrant for dissolving the injunction. Late the same afternoon Messrs. Rand, McNally & Co. learned that Mr. W. F. Tillotson, a member of the Bolton firm, had arrived on the 22d by the Etruria. Mr. Tillotson had come to this country on matters wholly unconnected with this case, and it was, therefore, quite fortunate for Messrs. Rand, McNally & Co. that he happened to have with him copies of the correspondence with M. Zola in reference to "Le Rêve," and of the receipt received from M. Zola for the amount of purchase.

According to Mr. Tillotson, his firm purchased of Zola early in the present year the right to translate into English his work "Le Rêve," and on April 13, 1888, paid him his agreed price therefor, and received from him in consideration thereof an assignment of the absolute right to translate the work into English, without any limitation as to the place of publication. The language of his receipt was as follows: "Prix convenu pour le droit de traduction en langue anglaise de mon roman 'Le Rêve.' Je vous cède donc ce droit en toute propriété." ("The agreed price for the right to translate into the English language my novel, 'The Dream.' I, therefore, grant you this right in full ownership.")

Zola further agreed to deliver the manuscript to Mrs. Chase, an American lady residing in Paris, at dates to be arranged with her. He complied with this agreement, delivered the manuscript to her, and she made the translation for Messrs. Tillotson, who sold to Rand, McNally & Co. the sheets of that translation, and directed them not to be anticipated in publication here by any one. Their publication in England, Mr. Tillotson said, is not yet fully completed.

Mr. Tillotson also says that the negotiations with Zola were opened through a letter written by Zola and dated in Paris, March 8, and addressed on the envelope to Mrs. Chase, in which he authorized a Mr. Hadley, who is, he understands, also an American, to arrange for the sale of the right to translate his novel into English. The language used by Zola was: "J'autorise parfaitement Mr. Hadley à s'occuper de placer la traduction anglaise de mon prochain roman 'Le Rêve.'" ("I fully authorize Mr. Hadley to arrange for the English translation of my next novel, 'Le Rêve.'")

From Mrs. Chase Mr. Hadley went to Tillotson's with Zola's letter, and represented that as Mrs. Chase was an American citizen, they should under the arrangement acquire the right to publish both in England and America, as Mrs. Chase could take out a copyright here. On these representations, and with the expectation of in part reimbursing themselves by a sale of the advanced sheets to America, they made the purchase from Zola.

The matter, as we go to press, has not yet been decided. It would appear from our knowledge of the case that this complication has arisen not through any bad faith on the part of either publishing house, but through the bad business management of the author. Zola knew through Mrs. Chase that it was her intention to place the translation she made for the Messrs. Tillotson in the American market, the lady going so far as to suggest the names of a number of American houses likely to undertake its publication. What explanations are to be made, therefore, must come from Zola.

THE CONVENTION OF THE TYPO-THETÆ.

THE Second Annual Convention of the United Typothetæ of America began on the 18th inst. and continued for three days. The officers of the Convention were Theodore L. De Vinne, of New York, President; James Davidson, of Louisville, and Samuel Slawson, of St. Louis, Secretaries; and A. O. Russell, of Cincinnati, Treasurer. The Executive Committee consisted of Howard Lockwood, of New York; F. H. Mudge, of Boston, Mass.; Geo. P. Barnard, of St. Louis, Mo.; Andrew McNally, of Chicago, Ill.; Frederick Driscoll, of St. Paul, Minn.; Thomas Williamson, of Detroit, Mich., and W. H. Bates, of Memphis, Tenn. Last year's Convention was held in Chicago. Previous to the Convention being called to order, a meeting was held by the Executive Committee. Among the various subjects discussed by the Convention were the method of estimating the cost of work in making bids, etc., a system of apprenticeship, the higher education of workmen in the art of printing by the establishment of technical schools, a plan to increase the number of local Typothetæ, how to treat labor so as to bring employer and employee into more harmonious and reciprocal relationship, the settlement of strikes and differences by arbitration, prevention of fraudulent importation of stereotype plates, the use of type-setting machines, how to stop the feeling of workmen by ink and pressmakers, and last, but not least, the Chace Copyright Bill.

The most noticeable feature of the Convention was the independence of the delegates and their extreme restiveness under the slightest suspicion of organized restraint. They wanted no "ring" rule, and they would have none. They seemed to know exactly what the Convention was held for, and they rebelled the moment the original bounds were reached. The business of the Convention was the discussion of the abuses and embarrassments that have arisen in the trade, and as far as may be, the settlement of vexed questions, and the readjustment of conflicting interests. The perfection of printing as an art and a means of livelihood was a subject on which they entertained very positive ideas, and they did not propose to be intimidated in the pursuit of the same. The higher forms of the art have had but brief life in this country, and these men intend that that life shall be prolonged and strengthened. Some method must be devised for training printers who shall be something better than typesetting machines. Out of such intelligent and free, yet temperate, discussion as obtained in the Convention of the Typothetæ very substantial and beneficent reforms may well be expected to grow. As their President indicated in his opening address, the Typothetæ is not for war but for peace. "Live and let live" is the motto.

The second day of the Convention was taken up in discussing the copyright law, the advisability of settling questions concerning the typographical unions and the Typothetæ by arbitration, the injustice of the Government in printing business cards on stamped envelopes free of charge, and in not redeeming postal cards spoiled in printing, the unfairness of the Union wages at different places, and many other questions of less importance.

The committee's report on the question of settling disputes between the typographical unions and the Typothetæ by arbitration advised this course; but it met with some opposition, and the committee's advice seemed likely to be rejected, when Mr. Little told the Convention in pretty plain language that he thought it showed a narrow spirit on the part of the Typothetæ to refuse to confer with the typographical unions, and referred to the President's address on Monday, in which he advised arbitration as the best method of settling disputes between employees and employers. He was listened to attentively and cheered when he sat down, and a vote being taken on the report of the committee, it was accepted.

The Copyright bill which has passed the House of Representatives and is now pending in the Senate was next taken up, but there was nothing done except to appoint a committee consisting of Messrs. Harper, Gilbert, Wallace, Appleton, and G. H. Putnam, to report fully the next day. The feeling in the Convention seemed to be that the bill, if passed in its present form, would be detrimental to the interests of the Typothetæ. A committee was appointed to report on the ownership of standing type, printed sheets, electrotypes and cuts left in the hands of the printer for an indefinite length of time. C. A. Mitchell, of Minneapolis, offered a resolution protesting against the United States Government printing business cards on stamped envelopes without extra charge. The resolution was rushed through, and adopted without debate. Mr. Pugh, of Cincinnati, tried to have the resolution amended to embody a protest against the Government's refusal to redeem postal cards spoiled in printing, but the motion was not seconded and was lost.

On the third day the Committee on the International Copyright Bill reported that they were not prepared to make recommendations. At their suggestion Dr. Edward Eggleston, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Copyright League, addressed the Convention in defence of the Chace-Breckinridge bill. Very many delegates believed that the bill benefited nobody but the publishers. Dr. Eggleston replied that the bill was not entirely satisfactory to any one of the numerous conflicting interests involved, but was the best compromise that could be made. He was surprised to hear of opposition from American printers. English printers "marched in procession against it," he said.

Mr. Johnston, a gentleman lately arrived from Scotland, said that Scotch printers would have to emigrate to America if the bill were passed. Dr. Eggleston continued that a copyright could be had only for books made entirely in this country. Hence, to the regret of all authors, the importation of plates made in England is prohibited. There is nothing, however, to prevent the exportation of American plates to England. The trade in cheap books, he thought, would not be hurt by the bill, for so long as the market existed it surely would be supplied. Mr. W. W. Appleton, who was present, allowed himself to be quoted as authority for the last statement. What the American publisher wanted, the speaker said, was protection against those who print cheap editions of works upon which the original publisher had spent thousands of dollars in advertising and making public.

A spirited discussion resulted in the defeat of a resolution emphatically disapproving of the bill, and the entire question was referred to the Executive Committee. Hardly a delegate gave his support to the bill, but those who did not vigorously oppose it were undecided, and, therefore, hesitated to commit themselves.

These rules for the trade were then adopted on recommendation of the committee: Electrotypes plates used for over one year shall be subject to a charge of $1 per year for each box; sheet stock unused for over a year, 50 cents per year for each 1000 sheets; matter left standing, 10 cents per month for each 1000 ems. The Committee on Reformed Apprenticeship recommended the adoption of the form of indenture used in the St. Louis Typothetæ. This was referred to the Executive Committee, together with the matter of trade-schools. Resolutions were adopted censuring the type-founders for raising prices, and protests were made against the sale of paper to the public at the same price as to printers, and against the starting of bookbinderies, etc., without capital.

President Plank and his committee of the International Typographical Union wrote a letter to the Convention asking for a conference upon the following topics: The institution of a proper apprenticeship system, separate unions for the book and job trade, withdrawal of foremen from union membership, and arbitration. The communication was referred to the Executive Committee after the usual debate upon such union topics. The Convention adjourned after deciding to hold the next meeting at St. Louis, Oct. 3, 1889.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Andrew McNally, of Chicago; Vice-Presidents, L. L. Morgan, of New Haven, Clayton McMichael, of Philadelphia, W. Ellis Jones, of Richmond, W. C. Swain, of Milwaukee, H. R. Lewis, of Portland, W. A. Shepard, of Toronto; Corresponding Secretary, Everett Waddey, of Richmond; Recording Secretary, William Johnston, of Chicago; Treasurer, A. O. Russell, of Cincinnati; Executive Committee, Howard Lockwood, of New York, George H. Ellis, of Boston, C. A. Mitchell, of Minneapolis, Thomas Williamson, of Detroit, S. C. Toof, of Memphis, C. M. Skinner, of St. Louis, C. R. Andrews, of Rochester. Rules for the propagation of Typothetæ and mutual benefit associations on the Chicago plan were adopted. The matter of arbitration was left solely to the local Typothetæ. Very pleasant recognition was made of the efficient service rendered by Mr. De Vinne, Secretary

Davidson, and the other retiring officers, and hearty appreciation was expressed by the Western men for their generous entertainment in New York.

The dinner of the Typothetæ at the Metropolitan Opera House in the evening of the 20th inst. was a very pleasant affair. W. C. Martin acted as toastmaster. The speakers were P. F. Pettibone, of Chicago, Col. H. T. Rockwell, of Boston, Samuel Slawson, of St. Louis, the Hon. Clayton McMichael, of Philadelphia, Everett Waddey, of Richmond, Va., the Hon. Isaac H. Bailey, W. C. Baker, Col. Sleicher, of Albany, Col. L. L. Morgan, of the New Haven Register, and H. O. Houghton, of Boston.

A NEW TYPE-SETTING MACHINE.

From the N. Y. Times, September 19.

JAMES E. MUNSON, a stenographer, gave an exhibition yesterday afternoon in his temporary laboratory at 28 Centre Street of his invention of an automatic type-setting machine. Mr. Munson's apparatus is a complete novelty, inasmuch as it runs the type into the galleys fully justified and corrected, something never before accomplished by a type-setting machine. The primary principles of Mr. Munson's invention are speed and the possibility of justifying and correcting the type before it goes into the galleys. In order to accomplish the justifying and correcting, Mr. Munson has perfected a key-board which, made like that of an ordinary typewriter, perforates a strip of paper of about the width used in the Wheatstone telegraph system. The perforations consist of various combinations of letters based upon an alphabetical principle invented by Mr. Munson. Although only about 175 combinations are needed, 1013 can be made on the key-board if necessary. When the paper leaves the perforating machine the letters are so far apart that a strip  $13\frac{1}{2}$  inches long represents one line in a column of printed matter. The operator of the machine goes over this strip with a fine rule and sees that the divisions of words and spaces come to the end of the line correctly. If they do not he has a perforating hand tool with which he "spaces out" the characters so that they justify on the paper strip.

When he has finished justifying the strip it is run through another machine at a high rate of speed and the perforated characters are brought so close together that four inches of paper represent one line in a printed column. This strip is then put into the type-setting machine proper. This is an electric motor, with a sharp pointed armature connected with magnets representing the characters on the paper. As the armature passes through the perforations in the paper connection is made with rods over the magnets, which in their consequent action drop a type into a groove upon a rapidly revolving platform by which it is carried instantly to pick-ups, which in turn put it upon a supporting rail. It is then carried automatically to the galley and dumped, fully justified and corrected. In yesterday's exhibition Mr. Munson used the Thorne type-setter and distributor in connection with his automatic apparatus, which can be applied, he says, to any type-setting machine now in use. It is capable of setting from 8000 to 13,000 ems per hour. The machine is not yet perfect, but Mr. Munson believes it soon will be in practical operation.

An important feature in connection with the invention is that verbatim reports can be made upon any number of perforated slips at a time, and a slip supplied to each newspaper having one of the machines. Furthermore, the slips can be run through an automatic telegraph machine in Washington, and fac-similes forwarded to any point in the country directly to the newspapers, thus saving delay in handling matter by the ordinary Morse telegraph and in composition. Mr. Munson hopes to be able to use compressed air as a motive power, and to have the machine on the market within a few weeks. He has been assisted by Mr. A. Wisching, an electrician at 28 Centre Street.

"FRACTUR OR ANTIQUA?"

THIS vexed question breaks out ever and anon in Germany, and steadily, though very slowly, the adherents of the Roman letter are gaining ground. The chief argument of those who favor the gothic letter has been that inasmuch as the Gothic form is of German origin it would be unpatriotic to exchange it for the Latin, particularly for the French form. Absurd as this argument is, it seems to have the support of no less a personage than Bismarck. Ernst Seemann, a well-known German publisher, in a sensible letter to the Börsenblatt, it seems to us, effectually disposes of the question. He says:

"Our Gothic type is in no way a national peculiarity, and were one to go to the bottom of the matter, he would strike upon French rather than German origin. It is the smoothly polished grandchild of that system of artistic calligraphy in vogue in the second half of the fifteenth century, not only in Germany, but in France, in England, and in Italy.

"The 'Gothic' script was widely in use and is closely connected with the architectural form that was adopted first in France, and which, about the close of the fifteenth century, was carried almost to extremes. It may be regarded as a misfortune almost that Gutenberg discovered the art of printing before the renaissance movement, which had its origin in Italy. A hundred years later no one would have thought of adopting the distorted form of the Roman letter."

Mr. Seemann argues that the Roman type should be used (1) because it is easier read than fraktur; (2) because it makes instruction in reading and writing less difficult; (3) because it would then be unnecessary for printing offices to carry a double plant of type; and (4) because fraktur hinders literary intercourse with other countries.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PROF. WILLIAM H. WOODBURY, author of "Woodbury's German Method" and other German text-books, died yesterday at his home at Stamford, Conn.

FREIHERR C. V. COTTA, manager and head of the great publishing house of J. G. Cotta, of Stuttgart and Munich, died at the latter city September 19. His house was the publisher of the Allgemeine Zeitung, one of the best-known Continental newspapers, which was first published in Augsburg and afterward at Munich. The house was founded by Johann Georg Cotta (whose family was originally of noble Italian blood) at Tübingen in 1640. The imprint of the firm appeared on the first editions of many of the works of Goethe, Schiller, Fichte, Alex. von Humboldt, and others who created and shaped German literature.

A ROYAL PRESENT.

From the London Bookseller.

ON the occasion of Her Majesty's recent visit to the Glasgow Exhibition, the Delegates of the Oxford University Press obtained permission to present the royal lady with a specimen of their productions. For reasons best known to themselves, the managers of the Exhibition refused to permit the presentation to be made within the building, and it therefore took place privately. The work selected for presentation was a copy of the new bourgeois 8vo Teachers' Bible. This was done up in two volumes, the Helps, together with the Apocrypha and the Scotch Psalms, forming the contents of the second volume. The books were superbly bound in "garter blue" crushed levant, with the royal and imperial monogram, surmounted by the imperial crown on the side. They were lined with white moire antique silk, and were enclosed in a case similar in style to the binding of the books. Every part of the work was done by the Oxford Press, and the volumes furnished a splendid evidence of the resources of that vast establishment.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

PAOLO MONTEJAZZA's book, "Testa," is soon to appear in a translation by Prof. L. D. Ventura.

"Q," THE author of "Dead Man's Rock," is an Englishman, and is the son of a doctor of medicine formerly residing on the English south coast.

MARION CRAWFORD is said to be putting the finishing touches to a romance to be the sequel to "Saracinesca," in which he mixes illusion and mystery.

THE copyrights of the works of the late Grace Aguilar have been purchased from their present proprietors, Messrs. Groombridge & Sons, by Messrs. George Routledge & Sons.

W. E. H. LECKY says that the statement that the seventh volume of his "History of England" is in the hands of the printer and that it will be ready for publication early in the forthcoming publishing season is incorrect.

A YOUNG son of Edward Everett Hale is said to be the author of the pretty little verses "Phyllida," addressed to "the daughters of Manhattan," and printed in the Century over the signature of "G. F. Jones."

MISS AMÉLIE RIVES (Mrs. Chanler) is at work on a play. "Its title," she says, "is 'Ethelwold,' and it is based on incidents in English history just prior to the reign of Henry II." It will be published by Harper & Bros., probably early next year.

"WE hear," says the London Academy, "that Mrs. Montague Butler (Miss Agnata Ramsay) was able to finish her edition of Herodotus, at which she had been working for the past year; but that she finds herself compelled to resign her appointment as classical tutor at Girton, to the great disappointment of the college authorities.

"OUIDA," so our foreign exchanges report, has really become religious. It was rumored some time ago that she was verging towards repentance, and now it is learned that she spends her days in reading pious books and making long prayers. She even refuses to associate with worldly people. She is not devoted to any special denomination, but seems to be slowly forming a cult of her own.

"MRS. SUSAN N. CARTER, Principal of the Cooper Institute Art Schools, is writing," says the Critic, "the authorized 'Life of Peter Cooper.' The book will be in two octavo volumes, and will contain much interesting correspondence as well as biographical material. Mrs. Carter, by her long acquaintance with Mr. Cooper and sympathy with his surroundings, is much better fitted for this special task than Judge Thomas Hughes, who was spoken of some time ago in this connection."

MR. BANCROFT, a few months ago, visited Mrs. Polk at Nashville, and borrowed all the dead President's state papers for use in his historical work. He returned them not very long ago, with a note to Mrs. Polk, in which he said: "I hope my life will be spared to complete my history to the close of your husband's Administration. That will close my life-work. I am engaged with a corps of typewriters and clerks, and, I believe, will be able to accomplish the task."—N. Y. Tribune.

MR. GILLETTE's experience with Canadian book publishers as yet has been not only humorous, but rather satisfactory to him. An important book firm in Toronto some time ago started making plates and getting ready for the publication of Gillette's successful book, "A Legal Wreck," ignoring the author's demands for royalties entirely, but telling him of what they were doing. Two days before the time announced in Toronto for the publication of the book, says the N. Y. Tribune, Gillette quietly sent them word that he had procured an English copyright, which put a stop to this publication by the enterprising publisher.

EMILE ZOLA, having been decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor, appears to be desirous of securing a seat in the Academy. He is, however, reluctant to make the customary canvass of the members, some of whom he is not anxious to visit. He is reported to have expressed his feelings on the subject as follows to a French writer: "I shall certainly visit Coppée, Halévy, etc., for they are old comrades. Nor shall I leave out Clarétie, with whom I once had a sharp fight; but that is all forgotten now. But Alexander Dumas, that is a different matter. It is impossible for me to visit him; I have attacked him too often. I am just as little inclined to call on those members with whom I am not acquainted. This may cost me a few votes, but that is no matter. I have especial reasons for wishing to become a member of the Academy. It is necessary in the interest of my artistic theories, of my naturalistic principles. I am forty-eight years old, and my campaign is nearly closed; my only wish is that the few works which I have still to produce may not be inferior to those which I have already written. Till now each one of my books meant a battle. I now long for rest, and only desire to see the work of my life strengthened and consolidated before my death."

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—H. C. Grubb & Co., booksellers and stationers, have been succeeded by Thornton & Grubb.

BOSTON, MASS.—A certificate of incorporation has been issued to the Cambridge Publishing and Printing Company, which is constituted for the purpose of printing and publishing newspapers, periodicals, and books, and carrying on the business of job printing. Erasmus D. Leavitt, Jr., is President; Warren F. Spalding, Treasurer; and the incorporators are, in addition to the above, Joseph A. Ball, Samuel L. Montague, Asa P. Morse, George D. Chamberlain, H. O. Houghton, Oliver H. Durrell, Chester W. Kingsley, Ellen C. Johnson, Solomon S. Sleeper, Charles L. Harding, James A. Woolson, and George A. Davis.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Charles McCready & Co., booksellers and stationers, have sold out.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mr. Fred. P. Kenkel has severed his connection with the firm of Koelling, Klappenbach & Kenkel, booksellers and stationers. Messrs. John Koelling and Alex. Klappenbach will continue the business under the firm-name of Koelling & Klappenbach.

CINCINNATI, O.—O'Neil & Healy, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

HASTINGS, NEB.—W. Jones Anwyl & Co., booksellers and stationers, have sold out.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.—The Douglas book and stationery store was damaged by the flood, the mud and water covering it to the depth of fourteen inches.

HOUSTON, TEX.—The Houston Book and Stationery Co. has been dissolved.

MONETT, MO.—Langdon & Co., booksellers and stationers, have removed to Pierce City, Mo.

NEW YORK CITY.—Mr. S. A. Potter, long connected with the firm of Potter, Ainsworth & Co. and Potter, Knight, Ainsworth & Co., retires from business. The new firm will consist of D. F. Knight and Edwin Loomis as general partners and J. R. Van de Venter as special partner, the firm-name being Knight, Loomis & Co.

NORTH YAKIMA, WASH. TER.—J. H. Fairchild, bookseller, etc., has been succeeded by Fairchild & Eshelman.

OSKALOOSA, IA.—R. Whittaker, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Philip Roeder, the veteran newsdealer and stationer, has removed from his old place of business, 322 Olive Street, to the more commodious and more central location at the southeast corner of Fourth and Olive Streets.

SIoux CITY, IA.—Webster & Welch, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

STEVENS POINT, WIS.—H. D. McCulloch, bookseller, has been succeeded by H. D. McCulloch & Co.

HE PREFERRED THE BEST.

Stationer.—Yes, sir; we have every kind of pen. What kind will you take?

Chicago Littérateur.—You may give me a box of facile pens. I understand the best writers use that variety.—Puck.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

WILLIAM EVARTS BENJAMIN, 6 Astor Place, N. Y., who has already issued a number of valuable catalogues of autographs, has just issued one which surpasses all the previous ones in point of literary interest, and which contains, as he claims, the "finest list of the kind ever offered in this country." The typographical appearance of the publication seems to sustain the claim, for it is well printed on fine paper in quarto form, broad margins, and is illustrated with seven fac-similes of the rare specimens offered for sale. The catalogue is full of biographical data and quotations, which will make it useful as a work of reference. (62 p. Q. pap., 25 c.)

Catalogues of Second-hand Books.—John Anderson, Jr., 99 Nassau St., N. Y., Catalogue No. 2 of Standard and Curious Books. (12 p., 12°.) E. Dufossé, 27 Rue Guénégaud, Paris, Catalogue Nos. 6-9, 5th series, de Livres relatifs à l'Amérique, Europe, Asie, Afrique, et Océanie. (80 p., 12°.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GINN & Co. will issue at once "Thanatopsis" and other favorite poems of Bryant prepared to accompany Lockwood's "Lessons in English."

ALMY BIGELOW & WASHBURN, Salem, Mass., dry-goods dealers, have been awarded the contract to furnish the Salem Public Library with six thousand volumes.—Boston Transcript.

LAUGHTON, MACDONALD & Co. have just ready "Incidents in the History of the Honorable Artillery Company of London, and a Record of the Ancient and Honorable Company of Massachusetts," by Captain Woolmer-Williams, with maps and illustrations.

THOMAS KELLY calls our attention to the fact that the prices of W. A. Campbell's "Reading Spellers" are given incorrectly in our Educational Catalogue. The correct prices are 18 cents for the First Book, and 25 cents for the Second Book. The trade will please make note of these corrections.

LESLIE C. MORRIS, a book agent, of No. 16 Clinton Place, was arrested on the 19th inst. upon a warrant by Detective John Farrell, for swindling the firm of M. W. Hazen & Co., publishers, 54 West Twenty-third St., N. Y. City, by furnishing them with bogus orders and collecting the commissions upon them. He was held in $300 bail by Justice Gorman.

J. A. & R. A. REID, Providence, R. I., are about sending out a "Life of Sheridan," by Colonel Frank A. Burr and Colonel Richard J. Hinton. The publishers state that they have never authorized any statement, either about the Memoirs or their own publication, which would tend to lessen the full benefit which Mrs. Sheridan might reap from the sale of the Memoirs, but that having projected this "Life" before their knowledge of the intended publication of the Memoirs, they have done what lay in their power to honor Sheridan, while carrying out a legitimate business venture.

A NOTABLE publication bearing the stamp of the Society of American Etchers is that of a plate by Thomas Moran, after his original painting of the Mountain of the Holy Cross, Colorado. In a criticism of this plate Mrs. Runtz-Rees says: "The emphasis of this etching is remarkable, bringing out as it does the grandeur of the rugged scenery, while at the same time it throws into exquisite relief the delicate spray of the cataract hurrying through the mountain gorge. Far above, brooding as it were in holy calm, is the cross itself, formed by snows lying in the fissures of the rugged surface, a most curious natural formation which provides an admirable motif for the picture."

THE Philadelphia Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States will publish a "Memorial Volume to General Sheridan," embracing the memorial resolutions of the Commanderies of the Order, prefaced by a portrait made expressly for the book. An effort will be made to make it worthy of the deceased Commander-in-Chief. The "Register of the Commandery of the State of Pennsylvania" is ready for distribution. It contains the entire membership elected, transferred, or died from April 15, 1865, to date, and the records of 1300 officers who participated in the late war.

CRANSTON & STOWE, Cincinnati, have just issued a C. L. S. C. Calendar for 1888-89, arranged by J. L. Shearer. The back is printed upon card board, containing in the centre the Hall of Philosophy, surrounded by the inscription: "The World is Our Field." To the right and left of this are the portraits of Hon. Lewis Miller and Bishop J. H. Vincent. Beneath the circle are the names of Dr. Hurlbut and the Counsellors of the C. L. S. C. At the upper margin are the mottoes of the C. L. S. C. In the lower right-hand corner are the names of the Secretaries in the different parts of the world. A scene on Lake Chautauqua appears in the lower left-hand corner. The peculiar feature of this calendar is, that it begins with October of the present year, and each monthly tablet contains the Required Readings for the month, with various helpful suggestions to the student. It indicates also the Memorial-days. The entire calendar for 1889 is found under the twelve tablets. On the back of the large card will be found the entire course of study for the year, and a full list of all the Assemblies, with their location.

SWAN SONNENSCHN & Co. have in preparation a new novel by F. C. Philips entitled "Little Mrs. Murray." The portrait of the heroine forms, it is said, in some degree a companion picture to the Mrs. Despard in "As in a Looking-Glass."

THE valuable Halkett-Laing dictionary of the anonymous and pseudonymous literature of Great Britain has been completed by Miss Catherine Laing, who took upon her shoulders the burden of the work on the death of her father in 1880. The fourth and concluding volume will soon be brought out.

The New York Jobbing House.

IN removing from the old stand, 678 Broadway, occupied for so many years as the great central distributing house of the United States for the book-trade, to the more commodious quarters,

718 AND 720 BROADWAY,

we desire to call the attention of our customers and the trade generally, not only to the better warehouse room we possess for the display of the most extensive stock of books in every department of literature to be found in the country, but also to the great facilities for the prompt despatch of all business intrusted to us, from a single "pick-up" to that of one hundred cases, or from one volume to the thousand, offering, as we do, greater advantages to the trade as a jobber than can be found anywhere else, and always carrying a full stock in all descriptions of books. It is unnecessary to assure booksellers that we sell at the lowest prices possible; oftentimes lower than the publishers will.

THE REMOVAL HAS UNEARTHED An Overstock of Many Books

accumulated by large purchases which our limited quarters heretofore have prevented our properly presenting. These we are offering at especially low prices. The stock embraces Standard Library Books as well as General Literature, Text-Books, Juveniles, etc., etc.

A Bargain List will soon be issued and will be sent to any dealer in books on application.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Having made arrangements with Messrs. BELFORD, CLARKE & CO. to act as their Exclusive Agent in New York, and to carry in stock a large and complete line of all their publications, I desire to call the attention of my customers and the trade generally to this very valuable and important list of the best editions of standard books in sets, manufactured in the very best manner, from the newest and LARGEST TYPE plates, comprising

DICKENS, THACKERAY, ELIOT,

SCOTT, BULWER, COOPER,

IRVING, SIMMS, RUSKIN,

CARLYLE, BLACK, KNIGHT,

MACAULAY, ROLLIN.

Special attention is called to the Red Line editions of the Poets and Padded Poets, and the CAXTON editions of POPULAR TWELVEMOS. The Caxton line alone comprises 200 volumes, every book being of unquestioned merit. Note the new books in this year's Caxton line.

In making your purchases of STANDARD BOOK STOCK it will be greatly to your advantage to call and examine my stock, or send me an order for a line of sample books.

SEND FOR A COMPLETE DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

SPECIAL DISCOUNT ON LARGE QUANTITIES.

Prompt Attention Given to the Execution of Miscellaneous Orders, on Terms as Favorable as any House in the Country. Catalogues, Quotations, and Bargain Lists furnished to the Trade on Application. Trial Orders Solicited.

IMPORTANT NEW BOOKS

PUBLISHED BY

T. Y. CROWELL & CO.,

No. 13 ASTOR PLACE, NEW YORK.

Golden Words for Daily Counsel. Selected and arranged by ANNA H. SMITH, with Introduction by HUNTINGTON SMITH. 16mo, cloth, $1.00; gilt edge, $1.25.

The hope of both compiler and editor is that it may serve in some manner to enlarge the idea of personal duty, to lessen the little offences that are so apt to make the life in common unbearable, to incite to words and deeds of mutual kindness, to broaden and deepen the sense of charity, which is the sense of love.

The Cossacks: A Tale of the Caucasus. By LYOF N. TOLSTOI. Authorized translation from the Russian by NATHAN HASKELL DOLE. 12mo, $1.00.

This, "the most perfect work of Russian fiction," as Turgenev said, gives interesting glimpses of life in an unknown land and also illustrates the dawn of Count Tolstoi's altruistic tendencies.

Sevastopol. By Count LYOF N. TOLSTOI. Authorized translation from the Russian by Miss ISABEL F. HAPGOOD. 12mo, $1.00.

These marvellously vivid sketches of the Crimean War, in which Count Tolstoi took an important part, show the real aspect of military glory. They are photographic and brilliant; rich in detail, and yet stern in their simplicity.

Family Happiness. By Count LYOF N. TOLSTOI. Authorized translation from the Russian by NATHAN HASKELL DOLE. 12mo, 75 cents.

"Family Happiness" is like a finished study for Anna Karénina. In view of the current discussion of the question whether "marriage is a success," this book is an answer and a warning.

The Search for the Star. A Tale of Life in the Wild Woods. By EDWARD WILLITT. 12mo, illustrated, $1.25.

Just the book for live, wide-awake boys.

The Captain's Dog. By LOUIS ENAULT. Translated from the French by HUNTINGTON SMITH. 18 illustrations, 12mo, $1.00.

Nothing in the way of canine literature since "Rab and His Friends" has been published, to compare with this exquisite tale.

Wrecked on Labrador. A Story of Shipwreck and Adventure for Boys. By W. A. STEARNS. 12mo, $1.50.

Labrador is generally regarded as a desert coast. This book pictures it under entirely different conditions, and the story is healthily ballasted with accurate information which will be appreciated by every boy who loves to hunt and fish and collect "specimens."

To the Trade.

Messrs. ROBERTS BROTHERS announce for publication, October 1, 1888, the following:

FRANKLIN IN FRANCE.

Second Period. From the surrender at Yorktown until his return to America. From original documents. By EDWARD EVERETT HALE and EDWARD E. HALE, Jr. With a fine portrait of Franklin in his old age, by Duplessis, never before engraved, and numerous illustrations. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, gilt top, uniform with the first volume, $3.00. This volume completes the work. Also just ready, a second edition of

FRANKLIN IN FRANCE. First Period.

The Cambridge Tribune calls this "a valuable and noteworthy addition to the literature of history."

PRINCE VANCE.

The Story of a Prince, with a Court in his Box. By ELEANOR PUTNAM and ARLO BATES. With numerous illustrations by Frank Myrick. Small 4to, cloth, $1.50.

One of the most charming stories of the season for the young folks.

THE BOOK OF CHRISTMAS.

Descriptive of the Customs, Ceremonies, Traditions, Superstitions, Fun, Feeling, and Festivities of the Christmas Season. By THOMAS K. HERVEY. With all the original illustrations by R. Seymour. 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

This is a new edition of a clever book by the poet Hervey long out of print, probably the best account ever written of the now universally celebrated Christmas Season.

SPARROW, THE TRAMP.

A Fable for Children. By LILY F. WESSELHOFF. With illustrations by Jessie McDermott. Square 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

"One of the most thoroughly delightful child stories we have had for many a day is 'Sparrow, the Tramp,' by Lily F. Wesselhoff. It is one of those charming books in which animals talk, and it adds the novel scheme of having them influence the affairs of their human neighbors in a way which will delight the little folk. It is refreshing to find a child's book which is at once so novel and so beautiful as is 'Sparrow, the Tramp,' says the Boston Courier.

The lamented author of "Little Women" read the manuscript of this little story with great delight.

The attention of the Trade is respectfully called to the following books:

THE ORIGINAL MR. JACOBS.

Paper, 50 cents. 25th edition. It is one of the best selling books in the market to-day.

THE AMERICAN JEW.

Paper, 50 cents. 30,000 copies sold in advance of publication.

"The writing is bitter, unsparing, and extremely clever."

A MODERN DON JUAN.

Paper, 50 cents. "A Powerful, Realistic Novel."

"The interest of the book is not concentrated in a hero and a heroine. The other personages are studied with equal minute elaboration . . . and pass before us in scenes upon which the author has lavished pains and knowledge. He describes society as it appears to a calm, severe critic. He understands and respects goodness, and sets before us all that is lovable in domestic life."

A PEEP AT OUR COUSINS.

By A MAID OF HONOR. First edition, 100,000 copies. Paper, 25 cents.

. . . The personages of the story are among your acquaintances, you have assisted at their proceedings twenty times over, you are in your own sphere in this work, and all that transpires is ever dependent upon your surroundings. It is this which causes such profound emotion.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS have just published in their twenty-five cent edition of Zola's novels "The Girl in Scarlet."

W. S. GOTTSBERGER will publish on the 10th inst., "The Court of Charles IV.," a romance of the Escorial, by B. Perez Galdos, translated from the Spanish by Clara Bell.

BRENTANO's will publish immediately Sir Morrell Mackenzie's work in relation to the case of the late Emperor Frederick, embodying his reply to the German physicians. The book will have not only value to the medical profession, but great interest to the general public. A facsimile letter of the dying Emperor Frederick and other illustrations will be given in the volume.

TICKNOR & Co. will publish on the 10th, "Marching through Georgia," "Nelly Was a Lady," "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," three volumes illustrated with a number of fine characteristic drawings; "The Letters of Felix Mendelssohn to Ignaz and Charlotte Moscheles," translated and edited by Felix Moscheles, illustrated, and uniform with the "Longfellow Correspondence;" "A Man Story," by E. W. Howe, which is a more elaborate production than the author's preceding works, "The Story of a Country town," etc.; and "Doctor Ben," by Orlando Witherspoon, in paper covers in their paper series of original copyright novels.

PÂQUET & Co., 4 W. 4th St., N. Y., have just issued two amusing brochures which, though they may not be campaign literature, properly speaking, will be found good-natured reading at this season of political agitation. The one of these is entitled "The Evolution of a Democrat," by Henry Liddell, giving an account of "the rise of McGuffin in the Democratic world," "his fishing 'exertion' with Cleveland," etc. The other is entitled "Blaine Language from Truthful James, together with some account of Jim's Great Ten-Cent Republican Variety Show and Strictly Moral One-horse Circus," also by Henry Liddell. Both books contain illustrations by G. Roberty.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MICHAEL DAVITT will occupy himself during the winter in completing his "History of the Land League in Ireland and America."

THE book which Mrs. Molesworth has written, and which Mr. Walter Crane has illustrated, for this holiday season, is entitled "A Christmas Posy."

FOR the benefit of a number of journals who are in the habit of referring to Zenaide A. Ragozin, the author of the "Story of Media," etc., as belonging to the masculine gender, we mention that it is Madam Zenaide A. Ragozin.

MR. AUGUSTINE BIRRELL is about to follow Canon Ainger's unrivalled edition of Lamb's "Essays of Elia" with an edition prepared by himself and to be illustrated with six etchings by Herbert Railton. J. M. Dent & Co., of London, will publish it in two small volumes, printed at the Chiswick Press on hand-made paper and limited to 750 copies. There will also be a large-paper edition of 100 copies with the etchings on India paper.

MR. ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON has at last been heard from, a letter dated July 28, at Nuka-Hiva, stating that the yacht Casco, about five weeks out from San Francisco, had just arrived there, and that all on board were fairly well, and that the yacht was anchored in a beautiful bay; that Mr. Stevenson often goes ashore, walks, talks to the natives, whom he finds courteous and good-hearted and splendid-looking fellows. He writes every day and is in much better health than when he was in the Adirondacks.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. - Annie Laurie; il. by Genevieve Hall. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. ed. no paging, sq. O. (The ballad ser.) pap., ribbon-tied, 75 c.
"The ballad series" comprises not only "Annie Laurie" but "Kathleen Mavourneen," "The old folks at home," and "When the swallows homeward fly," entered elsewhere. These four gift-books are illustrated in monotypes with characteristic designs, three of the books embracing also the music of the familiar songs.
- Aristocracy: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. c. 257 p. D. (Town and country lib.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
Offered as a contrast to the many pictures of democracy with which recent English and American fiction have abounded. The scene is laid in England, the characters being all titled people, with the exception of one young man, an American from San Francisco, the only son of a millionaire, who comes to pay a visit to the country-seat of the Marquis of Oaktorrington. He serves as the mouthpiece for all the American sentiment and criticism, and as the object of the insults of the "aristocracy," while they are in doubt as to the extent of his wealth. The people introduced are in many cases easily recognized, under a thin disguise of fictitious names. There is not a redeemable character among them, all being hopelessly wicked or stupid, or brutal, or all three together.
- Ascham, Roger. The schoolmaster. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] 3-192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 3, no. 139.) pap., 10 c.
- Atkinson, Philip. The elements of electric lighting; including electric generation, measurement, storage, and distribution. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand, 1888. c. 6+260 p. il D. cl., $1.50.
"The object of this volume is to meet the demand for a complete, comprehensive treatise, setting forth the various facts pertaining to electric lighting in plain language, devoid of technicality and perplexing mathematical formulas, from which business men, mechanics, and those who have the care and management of dynamos and lamps, as well as general readers, may gain a knowledge of the principles and construction of the apparatus by which this light is produced, and of the nature of that invisible, intangible agency which is its prime cause."—Introduction.
- Barnum, P. T., and Burke, Sarah J. P. T. Barnum's circus; text and il. arranged for little people by P. T. Barnum and S. J. Burke. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. no paging, il. F. bds., 75 c. Same in French or German, ca., 75 c.
Scenes from a circus, with amusing text in 8 full-page colored pictures, and 12 pages in monotype.
- Barnum, P. T., and Burke, Sarah J. P. T. Barnum's menagerie; text and il. arranged for little people by P. T. Barnum and S. J. Burke. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. No paging, il. F. bds., 75 c. Same in French or German, ca., 75 c.
Eight full-page colored pictures and 12 pages in monotype of pictures and text combined; the designs are all of animals.
- Barnum, P. T., and Burke, Sarah J. P. T. Barnum's museum; text and il. arranged for little people by P. T. Barnum and S. J. Burke. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. no paging, il. F. bds., 75 c. Same in French or German, ca., 75 c.
Eight full-page colored pictures of living curiosities, with an amusing text and 12 other pictures combined in monotype.
- Barnum, P. T., and Burke, Sarah J. P. T. Barnum's circus, museum and menagerie; text und il. eingerichtet für kleine leute von P. T. Barnum und S. J. Burke. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. no paging, F. bds., $2; same, French, $2; same, English, $2.
Sixty-three pages in bright colors and monotype; the same as published in separate parts as "circus," "museum," and "menagerie." This text is in German. Can be had separately or the three parts in one as here, either in German, French, or English.
- Barr, Amelia E. Remember the Alamo. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1888.] c. 3+431 p. S. cl., $1.
The revolution which resulted in the independence of Texas, fifty years ago, is described with a marvellous fidelity and fire. The reader's sympathies are all aroused for the actors in the exciting drama. The taking of the Alamo by Santa Anna, and the massacre of the brave band of Americans who strove to hold it against strong odds, was the origin of the war-cry which resulted in Texan independence and which gives the name to the book. The characters are an American doctor, who has lived for many years in San Antonio, his wife and family, Gen. Sam. Houston, and other American and Spanish patriots.
- Beauty and the beast; il. [in color] by Constance Haslewood. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 19 p. T. pap., 25 c.

stantly in mind the chemical necessities of the average medical student. The book, partly in manuscript form, has been the laboratory text-book at the Medical College of Ohio for the past three years, and its use there has proven satisfactory. It has also been adopted for laboratory use at the Miami Medical College, and the Ohio College of Dental Surgery. Extra blank leaves are inserted at the end for students' notes.

Cinderella and the little glass slipper; il. [in color] by Constance Haslewood. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 19 p. T. pap., 25 c.

Clark, Mrs. D. O. Slaying the dragon: a story of Cape Ann life. N. Y., National Temp. Soc. and Pub. House, 1888. c. 267 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.

The "dragon" of drink is finally slain after it has almost devoured many of the characters introduced. A story full of the well-known details of temperance literature.

Cobbe, Frances Power. Religious duty. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1888. c. 64 6+326 p. S. (Good company ser., no. 7.) cl., 50 c.

Collins, Wilkie. No name: a novel. In 2 pts. Pt. 1. N. Y., G. Munro, [1888.] 314 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1119.) pap., 20 c.

*Colorado. Supreme court. Reports of cases. April term-Dec. term, 1887. V. 10. L. B. France, rep. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1888. c. 13+661 p. O. shp., $5.

*Connecticut. Supreme court, reports, v. 55, [1887-88:] by J. Hooker, rep. N. Y., Banks & Bros., 1888. c. 8+645 p. O. shp., $3.75.

Cooke, R. J., D.D. Reasons for church creed: a contribution to present day controversies. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. 92 p. D. cl., 60 c.

The author divides his arguments into two sections. First, he gives the objections to a formulated creed offered by agnostics, deists, semi-Christian thinkers, and others; secondly, the reasons for a creed entertained by several authorities and by himself. He believes evangelical Christianity is hastening back to the Apostles' Creed of the Catholic church, and that "the day is coming when it will be the only creed of a united Christendom."

Crawford, Mrs. Kathleen Mavourneen; il. by C. X. Harris. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. ed. no paging, sq. O. (The ballad ser.) pap., ribbon-tied, 75 c.

De Bobian, Denis. Handbooks of popular games of cards, 3 v., Draw poker; American whist; The game of euchre. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] c. '87. Fe. pap., ca., 25 c.

Three thin miniature volumes for the vest-pocket, containing the rules for the games mentioned in the title; gotten up in red and black ink and il. with miniature cards.

Douglas, Amanda M. A modern Adam and Eve in a garden. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888] c. 3-411 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Adam and Eve are brother and sister. He is in charge of a railroad station and telegraph office in a New Jersey village which is called Athens in the narrative. He earns $45 a month and Eve keeps house for him over the station. Eve is ambitious. She watches her chances, gets a large deserted house and garden, raises chickens and vegetables, and makes a home in which several wanderers find a resting place. Boarders are soon taken, then a hotel is opened, and after a time Adam and his brother-in-law become florists and make a success. The story is told by Adam.

Ebers, G. Only a word; from the German by Clara Bell. N. Y., G. Munro, [1888.] c. tr. '83, '88. 238 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1112.) pap., 20 c.

Enault, L. The captain's dog: a story for young and old; written in French by L. Enault; done into English by Huntington Smith. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. tr. 5-162 p. il. O. cl., $1.

The translator has not stuck slavishly to Enault's delightful text, but has worked over this naive little story into a good English rendering. The pictures are very good, and almost tell the history of the good-natured captain, whose heart is divided between his wife and his dog, both of which idols control him most uncomfortably. The wife finally gets rid of Zero, but soon after meets with a change of heart and allows Zero to return to see the captain's baby boy.

Ewing, Mrs. Juliana H. The blue-bells on the sea, and ten other tales in verse; written by J. H. Ewing; depicted by R. André. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., [1888.] 172 p. il. obl. S. bds., $1.50.

Ewing, Juliana H. A soldier's children and five other tales in verse; written by J. H. Ewing; depicted by R. André. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., [1888.] c. 172 p. il. obl. S. bds., $1.50.

Contents: A soldier's children; The doll's wash; A sweet little dear; Our garden; Master Fritz; Three little nest birds.

Farrar, C. A. J. Up the North Branch; or, a summer's outing. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 3-332 p. il. S. (Lake and forest ser., no. 4.) cl., $1.25.

The record of a camping-out trip up the north branch of the Penobscot and down the St. John river, through the wilds of Maine and New Brunswick, by members of the "Lake and forest club."

Favorite folk-ballads; il. by G. W. Brenneman, Jos. Lauber, C. X. Harris, Genevieve Hall, Rob. Koehler, and others. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889 [1888.] c. no paging, F. cl., $3.50.

On thicker and larger paper, and printed in richer tints, are embraced in this volume the designs and text published separately as "Annie Laurie," "Kathleen Mavourneen," "The old folks at home," and "When the swallows homeward fly," in "The ballad series." The designs have an emblematical border added to them, which increases their size and fills up the larger page of this volume.

Five talents (The) of women: a book for girls and women; by the author of "How to be happy though married." N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1888. 3-301 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"The five talents of women" are those which enable them, 1. To please people, 2. To feed them in dainty ways; 3. To clothe them, 4. To keep them orderly; 5. To teach them. The author dedicates his book to John Ruskin and his own wife. His noble thoughts upon the true mission of woman, married or single, are supported by a wealth of carefully chosen quotations, arranged in the manner of the author's former volumes.

Foster, S. C. The old folks at home; il. by G. W. Brenneman. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. ed. no paging, sq. O. (The ballad ser.) pap., ribbon-tied, 75 c.

See notice under "Annie Laurie."

Goode, G. W. The post-office detective; or, a mystery of the mail. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1888.] c. 237 p. 1 il. D. (The secret service ser., no. 10.) pap., 25 c.

Hale, E. E. My friend the boss; a story of 10-day. Bost., J. Stilman Smith & Co., 1888. c. 5+191 p. D. cl., $1.

John Fisher, the boss, is a rich man whose hobby is to improve the town in which he lives and to help the people about him, from the richest to the poorest, with sympathy, counsel, money, example, and appreciation. He has great musical talent, opens an academy of music, an academy of fine arts, a library, a hospital, etc., and makes the college town in which he lives wiser and better by his unselfish life. A thread of romance connects the thoughts on the duties and privileges of rich men.

Hale, E. E. Tom Torrey's tariff talks. Bost., J. Stilman Smith & Co., 1888. c. 58 p. D. pap., 20 c.

Eight talks on the advantages of protection.

Hazard, M. C., and Tufts, J. W. Harvest sheaves: a harvest carol service. Bost., Congregational S. S. & Pub. Soc., 1888. c. 15 p. O. pap., 5 c.

Hewes, Fletcher W. Citizen's atlas of American politics, 1789-1888: a series of colored maps and charts. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. '83, '88. 56 p. F. pap., $2.

The comparison-charts relate to political parties, showing the origin and supremacy of parties 1776-1888, analysis of state vote, 1824-1888, winning vote of states, 1824-1884; the tariff rate, compared with tariff revenue and import, 1790-1887, with export and balance of trade, 1789-1887, American and foreign shipping, 1821-1887, and wages of unskilled labor, 1850-1887; duty, revenue, and importation, iron, steel, sugar, woollen, silk, and cotton goods, 1850-1887; wages and tariff compared, and wages and cost of living compared, 1850-1887. The maps illustrate the Presidential elections, foreign population, distribution of manufactures and distribution of wool product.

Hodgetts, J. F. Edwin the boy outlaw; or, the dawn of freedom in England. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1888.] 3-391 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The date is the end of the 12th and beginning of the 13th century. The hero is Edwin Brand, and the story tells how he became an outlaw; of the daring deeds which made him an associate of the far-famed Robin Hood; how he was knighted; and, finally, how he gained his bride. The author claims in the preface that he has attempted to give a correct picture of a certain time in English history, and to represent Robin Hood "in his true light."

Holtt, Julia B. Excellent quotations for home and school; selected for the use of teachers and pupils. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 10+329 p. D. cl., net, 75 c.

The selections brought together here have a special purpose—"to inculcate moral training and noble aims." The design is to have the pupil memorize them and repeat them as a school exercise. They are grouped under "Guides to conduct," "Glimpses of nature," "Patriotic selections," "Biographical eulogies," "Recitations for younger pupils," "Proverbs."

Hook, Stella Louise. Little people and their homes in meadows, woods, and waters; il. by Dan Beard and Harry Beard. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 8+288 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

"Little people" is the name under which the fairies are known to the Indians. The fairies treated of in this story are butterflies, crickets, grasshoppers, beetles, fireflies, ants, flies, bees, spiders, and all the inhabitants of the air which do such marvellous things. The pictures make many facts clear to the young people, for whom this department of natural history is treated in a poetical and artistic manner.

Hopkins, Miss I. T. Judge Havisham's will. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] c. 311 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.25.

The will found upon the death of Judge Havisham was dated some years before his death. By it he made two young nephews equal heirs with his only daughter. The daughter knows her father had made some additions to the will and insinuates to the boys that his plans for them had changed. Wynt and Cyp immediately leave the house and go to work. After the usual trials of business life Wynt stands high with his employers. By accident the missing codicil is found, which in no way changes the old will.

Hugo, Victor. History of a crime (disposition of a witness); from the French by Huntington Smith. [Illustrated ed.] N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. tr. 2 v., 245; 238 p. il. D. cl., $3.

Hugo, Victor. The man who laughs (L'homme qui rit); By order of the king; from the French by Isabel F. Hapgood. [Illustrated ed.] N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. tr. 2 v., 346; 344 p. il. O. cl., $3.

Humorous tit-bits from various sources. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 4 v., ea., 252 p. T. im. cl. per set. $2; hf. cl., $6.

American, Irish, English, and Scotch anecdotes, all of a humorous tendency, collected from current periodicals, and other sources. The four little volumes are in a box.

Hunt, Leigh. The wishing-cap papers. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1888. c. '72. 455 p. S. (Good company ser., no. 2.) cl., 50 c.

Ibsen, Henrik. The pillars of society, and other plays; ed. with an introduction, by Havelock Ellis. N. Y., T: Whittaker, 1888. 28+315 p. S. (Camelot ser.) cl., 40 c.

Ibsen is a Norwegian poet and dramatist, born in 1828. Of the three dramas presented in this volume, viz., "The pillars of society," "Ghosts," and "An enemy of society," only the last had been previously translated into English. The author is noted for his satire and liberal opinions, which he incorporates in his works. In the first drama his editor tells us he "pours delicious irony on those conventional lies which are regarded as the foundations of social and domestic life." "Ghosts," said to be the greatest of all Ibsen's plays, "is the tragedy of heredity." The last is a social drama.

*Illinois. Appellate courts. Reports of cases. V. 24, Aug., 1886-Dec., 1887; rep. by Edwin Burritt Smith. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1888. c. 698 p. O. shp., $3.50.

*Iowa. Supreme court. Reports of cases; E. C. Ebersole, rep. V. 15, being v. 73 of the series, [1887.] N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1888. c. 855 p. O. shp., $2.50.

Jerrold, Douglas. Fireside saints: Mr. Caudle's breakfast talk and other papers. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. '73. 357 p. S. (Good company ser., no. 3.) cl., 50 c.

John, Eugenia, ["E. Marlitt," pseud.] The bailiff's maid. N. Y., G: Munro, [1888.] c. tr., '81, '88. 204 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1113.) pap., 20 c.

John, Eugenia, ["E. Marlitt," pseud.] The Countess Gisela. N. Y., G: Munro, 1888. c. tr. '79, '88. 317 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1115.) pap., 20 c.

John, Eugenia, ["E. Marlitt," pseud.] The Owl's Nest: a romance; from the German by Mrs. A. L. Wister. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. tr. 3-362 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The last descendant of the ancient family of Gerolds has had ruin overtake him in the opening chapter, and is turning his back forever, with his little girl, upon Geroldscourt, which is in the auctioneer's hands. The only refuge left him is the Owl's Nest, a small picturesque property belonging to his beautiful sister, Claudine, who has resigned her position as maid-of-honor at the ducal court to preside over their humble home. Claudine's story takes up the larger portion of the book. The Duke has conceived a passion for her which annoys and distresses her deeply. She is the Duchess' closest friend, besides loving another, who does not always trust her as thoroughly as she deserves. There is an intense strain of passion all through the book, alternating with charming scenes of German home-life and well-delineated pictures of courts and court intrigue.

Kebbel, T. E. Life of Lord Beaconsfield. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 13+220 p. D. (International statesmen ser., ed. by Lloyd C. Sanders.) cl., 75 c.

The "Statesmen series," of which this is the first volume, will not comprise any American statesmen. It claims, however, to be extremely catholic in its scope, embracing biographical studies of the great men who have influenced the political history of the world, both among the ancients and moderns and on the continent, as well as in Great Britain and her dependencies. The studies are brief and meant for rapid reading. In the preparation of this sketch of Beaconsfield much new material was gathered together relative both to his public and private life. Volumes are being prepared on "The Prince Consort," "O'Connell," "Prince Gortschakoff," "Gambetta," and others equally famous.

Leslie, Emma. The gypsy queen. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 3-208 p. 1 il. D. (Eaglehurst ser. for girls.) cl., 75 c.

Little Snow is picked up by Lovell, a rough gypsy leader, who through her influence becomes gentle and honest. After awhile her parents are discovered, but Snow continues with her darling Lovell, and together they do a great deal for the people, who call Snow their gypsy queen.

*Lewin, T. A practical treatise on the law of trusts; 1st Amer. from the 8th Eng. ed. by Ja. H. Flint. V. 1. Bost., C: H. Edson & Co., 1888. c. 15+845 p. O. (Amer. law series, v. 1, no. 4.) pap., subs., $1.25.

Little, Elizabeth N. Log-book notes through life. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. no paging, il. obl. D. bds., $2.50.

Verses from well-known poets, woven in with nautical designs; the volume outside and inside is printed in blue and gray.

Little Bo-Peep; il. [in color] by Constance Haslewood. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 19 p. T. pap., 25 c.

Little lightning, the shadow detective; or, the Twenty-third street mystery, by Police Captain James. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1888.] c. 239 p. il. D. (Secret service ser., no. 8.) pap., 25 c.

Lorenz, Rev. E. S. Getting ready for a revival. Dayton, O., United Brethren Pub. House, 1888. 3-164 p. D. cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

Sets forth that revivals would have more lasting results if there were suitable preparation of the preacher, the church, and the members. The pages take it for granted that the pastor in charge is a hard worker.

McPherson, E. A handbook of politics for 1888; being a record of important political action, executive and legislative, national and state, from July 31, '86, to Aug. 31, '88. Wash. D. C., Ja. J. Chapman, 1888. c. 4+213 p. O. cl., $2.

During the last two years, an unusually large number of important questions have been settled. Among them are the Electoral Count act which was pending since 1872, the Inter-state Commerce act, which was pending since 1884, the Mexican War Pension act, and the Supplementary Anti-Mormon act. . . . The Common School bill, the South Dakota Admission bill, the War of the Rebellion Dependent Parents' and Soldiers' Pension bill, having passed the Senate, are pending in the House. "Land grant," forfeiture, preëemption, timber-culture and desert acts repeal, Pacific Railroad indebtedness, tariff and fisheries, all figure more or less prominently, but neither has yet reached solution. The precise attitude of each is recorded within.—Preface.

Manton, W. P., M.D. Primary methods in zoölogy teaching for teachers in common schools. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1888. c. 61 p. il. T. cl., 50 c.

Offers a few practical points and methods which have been of service to the author, together with an outline showing how these methods may be utilized in instructing even the youngest pupil.

Manuel, Prince Don Juan. Count Lucanor; or, the fifty pleasant stories of Patronio; done into English by Ja. York, M.D., 1868; il. by S. L. Wood. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889 [1888.] 15+246 p. il. D. cl., $2; hf. levant mor. or hf. polished cf., $4.

First published in English by the Pickeringes. The book was written in Spanish a century before the invention of printing, the author dying in 1347. It was first printed at Seville in 1575 and again at Madrid in 1642, and these editions rank among the rarest books in the world. Every tale illustrates some wise moral and closes with some pithy maxim. There is no trace of the licentiousness of his contemporary, Boccaccio. Eichendorff has made a German translation, but the book has thus far not appeared in other languages.

Marshall, Emma. Eaglehurst Towers. N. Y., White & Allen [1888.] 224 p. 1 il. D. (Eaglehurst ser. for girls.) cl., $1.

The master of Eaglehurst Towers rescues Angelica Dorian from the waves during a fierce storm. She stays for some time at the Castle, then leaves to learn painting. After some time the master loses his only son, and Angelica comforts him. A young canon plays an important part in changing the rich man's life.

May, Walter W. Marine painting; with 16 col. pl. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] no paging, obl. D. cl., $2.50.

This volume embraces, besides a general introduction to modern church history, the productive period of the German Reformation, from its beginning to the Diet of Augsburg (1530), and the death of Luther (1546), with a concluding estimate of the character and services of Luther. Of Protestant historians, Ranke has chiefly been consulted, and Döllinger and Jansen have been searched for the Roman Catholic views of the subject. Classified lists of sources and literature are given in all leading sections. Alphabetical index.

Seyppel, C. M. Smith and Schmidt in Africa; Hottentot blue-book; il. by C. M. Seyppel; English words by E. H. Jones. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. 80 p. nar. O. bds., $1.

The adventures of a German and Englishman in Africa told in rhyme and grotesquely illustrated. The book is entirely in blue; the paper is a pale blue, with a deep blue border and blue edges; the il. are printed in blue ink, and the binding is a blue-tinted paper, with lettering and design in blue. By the author of "My book."

Shoemaker, C. C., comp. Holiday entertainments. New ed. enl. Phil., National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. '87. 204 p. D. bds., 50 c.; pap., 30 c.

Contains short dramas, dialogues, tableaux, stories, recitations, etc., adapted to New Year's, Christmas, Easter, Washington's birthday, Fourth of July, and other holidays.

Shoemaker, C. C., comp. Humorous dialogues and dramas. Phil., National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. 194 p. D. bds., 50 c.; pap., 30 c.

Shoemaker, Mrs. J. W., comp. Classic dialogues and dramas. Phil., National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. 143 p. D. bds., 50 c.; pap., 30 c.

Scenes from "Damon and Pythias;" speeches from Ware's "Zenobia;" selections from Tennyson, Bulwer, Shakespeare, Sheridan, Schiller, and others.

Shoemaker, Mrs. J. W., comp. The elocutionist's annual, no. 16, containing the latest and best selections for reading or recitation. Phil., National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. 202 p. D. bds., 50 c.; pap. 30 c.

Shoemaker, Mrs. J. W., comp. Little people's speaker. Phil., National School of Elocution and Oratory, [1888.] c. '86. 100 p. D. bds., 25 c.; pap., 15 c.

Designed for children ten years old and younger, and containing a wide variety of short pieces suitable for all kinds of juvenile entertainments.

Sladen, Douglas B. W., ed. A century of Australian song. Centenary ed. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 14+583 p. D. (Winsor ser.) cl., $1.25; hf. polished cf., $2.50.

A selection of poems inspired by life and scenery in Australia.

Smith, Anna Harris, comp. Golden words for daily counsel; selected and arranged by Anna Harris Smith; ed. by Huntington Smith. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. 6+372 p. T. cl., $1; $1.25.

A Bible text, a prose selection from a standard author, and a poem or hymn for each day in the year.

Smith, Mrs. Lucy T., [formerly L. T. Meade.] Daddy's boy; il. by Laura Troubridge. N. Y., White & Allen, 1889. 5+334 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Daddy dies of a gunshot wound when his boy is eight years old, a manly, enthusiastic, imaginative boy. Daddy has always had the boy with him, taught him riding, cricket, swimming, fishing, etc., and given him two maxims to guide him in life: "Never hurt a woman" and "Never lose your self-respect." Daddy's sister, a placid, every-day woman, assumes the care of Daddy's boy, and the story of the impulsive, affectionate boy's breaking-in is exquisitely told.

Southey, Rob. Selections from the poems of Robert Southey; ed. with biographical and critical introduction by Sidney R. Thompson. N. Y., T: Whittaker, 1888. 304 p. T. (The Canterbury poets.) cl., 40 c.

Southworth, Mrs. E. D. E. N. Ishmael; or, in the depths. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., 1888. c. '87. 15-718 p. por. D. cl., $1.50. First pub. in 1876.

Sparling, H. Halliday, ed. Irish minstrelsy; being a selection of Irish songs, lyrics, and ballads; ed., with notes and introduction. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 25+519 p. D. (Winsor ser.) cl., $1.25; hf. polished cf., $2.50.

Every song, ballad, or lyric in this collection is by an Irish writer, upon an Irish theme, and clearly Celtic in thought or feeling. This has been the compiler's aim, and not to present specimens of standard Irish poetry.

Stearns, Winfrid A. Wrecked on Labrador. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. 6+470 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Two excursions to Labrador are described in the story. A father and his three boys go on the first; the mother and eldest daughter join them in the second, in which their ship, The Seafoam, is wrecked. They save many things and lead a most interesting life. Much natural history of the animals of the vicinity of Labrador, especially birds and fishes, is interwoven. Some space is also given to a simple manner of stuffing birds. Founded on facts in the life of the writer.

Stockton, Frank R. Amos Kilbright, his adventures, with other stories. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 2+146 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

Amos Kilbright appeared in America in April of this year. It is a story of spiritualism. Amos Kilbright is a materialized spirit. He was summoned by his grandson at a séance, and during some confusion among the mediums he was left exposed to the materializing agencies until he became so thoroughly embodied and full of physical life that he could not resume his spirit form. Only one man in the world possesses the secret of making him a spirit, and the plot turns upon circumstances which make him promise not to use his power. The other stories are: "The reversible landscape," a description of the steam-manufacture of copies of masterpieces; "Dusky philosophy," a negro preacher's exposition; and "Plain fishing."

Stuart, Esmé. Carried off: a story of pirate times. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1888.] 8+240 p. il., D. cl., 90 c.

The opening incident gives name to the book; it tells of the capture of Harry Fenn, the son of an Essex County yeoman, by the famous buccaneer Henry Morgan. After this daring deed the pirates leave English waters and are again heard of at the West Indies, where they force Don Estavan del Campo, Governor of St. Catherine, to surrender that island. This event lends variety to the story and is the cause of some exciting scenes, in which Harry Fenn, Felipa and Carlo del Campo, Andreas, and Etta Allison figure.

Sunday-school and church entertainments; designed for anniversaries, celebrations, Christmas, New Year, Easter, and Thanksgiving occasions. Phil., National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. 184 p. D. bds., 50 c.; pap., 30 c.

All the articles are new and original, and have been specially prepared by a number of experienced writers. In some cases familiar Bible stories have been presented in dialogue form.

Supplement to Encyclopædia Britannica, (9th ed.): a dictionary of arts, sciences, and general literature, v. 1, 2, and 3. Phil. and N. Y., Hubbard Bros., [1886-1888.] c. '83 to '87. 768; 830; 824 p. il. Q. cl., subs., ea., $8; hf. rus., $10.

This important work, of which the third volume has just been issued, is designed to accompany the great encyclopædia, completing it where it appears deficient, especially in American articles, and bringing down to the latest date its statements and descriptions. In the development of this plan large space has been given to articles on American geography, natural history, scientific research, and whatever relates to the vast resources, the rapid development, and recent increase in our knowledge of the continent. Many other topics distinctively American, such as our politics and political parties, religious denominations and benevolent institutions, our public works, banks, finances, etc., receive particular attention. It meets also the demand for the latest information about peoples, countries, inventions, and discoveries. It moreover includes biographies of living men of eminence. The contributors are among the most learned men of this country. The volumes are uniform in style and appearance with the "Encyclopædia Britannica." Free trade, homœopathy, indulgences, and some other topics, are, it is claimed, treated with special fairness in the third volume just issued. The work will probably be completed in four volumes.

Swan, Annie S. The strait gate. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 6-215 p. il. D. (Eaglehurst ser. for girls.) cl., $1.

Philip Heyward is in business, his brother Jack a young physician. Philip's employer dies, and, deceived by Philip about his only surviving relatives, leaves his entire fortune to his young partner. Philip marries a good wife, and upon the death of his child confesses his deception, obtains her pardon, and together they make restitution. The young doctor takes care of his mother and makes his mark in the world.

*Texas. Supreme court. Cases argued and decided, 1887-88; rep. by Alex. W. Terrell. V. 69. Austin, Hutchings Print. Ho., 1888. c. 16+824 p. O. shp., $4.50.

Tilton, S. W., ["Uncle Willis," pseud.] ed. Mrs. Partington's Mother Goose's melodies; with a choice selection of music especially adapted to the rhymes. [New issue.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. '74. 144 p. S. pap., 30 c.; bds., 50 c.
Formerly issued by S. W. Tilton & Co., 1874.

Tilton, S. W., ["Uncle Willis," pseud.] ed. Songs for our darlings. [New issue.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. '72. 5-224 p. S. pap., 30 c.; bds., 50 c.
Originally published by J. E. Tilton & Co., 1872.

Tunison, F. E. Presto; from the singing-school to the May musical festival. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1888. c. 98 p. O. pap., $1.

Presents in narrative form the history of musical achievement in Cincinnati, from the days of the log-cabin to the present, with its May Festival Association and numerous other important musical organizations.

Valrose, Viscount, [pseud.] Hon. Uncle Sam. N. Y., J: Delay, 1888. c. 221 p. D. pap., 50 c.
Sharp, brief pen-pictures of our prominent orators, journalists, preachers, rhymesters, pamphleteers, caricaturists, poets, diplomats, financiers, wits, philosophers, and ladies. They are by no means complimentary, and profess to be the observation of a Frenchman of distinction visiting in the United States. Many amusing anecdotes are to be found enlivening the text.

Veley, Margaret. A marriage of shadows, and other poems; with biographical preface by Leslie Stephen. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889 [1888.] 23+149 p. D. cl., $1.

Miss Veley is best known to us through her novels, "For Percival," "Mrs. Austin," etc. The vein of melancholy which characterized them is also found in this little volume of poems published in England since her death. Mr. Stephen's biographical sketch is warmly appreciative of herself and her work. Regarding the poem which gives name to the volume, the London Athenæum says: "The idea of the poem, so far as it is traceable, is that the shadows of veritable men and women leave them in the dusk and dark, and, with some strange existence truer than that of their flesh and blood prototypes, go through marriage destinies which have not fallen to those phototypes, but which befall in the shadowland of the might have been. At dawn the shadows return to their owners and live with them the life that is."

Venables, Edmund. Life of John Bunyan. N. Y., T: Whittaker, 1888. 195+35 p. S. (Great writers ser.) cl., 40c.

Nothing more has been attempted in the present work than to arrange the available material in a clear and intelligible form; where it has been possible, allowing Bunyan to tell his own story in his own unapproachable English. A bibliography covering thirty-five pages, by Mr. John P. Anderson, of the British Museum, is a valuable feature of this work, as it is of the other volumes of the series.

Waddington, S., ed. Sacred song: a volume of religious verse; selected and arranged with notes by S: Waddington. N. Y., White &

Allen, [1888.] 24+344 p. D. (Winsor ser.) cl., $1.25; hf. polished cf., $2.50.

One hundred and seventy-three poems from English writers of religious poetry.

Walford, L. B. Her great idea, and other stories. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1888. 1+243 p. S. (Leisure hour ser., no. 219.) cl., $1.

Contents: Her great idea; Paul's blunders; The little tragedy in Green street; A tumbler of milk; Arabella at the sales; Lady Nelly; Lady Jane's reverie (a poem); Diplomacy among the haycocks; A Henly ghost (verses); Ada, the true story of her marriage.

Walford, L. B. A mere child. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., 1888.] 203 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1185.) pap., 20 c.

Weird tit-bits from various sources. N. Y., White & Allen, [1888.] 5 v., ea., 256 p. T. im. cf., per set., $2.50; hf. cf., $7.50.

The fiction of five countries is represented by these five pretty volumes. The volumes are devoted separately to short weird tales from the German, Irish, Scotch, English, and from American literature. In a box.

*Western reporter, v. 14: all cases determined in the courts of last resort, as follows: Mich., Ind., Ill., Mo., with notes by Robert Desty and C: A. Ray, eds. Rochester, N. Y., The Lawyers' Coop. Pub. Co., 1888. c. 26+33-997 p. O. shp., $5.

When the swallows homeward fly; il. by Jos. Lauber. N. Y., White & Allen, 1888. c. ed. no paging, sq. O. (The ballad ser.) pap., ribbon-tied, 75 c.

See notice under "Annie Laurie."

Willett, E: The search for the star: a tale of life in the wild woods. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. 234 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Ben Halstead and Harry Russell are worked up by a servant in Mr. Halstead's employ to search the woods of upper Maine and Canada for a French Canadian servant suspected of stealing "the star." This was a diamond ornament of rare beauty and value, for many years an heirloom in the Halstead family. The details of the winter in the wild woods, the fights with big game, and the meeting with Baptiste, the discharged servant, make quite exciting reading.

*Wilson, Ja. Grant, and Fiske, J: Appleton's cyclopædia of American biography. In 6 v. V. 5. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. por. and il. O. cl. subs., $5; lib. style, $6; hf. mor., $7.

Wines, F: Howard. American prisons in the tenth United States census: a paper. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 36 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 51.) pap., 25 c.

Some figures regarding the numbers in our prisons, their crimes, nationalities, etc. Read before the National Prison Association at its annual meeting in Boston, July 14, 1888; the writer is secretary of the board of state commissioners of public charities for Illinois, secretary of the national prison association, special agent of the tenth census, etc.

Worcester, Jos. E. Worcester's academic dictionary: a new etymological dictionary of the English language; prepared upon the basis of the latest edition of the unabridged dictionary of Jos. E. Worcester. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. '55, '88. 688 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

While this is a revision of Lippincott's well-known academic dictionary, so many new features have been introduced that it was found necessary to reset the type entire. It presents as a distinctive new feature the etymology of words. In this, it claims, no other work of its class approaches it in fulness and completeness. In orthography great attention has been paid to usage, analogy, and etymology in deciding all disputable points. In pronunciation the book not only gives the preference of Dr. Worcester, but exhibits, at the same time, that of all the leading lexicographers. All the more common new words have been included, and hundreds of new illustrations have been added.

Yonge, Charlotte M. Nurse's memories; il. by Fred. Marriott and Florence Maplestone. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., [1888.] 38 p. sq. O. bds., $1.50.

Zola, Emile. The dream. (Le rêve.) Authorized ed.; tr. by Mrs. Eliza E. Chase. Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1888. c. 3-263 p. D. (Illustrated ser., no. 4.) cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

A little waif picked up out of the snow during the severe winter of 1860, by a worthy couple of the little city of Beaumont, is the heroine of "The dream." First cared for as an object of charity, then loved for herself, she finally becomes the adopted daughter of the Huberts, who are childless. They are embroiderers of church vestments, as were many Huberts before them, and they teach Angelique the beautiful work, who in time far excels her teachers, becoming a rare artist and designer. Her love for one far above her is the motive of the story. Through her love her beautiful, innocent, simple nature is illustrated. As a background we get the almost mediæval life of the city and of the home and business of the Huberts.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

GINN & Co. are to be the American publishers of the Classical Review, which is published in London, and numbers among its contributors the most eminent classical scholars of Great Britain. American scholars will be associated in the editorship.

THE latest addition to the list of Volapük journals is the Van Kua Tung Hua, published in China by a Chinese. The paper prints the Chinese characters and the translation in Volapük. The object will be to teach the Chinese Volapük, and Chinese to those who understand the "universal language."

THE first number of Our Young Folks' Monthly, the organ of Our Young Folks' Reading Circle, has been issued. Mr. S. R. Winchell, of Chicago, is managing editor, and earnestly invites attention to its aims and purposes, while asking for brief reports from members and local circles as to their progress in the good work of promoting healthy, instructive reading among the young.

A CURIOUS and interesting feature of Harper's Weekly for Oct. 3 is an eight-page supplement, printed in colors, showing at a glance the votes of the doubtful States at each election since 1872. The States thus classed as doubtful are Indiana, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Michigan, California, and West Virginia. The total vote and the plurality in each county is shown. Besides the county maps of these separate States a map of the United States is given, showing at a glance the political results in all the States and Territories for the same period of sixteen years. Republican strength is indicated by sections printed in black ink and Democratic by sections printed in red.

THE October Wide Awake opens with a delightful story of some original "Shut-Ins," by Mrs. Elia Peattie, which we hope may be read by all invalids everywhere. Another sunny page from life, recording the good human beings may do to one another, is Mrs. Kate Gannett Wells' readable article about the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, entitled "Some Children of the M. S. P. C. C." This number gives the prospectus for 1889—announcing a serial by Trowbridge, "The Adventures of David Vane and David Crane," and another by Margaret Sidney, author of the famous "Five Little Peppers," entitled "The Peppers Midway." There are two other serials also, by Susan Coolidge and Charles R. Talbot.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 6, 1888.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

As the House of Representatives is manned only by a corporal's guard which "holds the fort" on the understanding that no business shall be put forward which invites any dissent, it seems practically settled that nothing can be done in the copyright matter until the second session of the 50th Congress, beginning in December next. This is unfortunate, as there had been reason to hope that after the tariff and appropriation bills had been disposed of, the House of Representatives could then attend to other important matters connected with the general interests of the country, among which the copyright bill should come easily within the first rank. As it is, however, any member has only to call for a count of the House to stop any legislation, and there is therefore no motive to proceed with the bill. As the measure has been passed by the Senate and the new House does not come in until December, 1889, the bill keeps its place before the House, so that nothing has been lost. Meanwhile, little by little, public sentiment has been growing in favor of international copyright, and special prejudices have been disappearing as those who held them have begun to look into the matter. It is to be hoped that with the very opening of the session, an endeavor will be made to bring the bill up for consideration and passage, so that it may go to the necessary Conference Committee and become a law at the opening of the new year. For this all good Americans who believe in justice ought cheerfully to coöperate.

THE official circular of the United States Commissioner General for the Paris Exposition of 1889 (Gen. W. B. Franklin, Mills Building, No. 15 Broad St., New York) has been issued, inviting intending exhibitors to make applications for space. The Exposition opens May 5, and closes October 31, of next year. Several well-known Paris commission agents have already offered to handle American book and stationery exhibits, and if we are to be at all represented, it will be well to make some joint arrangement by which these may be brought together in the space allotted to the United States. We should be very glad to hear from any of the trade who are proposing to be represented at this important exhibition, which should peculiarly command the interest of Americans.

"CHRISTMAS is coming" again and the Christmas work of the publishers is already largely behind them. The offerings this year, as our Announcement Number has suggested, will be almost perplexing in extent and variety, and there seems every reason to hope for a satisfactory Christmas trade. We are already beginning preparations for our Christmas numbers, and shall be pleased to have further word from publishers as to their plans, with specimen proofs of illustrations, as well as orders from the retail trade for the Christmas issues of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY and Literary News. The former will be issued under a new title and with a specially designed cover, in colors.

THE International Literary and Artistic Congress in session last week in Venice decided that authors' copyright should include the right of translation. The Congress expressed the wish that the United States would accept the Berne convention. We wish so too. But—one step at a time!

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE INDICES TO HALKETT AND LAING.

EDINBURGH, September 18, 1888.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

SIR: May I, as editor of Halkett and Laing's "Dictionary of the Anonymous and Pseudonymous Literature of Great Britain," ask you to give publicity to the fact that I am not the compiler of the indices which form the concluding portion of the fourth volume of that work recently issued? As I have already stated, in the London Athenaeum of August 18, the preface which bears my name, as written by me for the press, contained the following sentence: "I have to add that my labors closed in 1885 with letter Z; the indices, etc., being the work of another hand."

These words were omitted, without my knowledge or consent. As the Dictionary is, I believe, well known in America, I shall esteem it a great favor if you will allow me to disclaim all responsibility with regard to the indices.

Your obedient servant,

CATHERINE LAING.

LAIRD &amp; LEE VS. RAND, McNALLY &amp; CO.

THE following is the text of a decision rendered by Judge Barrett in the case of Laird & Lee vs. Rand, McNally & Co., to restrain the latter from publishing Zola's last book, "Le Rêve" ("The Dream"):

"Motion to continue injunction granted with $10 costs, to abide the event, upon the plaintiff giving a further undertaking (with two good sureties) in the sum of $5000, such sureties to justify in $10,000 each upon notice of two days after the filing and service of such further undertaking, to be filed and served within two days after the entry of the order hereon. If this condition is not complied with, then motion is denied and temporary injunction vacated. The injunction hereby granted is without prejudice to an application on the defendant's part to dissolve the same upon proof (by the original receipt in full referred to in Mr. Tillotson's affidavit of Sept. 25, 1888, and the correspondence which culminated in such receipt) that the right to translate into English and publish was not limited to England, but was unrestricted as to country. The order to be entered hereon may be settled upon one day's notice by the Presiding Justice (in my absence), and he will, by his fiat, direct the proper entry when settled as indicated above."

THE "ECHOES OF HELLAS."

MARCUS WARD & Co. have in store a treat for the scholar, the musician, whether professional or amateur, and the lover of fine books and exquisite specimens of the printer's art, in "Echoes of Hellas: a tale of Troy, and the story of Orestes, from Homer and Æschylus," with an introductory essay and sonnets by Prof. C. Warra, of Kings College. The work is divided into two quarto volumes (14½x11½ inches), the one containing the text, the other the piano-forte arrangement of the music.

The work is the outcome of a series of performances given under Prof. Warra's direction—the one, that of the "Tale of Troy," being given in Greek and English at Cromwell House, the residence of the late Sir Charles Fiske, in 1883, and three years after in English at the Prince's Hall, Piccadilly, and the other, the "Story of Orestes," at Prince's Hall also in 1886.

The "Tale of Troy" is composed of selections from the Iliad and Odyssey of Homer, which Professor Warra has translated as they stand, a few lines only being transposed. The first part consists mainly of the story of Hector, and presupposes the other portion of the Iliad which relates the wrath of Achilles. The latter, however, is set forth in a sonnet by the Professor entitled "Achilles." The "Story of Orestes" is an abridged version of the Oresteian trilogy of Æschylus. The portions omitted are those which least touch the essential significance of the drama, such as the narrative concerning the fortunes of the Greek army in the Agamemnon, the accessory agency of Ægisthus, the details of the plot of Orestes in the Choephori, and the special pleading at his trial. The principal motives of these are expressed in four sonnets by the Professor.

This volume of text is tastefully and most artistically illustrated by Walter Crane, who, it is not too much to say, has contributed some of his best decorative work. Every page has a decorative border enclosing the full-page illustration, or the text, which in nearly every case is interspersed with appropriate figures or designs. Several of the full-page illustrations are founded, though freely, on the scenic representations. The picture of Aphrodite's Pledge is adapted from a tableau arranged by Sir Frederick Leighton. The Parting of Calypso from Ulysses was designed by Mr. Henry Holiday, the Sacrifice of Iphigenia, by Mr. G. F. Watts, and some of the architectural backgrounds were partly suggested by the scenery designed by Mr. E. J. Poynter, who was associated with Sir Charles Newton and Prof. Warra in the first production of the tale of Troy. Mr. Crane, however, has preserved a uniform style throughout.

The choral music has been printed separately for convenience. All that belongs to the "Story of Orestes" and the selections from the Iliad is the work of Mr. Walter Parratt, organist of St. George's, Windsor. The music belonging to the second part of the "Tale of Troy" was furnished by Mr. Malcolm Lawson, except the "Song of the Shuttle," which was set by Dr. W. H. Monk. The prelude was composed by Mr. Otto Goldschmidt for Sir Frederick Leighton's tableau, "Aphrodite's Pledge." The printer's work on this volume is simply marvellous, the printed page having the appearance of copper-plate, though it is all worked from type.

The object of the introductory essay is to trace, in the light of the portions selected from the poetry of Homer and Æschylus, the growth of Greek thought in some of its phases between the Homeric and the earlier Hellenic age. The moral and religious idea unfolded in the tragedies of Æschylus are best understood by comparing them with the earlier morality and religion of the Greeks as embodied in the Homeric poems.

The binding of the volumes, as becomes such a work, is severely classic—a fine parchment, with an appropriate decorative cover design by Walter Crane, executed in a Pompeian brown and gold.

IT DOES NOT PAY.

From Books and Notions.

A NUMBER of small failures of recent date coming under our notice, we have taken considerable trouble to find out the exact source of trouble and have come to the conclusion:

1. That it does not pay to carry a stock costing $2000 on a capital of $1000.
2. That it does not pay to be afraid to ask a fair profit on your goods, even though others in your trade are cutting on certain lines.
3. That it does not pay not to keep a proper account of your purchases and sales so entered that you can tell every week what your assets, your liabilities, and your profits are.
4. That it does not pay to keep a fancy-goods store open on the most expensive street in a city merely to sell newspapers.
5. That it does not pay to value your stock at cost after matters have come to a standstill.
6. And above all that it does not pay to allow the rent to fall into arrears so that the landlord can put the bailiff in without a moment's notice.

COPYRIGHT IN URUGUAY.

A DESPATCH to the Evening Post, dated Montevideo, October 2, says: "The Law Congress of Spain has addressed a communication to the Uruguayan Government, asking recognition of ownership of Spanish literary and artistic works in Uruguay. The United States claims similar recognition in respect to American patents and trade-marks. It is probable that both the Spanish and American requests will be conceded."

OBITUARY NOTES.

G. W. PETTER.—"We regret," says the London Athenaeum, "to record the death of Mr. George William Petter, well known in connection with the firm of Messrs Cassell, Petter & Galpin, of which John Cassell was the founder. Soon after John Cassell began the issue of cheap books and magazines, he took into partnership Messrs. Petter and Galpin, and on Mr. Cassell's death, which occurred on the 2d of April, 1865, Mr. Petter undertook the editorial department. In 1883 the firm became a limited company, when, owing to failing health, Mr. Petter retired from the active management, Mr. Galpin then becoming managing director. Mr. Petter died on Sunday last (September 16) at Bournemouth, where the funeral took place on Thursday, a deputation from the firm being present. He was in his sixty-fifth year."

JOHN CHARLES DENT.—John Charles Dent, one of the best-known of Canadian literary men, died at Toronto, September, from heart disease, at the age of 46. He was of English birth, but went early to Canada and studied law, which he practised for a short time in Ontario. He then returned to England and became connected with a number of the metropolitan journals, including the Daily Telegraph. Returning to America, he was for three years an editorial writer on the Boston Globe and then went to Toronto and for some years wrote for the Globe of that city. He wrote "The Last Forty Years of Canada" and the "History of the Upper Canada Rebellion."

EDWARD GREY. Edward Grey, who is pleasantly remembered as the author and translator of a number of charming Japanese stories, committed suicide on the 1st inst., by shooting himself through the head. He was for years a dealer in Japanese and Chinese art ware and had a store at 20 E. 17th Street, New York. All who knew him and his family were charmed with their home life, their genial, cordial manner—more Oriental than Saxon in their warmth—and therefore the shock of the news of his death by such means is the more severe. He had not been in good health for some time, and this may have pushed him to desperation and temporary insanity. Mr. Grey was born in Sandwich, England, and had a military education, becoming a captain in the English Army in 1860. He was sent to China in the war with that country, and led a company of marines at the storming of Peking. Then he went to Japan, where he became an attaché of the British Legation in that country. While there he studied the customs, art, and literature of that country and its system of government. About 20 years ago he came to this country and started in the business of Japanese ceramics and other art ware. He wrote a Japanese love-story, but as Japanese art had then hardly begun to be appreciated here, the book did not take very well. Later on he wrote

"Young Americans in Japan," "Wonderful City of Tokio," "Golden Lotus," and "Bear Worshipers of Yezo," all of which were published from 1881 to 1884 by Lee & Shepard. In 1880 he translated in coöperation with Shuichiro Saito, one of the seven stories by Tamenaga Shunsui, entitled "The Loyal Ronin," published by G. P. Putnam's Sons. Encouraged by the success of this he began work on a novel, entitled "A Captive of Love," which was based upon Bakin's romance, "Kumono Tayema Ama Yo No Tsaki." This was published in 1885 by Lee & Shepard. He also wrote a couple of plays, "Vendome" and "Mirah," in the later of which Mrs. D. P. Bowers is said to have appeared.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, GA.—The stationery and book business carried on by Welch & Agar has been purchased by the Hillsman & Agar Company, of which Dr. P. L. Hillsman is Manager and Richard Hobbs is Treasurer.

NEW YORK CITY.—The American Sunday-school Union has appointed J. Lindley Spicer to succeed the late George S. Scofield as agent of its New York Depository, 8 and 10 Bible House, N. Y. Mr. Spicer brings to his new position a valuable business experience, a familiarity with Sunday-school work gained by several years of successful missionary service, and a wide acquaintance with churches and Sunday-schools. This knowledge and experience make him specially competent to give satisfactory information to all purchasers of religious literature, and to those particularly who desire to distribute such a literature in benevolent ways. We bespeak for Mr. Spicer the hearty welcome of the trade.

NEW YORK CITY.—Mr. C. P. Cox, dealer in new and second-hand books, is back in his old quarters, 654 Third Avenue.

SANTA ANA, CAL.—A receiver has been appointed for the stock of books and stationery belonging to the estate of C. P. Schneider.

SIOUX FALLS, DAK. TER.—W. Beckler, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HURST & Co., 122 Nassau St., N. Y., have just issued the Pickwick Edition of Charles Dickens' Complete Works. It is in six large twelvemo volumes and fully illustrated, retailing at a dollar a volume.

BENZIGER BROS. call our attention to the fact that they will be the American publishers of the Catholic Manuals of Philosophy described fully in our issue of September 15-22, page 346, foot of second column.

GEHRLE & Co., 900 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, have commenced the publication of miscellaneous books of an artistic and standard character, entirely independent of their large subscription business, and will show samples to the trade immediately.

Our attention has been called to another error in our Educational Catalogue. The prices of Collier's Advanced and Senior British History were transposed after the proofs had passed out of our hands. The prices should read $1.75 for the former and $1.25 for the latter.

THE Euclid Publishing Company of Chicago will issue in a few days "The History of the Bank of England," by Joseph Hume Francis. Mr. Francis, it is claimed, has spared no exertion or research in his work, and on account of the important part the Bank of England has played in the financial world for upward of two hundred years the work is one for general perusal.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish shortly Charlotte M. Yonge's new story, "Our New Mistress." The next volume in the Camelot Series will be "Irish Fairy Tales and Folk-Lore," selected and edited by W. B. Yeats; in the Great Writers series, "Life of 'Crabbe,'" by T. T. Kebbel, and in the Canterbury Poets a selection of Chaucer's works, edited by F. Noel Paton.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. call our attention to a misprint in their advertisement in the Fall Announcement Number. The third title on page 409 of that issue should read "Sundry (not Sunday) Rhymes from the Days of our Grandmother." Mr. Randolph in writing to us claims that he "wrote the title plainly; but you Philistines thought it must be Sunday, because we are religious publishers, and have nothing to do with the 'Sundries' of doubt and unbelief!" Possibly he is right. At any rate we repeated the error in our summary and the classified list.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just published the fifth volume of "Appletons' Cyclopaedia of American Biography." Among the important articles are those on "The Randolph Family," by Moncure D. Conway; on Generals Sherman and Sheridan, by Professor Henry Coppée; "Whitelaw Reid," by John Hay; "George M. Pullman," by General Horace Porter, and "George W. Smalley," by John Russell Young. General Sheridan revised what Professor Coppée wrote about him only ten days before his death. They have also just issued an "Index to Appletons' Annual Cyclopaedia" for the twelve volumes, 1876-1887.

A LIFE of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, by John H. Ingram, will be shortly issued in London. It is the first life of her published, and is said to contain a large amount of new biographical information.

TRÜBNER & Co. are preparing for immediate publication a book on "Marriage and Divorce." The author claims to have studied his subject from the religious as well as the legal and practical points of view.

A BIBLIOGRAPHICAL collection of all the works and newspaper articles published in Russia and elsewhere on the subject of Central Asia, and especially on Turkestan, has been compiled for the Russian Governor-General of Turkestan. It embraces 1309 titles.

THE publication of the "Life of Prince Gortschakoff," in the Eminent Statesmen Series, is likely to be a little delayed, owing to the Times having sent its author, Mr. Dobson, on a tour to Central Asia. Mr. Dobson is the author of the articles on the Transcasian railway now appearing in the Times.

A GENERAL Meeting of the Austrian Booksellers' Union was held at Vienna on the 1st ult., under the able presidency of Herr Rudolf Lechner, who opened the proceedings by a short but telling speech, in which he thanked those assembled for their presence, and solicited their support in obtaining for the Austro-Hungarian Book Trade a reasonable reward for their labors in diffusion of literature and knowledge throughout the Empire.

It is officially announced that Prince Bismarck has obtained the consent of Emperor William to prosecute the publishers of the Deutsche Rundschau for revealing State secrets in publishing the abstract from the diary of the late Emperor Frederick. The Emperor gave his consent to the proceedings irrespective of the question as to whether the published extract is genuine or not. The publishers of the paper have announced that they will not sell any more copies of the edition containing the extract from the diary.

JAMES CLEGG, Rochdale, Eng., has just published his "Directory of Second-hand Booksellers, and List of Public Libraries, British and Foreign." It is a handy twelvemo volume bound in flexible cloth. The information is compact, and so far as it relates to the American book-trade reasonably correct. The errors so far noted are not vital, and the book therefore seems to answer its purpose very well. Besides the lists of booksellers and libraries, Mr. Clegg gives a list of fictitious names used by authors and illustrators; Ancient centres of printing, with their Latin equivalents; Bibliographical works of reference; Journals of the book-trade; Copyright registry; Postal information; and a number of advertising pages arranged alphabetically by cities. The book may be obtained in this country through B. Westermann & Co., 838 Broadway, N. Y.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will shortly publish through their New York Agency "The Life of Lord Stratford de Redcliffe," by Stanley Lane-Poole. It will give an inside view of that eternal Eastern question for which every English diplomatist must find an answer, as to the riddle of the Sphinx. Lord Stratford de Redcliffe is known to Americans chiefly as the Great Elchl, the chief physician to the "Sick Man of Europe"—and he began his career as Minister to Turkey when he was only twenty-three; but it is to be recalled that he was the British Minister at Washington in 1820-3, seeing the newly invented steamboat when he first arrived, thinking Henry Clay like Pitt, disputing with John Quincy Adams, and paying a visit to Saratoga (in 1822). Much of the matter in these volumes is autobiographical and there are boyish recollections of Sheridan, Byron, Fox, Pitt, Gustavus Adolphus, Wellington, and George Canning; at twenty-six our future Lord Stratford helped to found the Quarterly Review and introduced Gifford to Murray.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price.

 It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

The New York Jobbing House.

IN removing from the old stand, 678 Broadway, occupied for so many years as the great central distributing house of the United States for the book-trade, to the more commodious quarters,

718 AND 720 BROADWAY,

we desire to call the attention of our customers and the trade generally, not only to the better warehouse room we possess for the display of the most extensive stock of books in every department of literature to be found in the country, but also to the great facilities for the prompt despatch of all business intrusted to us, from a single "pick-up" to that of one hundred cases, or from one volume to the thousand, offering, as we do, greater advantages to the trade as a jobber than can be found anywhere else, and always carrying a full stock in all descriptions of books. It is unnecessary to assure booksellers that we sell at the lowest prices possible; oftentimes lower than the publishers will.

THE REMOVAL HAS UNEARTHED An Overstock of Many Books

accumulated by large purchases which our limited quarters heretofore have prevented our properly presenting. These we are offering at especially low prices. The stock embraces Standard Library Books as well as General Literature, Text-Books, Juveniles, etc., etc.

A Bargain List will soon be issued and will be sent to any dealer in books on application.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Having made arrangements with Messrs. BELFORD, CLARKE & CO. to act as their Exclusive Agent in New York, and to carry in stock a large and complete line of all their publications, I desire to call the attention of my customers and the trade generally to this very valuable and important list of the best editions of standard books in sets, manufactured in the very best manner, from the newest and LARGEST TYPE plates, comprising

DICKENS, THACKERAY, ELIOT,

SCOTT, BULWER, COOPER,

IRVING, SIMMS, RUSKIN,

CARLYLE, BLACK, KNIGHT,

Sir Morell Mackenzie's

WORK ON

The Case of the Late Emperor of Germany.

One Volume, 12mo, Illustrated, Cloth, $1.00.

NEW YORK, October 4, 1888.

To the Trade.

Having made arrangements for the right to publish in book-form in this country SIR MORELL MACKENZIE'S work, entitled "The Case of the Late Emperor of Germany, and the Relation Thereto of the German Doctors," we call attention to the fact that we will have the book ready on or about the 25th instant. The work, aside from its value to the medical profession, will have a large interest to the many who followed the course of the disease to which the late German Emperor succumbed. It will make a twelvemo volume, bound in cloth, of about 160 pages, and will contain a fac-simile of one of the Emperor Frederick's letters, and other illustrations. The price has been fixed at $1.00, and the discount to the Trade, less than 25 copies, 25% off; lots of 50 copies, one-third; and lots of 100 copies, 40% off.

Advance orders solicited, which will be filled in the order of their receipt.

A GREAT BOOK BY A GREAT MAN.

EX-SECRETARY McCULLOCH'S REMINISCENCES.

Men and Measures of Half a Century:

SKETCHES AND COMMENTS. By HUGH McCULLOCH, Secretary of the Treasury in the Administrations of Lincoln, Johnson, and Arthur. 8vo, $4.00.

No book published in this country for many years contains more of interest to the general reader than this work by a distinguished American whose public career extends back for fifty years. The great political measures and the famous men associated with them are all treated in a manner as pungent as it is judicial, and the fund of reminiscences and anecdotes with which the book is crowded is accompanied by historical comment and criticism of the highest order, which gives a standard value to the work.

AN ADVANCE REVIEW OF THE BOOK.

"The book is one of exceptional public interest, and will be read widely and eagerly by one of the largest constituencies granted a work of recent publication."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Two Little Confederates.

By THOMAS NELSON PAGE. Square 8vo, illustrated, $1.50.

This captivating story of two lads left at home on a Virginia plantation during the war will appeal with an unusually strong interest to boys. The two little heroes, and the experiences they had with the blue and gray coats, are certain to make friends among hundreds of young readers.

Letters of Thackeray.

A New Edition of this Collection, 1847-1855, with portrait of Thackeray, and reproduction in fac-simile of a characteristic letter. 12mo, gilt top, $1.25.

In this dainty and popular edition these famous letters will again be sought for by thousands to whom the other editions were inaccessible. The letters have already been accepted as one of Thackeray's most characteristic books, without which no set of his books can be regarded complete.

Corea: The Hermit Nation.

By WILLIAM ELLIOT GRIFFIS. New Edition, with maps, illustrations, and additional matter. 8vo, $2.50.

In this new and revised edition, the author brings his great work down to date, increasing the value of what is recognized as the most authoritative work on this strange country.

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. PRANG & Co. have just ready a memorial volume of "Louise Alcott—the children's friend." The text has been prepared by Edna D. Cheney, and the nine illustrations, of which one is printed in colors, by Lizbeth B. Comins.

D. APPLETON & Co. will issue on the 15th in their Town and Country Library a new novel by Margaret Field, entitled "The Secret of Fontaine-la-Croix," the heroine of which is an Englishwoman, but the events occur principally in France. In the main the story is domestic in character, affording some charming pictures of life in a French château. Scenes in the Franco-German war are also depicted, and the action leads up to a striking and most dramatic situation.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week "Men and Measures of Half a Century—remiscences, sketches, and comments," by Hugh McCulloch, Secretary of the Treasury in the administrations of Lincoln, Johnson, and Arthur, the extracts from which, recently published in Scribner's Magazine, lead us to believe that it will be one of the most interesting purely American books that have been published in many years; a new and cheaper edition of the "Collection of Letters of Thackeray;" a new revised edition of "Corea: the hermit nation," by W. E. Griffis; and "Two Little Confederates," by Thomas Nelson Page, a captivating story of two lads left at home on a Virginia plantation during the war which will appeal with an unusually strong interest to boys.

ROBERTS BROTHERS have just ready in their Famous Women series "Elizabeth Barrett Browning," by John H. Ingram, which is the first biography published of this author, and which is said to contain a large amount of new information concerning her; "Glorinda," a first novel by Anna Bowman Dodd, author of "Cathedral Days;" "Clover," by Susan Coolidge, a continuation of the well-known and popular books about "What Katy Did," illustrated by Jessie McDermott; and Meredith's "Diana of the Crossways," and "The Shaving of Shagpat" and "Farina," the two concluding volumes of the popular edition of that author's novels. They have also ready sets of Meredith's novels in ten 16mo volumes bound in silk-finish cloth, as well as the English edition in ten 12mo volumes.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish next week the first two volumes of the new Riverside edition of the works of Mr. Whittier. This edition is to be very complete, and will contain his prose in three volumes and poems in four, in the same style with the Riverside Longfellow. At the same time will appear a novel by J. P. Quincy, entitled "The Peckster Professorship," which is out of the common line of stories, and will be of special interest to those who are attracted by Spiritualism and similar mysteries; "Realistic Idealism in Philosophy Itself," a work of much thought and research, by Nathaniel Holmes, author of perhaps the best of the volumes yet written on the authorship of Shakespeare; a translation into English verse of the "Divine Comedy of Dante," by J. A. Wilstach, who a few years since published a translation of the complete works of Virgil; and "After Noontide," a little volume of passages selected by Mrs. Margaret E. White from a great variety of authors, intended for the cheer and comfort of persons who are in the afternoon of life.

As we go to press, word reaches us from the New York agency of Rand, McNally & Co., that the injunction on their translation of Zola's "Dream" has been vacated and dissolved. Laird & Lee, we understand, did not interfere with the Chicago house of Rand, McNally & Co., and therefore there was no delay in supplying their orders from that city. They are now sending out the book from both cities. They also inform us that they have commenced action for damages in New York, and that they intend bringing an injunction suit against Laird & Lee's edition in Chicago.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Ps. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Bain, Alex. English composition and rhetoric. Enl. ed. Pt. 2: Emotional qualities of style. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 31+325 p. D. cl., $1.40.

Prof. Bain says in his preface, "So far as I know, this is the first attempt at a methodical and exhaustive account of these qualities. The meagre discussion of them in the original work is now replaced by a more precise classification, and a much ampler detail of examples."

Baring-Gould, S. Eve: a novel. N. Y., G: Munro, 1888. 283 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1122.) pap., 20 c.

Beecher, H: Ward. Plymouth pulpit: sermons preached in Plymouth church, Brooklyn; from Ellinwood's stenographic reports; from 1873 to 1875. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1888. c. '74, '75. 4 v., 3-600; 3-590; 3-632; 3-612 p. O. cl., ea., $1.50.

The contents of the 2d, 3d, and 4th volumes have never before been published in book-form. The sermons cover the period of the author's deepest trouble, and are said to be his very best work.

*Bidwell, G: Forging his chains; the autobiography of George Bidwell: an authentic history of his early life, and his career in America and Europe; with the story of his connection with the £1,000,000 forgery on the Bank of England. Hartford, Ct., S. S. Scranton & Co., 1888. 550 p. il. O. cl., subs., $3.

Bissell, Edwin Cone, D.D. Biblical antiquities: a handbook for use in seminaries, Sabbath-schools, families, and by all students of the Bible. Phil., American S. S. Union, 1888. c. 420 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Prepared and issued under the provisions of the John C. Green Income Fund, being the fifth work procured by this fund. The results of investigation of the last twenty years have been so immense, that a new work on Biblical antiquities was found absolutely necessary. The publishers have been fortunate in securing the services of Dr Bissell, of Hartford Seminary, an accomplished scholar and sound thinker. He has aimed to present the principal facts of biblical antiquities in the stricter sense, together with some of their moral and religious bearings, and to show their true place and significance in the plan and history of redemption. No attempt has been made to treat largely of the geography or topography, the political or natural history, of the lands of the Bible.

*Blessed (The) ones of 1888; tr. from the German by Eliza A. Donnelly. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1888. il. S. cl., 50 c.

Booth, Mrs. Otto, ["Rita," pseud.] The mystery of a Turkish bath. N. Y., G: Munro, 1888. 116 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1125.) pap., 10 c.

Bradford, Amory H., D.D. Spirit and life thoughts for to-day. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1888. c. 265 p. D. cl., $1.

A volume of sermons, preached by Dr. Bradford in the regular line of his pulpit work in the First Congregational Church, Montclair, N. J. Some of them were printed in the Christian Union and other religious papers, and found such wide acceptance that they have been brought together with others for issue in permanent form. The Christian Union says of them that they "present in a clear and comprehensive fashion some of the fundamental doctrines of Christianity read in the light of the most spiritual thinking of to-day. They illustrate at once the deeper spirituality and the more distinctly practical tendency of the best modern thought."

*Browning, Rob. Complete works. In 16 v. V. 6, Dramatic lyrics and Luria. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. O. cl., $1.50.

Burr, Frank A., and Hinton, R: J. The life of Gen. Philip H. Sheridan; its romance and reality; how an humble lad reached the head of an army. Providence, R. I., J. A. & R. A. Reid, 1888. c. 445 p. por. and il. O. cl., subs., $2.50; $2; shp., $4; hf. mor., $4.50; tky. mor., $6.50.

"The Life of Gen. Philip H. Sheridan," by Frank A. Burr, assisted by Richard J. Hinton, considered as a record of his public services, is a striking and picturesque narrative, in which, while Sheridan is always the prominent figure, the history of the events in which he participated is faithfully related. Pains have been taken to emphasize his preëminent qualities as a soldier, and the frequency with which contemporary criticisms and anecdotes of various kinds have been made to subserve this end bears testimony to the literary skill and industry of the authors. Three-fourths of the volume are devoted to Sheridan's career in the war of the rebellion, while the details of his sickness, death, and burial fill upward of sixty pages. Of his early life and his correspondence very little is recorded."—New York Sun.

Oadman, H. W. The Christian unity of capital and labor. Phil., American S. S. Union, [1888.] c. 261 p. D. cl.

"How are the evils of society to be corrected? The remedy proposed by this book is the remedy of the New Testament—an applied Christianity, a comprehensive fulfilment of the divine command, which bears with solemn obligation upon every child of the human family, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'" The sixth work issued under the conditions of the John C. Green Income Fund—the author having received a prize of $1000 for his manuscript.

The design of the author has been to bring together, from widely scattered sources, many of which are unknown or inaccessible to ordinary readers, the best of the humorous narratives originally printed in chap-books and variously known as "Tales of the men of Gotham," "Shakespeare jest-books," etc., in their oldest existing Buddhist and Greek forms, as well as in the forms in which they are current among the people in the present day; the aim has been not only to compile an amusing story-book, but to illustrate to some extent the migrations of popular fictions from country to country.

Mr Dunn is a resident of Indiana and thoroughly familiar with its history. As the title of the work implies, it is limited to a study of the origin, development, and abolishment of the slavery fastened upon Indiana by the French when it was a part of the Northwest Territory. Aside from the history of this struggle the book possesses a special interest from the fact that it is the only record of the official and political life of William Henry Harrison while he was Governor of Indiana Territory.

- Everett, C. C., D.D. Poetry, comedy, and duty. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 5+315 p. D. cl., $1.50.
Studies on the themes set forth in the title. Poetry, comedy, and duty are each treated separately first, then other aspects of the subject considered important and interesting are associated with them, as the contents show. Contents: Poetry—The imagination, The philosophy of poetry, The poetic aspect of nature, The tragic forces in life and literature. Comedy—The philosophy of the comic. Duty—The ultimate facts of ethics, The new ethics, The conclusion considers poetry, comedy, and duty in their relation to one another. Dr. Everett is Rumsey professor of theology in Harvard University.
- Farrington, Margaret Vere. Tales of King Arthur and his knights of the round table; 11. by Alfred Fredericks and others. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 7+276 p. 11. O. cl., $2.
Over forty stories gathered from old chronicles and other sources, and told in simple, understandable prose for young readers. They embrace "The birth of Arthur," "King Arthur and Guinevere," "The sword excalibur," "The adventures of Sir Balin," "Sir Lancelot du Lake," "Sir Geraint and Enid," "Sir Tristan and Iseult," "The Sangreal," "Sir Galahad," and others. 11. by 8 full-page pictures, and bound in holiday style.
- Firth, J. C. Our kin across the sea; with a preface by J. A. Froude. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. D. cl., $2.
- François de Sales, St. Library of St. Francis de Sales: works of this doctor of the church translated into English, by the Rev. H. Benedict Mackey. V. 4. Letters to persons in religion. N. Y., Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., 1888. 31+443 p. D. cl., net, $1.60.
A collection of letters to persons in religious houses; they are of every kind—"from trivial to weighty, from playful to severe, from the first instructions of beginners to the deepest counsels of mystical theology." The volume in its entirety is an illustration of St. Francis' well-known views—"of detachment from earth, of abandonment to God, of patience with ourselves, of extreme sweetness for others." There is an introduction by Bishop Hodley, and a facsimile of the saint's handwriting.
- Frederick III. Aus Kaiser Friedrich's tagebuch, 1870-1871. N. Y., S. Zickel, 1888. 31 p. 11. S. pap., 10 c.
A reprint from the Deutsche Rundschau of a portion of the diary of the late Emperor Frederick III. of Prussia, covering the period of the two most eventful years in the history of modern Germany. The illustrations consist of a portrait of the late Emperor and a facsimile autograph written February 15, 1881.
- Gilmore, Ja. R., ["Edmund Kirke," pseud.] The advance-guard of western civilization. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. c. 12+343 p. por. and map. D. cl., $1.50.
The comprehensive and picturesque narrative of the early settlement of the Southwest, begun in "The rear-guard of the Revolution" and "John Sevier as a commonwealth builder," is continued in this volume, which is devoted to the settlement of middle Tennessee. The three volumes cover a neglected period of American history, and they disclose facts well worthy the attention of historians—namely, that these western men turned the tide of the American Revolution, and subsequently saved the newly-formed Union from disruption, and thereby made possible our present great republic. "This should be enough," says Mr. Gilmore, "to secure for their story an attentive hearing, had it not the added charm of presenting to view three characters—John Sevier, James Robertson, and Isaac Shelby—who are as worthy of the imitation of our American youth as any in their country's history."
- Gleichen, Count. With the camel corps up the Nile. Phil., The J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 11. O. cl., $3.
- Goldie, Rev. Francis, and Scola, Rev. Father. The new saints of 1888. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1888. 11. S. cl., 50 c.
- Hale, E. E. and E. E., jr. Franklin in France; from original documents, most of which are now published for the first time. Pt. 2, The treaty of peace and Franklin's life till his return. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 10+470 p. por. O. cl., $3.
The concluding volume of this work. It takes up the story of Franklin's life, after the battle of Yorktown, and illustrates the closing years of his residence in France from the original manuscripts in several large collections. With a few exceptions, none of these manuscripts, now published at length, were ever published before. The "Stevens collection," in the State Department at Washington, the American Philosophical Society's collection, the private collection of Hon. George Bancroft at Washington, that of the Adams family at Quincy, and the Sparks manuscripts at Cambridge have been freely drawn upon. All together they give the student such a view of the years covered by the narrative, as no single observer had while those years passed; they also throw new light on the points best established by history.

Hall, G. Barnes. Historical sketches and events in the colonization of America and the outgrowth of our country. Minneapolis, Minn., C. D. Raymer, [1888.] c. '86. 12+222 p. il. and por. O. cl.

Besides the sketches contains biographies of our noted men, illustrated with portraits; historical and statistical tables; the declaration of independence; the constitution, etc., etc.

*Hark, J. Max, D.D. The unity of the truth in Christianity and evolution. N. Y., J. B. Alden, 1888. 293 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Harrison, J. A. Autrefois; tales of old New Orleans and elsewhere. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] c. 5+295 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., v. 1, no. 16.) pap., 50 c.

Contents. Aunt Annette: The story of Carlito Jacmel; Sour Agathe; The hall of tiger-skins; The story of an urn; Sieu Caystane: The episode of Père Benachi; Old manzel; Man Cribiche's meditations; Issét and Samé; Piti-Josi-Ba'tate. By the author of "The story of Greece."

*Hart, Rev. Virgil C. Western China; a journey to the great Buddhist centre of Mount Omei. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1888. il. and map, D. cl., $2.

Hervey, T. K. The book of Christmas; descriptive of the customs, ceremonies, traditions, superstitions, fun, feeling, and festivities of the Christmas season; il. by R. Seymour. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. 1+356 p. D. cl., $2.

A new edition of a clever book by the poet Hervey long out of print. It gives excellent descriptions of holiday festivities, and is very characteristically illustrated. Bound in white cloth, with gold lettering.

Hugo, Victor. The man who laughs. [New lib. ed.] Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. 2 v. 8+439; 7+439 p. por. and 1 il. D. cl., $3.

The 4 romances entered under Hugo comprise with "Les Misérables," published last year, all of his great French writer's works that Little, Brown & Co. issue. They are printed uniform with "Les Misérables" in large, clear type, on excellent paper, and make a most desirable edition of Hugo's novels. The translations are new, complete, and unabridged with passages and chapters, hitherto omitted, restored.

Hugo, Victor. Ninety-three; tr. by Mrs. Aline Delano. [New lib. ed.] Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. c. tr. 10+524 p. 2 il. D. cl., $1.50.

Hugo, Victor. Notre-dame de Paris. [New lib. ed.] Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. c. tr. 2 v. 15+349; 4+408 p. 4 il. D. cl., $3.

*Hutchinson, Horace G. The record of a human soul. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. S. cl., $1.

John, Eugenia, ["E. Marlitt," pseud.] The Owl House: a posthumous novel by E. Marlitt; finished by W. Heimburg; from the German by Mary Stuart, and G. Harrison Smith. N. Y., G. Munro, 1888. c. tr. 275 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1130.) pap., 20 c.

Kirkland, Jos. The McVeyes: an episode. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. 4+468 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Those who read "Zury, the meanest man in Spring County," will need no introduction to the Widow McVey and her young family. She figured in the former book first as Anne Sparrow, a bright New England girl, who goes west to teach school, and then as the wife of Zury Prouder. The present story is a parallel narrative in point of time with "Zury," but dealing entirely with Anne's life, which in "Zury" was given only in outline, the interest there being so largely in the hero. Now we are told in detail of Anne's life from the time she became a widow till she married "Zury." Her children, who are as interesting as herself, have each a story full of romance. Again as in "Zury" we get vivid descriptions of pioneer life in the west of about fifty years ago. Lincoln, Douglas, and other afterward famous men are introduced.

Knox, J. Armo. A devil of a trip; or, the log of the yacht Champlain; il. by T. Worth. N. Y., National Literary Bureau, 72 John St., [1888.] c. 128 p. O. (The unique ser., no. 1.) pap., 50 c.

The records of a trip made by Col. Knox and "Adirondack" Murray on the yacht Champlain through the Richelieu river into the Saint Lawrence, down to the Saguenay, from thence out into the Gulf of Saint Lawrence, around Nova Scotia, and to New York via Boston. The narrative appeared as weekly letters in the Boston Herald, N. Y. World, Chicago Herald, and other newspapers. The text has been cut from the columns of the newspapers, pasted on an octavo page, head-lines and all, and photo-engraved, making quite an odd-looking book. The broad margin outside of the narrow newspaper column has been filled in with amusing illustrations by Thomas Worth. The text is bright and clever, and deals with many odd adventures. The title and cover are quite unique in the method of illustrating.

*Lamb, C. and Mary. Tales from Shakespeare. New cheap ed. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1888. 300 p. S. cl., 50 c.

*Leo XIII., [Giacchino Pecci.] Pope. The practice of humility; from the Italian by Rev. J. F. X. O'Connor. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1888. T. marquette, 50 c.; pap., 25 c.

Longfellow, H. W. The courtship of Miles Standish; il. from designs by Boughton, Merrill, Reinhart, Perkins, Hitchcock, Shapleigh, and others. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. '58, '86, '88. 84 p. Q. cl., $6.

The designs made by M. F. T. Merrill illustrating of this familiar poem, are six full-page pictures admirably reproduced by the photogravure and phototype processes. George Boughton depicts a number of scenes in the career of Miles Standish, which are fine specimens of wood-engraving. There are a number of half-titles and tail-pieces by Charles Cope and S. L. Smith, which are full of character and at the same time decorative. The work is one of the leading holiday books, and is most beautiful in all its details of paper, print, and binding. In addition to its other features it contains notes relating to the antiquities of Plymouth, together with fac-similes and other pictorial representations of objects of great historic interest.

*Lossing, Benson J. Our country: a household history of the United States; il. by F. O. C. Darley. N. Y., The Amies Pub. Co., 1888; c. '87, '88. 2 v. il. Q. cl., subs., for v. 1, $5; shp., $6; hf. rus., $7.50; full rus., $9.

*McCook, H. C. Tenants of an old farm. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1888. D. cl., reduced to $1.50.

McLaughlin, M. Louise. Painting in oil: a manual for the use of students. 2d thousand. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1888. c. '87. 111 p. sq. D. cl., $1.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W. J. in 7, '88 [872].

*Maskell, Mrs. A. E. C. Nell and Nan; or, trying to be good. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., 1888. 192 p. D. cl., 90 c.

*Matthew, Ja. E. A popular history of music, musical instruments, ballet, and opera, from St. Ambrose to Mozart; with 150 il. of por., musical instruments, etc. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. O. cl., $4.

Mathews, W. Wit and humor; their use and abuse. Chic., S. C. Griggs & Co., 1888. c. 6+397 p. D. cl., $1.50.

In a dozen chapters, rich in anecdote and apt illustration, the writer discourses of his subject under the following divisions: The theories of wit and humor; The abuses of wit and humor; The logic of wit; Epigrams; Parody; Puns and punsters; Repartee; Clerical wit; The antiquity of wit; The melancholy of wits; Men who lack the sense of humor. The work is, in its general literary arrangement, similar to Mr. Mathews' "Men, places, and things," and "Oratory and orators," with a good analytical index, which serves as a key to the numerous good things with which the pages are overflowing.

Minto, W. The mediation of Ralph Hardelet. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 199 p. O. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 628.) pap., 30 c.

"The period at which the action is supposed to take place is the latter part of the fourteenth century, the scene being laid partly in London, but mainly in the eastern counties. The plot, apart from the love interest, is concerned with the great peasants' rebellion, which is usually associated with the name of Wat Tyler. . . . Ralph Hardelet, a young gentleman who, disgusted with the corruption and tyranny which he sees all around him, has vowed his life to the cause of the people, and adopted the tenets of Wycliffe."—London Academy.

*Mitchell, Donald G., ["Ik Marvel," pseud.] Works. New uniform ed. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. 8 v. D. cl., $10.

*New Sunday-school companion: containing the Baltimore catechism; devotions and prayers for church, school, and home; hymns and simple music for Mass and other solemnities. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1888. il. S. pap., 25 c.

Nichol, J. Francis Bacon, his life and philosophy. Pt. 1, Bacon's life. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 7+212 p. S. (Philosophical classics for English readers.) cl., $1.25.

The author acknowledges his indebtedness for material to the works on Bacon written by Froude, Prof. S. R. Gardiner, and such partisan biographers as Spedding and Dr. Abbott. He claims to be more impartial than any of these writers in his judgments of Bacon's career, and to have taken great pains to arrive at the exact truth.

Oakley, Mrs. Caroline, and Fern, Willie, [pseud. of W. H. F. Briggs.] The career of the stolen boy, Charlie. Chic., W. H. F. Briggs, 1888. c. 197 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

The little hero is named "Charlie Ross," but he is not the Charlie Ross of world-wide fame abducted some years ago. This boy is stolen from his mother by his drunken father and carried out across the Rockies and into California. The father dies, the boy finds other protectors, mines in the Sierra, discovers his mother, makes a home for her, accumulates a fortune, loses it, and builds up another in Arizona, etc., etc.

*Ober, Sarah Endicott. Stacey's room; or, one year's building. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., 1888. 224 p. D. cl., $1.

Parmelee, Rev. M. P., M.D. Home and work by the rivers of Eden. Phil., American S. S. Union, 1888. c. 5-197 p. il. D. cl.

Erzroom, in Asiatic Turkey, near the source of one branch of the Euphrates, is supposed by Mr. Parmelee to be near the site of Eden. He did not find it an Eden in his experience. The story of his missionary work is told in an attractive way, that will please the young people. He seems to be a cheerful optimist, making the best of conditions which were often hard and at times dangerous. He gives a series of pictures of life and work among the Turks near the borders of Russia.

*Patton, J. Harris. The Democratic party; its political history and influence. New (3d) ed., revised to date. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1888. S. cl., $1.

Payson, E. The law of equivalents in its relation to political and social ethics. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 9+306 p. O. cl., $2.

In this work Mr. Payson shows that the methods of advance in the realms of matter and of morals are entirely unlike, and endeavors to recall the thought of America from its intense devotion to material pursuits and acquisitions to the far more important objects which demand attention in ethics and social life. He suggests very important considerations with regard to the family, indicating wherein it differs from society, the state, the school, the church. The book treats large subjects in a sincere spirit and with excellent ability.

*Pitman, C. B., ed. Memoirs of the Count de Falloux: an historical work of the times of Louis Philippe. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 2 v. il. O. cl., $8.

*Poole, Stanley Lane. The life of the Right Hon. Stratford Canning, Viscount Stratford de Redcliffe; from his memoirs and private and official papers. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 2 v. por. O. cl., $12.

Putnam, Eleanor, [Mrs. Bates,] and Bates, Arlo. Prince Vance; the story of a prince with a court in his box; il. by Frank Myrick. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 3-153 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The Prince Vance was a naughty, idle, impatient little prince, who was rude to all around him, and chose the worst associates. The Blue Wizard, who was always showing him new tricks, gave him a bon-bon one day and told him to give it to the royal court to eat, and wait for the effect. All who ate of it became pygmies, and the Prince was left at the mercy of a fierce general, who kicked him out of the castle. To save his father and mother, and the royal court, he had gathered them together in a small box, and with this he travels the world over, gaining many new experiences and learning many lessons in patience and good temper.

Quintilian, [Lat. Quintilianus,] Mcs. Fabius. The tenth and twelfth books of the institutions of Quintilian; with explanatory notes by H. S. Frieze. New ed. rev. and improved. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. c. '65, '83, '88. 294 p. D. cl., $1.40.

*Reid, T. Wemyss. The life of the Right Hon. W. E. Forster. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 2 v. por. and il. O. cl., $8.

Repplier, Agnes. Books and men. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 3+224 p. D. cl., $1.25.

With a wealth of illustration culled from an apparently varied reading, and a special grace of style, Miss Repplier discourses in a series of papers on, "Children, past and present;" "On the benefits of superstition;" "What children read;" "The decay of sentiment;" "Curiosities of criticism;" "Some aspects of pessimism;" and "The cavalier."

Roosevelt, Theodore. Ranch life and the hunting-trail; il. by F. Remington. N. Y., The Century Co., [1888.] c. 7+186 p. F. cl., $5.

Both author and artist being practical ranchmen and sportsmen, they have together produced a rarely interesting volume. The series of articles written by Mr. Roosevelt relate entirely to ranch-life and the game of the far west, and are based on personal experience. Mr. Remington's sketches are as bold and spirited as the text, and are also from life. Some of the articles have appeared in the Century Magazine. Others, however, have been added to make up this volume, relating entirely to hunting, and never before published. Besides many full-page and text pictures there are many graceful initials and tail-pieces. The book is from the D. Vane Press, and on heavy plate paper.

- *Rousselet, L. A tale of the Indian mutiny; or, the serpent charmer; from the French by Mary De Hauteville. New cheaper ed. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 13, 1888.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

BOOKS OR BRICKS?

"BOOKS OR BRICKS, it makes no difference to me which I handle." Such was the boast once made, in all earnestness, by one who had the reputation of being a bookseller, probably because he kept a shop filled with books. That man proved the folly of his boast by coming in conflict with his creditors twice in ten years. And so will all who think like this man—that is, if they know as little of books as they do of bricks.

And that is precisely the point which we wish those to bear in mind who aspire to become booksellers. Unless one have a love and a suitable education for the book business, he is as little fitted for it as he would be to enter any other calling that requires more than mule power. Even the latter would possibly need intelligent application. As a wise father once told his son about to go out into the world to earn his living: "My son, learn to do whatever you take up for a living intelligently, and master every particular, for it requires as much art to black boots satisfactorily as it does to build a house." Of course, this is exaggeration, but it contains the seed of truth.

We have an exalted enough opinion of our calling to imagine that the book business, above many others, requires a particularly varied, not to say scholarly, training. A bookseller whose function it is to come into contact with customers needs both a keen knowledge of human nature and a thorough education. He is not in the store to simply "wait on" customers, as so many seem to think. That is the point which even the girls who hand you the book you ask for at the dry-goods stores have attained. The bookseller we have in mind, and the one referred to by X. Y. Z., quoted in the extract from the Critic, reprinted elsewhere, ought to be in a position to teach his customer. In this sense does his position become a high one in the business world, that it becomes an educational factor as well as a commercial one. In our estimation the position of a dealer in school-books, for instance, would be a most difficult one to fill, if filled properly—the material he deals in, the class of people he is called upon to serve, being the most advanced in thought. But not less so is the position in any of the other branches of the book-trade. Take the department of fiction or reading for the young. What responsibility, looked at in the right light, rests upon the dealer in such literature! Of course, what a man wants he will have, but how often does the timely advice of one who is known and respected as an authority change and modify the choice of those who come to buy books of which they themselves know nothing.

Hardly a tenth of the purchasers who enter a book-store know precisely what they require; and if they were asked too pointedly for such particulars as proper title, edition, size, date, etc., would regard the demand as an impertinence. Some of the usual questions are these: "I want one of Dickens' books, if you please." "Certainly, which one?" "Really, I don't know; I have read so-and-so, and so-and-so." Here the bookseller must have in his mind the titles of Dickens' different novels, and be able to give at once the names of those not enumerated by his customer—and there is where bibliographical knowledge comes in. If he has not that knowledge he must have what is the next best thing—the knowledge where to get it—in what catalogue or book there is a list of given authors' works. Showing to his customer a book which he does not remember having read, the bookseller is often confronted with the remark, "Oh, but I want books uniform with those I already have." "What edition is that?" "Well, I don't know; but they have red cloth backs, and are about so big," pointing to a book standing near, "and have pictures on yellow paper," etc. Now if the bookseller doesn't know his business isn't it likely that the customer will try to find one who does? As a man once said in speaking of the bookseller's profession, "I don't know any profession requiring higher ability of the kind; except, perhaps, that of the prescribing chemist, who has to sell a 'mixture' comprising a variety of drugs suitable for the ailments—not always exactly described—of his customer."

And how comparatively light is made the labor of the bookseller in these days of trade helps and of literary journals. An hour's reading each day will serve to keep the specialist or dealer in general literature posted not only in what he has to sell, but concerning that which has been published, and what may be expected to appear in his particular line. Where the bookseller of the days gone by had to gather his own information by wearying process, the bookseller of to-day finds all that work prepared for him and ready to hand.

And we hold to these opinions, and that a man must have a love for this profession of selling books, in the face of the many adverse circumstances attending the present condition of our book-trade. It is in a bad enough state, indeed, but it will not always be so. Existing evils will be outgrown; the dawn of a better day, if not near at hand, is surely in store, and then all the labor now apparently wasted will stand in good stead. In the meantime, we firmly believe that the man who follows this business intelligently will have much the advantage of him to whom it makes no difference whether he handles books or bricks.

A TRADE correspondent in a college town encloses a handbill of a college book-store offering text-books "at cost," and "all school-books and college supplies at lower prices than any other house in the city," and we are asked to suggest some way in which the publishers could be induced to make cost to this underseller a figure which would offer a legitimate profit to the regular dealer. Our correspondent adds, "It would seem that there ought to be some way to prevent a man from breaking down a regular business by giving away text-books at cost to draw trade to a cigar and tobacco store." This is the old problem which has puzzled the trade for a great many years, and for which no panacea has yet been found. A well-appointed book-store in capable hands ought to be able to hold its own against a mere side-show in connection with such a business as is here described; on the other hand, the danger to the intelligent bookseller is in a succession of people of this sort, one of whom after another fails, but each of whom in turn takes away from the necessary margin of the regular and permanent book-store. It goes without saying, that unless the "underselling" dealer handles more books, or has more credit than the local book-store, he ought not to get terms which would enable him to undersell the regular dealer. Otherwise publishers and jobbers who give such terms are simply doing the most they can to harm their own business in the long run. It is this difficulty which is bringing about the most lamentable and extraordinary state of things in the book-trade, for the number of important book-stores seems to be actually diminishing as the population increases.

WE find the following in Mr. S. S. Ryder's always lively Book Notes:

"Consider for a moment the present condition of the poor bookseller in these prosperous United States. Taxes are laid upon him for the support of every business in the country save his own. Special taxes are laid by the Government upon him for the enrichment of the very publisher whose books he labors to sell, and who, but for his labors, could not exist. Senator Chace is to-day laboring as a Senator to put a special tax upon me as a bookseller, for the purpose of making the business of some publishers pay them more money. Is there any fairness in this? If you think the Government of these United States will long endure upon any such principle, you are welcome to the delusion. It won't, just the same. The principle will go, or the Government will go."

Mr. Ryder is neither a socialist nor a communist; why does he object to paying a workman for the work he does with his pen? This is not a "tax" in any proper definition of taxation. On the contrary, far from being a tax, it seems to be one of the measures which, possibly more than any other, will put the book-trade on a healthy basis. International copyright a law, the publisher will be obliged to protect his own property. Now it is—every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost; and sorry as we are to admit it, we have fallen into bad ways all around. And what is more, the bookseller will in all probability receive greater benefit from a copyright law than either the publisher or author.

MORE INTELLIGENT BOOKSELLERS WANTED.

From the Critic.

SAYS X. Y. Z. in the Pall Mall Gazette: "I was buying a novel the other day in a book-shop in Germany. Seeing that I was looking only at the English stories, the bookseller's 'young man' asked why I did not rather choose one of the English translations of German stories. 'You will find them of more permanent interest,' he said, in excellent English. 'Very well,' I said; 'shall I take one of Heyse's?' 'No, not Heyse,' he replied; 'he will be too sweet perhaps for your English taste. You should take Scheffel's "Ekkehard"—an historical novel written by a poet, an established masterpiece of modern literature, and as much a national favorite as your "Copperfield" in England.' The young man's criticism interested me; but what struck me as more interesting was the fact of his offering it at all. Imagine an apprentice in a bookseller's shop in London conversing in that way with a customer in a foreign tongue! No wonder that the Germans are beating us in commerce!"

Here is a hint to American booksellers' clerks which they would do well to act upon. A prominent bookseller told me not long ago that his greatest trouble was to get clerks who knew anything about the contents of the books they were selling. "I am thankful now," said he, "if they don't stand the books upside down on the shelves." There are very intelligent young men to be found among booksellers' clerks; I could name quite a goodly list, if I wanted to be personal; but as a rule they appear to know as little about their business as the women who sit in the box-offices of French theatres.

SOME NOTED BOOKBINDERS.

Extract from M. F. Quinn's article in Boston Herald.

A NOBLEMAN by the name of Jean Grolier was the first to introduce the lettering on the backs of books. Among the earliest of French binders must be mentioned Padeloup, Derome, and De Senil. Pope celebrates De Senil in one of his poems. Derome's plain morocco bindings are excellent; they are sewed on raised bands, are solid and compact, and the solid gilding on the edges is worthy of commendation. Padeloup's "toolings" and the forms he invented are elegant; they looked like gold set on the backs and sides of books.

Two German binders, named Baumgarten and Benedict, were of considerable note in London in the early part of this century. They were followed by McKinley, who made many improvements in binding. After McKinley came the great Roger Payne, who was one of the greatest binders of his day. Dr. Dibdin says that the great merit of Roger Payne lay in his taste, in his choice of ornaments, and in the working of them. It was impossible to excel him in these particulars, and, although his career was not successful, so far as he was personally concerned, it had the effect of benefiting the whole race of English bookbinders. His contemporaries were Katthoeber, Staggermeir, Walthre, Herring, and Falkner.

There were not many improvements made in the art until the use of machinery became such an important factor in all mechanical and artificial pursuits. . . .

THE LEA AND DOVE EDITION OF "THE COMPLEAT ANGLER."

DODD, MEAD & CO. have made arrangements with Sampson Low, Marston, Searle & Rivington, and purchased the right in America for a limited number of a limited edition of "The Compleat Angler," to be published this autumn. The edition will also contain a reprint, by permission, of "The Chronicle of the Compleat Angler," a bibliographical record of the various editions and imitations, by Thomas Westwood and Thomas Satchell. It will be known as the Lea and Dove edition. The ninety and nine editions already in the field do not deter Mr. R. B. Marston, the editor, from the idea that his firm can turn out a hundredth edition that shall have a worthy place among its predecessors. He has himself edited the ever-popular work which Charles Lamb said "might sweeten a man's temper at any time," and prepared biographies of Walton and Cotton for it. The illustrations have been prepared especially for it, and depict charming scenes on Walton's favorite rivers, which, with few exceptions, have never before appeared in the editions of Walton. There will be upwards of fifty full-page photogravures, printed from copper-plates, on fine plate paper. The quiet pastoral scenery of the river Lea is shown in a series of pictures taken by Mr. P. H. Emerson, whose fine photogravures in his works, "Life and Landscape on the Norfolk Broads" and "Peasant Life in East Anglia," have been so much admired. The views on the rivers Dove, Wye, etc., are by Mr. George Bankart, President of the Leicester Photographic Society and one of the most successful living amateur photographers. There will, moreover, be nearly one hundred small wood-engravings of river scenery interspersed through the text from original drawings from nature by F. Carless, engraved by F. Alphonse Stankowski. The work will be in two volumes, demi quarto, each containing a portrait of the brother-anglers. That of Walton is from a painting by Huysman, in the National Gallery, and that of Cotton is from an exquisite painting by Sir Peter Lely, by kind permission of Mrs. Evelyn Holden, of Nottingham. The work will contain illustrations of the monument to Walton in St. Mary's Church, Stafford, the monument to be erected in Winchester Cathedral, for which funds have been collected by the present editor, the carved cabinet mentioned in Walton's will, and other objects of interest to Waltonians. Only 500 copies will be printed of this edition. There will also be an édition de luxe in two volumes, royal quarto, limited to 250 copies.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DR. SAMUEL KNEELAND.—A special despatch to the N. Y. Tribune, dated October 8, announces the death in Germany of Dr. Samuel Kneeland, of Boston. The deceased was a native of Boston and was graduated at Harvard in 1840. He edited the "Annual of Scientific Discovery" from 1866 to 1869, wrote most of the zoölogical and many medical articles in "The New American Cyclopædia" and the "American Cyclopædia," and contributed largely to scientific periodicals. Besides a translation of Audry's "Diseases of the Heart" and an edition of Smith's "History of the Human Species," he published the "Wonders of the Yosemite Valley and of California," "An American in Iceland," "The Land of Hemp and Sugar," and "A Winter's Residence in the Philippine Islands."

J. M. SCHLEYER.—A despatch, dated Paris, October 9, reports that Father J. M. Schleyer, the inventor of Volapük, is dead.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MRS. CASHEL HOEY is translating the Duc de Broglie's "Marie Thérèse" into English.

GEN. LEW WALLACE's new work, "Commodus: a tragedy," will appear in Harper's Magazine early next year.

"REV. CHARLES E. STOWE, son of Harriet Beecher Stowe," says the Boston Traveller, "will soon publish a life of the author of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.' Kirk Monroe is associated with Mr. Stowe."

THE Utica Herald says Mr. Alfred R. Conkling, a nephew of the late Roscoe Conkling, is now in Utica examining the letters and papers of his uncle for use in a biography which he intends to publish next year.

SIR CHARLES DILKE has nearly finished a new edition of his "Greater Britain," which is so expanded and rewritten as to be practically a fresh book. This also will have a section relating to the United States, which will attract attention.

DR. GEORGE BRANDES has under way two new books shortly to be issued by the Gyldendal publishing house at Copenhagen. The one treats of modern Russian and Polish literature, the other will probably be the concluding volume of his work tracing the "principal currents of the literature of the nineteenth century."

PROF. BRYCE's book on the United States, which he hopes to have ready in November, the London correspondent of the N. Y. Times thinks, "will probably rank high among the most important studies of the American Republic by foreign hands. It examines very carefully our whole governmental structure, Federal and State, and the social economy and political foundations on which the edifice rests." The book will be looked for with great interest on both sides of the Atlantic.

MAX O'RELL says that he has had an assistant in the preparation of his book on America in the person of a Boston elevator boy. Max O'Rell questioned the boy one day about his experiences with the queer people he came across, and the little fellow told one or two very original anecdotes. He was promptly taken into partnership. An agreement was actually drawn up between Max O'Rell and the elevator boy, by which the lad became a collaborator in writing the book, and will get one dollar on every thousand copies sold. He wrote out his own anecdotes, and his "copy" will go to the printers. "The boy has often given me a lift," said Max O'Rell, "and I thought it would be only fair to give him a lift; so I took him into partnership."—Boston Transcript.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Kindergarten, Chicago, is fulfilling its claims to give to mothers of young children methods of amusement combined with instruction. "Nursery Occupations" and "Typical Lessons" in the October issue give practical hints that alone would pay the price of subscription.

OUTING for October has a leading article which will make quite a stir in the athletic world. In the "Boat Clubs of Chicago," Mrs. Edith Sessions Tupper has given an able exposition of the growth and extent of rowing among the residents of the Lake City. The numerous illustrations vastly increase the worth of the text.

The Critic of Oct. 6 contains a sketch of Mr. Arnold's niece, Mrs. Humphry Ward, author of "Robert Elsmere," of whom very little is known in this country. It is stated, incidentally, that Mr. John W. Lovell is about to send Mrs. Ward $500 on account of the sale of his edition of her novel. To the same number of The Critic the Rev. Robert Collyer contributes two interesting letters of Charles Lamb, which have been overlooked even by Elia's best and latest editor.

The English Illustrated Magazine, published by Macmillan & Co., is to be enlarged to seventy pages, the price remaining the same (15 cents). Besides the usual instalment of a long novel, each number will contain a complete short story or part of a short serial. The editor intends to strengthen the purely literary portions of the magazine. As the Tribune says: "It is to be hoped that the change means increasing prosperity, for this is one of the most refined and interesting of the publications of the time."

The Home-maker, the new monthly magazine edited by Marion Harland, has just been published by the Home-maker Co., 24 W. 23d St., N. Y. The first number bears out the promises made in advance announcements as to the aims and scope of the magazine. The contributions, chiefly devoted to the subjects of making the home comfortable, to study, the nursery, and the thousand and one things that go to make a home worth living in, are to the point, bright and readable. It is an undertaking that deserves success.

LESTER WALLACK's second article of "Memories of the Last Fifty Years," in Scribner's for November, will contain reminiscences of Charles Kean, Ellen Tree, Laura Keane, William E. Burton, Chanfrau, and many others, with portraits. There will also be a striking full-page portrait of Mr. Wallack and his granddaughter, taken for the magazine during the past summer at his country home in Stamford. Robert Louis Stevenson's romantic novel, which will begin in the November Scribner's, has for its central figures a Scotch laird and his two sons, one a follower of King James, and the other loyal to King George. The time of the story is near the middle of the eighteenth century, and the scene is laid in many lands. It is believed that "The Master of Balantrae" will rival "Kidnapped" in popularity.

THE October Magazine of American History is a rich and welcome number. It opens with the first part of a romantic chapter of Texas history, entitled "The City of a Prince," by Lee C. Harby, the graphic story of a German colonization scheme of some forty years ago, in which the English took a sly hand, and which resulted in the founding of the city of New Braunfels, in Texas, by Prince Solms, the Lord of Braunfels, a cousin of Queen Victoria. Other articles are: "Site of Old Fort Massachusetts," by Dr. D. D. Slade; "Vindication of General Samuel Holden Parsons," from the charges of treasonable correspondence with the enemy in the Revolution, by Hon. G. B. Loring; an "Unpublished Letter of President John Adams;" "A Boston Newspaper of the Revolution," by Hon. Horatio King; "The Marquis de Lotbinière," by John Horn, of Montreal; "A Trip from New York to Niagara, in 1829," by Col. William L. Stone; "Revolutionary Houses in New Jersey," by Andrew Mellick, Jr.; and a sketch of the "House of General Rufus Putnam, where the Ohio Company originated," by J. A. Smith. All the minor departments are good. There is not a dull page in the number.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CATSKILL, N. Y.—Fire destroyed the interior and stock in the bazar and book-store of H. Van Gorden. The loss is estimated at $9000, on which there is an insurance of $5200 on stock, $300 on store fixtures, and $2500 on the building.

CINCINNATI, O.—O'Neil & Healy, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

NEBRASKA CITY, NEB.—Carl F. Pirz, bookseller, has sold out.

SIoux CITY, IA.—Webster & Welsh, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

STEVENS POINT, WIS.—H. D. McCulloch, dealer in books, etc., has been succeeded by H. D. McCulloch & Co.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. JOHN FERGUSON, for the last seven years with R. Worthington, has entered the employ of Gebbie & Co., of Philadelphia. He is at present in New York, stopping at the Astor House, where he will be pleased to show his New York friends samples of the new books announced by his firm elsewhere in this issue.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GEORGE A. LEAVITT & Co. announce that their annual Holiday Trade Sale will commence Nov. 27. Invoices or lists of books must be sent in before the 27th of this month, comprising titles, quantities, retail price, and style of binding.

BRENTANO'S have decided to make the discount on the forthcoming book by Dr. Sir Morell Mackenzie one-third off for lots of from one to twenty-five copies, and two-fifths on lots from twenty-five to fifty copies. Special discounts on larger quantities.

A. J. HOLMAN & Co., Philadelphia, desire to inform the trade that if any were overlooked in the distribution of their new catalogue of Family Bibles they will be supplied on application. They report that their new styles of Family Bibles are having a large sale.

EDWARD MEEKS, Philadelphia, has in preparation a second edition of Roper's "Handbook of Modern Steam Fire-Engines," which has been thoroughly revised and enlarged so as to bring the whole matter down to the present time. Many new illustrations have also been added.

DE WOLFE, FISKE & Co., Boston, have in press a new book by C. M. Newell, author of "The Voyage of the Fleetwing," entitled "The Isle of Palms," adventures while wrecking for gold, encounter with a mad whale, battle with a devil-fish, and capture of a mermaid. It will form a volume of the Fleetwing Series.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation a new library edition of Alexandre Dumas' "The Three Musketeers," "Twenty Years After," and "The Vicomte de Bragelonne, or, ten years later," to be known as the D'Artagnan Romances. These three novels will be issued in ten volumes, translated into English, unabridged, and handsomely printed in clear type. Two hundred and fifty (numbered) copies will be printed in larger paper.

GEBBIE & Co., Philadelphia, call attention elsewhere in this issue to a number of artistic volumes. Among the more prominent of these is a volume of fifty highly finished photogravures by Goupil & Co., from celebrated paintings by some of the foremost modern European and American artists, entitled "Œuvres Choies de Grands Maitres Modernes." We also note on their list Longfellow's poem of Nuremberg (issued by permission of Houghton, Mifflin & Co.), illustrated with 28 photogravures from views of this charming old city; a new edition of the "Memoirs of the Count de Grammont," elaborately gotten up; sumptuous editions of the works of Robert Burns, "Manon Lescaut," Shakespeare's "Songs and Sonnets," Goethe's "Reynard, the Fox," and Makart's "The Five Senses," and a number of other works, all handsome specimens of the printer's and engraver's art.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

OCTOBER 15, 3 P.M.—Library of Old and Recent English Literature.—Bangs.

The Christmas Bookshelf.

There will be “a new departure” in the imprint edition of the CHRISTMAS ISSUE of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for 1888.

New title, as above, and new cover of attractive design, in colors.

As usual, special articles on leading books, the finest specimen illustrations from others, full descriptive summary of new books and stationery novelties, reference price-lists covering the ILLUSTRATED WORKS, BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG, and other CHOICE BOOKS published during 1888, etc.

Furnished at the earliest possible date, orders recorded in order of receipt. As paper is made for it, we need prompt word.

Prices are put below cost of manufacture, to insure the widest circulation to advertising.

This is the most representative of the Christmas issues and gives best value to both dealers and advertisers.

To avoid delay it is absolutely necessary that copy for imprint, together with full directions for forwarding, should accompany the order. All packages sent by express unpaid, unless other shipping directions are given.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

For 1888 (Sixteenth Year).

Large 8vo, about 3000 pages. With Duplex Index. Cloth, $2.00.

---

The Trade List Annual for 1888, just ready, contains:

1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names.
2. A complete list by author, title, and subject of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY from July, 1887, to June, 1888.
3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1888, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we have decided to apply it in the future to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

 Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for 80 cents per copy extra.

Will Publish Saturday, Oct. 20:

THE POETIC AND PROSE WORKS OF JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER.

New Riverside Edition, from entirely new electrotypes. With notes by Mr. WHITTIER. The Poetic Works in four volumes, crown 8vo; the Prose Works in three volumes, uniform in all respects with the Riverside Edition of Longfellow's Works. With two etched portraits and three steel-engraved portraits of Mr. Whittier. The set, seven volumes, $10.50; half calf, $19.25; half levant, $28.00.

Volumes I. and II. of Poetic Works now ready. Crown 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $1.50.

This is an entirely new edition of Mr. Whittier's Complete Works. The text has been carefully revised by the author, who has added such notes as seemed desirable concerning the occasion of any poem or prose article, or the circumstances under which it was written. This feature lends especial value and interest to the edition. The last volume of the Poetic Works will contain, in an Appendix, poems heretofore omitted by Mr. Whittier from the successive general collections of his poetry. It will also include an Index to the four volumes, and a table of First Lines of all the poems.

The Prose Writings, in addition to those heretofore collected, will embrace a number of essays, sketches, prefaces, and letters, brought together from a variety of sources, and indicating the breadth of the writer's sympathy and the interest which he has always taken in politics, religion, and literature.

The publishers congratulate themselves and the public that Mr. Whittier has been able to prepare his works for their permanent form in American literature.

The five portraits represent Mr. Whittier at different periods from the beginning of his career as a writer to the present date.

THE PECKSTER PROFESSORSHIP.

By J. P. QUINCY. 1 vol., 16mo, $1.25.

"The Peckster Professorship" is a story based on, or suggesting, facts that might well engage the attention of the Society for Psychical Research. This hint will sufficiently indicate the special kind of interest which one would anticipate in reading the story. It is written with admirable care and has an atmosphere of high breeding which is peculiarly welcome and by no means too common.

THE DIVINA COMMEDIA OF DANTE ALIGHIERI.

Translated into English verse, with notes and illustrations, by JOHN AUGUSTINE WILSTACH, translator of the Complete Works of Virgil. In two volumes, crown 8vo, $5.00.

Mr. Wilstach is known to the literary and classical world by his translation of the complete works of Virgil. He has now prepared, upon the same plan, a translation of the great work of Dante, to the study of which he has given years of careful and critical labor, and his work cannot fail to challenge the attention of all who are interested in Dante's masterpiece.

AFTER NOONTIDE.

Selected and edited by MARGARET E. WHITE. 1 vol., 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

This little book contains passages designed to add sunshine and comfort to the afternoon of life. The selections are made from numerous writers, of widely differing schools of literature and religion, but they are rendered harmonious by the spirit which prevades them all of cheerful acceptance of the peculiar blessings which advancing years bring, and the recognition of the fact that though some burdens and infirmities may accompany these years, yet they are, or at least may be, full of cheer, of pleasant memories, and of serene hope. The book can hardly fail to be read with interest and with profit by those for whom it has been especially prepared.

PUBLISHED TO-DAY:Children's Stories of the Great Scientists.

By HENRIETTA CHRISTIAN WRIGHT. With 8 full-page portraits. 12mo, $1.25.

Miss Wright, the author of two very popular books for children, has written brief, entertaining biographies of sixteen of the world's great scientists, presenting graphic pictures of the men and their times, and explaining, in clear, simple language, the nature and importance of their discoveries. The narratives are fresh and animated, and well designed to interest and instruct boys and girls.

Stuff and Nonsense.

By A. B. FROST. New Edition. With additional illustrations and sketches by the author. 8vo, $1.25.

Mr. Frost has prepared a new cover and a number of additional drawings for this fresh edition of his amusing book, some of the old illustrations being also redrawn.

"There is at least a bushel of fun in the book. The most solemn visage must, we should think, relax into unwonted mirthfulness when contemplating the delightful freaks of Mr. Frost's pencil. And it is honest, wholesome fun from cover to cover."—Boston Traveller.

*DARLEY EDITION.Reveries of a Bachelor;

OR, A BOOK OF THE HEART. By DONALD G. MITCHELL ("Ik Marvel").

New Edition, with F. O. C. Darley's original illustrations printed in tint. Square 8vo, $3.00.

"It is one of the most tender and touching works in our literature. It presents the reveries of a young man, as he looks forward into the probabilities and possibilities of his future life, with all its unknown trials and enjoyments, its hopes and fears, its aspirations and despondencies. . . . It must be read as a consummate, artistic, gem-like whole."—New York Tribune.

Heroes of the Olden Time.

By JAMES BALDWIN. 3 vols. "A Story of the Golden Age," "The Story of Siegfried," both fully illustrated by H. Pyle; and "The Story of Roland," fully illustrated by R. B. Birch. 12mo, $1.50 each; the set, $4.00.

Three books in which the Homeric legends, the Norse myths, and Mediæval romance are put in the form of connected attractive stories for young readers.

"Mr. Baldwin's work in the 'Golden Age' as in 'Siegfried' and 'Roland,' is of exceptional merit, and is to be classed with the 'Tanglewood Tales' of Hawthorne rather than with the average story for the young. Mr. Pyle's drawings are of great artistic excellence and of genuinely illustrative character."—Providence Journal.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish on or about November 1 a new volume by Sir John Lubbock, elaborately illustrated, entitled "On the Senses, Instincts, and Intelligence of Animals, with Special Reference to Insects." It will form volume 64 of The International Scientific Series.
CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week "Children's Stories of the Great Scientists," brief entertaining biographies of sixteen of the world's great scientists, by Miss H. C. Wright, with eight full-page portraits; a new edition of A. B. Frost's "Stuff and Nonsense," with additional illustrations and sketches; a new edition of Ik Marvel's incomparable "Reveries of a Bachelor," with F. O. C. Darley's original illustrations printed in tint; and "Heroes of the Olden Time," which is the general title of the three volumes by James Baldwin, comprising "A Story of the Golden Age," "The Story of Siegfried," both fully illustrated by H. Pyle, and "The Story of Roland," fully illustrated by R. B. Birch.

D. APPLETON & Co. announce the following in addition to the books noted in our Fall Announcement Number: "Raleigh Westgate, or, Epimenes in Maine," by Helen Kendrick Johnson, and "The Apostate," from the French of Eugene Daudet, in the Town and County Library; "How She Did It, or, comfort on $150 a year," by Mary Cruger; "From Flag to Flag," a volume of experiences and adventures in the South during the war, and in Mexico and Cuba; "A Manual of Decorative Composition," for designers, decorators, architects, and industrial artists, by Henri Mayeux, architect to the French Government, with nearly 300 illustrations; "A Dictionary of Terms in Art," elaborately illustrated; "Nature and Man—essays scientific and philosophical," by the late Dr. W. B. Carpenter, with an introductory memoir by J. E. Carpenter; and "The Folk Lore of Plants," by T. F. Thiselton Dyer.
TICKNOR & COMPANY have just ready, "Four Years with the Army of the Potomac," by Regis De Trobriand, Brevet Major-General U. S. Vols., translated by George K. Dauchy, late Lieutenant Commanding Battery, 12th N. Y. Light Artillery, with maps and steel portrait of Gen. De Trobriand, a gallant French nobleman and officer who served with distinction in our war; "The Youngest Miss Lorton, and other stories," by Nora Perry, author of "A Flock of Girls," etc.; "Fagots for the Fireside," by Lucretia Peabody Hale, an excellent book of reference, containing descriptions and directions for more than one hundred home games and amusements, old and new; "Young Maids and Old," an admirable new story by Clara Louise Burnham; also "The Dramatic Year, 1887-88," a brief criticism of important theatrical events in the United States, with a sketch of the season in London, by William Archer, edited by Edward Fuller, with contributions by numerous American writers of prominence.
HARPER & BROS. have just ready Besant's "The World Went Very Well Then" in a new library edition, handsomely illustrated and containing a portrait of the author. This will shortly be followed by "All Sorts and Conditions of Men." They have also just issued "In Far Lochaber," William Black's last story, which ends in the November issue of Harper's Magazine, and which is considered by admirers of Black as one of his strongest books, both in regard to plot and character sketching; "The Boy Travellers in Australasia," by Col. Thos. W. Knox, an interesting description of the wonderful isles of the Pacific; "The Household of Glen Holly," in which is exploited the life of a motherless family in New England, at school and at home, under the fostering care of an older sister, by that prolific and agreeable writer of children's stories, Mrs. Lucy C. Lillie; "Marching to Victory," another volume of the history of the Civil War for young people, by C. C. Coffin, liberally illustrated; and "Shoshone and Other Western Wonders," an account of sights and scenery worth seeing in the far West, by Edwards Roberts, with a delightful introduction by Charles Francis Adams. Messrs. Harper & Bros. announce that John Morley's English Men of Letters series, which hitherto has been issued in thirty-six volumes, has now been compressed into a neat People's Edition of twelve volumes, in handsome cloth binding—three Lives to a volume—at $12 a set.

"An experience of many years as a ship-owner and merchant has convinced me," says Mr. Allen in his preface, "of the dangerous character of what is known as 'protection,' and has made me familiar with many of the evils arising from it. The following pages are the outcome of my study of the subject and my practical acquaintance with the working of the tariff." His argument is presented under the following headings supported by special statistics: The home and the foreign market; The meaning of a surplus; The sources of wealth in the community; The principles governing development; The unwritten law of commerce the true guide; Protection powerless to protect the carrier; Subsidies to shipping hasten the issue; Progress of British and declension of American shipping; The destructiveness of the tariff to our fundamental resources.

Ames, Lucia T. Great thoughts for little thinkers. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1889 [1888.] c. 7+337 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

An effort to adapt the Bible narrative and some of the elementary facts of science to the understanding of young people. The story of the creation, the hidden forces in the world, the manner in which the first people lived, are described as simply as it is possible to describe such complex subjects. The chapters on "What is God?" "What are we?" "Heaven and hell," "Sin," "What is the devil?" "What is the Bible?" and "What is God's word?" are broad in treatment and free from bias. The balance of the book is given up to the leading narratives of the Old and New Testaments.

Barrett, Frank. A recoiling vengeance. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 7+280 p. il. S. (Appletons' town and country lib., no. 14.) pap., 50 c.

George Flexmore married late in life, after inheriting a large fortune. His wife dies after the birth of their daughter, and he is left disconsolate. Fearing his own life has not many years to run, he turns his attention to making his will and getting a proper guardian for his child. He dies suddenly, and an unscrupulous nephew, who has counted on his fortune, finds himself penniless. The nephew brings an accusation of poisoning against a doctor that Mr. Flexmore was known to trust and respect, but the accusation recoils on the nephew in the most unexpected manner. A charming young lady, who is first a nurse in Flexmore's house and then the guardian of his child, is the heroine. The story is exciting and full of surprises, and is told by a crusty old lawyer.

Björnson, Björnstjerne. Sigurd Slembe: a dramatic trilogy; from the Norwegian by W: Morton Payne. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. tr. 8+323 p. D. cl., $1.50.

To the majority of English readers Björnson is known solely as the author of a series of charming stories of Norwegian peasant life. But to his countrymen his fame is far from being founded upon these stories alone. He is chiefly great not as a novelist, but as a lyric and dramatic poet. Of the long series of dramatic works in prose and verse which he has produced, the trilogy of "Sigurd Slembe" is said to be altogether the finest. "It is characterized," so says the translator, "by the greatest breadth of treatment, by the most masterly delineation of character, and by the highest poetic truth." It has a definite historical basis. During the first half of the twelfth century Norway was plunged into civil strife by the pretensions to the throne of one Sigurd surnamed "Slembe," an illegitimate son of the great King Magnus Barfod. The trilogy deals with the life of this pretender, and is a tragic tale of indomitable but ever-thwarted will. It has been performed in Norway, the performance requiring two evenings.

Bolton, Sarah K. Successful women. Bost., The D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 3-233 p. por. D. cl., $1.

Consists of twelve brief biographies of American women who have in various walks and professions earned success. Among them are Marion Harland (Mrs. Terhune); Mrs. G. R. Alden (Pansy); Clara Barton, the philanthropist; Alice Freeman, the former president of Wellesley College; Rachel Bodley, dean of the Woman's Medical College, Philadelphia; Mrs. Candace Wheeler and her daughter Dora, who have done so much to develop the love for decorative art in this country; with others who have gained equally distinguished places in other departments of art, literature, and industry.

Bramston, M. Silver Star Valley. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1888.] 8+235 p. il. D. cl., 90 c.

Silver Star Valley is supposed to be situated in one of the eastern spurs of the Rocky mountains. This valley of the western wilds is the scene of the most of the story, which deals principally with miners and desperadoes, whose lives become greatly changed through the efforts of an English clergyman and young Ted Allan.

A novel void of plot. The interest depends entirely upon character delineation and incident. The personages are too numerous to mention, but each one fills his nook in the book satisfactorily. The events are Allison's sacrifice, Matiel's exploit, a railroad disaster, and a pretty romance. "Aunt Diana" is the presiding genius, and her name graces the title-page of a healthy story for young girls.

A brief sketch of Miss Alcott's life—not intended however, to take the place of the full biography which, it is hoped, will be prepared under the auspices of her own family. The aim of this little memento has been to show "how truly her writings represent herself, and came out of her own varied and fruitful life." A few of her poems written in childhood are given, and some poems of her father. The book is well illustrated with views of the different houses the Alcotts occupied, and there is a colored frontispiece representing Miss Alcott reading "Little women" to numberless little children, who surround her with eager, listening faces.
- Chisholm, Helle V. Who wins? A story for boys. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1888.] c. 314 p. r il. S. cl., $1.15.
The story presents two types of life, from boy to manhood. One sets out with many disadvantages of position and circumstances, but with true moral principle which nothing could swerve. The other starts with many advantages and opportunities, but lacking uprightness. We follow the two boys through their early years. The former's plans are thwarted, but he grows nobler through all discouragements. The latter is prosperous in worldly ways, but his character remains the same or deteriorates. We see them both in later life, when Archie Dinmore is the honored and trusted man and Noel Gilroy is still treacherous and unprincipled as when he was a student.

Like most of Mrs. Conklin's heroines Grace Maxima is made aware of her shortcomings by being severely tried; her diary, begun in school-days, describes herself and her aims and objects, passes rapidly over an unglorious girlhood, tells of a hasty marriage, dwells for a time on the trials of her widowhood and motherhood, but lingers until the story closes with the days of her widowhood and tells how she encompassed her desire by going through as many changes as flax before it becomes linen.

An enforced marriage, a faithless husband, a broken-hearted wife, who is supposed to have committed suicide, a second marriage, and the discovery of the first wife under an assumed name, her seemingly hopeless insanity, her near approach to death through fire, and the restoration of her reason, are only a few of the leading events of a story which carries the reader interested to the end.

The author of "The Leavenworth case" again tells, with all her well-known skill and literary talent, a story of an apparent crime, and the means taken to unravel the mystery. The scene is New York, and the heroine the beautiful daughter of the wealthy family of Gretorex. She is about to marry a famous New York doctor, and a misunderstanding occurs on the very eve of the marriage, which calls in the aid of a detective. The wedding, however, takes place, but has a startling interruption in a wild scream from no one knows where, which throws the bride into a painful state of terror and faintness. The death of a young girl by prussic acid the same night is traced to the Gretorex mansion, and the reader is at once in the depth of an apparently inexplicable mystery.

Tells the stories of a party of young German girls who have just left school. The scene is in Germany, and of course the gumpies we get of home-life are German. The girls' little pleasures, their young men friends who become their lovers and husbands, their efforts towards the highest culture of heart and mind, all form a pretty, readable story. The merry meetings of a cooking-class, from whose detailed doings the reader may gain a great deal of practical information, run all through the book.

Henty, G. A. Captain Bayley's heir: a tale of the gold fields of California. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1889 [1888.] 386 p. il. D. cl., $2. A valorous deed of Frank Norris, his expulsion from Westminster, a sudden flight from England to America, his mode of gaining a live ihood, a wreck on the Mississippi, some daring adventures on the prairies, and a number of adventures in the California gold diggings are the minor incidents that surround the finding of "Captain Bayley's heir," and lend exciting element to a very good boys' book.

Henty, G. A. The lion of St. Mark's: a tale of Venice; ill. by Gordon Browne. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1889 [1888.] 384 p. D. cl., $2.

Some facts in Venetian history form a background for a fictitious hero. The son of an English trader becomes aware of a plot against Venice. Upon his manner of using this knowledge and rescuing the city from conspirators the story depends. The minor incidents are always exciting and sometimes romantic; they occur on the canals or lagoons that surround Venice. The mouth of "The lion of St. Mark's" plays an important part because of the usage which Francis Hammond puts it to. The characters are made up of men who made their mark in the history of Venice.

Hume, Fergus W. Madame Midas: a story of Australian mining life. N. Y., G. Munro, [1888.] 3-253 p. S. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1127.) pap., 20 c.

Kirk, Hyland C. When age grows young: a romance. N. Y., C. T. Dillingham, [1888.] c. 281 p. S. pap., 50 c.

A strange theory about immortal life. A remarkably clairvoyant hero, a villain of some power of action, and the doings of a charming young woman are embodied in a plot of much interest. The characters are well delineated. Daniel Ritter's experiences prove whether it is possible for "Age to grow young." In a somewhat humorous vein the author disclaims in his preface that Arthur Rulison is simply the exponent of his own views.

*Lefebvre, Ernest. Embroidery and lace; tr. from the French, with about 150 il. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. O. cl., $3.50.

Logan, Algernon Sydney. Jesus in modern life. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. 299 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A study of the life of Jesus from the standpoint of Renan and Strauss. Accepting him from the start as man only, and not of miraculous birth, all the episodes of his career as presented in the New Testament are subjected to the test of reason. All that is apparently supernatural, even the miracles, are logically explained. The book, in spite of its standpoint, is reverent and instructive, applying the sayings of Jesus helpfully to the life of to-day.

McCoosh, Ja., D.D. Gospel sermons. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1888. c. 4-336 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Hitherto Dr. McCoosh's published works have been chiefly philosophy. That the public should know that much as he values philosophy, he paces "the gospel of Jesus Christ" above it, he sends out this volume of sermons, which are selected from the many he has delivered in Scotland, in Ulster, and to the students in Princeton College. He considers them the ones in which he has "been enabled to proclaim most clearly the way of salvation."

McCulloch, Hugh. Men and measures of half a century: sketches and comments. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 23+542 p. O. cl., $4.

Hugh McCulloch made his first entrance into public life under Secretary Chase, who called him to the important post of Comptroller of the Currency, when the national banking system was to be organized. He acquitted himself so well that Lincoln made him Secretary of the Treasury, which position he held through Johnson's administration, and afterwards through President Arthur. His opportunities for seeing and studying prominent men he made constant use of, as his book reveals. His judgments are broad and impartial, his opinions his own, and his whole method of writing that of a man of unusual intelligence and discrimination. Hence his work is unusual in its interest and among the most valuable of our reminiscences of men of recent years. His defence of President Johnson and Gen. McClellan, his criticism of Gen. Grant, his appreciation of President Cleveland, his views on the tariff question, his anecdotes of Chase, Stanton, and other public men, are given with a winning frankness and dignity that rivet attention. His own early life occupies a large part of the volume.

Moore, G: Confessions of a young man. 2d ed. N. Y., Brentano's, [1888.] 199 p. S. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A rich, selfish young man of the world, with some culture and literary gifts, is the speaker. His career for ten years in Paris and in London, during which he sees all that is good or bad in life, and strives unsuccessfully to be an artist, a poet, a journalist, and a novelist, is the theme upon which he eloquently discourses. His criticisms upon English and French writers and artists of today are quite piquant.

Morris, C., comp. Half-hours with the best foreign authors. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. '87. 4 v., ea., 512 p. 1 il. D. cl., per set, $6.

Compiled for the enjoyment of those who speak English only, and yet would read the masterpieces of the literature of the whole world, in versions which preserve all the value of the ideas and which equal or closely approach their originals in beauty of rhetoric and grace of expression. The selections, taken from the writings of the most famous foreign authors, are both in prose and verse and divided into four volumes, namely, the literatures of Greece and Rome; those of the German and other Teutonic nations; those of France; and those of Spain and Italy—the latter volume contains also some selections from the Portuguese and Russian. The selections are brief and designed for half-hour readings.

Page, T: Nelson. Two little Confederates. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 5+156 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

The story of two little boys who are left at home on a Virginia plantation with their mother and the negroes, their father and uncle having gone on to Richmond. Frank and Willy only see the bright side of the war, all the hardships and changes being so much fun to them. They have many adventures with both Confederates and "Yankees," and there is also a dash of pathos over a dying Federal soldier. The fact that the incidents are just such as might and probably did happen in war-time to two bright, brave little boys makes the book most fascinating. Illustrated with a number of full-page pictures.

Payn, Ja. The ea esdropper: an unparalleled experience. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 69 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1227.) pap., 10 c.

Pearson, H: Clemens. Her opportunity. N. Y., Ward & Drummond, 1889 [1888.] c. 3-462 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author's views upon certain social questions are illustrated in a story whose scenes alternate between the most fashionable quarter and the dirtiest slums; in localities familiar to every New Yorker the votary of fashion mingles freely with the ill-paid workman, and even the beggar or the most vicious rough. The heroine is young, beautiful, wealthy, and of high social position, when she becomes an instrument of reform and gives herself up to a scheme to better the condition of the paper-box makers. Upon her furtherance of this scheme and her manner of dealing with a political question the interest depends, although the book has side issues, dealing with intemperance and its attending evils, and the bearing that mission work has upon this evil. Author of "His opportunity."

Philpott, H: J. Tariff chats. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 39 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 52.) pap., 25 c.

Addressed to the American citizen who, when asked his views on the tariff question, answers, "I don't understand it." These little chats endeavor, quite successfully, in homely language to explain the "mystery"—by showing what is a tariff tax, what are trusts, what are the duties on iron, steel, etc., what are the relations between the tariff and wages, etc., etc.

Phyfe, W: H: P. The school pronouncer, based on Webster's unabridged dictionary: a guide to correct pronunciation by means of exercises in the elementary sounds and their symbols, drills in the phonetic analysis of words, and lessons in words liable to be mispronounced. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 366 p. S. cl., $1.25.

Prepared for the use of both teacher and pupil. The book is very carefully graded, the first part being exceedingly elementary and easy. It is divided into lessons throughout, which are so short that they need not occupy more than two or three minutes at the beginning of each reading-lesson.

Poor, H: V. Twenty-two years of protection. N. Y., H. V. & H. W. Poor, [1888.] c. 222 p. O. pap., 25 c.

Mr. Poor, the well-known editor of the "Manual of Railroads of the U.S.," divides his work into three periods, that of "Construction" covering the period from the formation of our government to the close of the administration of John Quincy Adams; that of "Destruction" extending from the beginning of Jackson's administration to the restoration of peace in 1865; that of "Restoration" extending from 1865 to 1887. It is this last division of time that the title covers, the book aiming to show the advantages of the protective policy during that period. The other divisions only lead up to this, being a historical résumé of the question. Some twenty pages of railroad statistics complete the pamphlet, and are offered as illustration and evidence of the writer's argument.

Proudfit, D: L. Mask and domino. [Verses.] Phil., Porter & Coates, [1888.] c. 154 p. D. cl., $1.

Rand, Rev. E: A. Making the best of it; or, tumble up, Tom. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1888.] 6+281 p. il. D. (Look ahead series.) cl., $1.25.

In the "Look ahead series" the author has aimed to show that traits developed in youth cling tenaciously, and make or mar our entire lives; he claims that the same quality that carries us safely through is just as liable to wreck us. His views are exemplified in the present book, in the career of Tom Parlin, whose advent into the story is a mystery. His boyhood at the Parlins and his manner of baffling difficulties are the chief themes of a book which gives some room to the temperance question.

Roe, E: P. Miss Lou. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1888. c. 5+368 p. D. cl., $1.50.

As the last work from the pen of the late Mr. Roe, this story is invested with a sorrowful interest. The scene of it is laid in Virginia, near the close of the late war. "Miss Lou" is a young Southern girl living with her guardian, Mr. Baron, on an out-of-the-way plantation, which, up to the time when the story opens, has not witnessed any of the horrors of war. Miss Lou has been taught to believe all "Yankees" are brutes and cowards, and that when they do come they (the Southerners) have to fear the worst. At last the fortunes of war bring the "Yankees" to Mr. Baron's plantation, and a battle is fought within sight of it. Miss Lou has a wonderful experience from this out, and is surprised to find how false are all the impressions she has had inculcated. Her release from a marriage with a hated Southern cousin and her love for a young Northern soldier is not the least interesting part of the book.

Stables, Gordon, M.D. In the dashing days of old; or, the world-wide adventures of Willie Grant. N. Y., T. Whittaker, [1888.] 380 p. ll. D. cl., $1.50.

"The dashing days of old" were the times between 1806-1815, the close of the war of 1812. A treasure which was lost in a feud between two Highland clans seems to be the motive of the story. Willie Grant recounts the legend of the star of Carrickreen to his friend, and they resolve to unearth the treasure. Before their plans are realized, Willie enters the British Navy, has some remarkable adventures on board H. M. S. Castile, is suddenly transferred to the Dardanelle, does some fighting in Canadian waters, and is the most important personage in a court-martial. When the tale finally does revert to earlier scenes the treasure-trove again looms up, and Willie figures in a pretty romance.

Ten lectures by the editor of The Sunday-School Times and the author of "Kadesh Barnea, the blood covenant," and other religious works. Mr. Trumbull has been specially interested for over a quarter of a century on this subject—hence was a particularly happy choice as a lecturer. His lectures are full of evidence of his long experience in this direction and of the earnest thought he brought to his work. There are very full bibliographical, scriptural, and topical indexes, which add much to the value of the book.

*Walworth, Mansfield T. Zahara: a novel. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1888. D. cl., $1.50.

*Waterloo days; the narrative of an Englishwoman resident at Brussels in June, 1815. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1888. 176 p. D. (Bohn's select lib.) D. cl., 60 c.

Wells, D. A. Relation of the tariff to wages: a simple catechism for those who desire to understand this matter. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 45 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 54.) pap., 20 c.

This little book is fully described by its title. The questions are just such questions as everybody interested in the subject is at present asking, and the answers are broad, dispassionate, and rich in valuable information condensed into a very small compass.

Westall, W. Mr. Fortescue: an Andean romance. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 230 p. D. (Stories of romantic adventure, no. 1.) pap., 40 c.

The romances of Rider Haggard have evidently inspired William Westall. His story is located in the Andes of South America, at about the beginning of the century. Mr. Fortescue, the hero, is introduced as living in the present, and as a handsome man of about fifty, although his career, according to his own story, had begun with the battle of Salamanca. Among other marvelous things he has discovered is the secret of life. There are adventures with a strange tribe of Indians, the discovery of a diamond mine, and a good deal that is wild, exciting, and improbable, but all highly entertaining.

Winslow, Margaret E. The Y's, and their work. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1888.] c. 316 p. 1 il. S. cl., $1.15.

This story has been written in the interest of Christian temperance. The evils of the drinking customs are shown as they exist in much fashionable "society." The work of the "Y's," that is, of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union, is well delineated.

Yonge, Charlotte M. Our new mistress; or, changes at Brookfield Earl. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1888. 6+199 p. il. D. cl., net, $1.25.

The author of "The heir of Redcliffe" writes of the antagonism that was aroused in Brookfield Earl by the advent of a new school-mistress. A pupil-teacher tells of Miss Martin's struggles to maintain her position in the midst of belligerent scholars and their parents. Bertha Hewitt's tale is told in a quaint and natural way, with here and there a bit of local gossip, or an incident of English rural life to relieve their lengthy detail; to Miss Amy's domestic tragedy she gives especial prominence, and finally tells what brought her to a realization of her own faults.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

A SERIAL by Mrs. Amélie Rives Chanler, entitled "On Bones's Island," is to begin in Collier's Once a Week for October 20.

EDWARD ABBOTT has sold his share in the Boston Literary World to Mr. E. H. Haines, his editorship ceasing with the issue of October 13.

MRS. MARY HALLOCK FOOTE begins her series of "Pictures of the Far West" with a full-page design in the November Century, entitled "Looking for Camp." Miss Thomas has written a poem to accompany the picture.

THE frontispiece for the November number of the Magazine of Art is an etching after a painting by F. A. Bridgeman, the favorite painter of Oriental scenes. It is called "A Hot Bargain," and represents two Arabs arguing over the price of a horse.

THE first number of a new edition of the Paris Illustré, with English text, has been published. It contains a finely executed portrait of President Cleveland. The International News Co., New York, are the agents for Paris Illustré in this country.

MAYOR HEWITT's more or less cheerful face adorns the first page of Harper's Weekly for October 17, and the double-page illustration represents a "Reception at the White House." Charles A. Dana's daughter, Mrs. Zoe Dana Underhill, contributes a short story entitled "The Man and the Mouse." The Supplement is devoted to a description, pictorial and otherwise, of "The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey," by Henry P. Wells.

Harper's Bazar for October 20 contains numerous beautiful plates and descriptions of autumn and winter fashions, a fine double-page illustration of working patterns from the South Kensington Royal School of Art Needle-Work, an exquisite engraving of Sir Peter Lely's portrait of the celebrated Duchess of Grammont, and a charming picture entitled "When Jack's at Sea," numerous amusing humorous cuts, a bright story by Miss Ticknor, "The Tragedy of the Blower," a timely article on Tableau-Vivants, a useful paper on The Layette, one of Colonel Higginson's brilliant essays, and much other useful and entertaining matter.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 20, 1888.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE NEW POOLE'S INDEX.

THE publication, on Saturday last, of the first supplementary volume of the "Index to Periodical Literature," of which Dr. Poole's name is the synonym and for which his associate, Mr. Fletcher, is entitled to great credit as the managing editor, is for more than one reason a notable event in publishing. The work now known as Poole's Index is, practically the second enlargement, that is, the third issue, of the Index prepared originally by Mr. Poole while a student in Yale College, which has given him a name wherever English books or periodicals are known probably little expected in those student days when he began his modest work. So generally, in fact, is the book quoted by his name, that he may almost be said to have got into the dictionary, a form of immortality which comes to but few men. The honor is a deserved one, for in addition to the contributors who have written, and the editors who have got together the treasures of English periodical literature, the main usefulness of that great and increasing body of writing comes from the keys which Dr. Poole and his associate and their coöperators from the American Library Association have given us in this now colossal work. Old volumes which were before locked treasures are now open to us with a master-key which can be found in almost any of the great libraries of English books here or abroad.

The new volume is the first supplement to this great work, covering five years from 1882-1886.

inclusive. It is notable because it is the first step actually made in the important direction of making the great Index continuous. The work of the quarterly Coöperative Index issued from this office is in its measure supplementary of the great Index, and the issues of the last year and of the current year already furnish a supplement to the present supplement. In this way the reading public are now supplied, by consulting first the great Index, then this new five-yearly supplement, and then the few alphabets covering from January, 1887, to date, with a key to periodical literature reading in English which is most comprehensive. The new volume is one which ought to be in every library, and is necessarily a standard that should be on the shelves of all bookstores which number scholars among their clientèle. Booksellers, also, who deal at all in periodicals, or who take orders for back numbers of periodicals, will find it an important working tool to them. It will be but a poor return for the labors of the editors and of the publishers of this work if in its present shape it does not command very wide sale.

DUTY ON BOOKS IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

WHATEVER may be said for duties that "protect" American manufactures, and of duties on luxuries, says the Examiner (New York), there is no defence possible of the tax on imported books printed in foreign languages, which it is likely will never be reprinted or translated in this country. Such a tariff is merely a tax on intelligence, and, as it produces no revenue to speak of, there is no recompense for the annoyance it causes. Mr. H. M. Stanley writes thus to the Evening Post, in terms that all students and readers will heartily commend:

"If there is one duty in the present tariff more absurd and unjust than another it is the duty on books printed in foreign languages. Twenty-five per cent. is charged on all foreign books alike, whether they be in the English language, in German, French, Chinese, or Hottentot. From the point of view of protection this duty protects nothing and nobody. We cannot foster a French literature, for instance, in this country by any amount of protection. There are no publishers or writers to be protected by any tariff of this kind. As a measure for revenue this tax is an imposition on all advanced science and learning in this country. The specialist, who is but too often a teacher dependent on a meagre salary, must buy French and German books in order to maintain his standing and keep up with his specialty; and, in addition to the regular cost of importation, he is required to pay a tax which is often prohibitive. Further, this tax falls heavily upon the increasing class of cultured persons with short purses who take an interest in contemporary foreign literature. For a book whose list price in France is 3½ francs (67 cents), one must pay a dealer in this country $1.25. If the book were free of duty, the dealer, who can buy it in France at 40 per cent. discount, should make a fair profit by charging the American buyer about the equivalent.

lent of the foreign list price. It is certainly worth while for legislators who desire to favor science, learning, and general culture to see that, if the duty on all books be not remitted, at least the books printed in foreign languages be allowed to enter this country free of duty."

"THE SPICE OF LIFE" IN COURT.

MITCHELL & MILLER, publishers of Life, and F. A. Stokes & Brother have issued a circular announcing that they have secured an injunction in the Supreme Court against White & Allen to restrain them from publishing the volume entitled "The Spice of Life." It is claimed that Mr. Frederick A. Stokes originated the idea of issuing an annual collection of the best things published in Life under the title of "The Good Things of Life," and that when he proposed the matter to Messrs. Mitchell & Miller, they suggested the title of "The Spice of Life." Mr. Stokes' title was adopted, Mr. Mitchell reserving the other for possible use in connection with other excerpts from Life.

The complaint is made that Messrs. White & Allen, who were formerly partners of Mr. Stokes, knowing these facts, have seen fit to issue a volume bearing Mr. Mitchell's title, "The Spice of Life," and made it in close imitation of "The Good Things of Life." The publishers of Life and Messrs. Stokes & Brother have on these representations obtained an injunction in the New York Supreme Court of which the following is an extract: "It is hereby ordered that the said defendants, Frank Allen and Joel P. White, and their agents, servants, employees, and representatives, be, and they each and every one of them are, hereby enjoined and restrained from publishing, selling uttering, or offering for sale or distribution or circulation the publication or book mentioned in the said complaint and affidavits and entitled or called 'The Spice of Life,' so long as the same shall contain or have upon its cover or title, or in any way displayed upon it or in it, the name of Life in such form as now displayed, or in any form calculated to create the belief or impression that the said publication is a continuation of the publication known as 'The Good Things of Life,' or that the same consists of reproductions from the weekly illustrated paper published by the plaintiffs, Mitchell & Miller, and known as and called Life, until further order of this Court."

IMPORTANT RULING IN THE "OLD SLEUTH" CASE.

JUDGE INGRAHAM, of the New York Supreme Court, has handed down an opinion in the suit of George Munro vs. Erastus F. Beadle and another, which if sustained will probably open other cases where injunctions were granted on the assumption that English dictionary words could be monopolized as titles or trade-marks. The following is the text in full:

"The only act of the defendants complained of by the plaintiff is the introduction of the word 'Sleuth' in the title of certain stories published by the defendants.

"There was no attempt on the trial to show that the defendants had used any symbol or design invented by the plaintiff to designate his series, and unless the plaintiff can establish that he has in some way acquired the exclusive right to use the word 'Sleuth' in connection with stories of detectives, no right of the plaintiff has been infringed.

"The word 'Sleuth' has a well-defined meaning, and is defined by Webster to mean 'the track of man or beast as followed by the scent.'

"It is used in connection with a hound to indicate a hound that follows the track of a human being or animal, and as applied to man would have the same meaning.

"The adoption by the plaintiff of the name 'Old Sleuth' to designate the series of books published by him could hardly be said to give to the plaintiff the exclusive right to use the word 'Sleuth' in all future publications of every character so that the rest of the world must invent a new word to express that meaning. That would be the logical effect of sustaining the position taken by the plaintiff in this case.

"The titles adopted by the defendants in the publication of their books would be perfectly intelligible to any one having no knowledge of the use to which the word had been applied by the plaintiff, and, assuming that the plaintiff had acquired a trade-mark in the words used by him to designate his publications, nothing proved in this case would show that the defendants have violated any right that he has acquired.

"The plaintiff has, therefore, failed to show any cause of action against the defendants, and the complaint must be dismissed with costs."

A MONUMENTAL WORK ON BUTTERFLIES.

SAMUEL HUBBARD SCUDDER, of Cambridge, Mass., will shortly publish an extensive treatise on the "Butterflies of the Eastern United States and Canada," with special reference to New England. The preparation of this work was first announced by the author in 1869, in the American Naturalist and other journals of the day, and has thus been twenty years in progress, eight of which were given exclusively to its elaboration. The author at first intended to embrace in this work only the butterflies known to occur in New England or its immediate confines, but was finally induced to extend it so as to include in its descriptions and histories some account of all the butterflies of North America east of the Mississippi, excepting such as were found only in the unsettled parts of Canada, or south of Kentucky and Virginia. Not only every species, but also every genus, tribe, sub-family, and family, are described and discussed with a fulness never before attempted except in individual cases, including in each instance not merely the perfect form, but, when possible, the egg, the caterpillar at birth and in the succeeding stages, and the chrysalis, together with the distribution, life-history, habits, and environments of the insect, in which a great accumulation of facts and observations is embodied. Analytical tables, applicable to every stage, are used wherever possible. The author claims that no systematic work on butterflies has ever appeared in any language comparable with it in the complete elaboration of a single limited fauna, in attention to every stage of life, thorough and excellent illustration of every period of the butterfly's existence, and in careful detail of all structural features. It contains 17 plates of butterflies, 6 of eggs, 11 of caterpillars, 2 of the nests of caterpillars, 3 of chrysalids, 2 of parasites, 33 of structural details in all stages of life, 19 maps and groups of maps to illustrate the geographical distribution of the butterflies, and 3 portraits of early naturalists of this country—in all about 2000 figures on 96 plates, of which 40 or more are colored; the butterflies in a style of chromo-lithography never surpassed in any similar work. The printing of the plates was begun three years ago, and is now nearly completed.

The work will be published in twelve monthly parts of imperial octavo size, beginning with November next, each part containing 8 plates and about 144 pages of text. The work will be printed from type and in a limited edition. When completed it will make three volumes—two of text, one of plates. The price per part is $5, or $50 for the complete work. After publication the price will be $75, bound in half morocco.

KINGSLEY'S "WESTWARD HO!"

From the London Academy.

MESSRS. MACMILLAN have just issued the first volume of a cheap edition of Charles Kingsley's most popular works, consisting of "Westward Ho!" As a frontispiece is given the vignette portrait engraved by Jeens in 1876, which is far more characteristic than the full-length prefixed to the Eversley edition of the novels (1881). From the skeleton bibliography printed on the verso of the title-page, it is interesting to learn the following details. The first edition appeared in three volumes in 1855, and was reprinted in 1857. In the latter year appeared a new edition in one volume, which was reprinted three times before 1869. From 1871 onwards a new edition was called for in every year down to 1885; while in three years—1876, 1877, and 1879—the popular demand required two editions. By the way, it seems odd that no artist should yet have ventured to win for himself a name as the illustrator of "Westward Ho!"

DR. MACKENZIE'S BOOK.

THE text in full of Dr. Mackenzie's history of the case of the late Emperor Frederick was published on Sunday, the 14th inst., by a number of the leading journals of this country by a syndicate arrangement with the N. Y. Sun, which paid the English publishers £500 for advance sheets. The Milwaukee Herald was the only journal that had the exclusive right for America to publish the book in German. The German booksellers, according to a cablegram, ordered 75,000 copies of the work. On the day the copies were received in Germany, the police in Leipzig and Berlin seized all the copies that could be found. It is stated that the sale in Berlin on the streets and in the shops was brisk, and that 2000 copies had been disposed of when the police interfered. Messengers carrying bundles of the books to retail dealers were stopped on the street by the police and their burdens seized. Messrs. Brentano will publish the matter in book-form at once, and E. S. Werner, 48 University Place, N. Y., announces "Emperor Frederick III.: full official report of his case, by the German physicians and by Sir Morell Mackenzie." The report of the German physicians printed in this volume has been translated by Dr. Henry Schweig.

BLUE-LINED PAPER BAD FOR THE EYES.—The Medical Record says: "Blue-lined writing-paper is almost universally manufactured both in this country and Europe. The School Commissioners at Mainz have, upon medical advice, decided that the blue lines are bad for the eyes, and ordered that all school writing-paper shall be ruled in black."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SIR RICHARD BURTON has at last completed his translation of the "Arabian Nights."

LORD TENNYSON, it is said, has had a new volume of poems ready for some time, which he has kept back, expecting America to pass an international copyright law. It is not known when they will be published.

RENNELL RODD, who was first introduced to the public by Oscar Wilde in a dainty volume of verse, and who is at present one of the Secretaries of the British Embassy at Berlin, is at work on a life of the Emperor Frederick. He is to have every assistance the Emperor's widow can give.

"It has transpired," says the Lutheran Observer, "that the author of 'From 18 to 20,' a new society novel whose authorship has puzzled all Philadelphia, is Miss Elizabeth Jandon Sellers, the young daughter of David W. Sellers, Esq., one of the leaders of the Philadelphia bar and law-partner of Judge Mitchell."

PROF. F. W. NEWMAN, a younger brother of the Cardinal, announces a book of reminiscences which will interest readers who remember the remarkable letters on European politics which appeared for some time in the Tribune twenty or thirty years ago. Pulszky was the author of them, and Prof. Newman's reminiscences include both Pulszky and Kossuth.—N. Y. Tribune.

NEW YORK CITY.—E. W. Johnson, bookseller, has opened at 1336 Broadway, between 35th and 36th Sts., a book-store, with a stock of rare and standard second-hand books, making a feature of out-of-print books, and will issue catalogues regularly. He was formerly at 304 6th Ave.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Modern Language Publishing Co., 150 Nassau St., announce that they have transferred to Messrs. Charles E. Merrill & Co., 743 Broadway, N. Y., the publishing rights and stock on hand of the following named books: Deutschland, Neue Anekdoten, Anekdoten und Novellen, and Ewell's French and German Dictionary.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN SAVAGE.—John Savage, the poet, died at his summer home, Laurelsides, near Spragueville, Pa., on the 9th inst. He was born in Dublin, in 1828, came to America at the age of twenty, was a journalist in New York for a time, and wrote, among other books, "Lays of the Fatherland," "Modern Revolutionary History and Literature of Ireland," "Fenian Heroes and Martyrs," "Faith and Fancy," and "Sibyl: a drama."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have in press a translation of W. Heimbürg's (Bertha Behrens) popular story "Her Only Brother."

BELFORD, CLARKE & Co. will publish early in November a volume of poems which will take its title from Miss Minna Irving's poem, "The Haunted Heart," which appeared in the Century in 1885.

THE popular "Pansy Books" are all republished in England, and are also translated into other languages. "Tip Lewis" is just now being translated for circulation in Switzerland, with others to follow.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. announce Mr. Hurlbert's book, "Ireland under Coercion," which has created so much discussion in Great Britain; as Mr. Hurlbert is an American citizen, his copyright in his book is secure in this country. Also, a new edition of the poems of Emma Lazarus, in two volumes.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOC. has just published a handsome "Pictorial Wall Roll," which will be found useful and attractive in the primary and infant classes of the Sunday-school. It is 13x20 inches, and has thirty-two pages, a picture on every page, with a few lines of suggestive explanation. It is mounted on a walnut roller and retails at 75 cents.

THOMAS WHITTAKER is about to publish a library edition of Pascal's "Thoughts" from the text of Molinier, by C. Kegan Paul. He also begins a new series of illustrated books under the title of Whittaker's Home Library. The first three volumes will be "Romance of Animal Life," by J. G. Wood, "Leaders Upward and Onward," by H. C. Ewart, and "Round the Globe," by W. C. Proctor.

GINN & Co. will publish Nov. 15 "A Brief History of Greek Philosophy," by B. C. Burt. This work attempts to give a concise but comprehensive account of Greek philosophy on its native soil and in Rome. It is critical and interpretative, as well as purely historical; its paragraphs of criticism and interpretation, however, being, as a rule, distinct from those devoted to biography and exposition.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co. have in press a book by Joseph S. Tunison, of the New York Tribune's editorial staff, to be entitled "Master Vergil: a series of studies upon the mediæval reputation of the author of the Æneid." "Vergil and the Devil," "Vergil in Literary Tradition," "Vergil's Book of Magic," "Vergil the Man of Science," "Vergil the Saviour of Rome," "Vergil the Lover," "Vergil the Prophet," and "Vergil in Later Literature," are the chapter headings, and give a fair idea of the contents and character of the book.

CASSELL & Co. have in preparation a pretty book, and one that will tempt the youth of America this holiday season, in a "Mother Goose" volume, set to music and illustrated in colors. Miss Effie I. Lane has written the music, while Mr. J. Louis Webb has furnished the designs. The music is quite simple and can easily be sung by children. Mr. Webb's pictures are exceedingly clever and graceful, and his cover design is as original as it is striking. They also announce a new novel by G. Manville Fenn entitled "Commodore Junk."

AN arrangement has been made by which Rev. T. De Witt Talmage identifies himself with the Historical Publishing Company, of Philadelphia, St. Louis, and Chicago, and this firm will now have the exclusive right to publish all books written by him. This is, perhaps, the most important contract ever made with any author, and some idea of the amount of money involved may be gained from the fact that Mr. Talmage has recently refused an offer of $50,000 to write a single book for another publishing house.—Philadelphia Press.

MACMILLAN & Co. will issue immediately a handsome edition of Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Robert Elsmere," in two volumes, globe 8°, uniform in size with their attractive edition of Mr. Matthew Arnold's writings. By kind permission of the author it has been made expressly for the American market. They have in preparation an edition of Edward Fitzgerald's "Omar Kayyam." A memoir edited by Dr. W. Aldis Wright will be used. They will also publish a cheaper edition of Mrs. Humphry Ward's translation of Amiel's "Journal Intime."

THE employees of J. C. Blair, Huntington, Pa., are organizing a fire company, and, while no name has yet been chosen, it will probably be known as "The Blair Fire Department." E. Africa is President and Harry Koch is Secretary, while the roll bears about forty names. A committee composed of a representative from each department in Mr. Blair's factory is now considering the details of the organization. The department is to be uniformed and thoroughly drilled. The department was suggested by Mr. Blair, whose reputation for energy and progressiveness is so well known.

HENRY WILLEY, New Bedford, Mass., has just published "A Synopsis of the North American Lichens, Part II.," by the late Edward Tuckerman, comprising the lecideacei and (in part) the graphidacei. The work, which was left unfinished at the time of the author's death, has been completed by Mr. Willey, who has also added other lichens from Prof. Tuckerman's various works. Students of this interesting and difficult branch of botanical science have now for the first time a handy manual by two of its foremost exponents. Edwin Nelson, Amherst, Mass., will supply the book to the trade.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have begun the publication of a series of leaflets for the guidance of students of English literature of the nineteenth century, prepared by Louise Manning Hodgkins, Prof. of English Literature at Wellesley College. The following English and American authors will be included: Scott, Lamb, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Byron, Shelley, Keats, Macaulay, Dickens, Thackeray, Robert Browning, Mrs. Browning, Carlyle, George Eliot, Tennyson, Rossetti, Irving, Bryant, Hawthorne, Longfellow, Emerson, Whittier, Holmes, and Lowell. The Tennyson, George Eliot, Hawthorne, and Longfellow papers are now ready.

THE RAND AVERY Co. has published in a bulky folio, resplendent in the glory of color, illustration, and fac-similes, a campaign document entitled "Our Bandanna." The author is Mr. Thomas W. Lawson, who turned from his labors as President of the Rand Avery Company, or contributor to the Century, or classical, satirical, and critical expounder of the national game of baseball, or the art of Brillat-Savarin, to win in thirty days laurels as a philosopher in statecraft. In nine pages of interesting political history, Mr. Lawson has given his historical reason for his political preferences, and in seven pages, fifty-one of the most prominent representatives of the people in Congress and before the country have given in their own writing, reproduced in facsimile, their strongest reasons why their candidates (Harrison and Morton) should be elected. There is to be a Presidential Edition of "Our Bandanna," consisting of five copies etched on satin, two of which are for the author's preferred candidates for President and Vice-President, one for the victims of yellow-fever, and one for the public. There is to be also a Book-Lover's Edition of 300 copies on Japan paper, bound artistically, and to be sold at $25 a copy. The ordinary edition is to be popular, and the price is 10 cents.

A VOLUME of the speeches made by the Prince of Wales from 1863 to 1888 is announced to appear in London shortly.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, has in press a volume of imaginative tales entitled "The Twilight of the Gods," by Dr. Garnett.

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON & CO. will publish shortly a volume on the intricate question of the union of Canada and the United States, by J. H. de Ricci, entitled "The North American Fisheries Dispute and the Annexation of Canada."

MANY hundreds of British authors have recently appended their names to an address to be presented to Mrs. Hodgson Burnett, expressing appreciation of her spirited action in contesting the right assumed by dramatists of adapting novels for the stage without the author's consent. The list is shortly to be closed.

THE first complete edition of the works of the Polish poet, Adam Mickiewicz, has just been published in Warsaw, in four volumes. It contains a number of writings not hitherto printed, among them, "The Great War of the Future;" "Alexander Pushkin," "On the Rational and the Insane," "Mazzini and the Mazzinists," "Socialism;" "The Peasants," and a tale, "Zywila."

CASELL & Co. announce, says the London Academy, "a new serial issue of Gustave Doré's Illustrated Bible, in weekly numbers, at the price of one halfpenny each—which may be regarded as the cheapest enterprise yet undertaken even by that popular firm. The whole of the 200 full-page plates of the original costly edition are to be reproduced. The first number will appear on October 31." In view of the Bunyan Bicentenary, Messrs. Cassell will issue a new and cheaper edition of their illustrated "Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress" and "Holy War." A new Life of Bunyan has been prepared for this popular edition by the Rev. John Brown, D.D., Minister of Bunyan Meeting, Bedford. They will also publish a work entitled "The Truth About Russia," by W. T. Stead, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, who does not, it is said, share the traditional British attitude of suspicion toward the empire of the north.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price.

It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

D. APPLETON & CO.

PUBLISH THIS WEEK:

On the Senses, Instincts, and Intelligence of Animals,

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO INSECTS. By Sir JOHN LUBBOCK, Bart., F.R.S., author of "Ants, Bees, and Wasps," "Prehistoric Times," etc. "International Scientific Series." With over 100 illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

In the present volume the author has collected some of his recent observations on the senses and intelligence of animals, and especially of insects, and has attempted to give, very briefly, some idea of the organs of sense, commencing in each case with those of man himself.

How She Did It;

OR, COMFORT ON $150 A YEAR. By MARY CRUGER. With an illustration. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

The author records actual experiences in building a small house, and in a systematic method of economic living. The narrative in every particular is based on facts, and will be found most suggestive to people with small incomes.

Handbook of Historical and Geographical Phthisiology,

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO THE DISTRIBUTION OF CONSUMPTION IN THE UNITED STATES. By GEORGE A. EVANS, M.D. 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

A sketch of the development of our knowledge of pulmonary consumption from the time of Hippocrates up to the present day, together with the ascertained facts regarding the geographical distribution of that affection.

Hints About Men's Dress:

RIGHT PRINCIPLES ECONOMICALLY APPLIED. By a NEW YORK CLUBMAN. 18mo, parchment paper, 30 cents.

A useful manual, especially for young men desirous of dressing economically and yet according to the canons of good taste.

Orthodox.

A TALE. By DOROTHEA GERARD, joint author of "Reata." "The Gainsborough Series." 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

A very striking story of modern Jewish life in Austrian Poland.

NOTES IN SEASON.

BANGS & Co. announce that their regular Fall Parcel Sale will begin on Thursday, November 1, at 2 P.M., and continue the following afternoons and evenings until the lots are disposed of. Twenty-nine houses and invoices are represented, prominent among which are J. W. Bouton, S. C. Griggs & Co., G. P. Putnam's Sons, Reeves & Turner, Scribner & Welford, F. A. Stokes & Bro., Worthington Co., and White & Allen.
LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish at once "The Private Correspondence of Daniel O'Connell," in two volumes. It will consist chiefly of hitherto unpublished letters of the Liberator, abundantly annotated, and connected by only sufficient narrative to explain their occasion. Although called private, O'Connell's letters, even those to his wife, are chiefly on public topics. There is a peculiar timeliness in the publication just now of this first-hand and personal account of the successful struggle for Catholic Emancipation and of the ineffectual effort for the Repeal of the Union.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR Co. have in preparation a volume entitled "Distinguished Witnesses to the Great Value and Success of Foreign Missions," being the testimony of a large number of diplomatic ministers, consuls, naval officers, and travellers in heathen countries; also leading facts and statistics of the missions collected by the Rev. John Liggins; a collection of religious verse by Helen H. S. Thompson, entitled "Songs in the Night Watches;" and a revised edition of Dr. F. Russell's "What Jesus Says."

GINN & Co. will publish early in December next, in their College Series of Latin Authors, "Cicero's Brutus," edited by Prof. Martin Kellogg, of the University of California. Professor Kellogg has edited the work especially for early college reading. The introduction touches upon points of interest to those to whom Cicero is no stranger, and contains a full conspectus. The notes deal with the subject-matter, historical relations, and diction of the dialogue rather than with the commonplaces of grammar. Parallel passages are freely given, especially from Cicero's other rhetorical works and from Quintilian.

ROBERTS BROS. will publish on November 1 a new volume in their Balzac series—"Cousin Bette;" "With Sa'di in the Garden, or, the book of love," being the third chapter of the "Bostân" of the Persian poet Sa'di, embodied in a dialogue held in the garden of the Taj Mahal, at Agra, by Sir Edwin Arnold; "Pen," a story, by the author of "Miss Toosey's Mission," etc., bound uniform with "Tipcat;" "Our Recent Actors," recollections, critical, and in many cases personal, of late distinguished performers of both sexes, with some incidental notices of living actors, by Westland Marston; "Fancy Dresses Described; or, what to wear at fancy balls," by Ardern Holt, with 16 richly colored full-page plates and numerous smaller ones; and the first American edition of "Casimir Maremma," by Sir Arthur Helps, author of the "Friends in Council."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MR. LESLIE STEPHEN, we are pleased to learn, has resumed work on his "National Dictionary of Biography."

RECTOR NEWTON, of Pittsfield, Mass., is to write the biography of Rev. Dr. William A. Muhlenburg, and will make it the work of his life.

H. ROSA, the illustrator of "John Gilpin's Ride," George Routledge & Sons, is the daughter of Benson J. Lossing, some of whose work she has illustrated.

MISS KATE GREENAWAY'S Christmas book for this winter will consist of colored illustrations to "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," together with the text of the poem, printed with Mr. Browning's sanction.

MISS ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS, the author of those delightful volumes, "Gates Ajar," "Jack," etc., has left her "Old Maid's Paradise," to become the wife of Rev. Herbert D. Ward, the son of Dr. Ward, of the Independent.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

Abbott, Evelyn. A history of Greece; from the earliest times to the Ionian revolt. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. 10+553 p. O. cl., $2.25.

For readers who are acquainted with the outlines of the subject, and have some knowledge of the Greek language. Written in the belief that an intelligible sketch of Greek civilization may be given within a brief compass—"not with the hope of throwing new light on old obscurities, or quoting fresh evidence where all the evidence has been long ago collected." In a second part the history will be brought down to the end of the Peloponnesian war.

Abbott, Rev. Lyman. The epistle of Paul the apostle to the Romans; with notes and comments. Handy ed. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1888. c. 230 p. map and il. O. cl., $1.75; shp., $2.50; hf. mor., $3; Household ed., cl., $3; shp., $3.50; hf. mor., $4.

Nearly twelve years have elapsed since the appearance of Dr. Lyman Abbott's volume on "Acts." This volume begins with an introduction of 114 pages giving a summary of the life, character, and writings of St. Paul. The author holds "that the traditional view of his character is not borne out by such knowledge as we possess of the facts of his life, that he was an evangelist rather than a philosopher, and a poet rather than a scholastic." These views are opposed to such scholarly authorities as Tholuck, Meyer, Godet, and Alford, and much time and labor were needed in the researches upon which they are based. The "Epistle to the Romans" is treated as the other volumes of these commentaries.

Atwood, E. S., D.D. The transfiguration of life and other sermons: a memorial volume. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1888.] c. 242 p. por. D. cl., $1.25.

The sermons are so chosen as to touch a wide range of topics and address various classes of hearers. They illustrate well the brilliancy, earnestness, and depth of their author. Few men in the ministry equalled him in the art of putting things. A fine portrait of Dr. Atwood faces the title-page.

Babyland; ed. by the editors of "Wide Awake." Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 104 p. il. sq. O. bds., 75 c.

A colored frontispiece, a gayly adorned cover, many pictures, and large type make this annual number most attractive. The reading-matter is adapted to the very youngest readers.

Bryant, W. C. Thanatopsis and other favorite poems; comp. by Sarah E. Husted Lockwood. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1888. 61 p. D. pap., 13 c. Accompanying Lockwood's "Lessons in English."

Burdick, L: Dayton. Through field and wood: lyric verses and sonnets. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. 185 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A collection of short poems, including songs of love, songs of flowers, devotional poems, sonnets, ballads, rondeaus, and triolets, all showing a poetic love of nature and warm religious feeling.

Burnham, Clara Louise. Young maids and old. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 404 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A pretty suburban village of Boston is the scene of this little history of old and young hearts. The young heroines are invited by the older heroines to spend the summer in a rich and a plain home. These older heroines make idols of a brother and a nephew, who both play their parts in developing, moulding, and softening the characters of the younger ones. The author of "Next door" and "No gentleman" always renders palatable the pure, earnest counsels she offers to young womanhood.

Calkins, Wolcott, D.D. Keystones of faith; or, what and why we believe. N. Y., The Baker & Taylor Co., [1888.] c. 179 p. D. cl., 75 c.

This book is designed for young Christians and busy people who need a brief outline of the great doctrines of grace, in which all evangelical denominations agree. In the body of the work, chapters 1-8, this is given in popular language, free from all technical phrases of theology. In chapters 9 and 10 another outline is given in the language of the Catholic and evangelical confessions; and in chapter 11 still another short but complete outline is given in the exact language of Scripture.

Carroll, J: Leola: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. 3-104 p. S. cl., $1.25.

The scene is laid in Greyleigh Hall. The characters resemble those found in the average novel; in this case there is the beautiful, titled, and wealthy heiress coupled with her affectionate young friend, a chivalric elderly man, a French count, a very designing woman, a much-injured young lord, a commonplace Englishman, and a wronged young woman; the personal experiences of these unite to make a not very intricate plot in a romantic novel.

Clement, R. E. Clement's civil government: studies of the federal constitution arranged for use in public schools. N. Y., A. Lovell & Co., 1888. c. 13+232 p. D. cl., 84 c.

To the consideration of the constitution there are prefixed short descriptions of the early governments in America, the colonial governments, and an account of the events which led to the formation of the four Colonial Congresses, the Revolutionary Congress, to the Declaration of Independence, and the Revolution. There is also a brief description of the Revolutionary Government, and the history of the formation of the "Articles of Perpetual Union." The introduction of valuable historical notes and laws of Congress materially assists in elucidating the text. The aim has been to make the subject so clear, so easy of comprehension, that boys of thirteen years and upward may find no difficulty in understanding much of the history as well as the fundamental law of the United States.

Coffin, C: Carleton. Marching to victory; the second period of the war of the rebellion, including the year 1863. N. Y., Harper, 1889 [1888.] c. 12+491 p. il. and por. O. cl., $3.

The second volume of the series begun with the "Drum-beat of the nation." As in the latter work, the author has endeavored to set forth impartially and truly the cause, scope, and meaning of the war by a grouping of leading events. The volume treats specially of the events of 1863—distinguished by a series of victories to the armies of the Union. It is a handsome book, profusely illustrated with portraits and war scenes and maps of battle-grounds.

Conway, Moncure D. Omitted chapters of history disclosed in the life and papers of Edmund Randolph, Governor of Virginia; first Attorney-General, U. S. Secretary of State. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 6+401 p. por. O. cl., $3.50.

Of Edmund Randolph Mr. Conway says in his preface: "Painted by partisanship as he was not, his name has been marred by every prejudice, and his fame left to his country in conventionalized disfigurement. The centenary of our constitution has already brought a gallery of fresh historical portraits of its leading framers, but one panel, like that of Falieri at Venice, is vacant; there is no portraiture of the statesman to whom the initiation and ratification of the constitution were especially due, except a blackened effigy hung up by enemies in a moment of partisan passion. This traditional effigy of Edmund Randolph I have examined by the light of facts and documents to which historians appear to have had no access, with growing conviction that the nation knows little of a very interesting figure of its early history."

Coöperation in Christian work: common ground for united interdenominational effort; by Bishop Harris. Rev. Drs. Storrs, Gladden, Strong, Russell, and others. N. Y., The Baker & Taylor Co., [1888.] c. 5+157 p. D. cl., 60 c., pap., 30 c.

The very general interest called forth by the publication, under the title of "National peril and opportunities," (see notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., March 3, '88, [840.]) if the discussions of the general Christian conference, held at Washington, Dec. 7, 8, 9, '87, under the auspices of the Evangelical Alliance, and the great value of these contributions to the study of important current questions, have induced the publishers, in the hope of finding a still wider circle of readers for these papers, to issue certain of them, grouped under the divisions into which the work of the conference naturally fell, in two uniform cheap volumes, entitled "Problems of American civilization" and "Coöperation in Christian work."

Cowper, Frank. The captain of the Wight: a romance of Carisbrooke Castle in 1488; il. by the author. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1889 [1888.] 10+384 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Describes life in the Isle of Wight during the Renaissance, when there was great danger and discomfort owing to the constantly threatened invasions of the French and their many actual occupations of the island. Sir Edward Woodville, the hero, serves the author as an example of the medieval knight, and he aims to interest both young and old in a noble life set off against the glimmers of those ancient days of chivalry. He has consulted authorities and gives an accurate picture of the times, although inventing some incidents in the career of his hero.

Cruse, M. A. Little Grandpa. N. Y., T. Whitaker, 1888. c. 4+192 p. S. cl., $1.

Although distinctively a child's book "Little Grandpa" will afford as much pleasure to older as it does to juvenile readers. The hero is of the Fauntleroy type, with an abundance of the quaint precocity that never fails to interest. The story deals chiefly with "Grandpa's" scheme to fill the coffers of Mother Church for the Lenten season upon his manner of executing it much depends. Author of "The little Episcopalian."

*Dante Alighieri. Divina commedia; tr. into English verse, with notes and illustrations, by J. A. Wiltstach. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. 2 v., O. cl., $5.

Daryl, A. J. A merry round rhymes; il. by Constance Haslewood. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., 1888. 96 p. D. bds., 75 c.

Pretty verses and colored pictures on every page. For the youngest children.

Deema, C. F., ed. Christian thought: lectures and papers on philosophy, Christian evidence, Biblical elucidation. Fifth ser. N. Y., Wilbur B. Ketcham, [1888.] c. 6+474 p. O. cl., net, $2.50.

Some of the more important lectures and papers are: The conservation of spiritual force, by J. W. Lee, D.D.; A literal Genesis I in the light of present knowledge, by C. B. Warring; Paul's psychology, by I. S. Hopkins, D.D.; Christian evolutionism and its influences on religious thought, by Prof. Dan S. Martin; The religion of humanity, by Lyman Abbott, D.D.; A study of trichotomy, by J. G. Van Slyke, D.D.; Depravity and its cure, by G. E. Strubridge, D.D.; Scientific evidence of the supernatural, by Prof. H. S. Williams; The miracle of miracles, by W. G. Blakey, D.D.; Social problems, by Prof. R. M. Smith.

Defoe, Dan. The life and adventures of Robinson Crusoe; with an introduction by W. Lee; il. by Ernest Griest and others. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., 1888. 15+474 p. O. cl., $3.

Sixteen colored plates and numerous wood-cuts embellish this handsome edition of "Robinson Crusoe." In paper, print, and binding it is most attractive.

Denton, Clara J. Little people's dialogues; for children of ten years. Phil., The National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. 122 p. D. bds., 50 c.; pap., 25 c.

Elam, C., M.D. A physician's problems. [New issue.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] 5+400 p. S. (Good company ser., no. 5.) cl., 50 c.

*Evans, G. A., M.D., comp. Handbook of historical and geographical phthisiology, with special reference to the distribution of consumption in the U. S. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 294 p. O. cl., $2.

Foots, Mary Hallock. John Bodewin's testimony. 5th ed. Bost., Ticknor & Co., [1888.] c. '85, '86. 344 p. S. (Ticknor's pap. ser., no. 46.) pap., 50 c.

Foster, Stephen Collins. Mamma's in the cold, cold ground: illustrated. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. '52, '80, '88. no paging, il. sq. O. cl., $1.50; seal, $2.50; flex. cl. or tree cl., $5.

Over a dozen full-page designs drawn from nature by Charles Copeland illustrate this old plantation song. The ornamental designs woven in with the song on the opposite pages are by Frank Myrick. The volume is meant for a gift-book, and is very finely gotten out in all its details.

Foster, Stephen Collins. Nelly was a lady: illustrated. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. '88. no paging, il. sq. O. cl., $1.50; seal, $2.50; flex. cl. or tree cl., $5.

Illustrated with full-page plates from designs made by Charles Copeland from nature. They represent scenes from the Mississippi river, plantation life, and southern views such as the verses call for. Some ornamental designs are furnished by Frank Myrick. Gotten up in holiday style, with rich paper, binding, etc.

Galdós, B. Perez. The court of Charles IV: a romance of the Escorial; from the Spanish by Clara Bell; rev. and corr. in the U. S. N. Y., W. S. Gottsberger, 1888. c. tr. 2+395 p. S. pap., 50 c.

The story is told in the first person by a young page in the service of a popular actress, who afterwards becomes a leader in political intrigues. The chief events take place in Madrid in the celebrated Escorial, at once a convent, a church, a palace, and a mausoleum. The story follows historical lines and has its denouement in 1808, when this building was exposed to the ravages of the French soldiers under Houssaye. The theatrical element lends warmth and animation to the plot.

Gasparin, Valérie Boissier [Comtesse] de. Under French skies, or, sunny fields and shady woods. N. Y., The Baker & Taylor Co., 1888. 4+303 p. D. cl., $1.25.

This collection of histoires by Madame De Gasparin has to do, in the way of scene, chiefly with the Jura borderland district on the Swiss and French frontiers. It has a type of beauty of its own. Raoul and Marjolaine, the happy young couple, in their mountain cottage and bit of farm, Pierre, the woodman, Silvio and Serinette, the lover of Victor and Louise these, and many more, form the dramatis personæ that appear in the pleasant pages of the book. —London Bookeller.

Gibbons, J. Tenure and toil; or, rights and wrongs of property and labor. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. 316 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author argues that as home-owners are seldom malcontents, but always safeguards against social disturbances and industrial revolts, the deserving poor in every community should be afforded means to build for themselves homes on the public domain provided as the common heritage of the people. Ownership should be restrained within such limits that there would be ample acreage for all. The theories of Dr. McGlynn and Henry George are criticised. An appendix is devoted to convict labor and legislation proposed to control its encroachments on free labor.

Goethe, J. W. von. Hermann and Dorothea; tr. by Edgar Alfred Bowring; with etchings by Hermann Faber. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889 [1888.] c. ed. 60 p. Q. cl., $3; ivory surface or leath., $3.50; tree cf., $7.50.

Six full-page etchings illustrate this masterpiece of Goethe. The volume is in holiday attire, and is uniform with "The legends and poems of Faust" issued last season and also illustrated by Mr. Faber.

Goldsmith, Oliver. The traveller; with etchings by M. M. Taylor. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889 [1888.] 4-47 p. Q. cl., $3; ivory surface or leath., $3.50; tree cf., $7.50.

A companion volume to "The deserted village" illustrated by the same artist and published last year. Six etchings reproduce the chief scenes of the poem, with considerable grace and spirit. The volume is printed only on one side of rich plate paper, and is handsome and attractive in all its other details.

✓ Greene, Harris R. Inductive language lessons, elementary grammar and composition; with a new, simple, and effective system of diagramming. N. Y., A. Lovell & Co., 1888. c. '87-8. 13+220 p. D. cl., 54 c.

Beginning with the simplest form of a sentence, the book teaches, first of all, gradually and with no sharp transitions, the five component parts of the sentence, viz., the subject, the predicate, the complement, the object, and the modifier. The method of instruction throughout is mainly inductive. Every lesson begins with two or three sentences, which embody and illustrate the point to be discussed. Simultaneously with the above work, at every advance in the introduction of a new element, the particular part of speech which such element illustrates is then and there brought out, explained, and defined.

Hale, Lucretia Peabody. Fagots for the fireside: a collection of more than one hundred entertaining games for evenings at home and social parties. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 274 p. D. cl., $1.25.

These papers were originally prepared for Good Housekeeping, and are now republished with many changes and additions. Several families living in one of the delightful suburbs of Boston inaugurated a series of evening entertainments to which each member of the company invited was required to come prepared with some game, story, riddle, or song for the amusement of the rest. These parties were known as fagot parties. The "fagots" brought to the social hearth are described in full and make a pretty volume.

Headley, Rev. P. C. Fighting Phil: the life and military career of Philip Henry Sheridan, General of the Army of the U. S. New issue. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. '65. '88. 380 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.50.

First published in 1865 by D. Appleton & Co. A new chapter has been added in this issue, bringing the General's story up to the date of his death.

Henty, G. A. The cat of Bubastes: a tale of ancient Egypt; il. by J. R. Weguelin. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1889 [1888.] 3-352 p. D. cl., $2.

"Captain Henty's story entitled 'The cat of Bubastes' is a representation of an epoch. The scene is laid in Egypt in the time of Thotmes III., and the author refers to Sir Gardner Wilkinson, and other writers on Egyptian matters, as his authorities for what may be called the antiquarian features of his story. This book is intended for the delectation and instruction of young people, and it is sufficient to say with regard to it, that it is written in Captain Henty's customarily entertaining vein."—Phila. Evening Telegram.

*Hovey, Alvah, D.D. Biblical eschatology. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., 1888. 192 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Hunter, Eleanor A., ed. Stories told by a doll. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] c. 89 p. il. sq. O. bds., 50 c.

Eight simple little stories, with a number of full-page pictures.

Ingram, J. H. Elizabeth Barrett Browning. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 1+264 p. S. (Famous women ser.) cl., $1.

It is a strange fact that twenty-seven years have elapsed since the death of a writer of the eminence of Mrs. Browning, and this concise biography should be the first that has appeared. The author has been at great pains to verify every statement he makes, as much of the material hitherto given to the world has been proved unreliable. He gives a list of his authorities. His estimate of Mrs. Browning as woman and poet shows fine human and literary feeling. His quotations from her writings are aptly selected, and his work will be valued by cultured readers.

Iphigenia: a legend of the Iliad; and other poems, by an author unknown. Buffalo, N. Y., The C. L. Sherrill Co., 1888. c. 3-97 p. S. pap., ribbon-tied, 50 c.

Janssen, F. W., comp. History of American amateur athletics and aquatics, with the records. N. Y., Outing Co., [1888.] c. 262 p. il. sq. O. (Outing library of sports, no. 2.) pap., 75 c.

The author, who is prominent in sporting circles and a member of the Staten Island Athletic Club, has been at work nearly four years in gathering this material towards a history of all the important athletic and rowing associations of the United States, with a compendium of races, meetings, and records in this country and England. The author uses a simple conversational form and makes the subject very interesting. He has had the assistance of G. H. Badeau, W. Storm, G. W. Carr, W. G. Schuyler, W. B. Curtis, and upwards of fifty others noted in connection with athletics and aquatics.

Johnston, Alex., ed. Representative American orations to illustrate American political history; ed. with introductions. [Large-pap. ed.] N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1888.] c. '84. 3 v., 4+282; 4+314; 5+405 p. por. O. cl., $7.50.

A new edition on large paper with broad margins and uncut edges. All the papers are illustrated with portraits; divided into the following parts; 1, Colonialism; 2, Constitutional Government; 3, The rise of democracy; 4, The rise of nationality; 5, The anti-slavery struggle; 6, Secession; 7, Civil war and reconstruction; 8, Free trade and protection. The different sections embrace famous orations by celebrated orators, forming a history of the times.

*Jones, Leonard A. Law of mortgages of personal property. 3d ed., rev. and enl. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. O. shp., net, $6.50.

Keats, J. Lamia; with illustrative designs by Will H. Low. New cheaper ed. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. '85. 67 p. O. cl., padded, $5; leath., $6; tree cf., $10.

A fac-simile of the original edition reduced in size.

Kenney, Minnie E. Bernie's light. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] c. 272 p. il. S. cl., $1.10.

Bernie Allen's life had been nothing but ignorance and darkness until the day she wandered into a mission school and heard the children singing:

"Jesus bids us shine
With a clear pure light,
Like a little candle
Shining in the night.
In this world of darkness
We must shine;
You in your small corner,
And I in mine."

Bernie's small corner was Ragman's Alley, and the story tells how she adapted the words of the hymn to her own needs, and followed literally the advice about her light until she accomplished startling results.

Kip, W. T. Would you have left her? N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 4+295 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"Would you have left her?" was the query of Truman Agnew every time he thought of his sudden decision and renunciation of Frances Florian. The results of this step supply incidents, in the shape of a hasty wedding and a number of woes that are the natural sequence of ill-judged marriages. The question of the story is answered in a rather different manner than the earlier chapters forecast.

Knox, T. W. The boy travellers in Australasia:

adventures of two youths in a journey to the Sandwich, Marquesas, Society, Samoan, and Feejee Islands, and through the colonies of New Zealand, New South Wales, Queensland, Victoria, Tasmania, and South Australia. N. Y. Harper, 1889 [1888.] c. 14+538 p. il. O. cl., $3.

The method followed in the preparation of previous volumes of the series has been observed in the present book, as far as it was possible to do so. The author's knowledge of the countries and people of Australasia has been supplemented by information drawn from many sources—from books, newspapers, maps, and other publications, and from numerous Australian gentlemen whom he had known or with whom he has been in correspondence. During the progress of the work he has kept a watchful eye on the current news from the antipodes, and sought to bring the account of the condition of the railways, telegraphs, and other constantly changing enterprises down to the latest dates. Frank Bassett and Fred Bronson and Dr. Bronson are again the chief characters. The book is profusely illustrated.

Lee, J. Ross. Chromatic chart and manual of parliamentary law. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1888. c. 14 p. T. pap., 25 c.

A neat little pocket volume, for the use of public men, ministers, lawyers, and all who may be called upon to preside over deliberative assemblies or mass-meetings.

Liddell, H. The evolution of a Democrat: a Darwinian tale; il. by G. Roberty. N. Y., Pâquet & Co., 1888. c. 47 p. D. pap., 25 c.

A series of humorous pictures and text, showing "The rise of McGuffin in the Democratic world," "His fishing 'exertion' with Cleveland," "Terrible fight between Cleveland and little Johnnie," "The terrific American Armada," "McGuffin President of Great Ireland and Britain," etc., etc.

Lillie, Lucy C. The household of Glen Holly. N. Y., Harper, 1888. c. 6+368 p. il. sq. S. (Harper's young people ser.) cl., $1.

The central figure of the Glen Holly household is Felix, a little crippled boy. For several years he had been in Europe with his young maiden aunt trying every means of regaining the use of his legs, and had just returned when the story opens, his case having been pronounced hopeless. He is an orphan and there is a mystery in the cause of his lameness. Added to the lameness he has a frightful temper, which makes him a very troublesome boy to manage. Near Glen Holly is a family named Thorne, with the children of which Felix becomes very intimate. The events of this friendship, the improvement it works in Felix, and the mystery of a closed-up room at Glen Holly are among the many episodes of a charming story for young people.

Loughead, Flora Haines. Quick cooking: a book of culinary heresies for the busy wives and mothers of the land; by one of the heretics. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. '87. 294 p. S. cl., $1.

Unlike any other cook-book, the leading principle is to economize labor and time, at the same time securing a wide choice of appetizing fare. Contains 630 recipes, tested and vouched for by an experienced cook, 340 of which, if prepared according to the directions, can, severally or in groups, be made ready for the table in from five to fifteen minutes, and 250 of which require from fifteen to forty minutes, or, rarely, an hour's time. The few remaining dishes, which consume more time and are distinctly segregated from the rest, are nevertheless greatly abridged, and so planned as to require the least possible attention.

Marx, K. Free trade: a speech delivered before the Democratic Club, Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 9, 1848; with extract from La misère de la philosophie; tr. by Florence Kelley Wischniewetzky; with preface by F. Engels. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1888. c. tr. 48 p. O. pap., 25 c.

Mason, E. T., ed. British letters illustrative of character and social life. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 3 v., 10+306; 4+266; 6+297 p. S. cl., $3.75.

The aim of these volumes is to present certain phases of life and character as described and exemplified by British letter-writers. The letters have been grouped under thirteen subject-headings, and have been carefully placed in such order as seemed most logical and illustrative. The headings are as follows: Autobiographic sketches; Glimpses of men and women; Groups; The family friendship; Manners, customs, and behavior; National traits; The town; The country; Out-of-doors; Comedy and farce; Whim and fancy; Miscellaneous.

Maxwell, W. H. Introductory lessons in English grammar for use in lower grammar classes. N. Y. and Chic., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1888. c. 11+151 p. D. cl., 50 c.

The design of the present volume is to present as much of the science of grammar, with its applications, as children between the ages of ten and twelve can understand and appreciate.

Menken, Adah Isaacs. Infelicia. Red line ed. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 126 p. il. O. cl., $2.50; leath., $3.50.

New red line and illustrated edition of the poems of a wild, erratic genius, who has been dead many years. The proof that these poems have merit is in the fact that they have lived so long. The edition is a handsome one, for the holidays, and is illustrated with full-page pictures by O. C. Darley, Harry Fenn, F. S. Church, and others. There is a brief sketch of the author's life by W. S. Walsh.

*Mercier, C. The nervous system and the mind: a treatise on the dynamics of the human organism. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 11+374 p. O. cl., $4.

Meredith, G. Diana of the crossways: a novel. Author's popular ed. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. 5+398 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Meredith, G. The shaving of Shagpat: an Arabian entertainment; [also,] Farina. Author's popular ed. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. 6+412 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Nicholson, J. W. An elementary algebra, theoretical and practical. New Orleans, La., F. F. Hansell & Bros., [1888.] c. 284 p. D. (Nicholson's mathematical ser.) cl., $1.

Comprises what is usually required for admission to the best colleges. The treatment is clear, compact, and thorough. The exercises are graded, and have been selected with great care.

Perry, Nora. The youngest Miss Lorton, and other stories. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 1+290 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Contains besides the title story: That ridiculous child; The Kit-Cat club; Susy's dragon; In a rag-bag; The story of Little Syl; The little Dunbars; Molly Gair's new dress; Dolly Varden; What Hope Dell found in her stocking. Miss Perry has a special knack at writing for girls and making the little duties of home and school life attractive. She is always cheerful and often really witty.

Planetary evolution; or, a new cosmogony: being an explanation of planetary growth and life energy, upon the basis of chemical and electrical relations of the elements of nature. Kansas City, Mo., M. H. Dickinson & Co., [1888.] c. 9+132 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

"In presenting this work the only apology for its appearance is the demand that has arisen to illustrate the processes of evolution, and why it is the only rational theory of planetary life. That it may assist the reader to a better knowledge of nature's laws, and also serve as a safeguard against the errors of scholastic ignorance, is the desire and purpose of the author."—Preface.

Porter, Jermain G. Our celestial home: an astronomer's view of heaven. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1888.] c. 116 p. S. cl., $1.

The scientific author is Director of the Cincinnati Observatory. His theory is that nature was cursed for man's spiritual sin and that we have no reason to think the curse extended beyond our own planet, that this idea is an unwarrantable assumption, that we must acknowledge that, with the exception of this one tiny globe, the material universe still exists in its pristine purity, and may well be a fit dwelling-place for immortal holy beings. He bases all his arguments on Bible quotation, and an array of astronomical facts. His mind is poetic and his ideas are inspiring and encouraging.

Problems of American civilization; their prac- tical solution the pressing Christian duty of today; by Presidents McCosh and Gates, Bishop Coxe, Rev. Drs. Pierson, Dorchester, and others. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1888.] c. 3+171 p. D. cl., 60 c.; pap., 30 c.

See notice under "Coöperation in Christian work."

Roberts, Edwards. Shoshone and other western wonders; with a preface by C: Francis Adams. N. Y., Harper, 1888. c. 13+275 p. il. D. cl., $1; pap., 75 c.

The object is to describe to the tourist a route beginning at the foot of Pike's Peak, passing through the wonderful mountain and desert scenery of Colorado and Eastern Utah to Great Salt Lake, thence northward by the way of the falls of Shoshone and the great lava bed of Idaho, through which the Snake cuts its way, to the plateau of the Yellowstone. After an account of the wonders of the Yellowstone Park, the journey is continued along the headwaters of the Missouri, ending at St. Paul. Profusely illustrated.

Robinson, C: S., D.D. Studies in Mark's gospel. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] c. 299 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Twenty-eight studies are made of the sixteen chapters of St. Mark. They were delivered as sermons with illustrations and enforcements joined easily together. They follow the gospel history and doctrine in orderly progress.

*Roose, Robson, M.D. Nerve prostration. N. Y., W: Wood & Co., 1888. 661 p. O. cl., $4.

Roy, Jos. E., D.D., ["Pilgrim," pseud.] Pilgrim's letters; bits of current history picked up in the west and the south, during the last thirty years. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1888.] c. 310 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The readers of the Congregationalist, the Independent, and the Advance are familiar with the nom de plume of "Pilgrim." For a period of twenty years or more Dr. Roy's "Pilgrim letters" have appeared in the papers mentioned, and always have been eagerly read. The volume with the title above given has been made up from them, selections having been made from among those that have a permanent interest. A glance at the table of contents shows that they cover one of the most interesting periods of American history, and that they give quite connected, though sketchy, views of the events that took place between the years '57 and '87.

Sand, George, [pseud. for Mme. A. L. A. D. Dudevant.] Princess Nourmahal: a posthumous novel, never before published; tr. by Lew Vanderpoole. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham, 1888. 332 p. D. hf. cl., $1.50.

The scene of this story is laid in Italy, chiefly in Florence. The princess is the daughter of a Persian mother and German father, whose birth remains mysterious almost to the end. She is an undisciplined, fiery, superstitious beauty, brought up by a licentious guardian, waited upon by Persian slaves, and living in a weird castle on the banks of the Arno, full of mysterious panels, curtains, pictures, torture-rooms, etc., that are factors in the unravelling of the plot. The translator claims to be a nephew of George Sand. This manuscript was first offered to the Cosmopolitan Magazine in September, 1887. Upon being asked to produce the original manuscript the translator stated it had been lost, and that the story had been written from memory. A full account of this transaction appeared in the P. W. of September 24, 1887, [no. 816-17.]

Shakespeare, W: King Henry V. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] 192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 3, no. 142.) pap., 10 c.

Sharp, Kate Dooris. Eleanor's courtship, and the songs that sang themselves. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1888. c. 5-162 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Shute, E. L. Over the hills; il. by Jessie Watkins. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., [1888.] 48 p. Q. bds., $2.

Every page represents children at play, beautifully lithographed in tints and colors; the plates are accompanied by pretty rhymes. The back and front covers have each a pretty design.

Sibylla; adapted from the German by Cornelia McFadden. Cin., Cranston & Stowe, 1888. c. tr. 396 p. D. cl., $1.25. Same, in German, $1.

The scene of this story shifts from a sea-coast village of Germany to Berlin, then to Switzerland, and afterwards to France during the Franco-Prussian war. Arnold, the son of a rich nobleman, and Wulf, the son of a workingman, are the heroes. The latter becomes a physician after many trials, and does much useful work. Sibylla, who becomes his wife, leads him from a life of doubt to one of faith. The publishers also have the book in the original German.

Smith, Alex. Dreamthorp: a book of essays written in the country. [New issue.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] 299 p. S. (Good company ser., no. 4.) cl., 50 c.

Snively, W: A., D.D. Testimonies to the supernatural. N. Y., T: Whittaker, 1888. c. 7+221 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Twenty sermons, of which four are devoted to the prodigal son and three to the observance of the Lord's day. The supernatural subjects include the anomaly of the incarnation, the practical use of the doctrine of the Trinity, the atoning death of Christ, the spiritual resurrection, etc. The author is a Protestant Episcopal clergyman of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sorel, Albert. Montesquieu; tr. by Melville B. Anderson and E: Playfair Anderson. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888. c. 218 p. D. (Great French writers ser.) cl., $1.

The third volume in the series which has been translated specially for the American market. The author gives a fair sketch of the great philosophical historian, born at the Castle of La Brède in Bordeaux, in 1689, and until his death in 1755, the recognized leader of French thought. His "Persian letters," published in 1721, is a satire on the social, political, ecclesiastical, and literary follies of his day. His "Spirit of the laws" appeared in 1748, and has associated his name with many of the best reforms that have been brought about within the past century. Good index.

Spurgeon, C: H. The cheque-book of the bank of faith; being precious promises arranged for daily use; with brief experimental comments. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1889. 7+370 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Three hundred and sixty-six promises selected from all parts of the Bible are printed as headings of the pages. The author regards these as cheques furnished to Christians, which must be endorsed by their faith, and presented in prayer. If not immediately fulfilled, they must be presented again and again until the full answer is obtained. On every promise the author makes many helpful suggestions. The book is intended as a companion volume to the great preacher's "Morning by morning" and "Evening by evening," for which he has received the personal thanks of many readers.

Steele, R: The lover, and selected papers from "The Englishman," "Town talk," "The reader," "The spinster." Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] 4+387 p. S. (Good company ser., no. 1.) cl., 50 c.

Stilwell, Lamont. Practical exercises in analysis and parsing, systematically arranged for school use and adapted to any standard textbook on the subject. N. Y., W. D. Kerr, 16 Astor Pl., 1888. c. 103 p. D. pap., 25 c.

For the use of pupils who are already somewhat familiar with English grammar. It is not intended to be a substitute for a text-book or to displace other class-drill. Its purpose is to supplement any systematic course of study.

Taylor, G: Lansing, D.D. What shall we do with the Sunday-school as an institution? 5th ed. N. Y., Wilbur B. Ketcham, [1888.] c. '86. 46 p. T. pap., 20 c.

Thwing, C: F., D.D. The working church. N. Y., The Baker & Taylor Co., [1888.] c. 4-154 p. D. cl., 75 c.

A careful treatise by a successful church administrator on the best methods of making the church organization an efficient instrument. Its topics are: 1, The church and the pastor; 2, The character of church work; 3, The worth and the worthlessness of methods; 4, Among the children; 5, Among the young people; 6, Among business men; 7, From the business point of view; 8, Two special agencies; 9, The treatment of strangers; 10, The unchurched; 11, Duties towards benevolence; 12, The rewards of Christian work.

Villars, I., D.D. The problem; or, the irrepressible conflict in politics. New ed. Cin., Cranston & Stowe, 1888. c. '85. 237 p. D. pap., 25 c.

The "liquor question" is the problem discussed, the author being in favor of prohibition. The work has been before the public since 1885, and in preparing a new edition all the statistical tables have been kept the same as in the first edition, as many of the arguments are deduced from them. But valuable statistics have been placed in an appendix, covering all need of revision.

Walton, I., and Cotton, C: The complete angler; or, the contemplative man's recreation; [new ed.] ed. by J: Major. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. 12+445+16 p. il. and por. O. cl., $3.

A charming edition of "The angler," illustrated with six original etchings, two portraits, and seventy-four wood-engravings in the text and at the beginning and end of chapters. Good paper and print.

Waterloo, Stanley. How it looks. N. Y., Brentano's, 1888. 108 p. il. D. pap., 50 c.; cl., $1.

The idea of the author is to exhibit whimsically the effect of translating into literal designs common figures of speech. They illustrate in a broader way some of the peculiarities of the English we use. Most if not all the illustrations originally appeared in the Chicago Mail.

Wells, J: D., D.D. Saved by grace; or, the last week in the life of David Johnson, jr. [New issue.] Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1888.] 201 p. por. S. cl., 60 c.

First issued by Robert Carter & Bros. in 1861. A narrative of the last week in the life of a young man who received a mortal hurt while bathing in the East River in July, 1857. The narrative tells of his religious experience, the efforts made for his salvation, and the result.

Wentworth, G. A. A college algebra. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1888. c. 6+494 p. D. cl., $1.65. Intended, as the name implies, for colleges and scientific schools. The first part is simply a review of the principles of algebra preceding quadratic equations, with just enough examples to illustrate and enforce these principles. Following is a full discussion of Quadratic equations, the Binomial theorem, Choice, Chance, Series determinants, and the General properties of equations.

Williams, R. P. Laboratory manual of general chemistry. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1888. c. 100 p. D. 30 c.

Directions for performing one hundred of the more important experiments in general chemistry and metal analyses, with blanks and a model for the same, laboratory rules and suggestions, and tables of elements, compounds, solutions, apparatus, and chemicals. Prepared for use with any text-book of chemistry; specially adapted to accompany "Introduction to chemical science."

Work, H: C. Marching through Georgia: illustrated. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. '85, '88. no paging, sq. O. cl. or ivory finish, $1.50; seal, $2.50; flex. cf. or tree cf., $5.

This popular song, written in honor of Sherman's famous march from "Atlanta to the sea," is illustrated with many characteristic full-page pictures of scenes from the "march," and a portrait of Gen. Sherman, all from the pencil of Charles Copeland. The ornamental designs are by Frank Myrick.

Wyss, J: R., and Montolieu, J. I. P. de B. (Baronne) de. The Swiss family Robinson; or, the adventures of a shipwrecked family on an uninhabited island near New Guinea; new tr. from the original by Mrs. H. B. Paull. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., 1888. 13+512 p. il. O. cl., $3.

A handsome new edition of an old favorite; printed from large type on good paper and generously illustrated; 16 of the il. are full-page colored plates.

Young America's nursery rhymes; il. by Constance Haslewood. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., [1888.] 80 p. sq. O. bds., $1.

The old nursery rhymes charmingly illustrated in colors; pictures on every page.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 27, 1888.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

THE CANADIAN COPYRIGHT ASSOCIATION FAVORS RETALIATION.

EVER since the International Copyright Treaty at Berne was signed by Great Britain, the English colonies, especially Canada, have been agitated as to how they would be affected by the new measure. The bill amending the Copyright Act of Canada was withdrawn from the last session of the Dominion Parliament, owing, probably, to the repeated vigorous and earnest protests that poured in upon Sir John Macdonald, the Prime Minister of Canada, and his colleagues.

The extract below from an open letter from Mr. R. T. Lancefield, of the Canadian Bookseller, to the Prime Minister gives a fair idea of the nature of the objections made to that bill. Mr. Lancefield among other things says:

"... I take this opportunity of publicly addressing you on the subject, with an endeavor to show that under the operation of the Berne bill the book, publishing, and printing interests of Canada would be disastrously affected.

"In the first place, sir, I would ask you to remember that under our present law, as soon as Canadian copyright is secured, the importation of the American reprint is prohibited, but (and I would draw your special attention to this) Canadian copyright can be secured only on the express condition of manufacture in Canada. The Berne bill would sweep aside this provision. Therefore, instead of extending the principle of home manufacture of books (which would be consistent with the principles so ably upheld by your Government), you would, by the adoption of the Berne bill, strike a deadly blow at the many and important Canadian interests concerned in the manufacture of books.

"Again, recent events have served to kindle anew the national feeling in the breast of every true Canadian. Imbued with this inspiration, I appeal to you in the strongest terms, to consider well before adopting a bill which would practically throw the publishing interests of this Canada of ours—this great and rapidly expanding country—into the hands of printers and publishers thousands of miles away.

"Again, there is a most pronounced feeling that the time has come when, as Canadians, we should be at liberty to make our own copyright laws. We do not wish to wrong the author, but we do want, as far as is practicable, to encourage and foster the manufacture of books in Canada. This view of the case is upheld by many of the leading men and firms interested in publishing and printing, in Toronto, Montreal, St. John, Halifax, Winnipeg, Victoria, etc. Most of the leading men in all these places, interested in the publishing and manufacturing of books, are strenuously opposed to the Berne bill, and I would respectfully urge upon you that the views of this influential body, having in the aggregate many millions of dollars capital invested in business, are entitled to every consideration in a question affecting their interests so seriously as does that of copyright. . . ."

The discussion of this question finally resulted in a call for a meeting of the Copyright Association of Canada, which took place at Toronto on Thursday, the 18th inst. The meeting was well attended and opened by the chairman, J. R. Robertson, who briefly reviewed the situation, calling attention to the points quoted in Mr. Lancefield's letter above, adding thereto that "in addition to this the bill excludes all foreign reprints of British copyright books, thus throwing the Canadian market entirely into the hands of British publishers and printers. This is where the book-trade and the public are deeply interested, as it is well known that the best and most popular books are issued in England at a very high price at first, and it is months, and in some cases years, before they are issued in cheap editions for the people. Haggard's books afford a good illustration of this. Many thousands of 'She' and 'King Solomon's Mines' have been sold in Canada simply because we have been able to sell the cheap twenty-five-cent American editions. And yet the cheapest English edition of these books to-day is six shillings sterling, a figure utterly beyond the pockets of the Canadian people."

A rough draft of a bill containing suggestions for the practical operative clauses for a new Dominion Copyright Act, governing the reprinting in Canada of Imperial copyright works, the production of British subjects, or of the subjects of those countries that have an international copyright treaty with Great Britain, was then placed before the meeting, and adopted. The following according to an Associated Press report, is a brief synopsis of the clauses of most interest to the trade:

Sec. 1 refuses copyright in Canada to United States authors until such time as the United States Government enters into an international copyright treaty with Great Britain and Canada.

Sec. 2 recites that the condition for obtaining the Canadian copyright shall be that the work shall be printed and published in Canada within two months after first publication elsewhere.

Sec. 3 recites that any work intended to be copyrighted in Canada shall before publication elsewhere, or simultaneously with its first publication elsewhere, be registered in the office of the Minister of Agriculture by the author or his legal representatives, which registration and compliance with the provisions of Sec. 2 shall secure the exclusive Canadian copyright to the author or his legal representatives.

Sec. 4 recites that should the person or persons entitled to copyright under this act fail to take advantage of its provisions, than any person or persons domiciled in Canada may print and publish the work in question, provided registration of intention to do so has been duly made with the Minister of Agriculture, and the necessary license obtained, but in no case is said license to convey exclusive rights to print and publish the work in question. This license to be granted to all applicants agreeing to pay the author or his legal representatives a royalty of 10 per cent. on the retail price of each copy licensed to be sold.

Sec. 5 recites that from and after the passing of this act the importation into Canada of foreign reprints of works of which the copyright is subsisting in Great Britain and which have been registered under Sections 3 and 4 of this act for republication in Canada, shall be and is hereby prohibited, provided the provisions of Sec. 2 have been complied with.

Sec. 6 recites that this act shall not apply to English copyrights granted prior to the passing of this act.

It was decided to petition the Government to take this draft and incorporate the clauses into a bill to be introduced in place of the Berne bill, and the President was deputed to proceed to Ottawa to interview the Ministers with reference to the matter, so as to prepare the way for a larger deputation, which shall proceed to Ottawa later on.

MR. GEORGE HAVEN PUTNAM, in discussing these measures with a representative of the Commercial Advertiser, said: "The Berne convention gives to every European author the full control over his literary work in all countries the Governments of which have given their consent to the convention. Austria-Hungary and the United States had no accredited representatives at the Berne convention, and therefore are not bound by any measures adopted by it. Austria refused to join the convention only because the Hungarian publishers reprint Austrian and German works without compensating the authors, but would be obliged to compensate them if there was a copyright law."

"Section 1 only threatens to continue the existing state of affairs. American authors have no copyright in Canada and Canadians none in the United States. As the number of Canadian authors is insignificant compared with American authors, it is very plain that the latter suffer far more from a lack of a copyright law than the former.

"Section 2 is much broader in its scope than the Chace bill in this respect. The amended Chace bill says that a copyrighted book must be printed in type set in the country where the book is to be copyrighted. Under this Canadian section the electrotyped or stereotyped plates could be sent from one country to another and the impressions taken from those plates.

"The third section, relating to registry, contains nothing new and has no further bearing on international copyright than making the same provisions that are in force with native authors.

"Section 4 only reiterates the latter part of Section 2, and throws open the publication of a book to any publisher who wishes to do so without giving him the exclusive right to do so. It is very well to say that all applicants for such a license shall agree to pay the author a royalty of 10 per cent. on the retail price of each copy sold, but if there are a great number of small publishers, the author will be certain to find great difficulties in collecting his royalties. That has always been the case and, I dare say, will be here.

"Section 7, relating to the importation of reprints, is exactly the same as the Chace bill, and needs no further comment than to say that it is eminently just and proper.

"I do not believe, however, that the bill will become a law even if it is adopted by the Canadian Government. It must have the consent of the British Parliament, and that is not at all likely to adopt the Canadian suggestions."

THE PARIS UNIVERSAL EXPOSITION OF 1889.

THE United States Commission of the Paris Universal Exposition of 1889 have published the official prospectus, from which it appears that provision is made for the book and kindred trades as follows:

FIRST GROUP, Class 5, Engravings and lithographs.—Engravings in black; polychromatic engravings. Lithographs in black, in chalk and with brush; chromolithography.

SECOND GROUP Class, 6, Education and instruction.—Articles used in elementary instruction in its various branches. Articles for elementary instruction in geometrical and free-hand drawing. Articles for the instruction of the blind, and of deaf-mutes. Libraries and publications.

Class 7, Organisation and appliances for secondary instruction.—Collections, classical books, maps and globes. Articles used in technological and scientific instruction, for instruction in the arts, in drawing, music, and singing. Apparatus and methods used in teaching gymnastics, fencing, and military exercises.

Class 9, Printing and books.—Specimens of typography, autographic proofs, lithographic proofs, black or colored; proofs of engravings. New books and new editions of books already known; collections of works forming special libraries; periodical publications. Drawings, atlases, and albums. Musical publications.

Class 10, Stationery, bookbinding, and articles used in painting and drawing.—Paper, cards and pasteboards; inks, chalks, pencils, pastels, office furniture and supplies, inkstands, letter-scales, etc. and copying-presses. Articles made of paper, such as shades, lanterns, flower-pot covers, etc.

Record books, copy-books, albums and note-books; bindings, movable bindings, cases, etc. Various articles for washes and water-colors; paints in cakes, pastilles, bladders, tubes, and shells. Instruments and apparatus for use of painters, draughtsmen, and modellers.

Class 12, Photographic proofs and apparatus.—Photographs on paper, glass, wood, textile fabrics, enamel, etc. Heliographic engravings, lithographic proofs, photo-lithographic proofs, photographic negatives, stereoscopic proofs and stereoscopes. Enlarged proofs. Photo-chromy.

Class 16, Geographical and cosmographical maps and apparatus. Topography.—Geographical, geological, hydrographic, and astronomical maps and atlases. Physical maps of all kinds. Plain or raised topographical maps. Terrestrial and celestial globes and spheres. Statistical works and tables. Tables and ephemerides for the use of astronomers and navigators.

As already announced, M. Em. Terquem, of Paris, who will be favorably remembered for his excellent services in behalf of the American book-trade at the last Paris Exposition, in 1878, has offered to take charge of the exhibits the American book-trade may wish to make. The trade may be assured that whatever care, push, and enterprise may be necessary to make their exhibits prominent, will be at their command. The Exhibition next year promises to be a great success, at least stupendous preparations have already been made. M. Terquem has reached New York this week and begun the canvass.

We trust that our representation at this Exposition will be a strong one, even though no immediate pecuniary reward is looked for, both because we ought to take reasonable pride in demonstrating that we are one of the most important book-centres of the world, as well as to give encouragement to a sister republic. We therefore bespeak for M. Terquem a hearty reception and all success.

THE "CANADIAN BOOKSELLER" ON RETALIATION.

From the Canadian Bookseller, Toronto.

THE Newman asks: "Suppose, Mr. Canadian Bookseller, the United States should pass a retaliation law against Canada, would the Canadian book-trade boycott our books?" Now, that's a poser, and no mistake. But in the first place we don't believe a retaliation bill will be passed. But if it is passed, here is the plan outlined by a leading dealer when talking about it the other day:

- 1st. Push the sale of Canadian-made books.
- 2d. Give the next preference to books from Great Britain, provided they compare favorably in price with the same books of American manufacture. "For," said he, "while I am patriotic to the back-bone, I am not quite such a fool as to want to sell one copy of an expensive British book when I could sell ten copies of the American book. I don't believe in biting my nose off just to spite my face."

THE TARIFF ON BOOKS.

From the N. Y. Evening Post.

THE Mills bill, as it was passed by the House of Representatives, exempts from duty "Bibles, books, and pamphlets printed in other languages than English, AND books and pamphlets, and all publications of foreign Governments, and publications of foreign societies, historical or scientific, printed for gratuitous distribution." The Senate Committee on Finance, in their report (No. 2332) submitted October 4, to accompany their substitute for the Mills bill, point to this clause as illustrating one of the numerous inconsistencies which they pretend to have discovered in the latter bill, and claim that, according to its provisions, "Bibles and other books in foreign languages, printed for gratuitous distribution, are free; while Bibles and other books in foreign languages, if printed for sale, are dutiable at 25 per cent. ad valorem." A reference to the paragraph, as printed above, will show that no such construction of it is tenable, and that the words "printed for gratuitous distribution" do not apply to the first phrase at all, but refer only to the publications of foreign Governments and foreign societies; while the latter publications, on the other hand, are not qualified by the words "printed in other languages than English."

The liberality of the House in proposing to allow citizens of the United States to accept free of tax such publications as were supplied to them without cost by the generosity of foreigners, did not seem excessive. Indeed, to many of our citizens that seems a peculiarly oppressive tax which is levied by their own Government upon the knowledge which is gratuitously furnished to them by foreign institutions. A foreign Government or a foreign society offers the American citizen, without a penny of cost, books which may contain knowledge of the highest value to him; but his own Government refuses to deliver them to him until it has first set a fictitious price upon them for the purpose of taxing him one-quarter of that amount. This does seem a somewhat remarkable way in which to encourage the spread of knowledge among our people. But to the Senate Committee it appears reasonable enough, apparently; at least they have taken pains to strike out that portion of the paragraph in the Mills bill which attempted to abolish this state of things; and the clause has been pared down to simply permit the free importation of "books and pamphlets printed exclusively in languages other than English." Even an untaxed Bible, when printed in English, is not endurable to the Senate Committee.

During the discussions in the Senate upon the International Copyright Bill, a Republican Senator asserted that it was the "ardent hope and expectation" of his party that the day might never come when the duty shall have been taken off books. Nevertheless, we believe that the rapid approach of that day is inevitable, and that it may safely be predicted that even fifty years hence it will be a matter of astonishment and incredulity that a Senator, supposed to represent that portion of our country which boasts the greatest intellectual advancement, should have ventured to announce that the political party which claimed to embrace the best intellect of this country was possessed, in the year 1888, of an "ardent hope and expectation" that the time should never come for the abolition of a most reprehensible fraud, affecting the highest interests of the people. For what can be more blamable upon the part of a Government with an overflowing treasury than to check, by the interposition of a heavy tax, the influx of the means of moral and intellectual advancement? During these same discussions upon the Copyright Bill, the following dialogue took place in the Senate Chamber:

Mr. Beck—The object of this bill, I understand, is to disseminate knowledge among men.

Mr. Chace—Certainly, to encourage it.

Mr. Beck—Now, why not allow our own people to obtain, in the cheapest way they can, the product of the brains of foreigners? In other words, if we are to help our own people, and at the same time allow the people of all foreign countries to have the reward of their own talents, why not have free trade as regards books among all countries? Then our people would get the cheapest, and everybody would be protected at home and abroad, and the people would get the benefit. That would be fair all around, would it not?

Mr. Chace—I would say to the Senator that that is a very Utopian idea. If we could get the foreign countries to do it, perhaps we might; but they do not do it, and they will not do it.

Mr. Beck—Suppose we make the offer to them to bring their books in free for our people if they will do the same thing, and they would jump at it, I think.

Senator Beck's argument is incontrovertible, therefore his proposal is "Utopian." But the Senator from Rhode Island is mistaken in supposing that the other nations of the world are as short-sighted as the United States in this direction. Even the strongest "protective" States of Europe are too intelligent to put a tax upon the instruments by which their people are to grow in intelligence and culture; and for the few civilized countries of the world which do tax foreign books, the excuse can be made that they are struggling with bankrupt exchequers—an excuse which the United States cannot plead. An examination of the tariff laws of the world (a few for countries of minor importance not being available) shows that the following countries charge no import duty whatever upon books of any kind: Austro-Hungary, Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Netherlands, Norway, Rumania, Turkey, Barbados, Bermuda, Ceylon, Corea, Ecuador, Hawaiian Islands, Honduras, India, Natal, Newfoundland, New South Wales, Nicaragua, Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania, Victoria. To this list there might justly be added some other countries; for example, Sweden and western Australia, where, according to the new tariff law of July 18, going into effect on January 1, 1889, all books are admitted free of duty except Bibles and hymn-books when bound abroad. Upon the latter a charge of 13½ to 53 cents per kilo is made, according to the kind of binding. In Portugal also all books are free but such as are printed abroad in the Portuguese language (except when by Portuguese authors resident abroad), and these pay a duty of 10¾ cents per kilo. The same rule holds in Russia, all foreign books being admitted free, but unbound Russian books (when printed abroad) paying $1.50 per "pood" (equal to thirty-six pounds), and when bound $2.25 for the same weight. In Chili all books are freely admitted, except such as contain engravings, upon which the same charge seems to be made as would be made on the engravings, viz., 35 per cent. ad valorem. New Zealand appears to admit books without charge, except in the case of one class called "gift-books," which pays 15 per cent. ad valorem. In Italy unbound foreign books are admitted free, but when bound, duty is charged at the rate of $3.86 per 100 kilos, while unbound books in the Italian language only pay the same duty as would be charged upon the paper upon which they are printed, viz., $2.90 per 100 kilos. All unbound books relating to the sciences, arts, and industries are admitted without charge into Venezuela, as well as newspapers and periodicals; but bound books are charged $6.64 and upwards for each 100 pounds weight, according to the quality of the binding.

Twenty-eight States, therefore, including most of the great nations of the world, have absolutely free trade in books, while seven others only charge duties upon exceptional kinds of books. It should be borne in mind that the great bulk of foreign books are sold to the reader unbound, and that the exportation, therefore, of unbound editions would be exceptional, and they would consist of special classes of books, such as school-books or holiday volumes. This is a very fair foundation for Senator Beck's Utopian idea. It is, indeed, altogether unlikely that any single nation in the world would reject a proposition coming from the United States for reciprocal free trade in books.

Of the countries which distinctly advocate a duty on books, but two belong to Europe, namely, Spain and Switzerland. The former charges $8.10 per 100 kilos upon works printed in the Spanish language and $1.93 per 100 kilos upon books in foreign languages; while the latter country makes a uniform charge of 19.3 cents for each quintal of weight. The South American and Central American States for the most part charge duties upon books as follows: Argentine Republic, from 45 cents to $1 per kilo; Brazil, 32 to 62 cents per pound, according to binding; Mexico, 3 cents to $1.20 per kilo, depending on the material used in binding; Peru, 10 per cent. ad valorem; San Salvador, 5 per cent. ad valorem; United States of Colombia, 20 cents per kilo; Uruguay, about 65 cents per kilo. Hayti makes a specific charge of from 3 to 20 cents per volume on bound books, according to size, reducing the amounts one-half if the works are unbound. Classical books and school-books, however, are admitted free. Porto Rico charges from $5.40 to $6.90 per 100 kilos, depending upon the country from which the importation is made. In Canada the usual duty is 15 per cent. ad valorem, but upon Bibles, prayer and hymn books only 5 per cent. is charged, while the free list includes all books printed more than seven years, all publications of Governments or by scientific societies, and books prepared for the deaf and dumb and the blind. It may be remarked, concerning the various British colonies, that some twenty years ago they passed laws establishing charges upon imported foreign reprints of British copyright books, not as tariff taxes, but as a method for collecting, upon behalf of the British author, the copyright royalty. Such of these laws as had not been repealed by later copyright statutes were abrogated when Great Britain, on behalf of her colonies, joined the International Copyright Union.

A NEW VIEW OF THE AMERICAN COPY- RIGHT.

From the London Bookseller.

THE want of cheap editions of new books, in a form suited to colonial requirements, seems to be making itself felt more and more in Australia and New Zealand. The following extract is from an article on the subject, contributed to the Wellington, New Zealand, Evening Press of the 24th July by a local bookseller: "It was suggested some time ago by a leading colonial firm, and we now reiterate the suggestion, that the London publishers should unite to establish a colonial library issue which should place at the disposal of the colonies all that we ask. The time for urging this is opportune. The new copyright arrangements with the United States open questions which do not at all seem to have presented themselves to London publishers. In their conservatism they have adhered to the practice of issuing costly editions of works, and withholding those works from cheap editions for so great a length of time that, if the books have any value at all, they are disembowelled by the reviews, and their posthumous cheap editions fall flat and lifeless upon the colonial market. We could cite sufficient instances if it were necessary. The colonial booksellers are driven at present to deal with the English publisher. But all this will be changed when once the copyrights of English authors are in American hands. The American publishers wear no conservative chains, and are slaves to neither circulating libraries nor vested interests. They will give the colonial trade what they want—a cheap, readable edition of the current literature of the day, fresh from the author's pen, and as the colonial bookseller must obtain, at any rate, some of his publications from the United States, the step to transferring all his custom there will be an easy one. The English publishers have shown a total want of grasp of the necessities of the colonial market. They could easily sell 5000 copies of some works, if issued to the colonies at first appearance in the style of the Colonial Library (Macmillan), but in the costly style of first issues they cannot sell 500. We venture to urge this question on the attention of the London publishers as one which will not brook dalliance. The colonial trade is a growing one with infinite possibilities, and it will grow with being fed. Hitherto, instead of stimulating, the London publishers have stunted it."

"THE SPICE OF LIFE" AGAIN.

MESSRS. WHITE & ALLEN send out the following notice to the trade, in reference to the statements made by Messrs. Mitchell & Miller and F. A. Stokes & Bro., quoted in our issue of the 20th inst.:

"To the Trade.—Messrs. White & Allen beg to call the attention of the trade generally to a fact which Messrs. F. Stokes & Bro. neglect to state in their circular concerning the injunction against the publishing of our book, entitled 'The Spice of Life.'"

"For the trade's information, we beg to say that the injunction is simply a preliminary one, temporary at the best, and like all cases of this nature, granted only on the representations of the parties petitioning for it."

"The trade, we venture to believe, will agree with us that to enter into a discussion on the merits of the case before it has been tried and adjudicated, is not only unseemly, but is a tax on their time and patience which we have no right to impose."

"All Messrs. White & Allen desire to ask of their friends is to reserve their judgment until the result of the final hearing is announced."

"WHITE & ALLEN,

"32 Great Jones St., New York."

THE BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

AT the regular meeting of the Trustees of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association, held on Wednesday, Oct. 17, the following were elected members of the association:

Morris Francis Farnham, 308 New York Avenue, Jersey City, N. J.; Stephen L. Purdy, 356 Stuyvesant Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.; George R. Ross, 27 Russell Street, Charleston, Mass.; George Hancock Karcher, 2446 Nicholas Street, Philadelphia, Pa.; George R. Little, 168 Skillman Street, Brooklyn, E. D., N. Y.; William J. Lieder, 998 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Miss Grace Potter, Rutherford, N. J.; Peter Hakonsen, 506 Warren Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; William R. Beatty, Stoneham, Mass.; James D. Gill, Springfield, Mass.; Augustus R. Keller, 29 Seventh Street, New York City; Henry Bucklin Scammell, 3805 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.; James John Bolestridge, 1339 North 2d Street, Philadelphia, Pa.; Emil Shaw, 505 East 119th Street, New York City; William P. McGrail, 106 Duane Street, New York City.

The above were all the applications for membership that could be accepted. The ranks are full and the names of all future applicants for admission will be filed by the Secretary in the order which they are received, and be presented to the Board of Trustees for action in that order.

OBITUARY.

JAMES POLLOCK MAGEE.

JAMES POLLOCK MAGEE, for years identified with the successful New England branch of the Methodist Book Depository, was born in Ireland, in the town of Bangor, in 1818, of Scotch Irish stock. His parents were, as are the majority of people in the north of Ireland, staunch Protestants. Some years before his birth, the uncle for whom he was named had wandered to America, and upon a visit home he decided to bring his twelve-year-old namesake to his new home. The boy was put to school for about three years. At fifteen his independent nature chafed against being a drag on his relatives, and after some search he found employment in Crown's book-store, in Bleeker St., New York City. For fifteen years he remained in his first situation, thoroughly mastered the art of book-making and the general laws of the trade, and fostered his love of books, which became almost a passion. Mr. Magee at an early age united with the Presbyterian Church, but afterward joined the Methodist Episcopal denomination, through which change he became connected with his life-work.

In 1848 Lane & Scott secured his services as clerk in the Methodist Book Concern, New York, where his practical knowledge of the general book-trade proved of great benefit. In 1851 the New York agents decided to make a change in the manner of supplying New England with Methodist publications, which thus far had only been kept on sale by a private firm at 5 Cornhill St., Boston, having no responsible relations with the New York establishment. A branch depository for New England was planned to be located in Boston, and Mr. J. P. Magee was selected to fill the difficult post of agent, all his characteristics of experience, tact, urbanity, sagacity, self-control, and honest integrity being demanded in its successful organization. Several of the New England preachers showed some little jealousy at his appointment, one prominent man saying to him personally: "Is it that there is not in New England a man capable of filling the place of book-agent, but one must be brought from New York?"

Mr. Magee went at the big work with courage, and after thirty-seven years of toil he has left a Methodist Book Depository of which the New England Methodists are justly proud. His labors brought him into personal relations with many ministers and churches and he did much hard work as treasurer of various organizations and as indefatigable worker for Sunday-schools.

Five years ago a carboy of nitric acid burst in an adjoining room, and rushing in with others to ascertain the cause of the alarm, he inhaled the deadly vapor, which brought on an attack of pneumonia and an affection of the heart from which he has never recovered. Still he continued his unremitting work, and only within a few days of his death, which occurred on Monday, October 22, did he absent himself from his office.

He leaves a wife and five children, who were all present at his death.

COMMUNICATIONS.

STOP THIEF!

NEW YORK, Oct. 18, 1888.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

THE following books were stolen from our New York store: 11 vols. Longfellow (6 poems, 3 Divina Commedia, and 2 prose), bound in full calf, gilt edges, size 12mo, Houghton & Mifflin, publishers, having our name stamped in small letters on upper left-hand corner, first blank page in book; also 11 vols. Emerson, Little Classic Edition, in hf. calf. These works have been stolen from us within last two days. Any party offering either or both of above for sale to you, kindly detain and communicate direct with us, and greatly oblige Yours truly, BRENTANO'S.

NOTES ON CATALOGUS.

JAMES BEALE, 719 Sansom St., Philadelphia, Pa., has published a Catalogue of War Books, containing 259 titles of books relating to the Union or Confederate troops (24 p., sq. 24°).

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just issued a new edition of their interesting "Catalogue of Books" illustrated with portraits of the authors on their list. It contains a list of all the books this firm has published, and to the portraits of thirty-nine authors given in the last issue have now been added portraits of James Freeman Clarke, Mrs. Deland, whose "John Ward, Preacher," has made her famous, Prof. A. S. Hardy, author of "But Yet a Woman," and Dr. T. T. Munger (96 p., 16°).

Catalogue of Second-hand Books.—A. Baxendie, 7 Bristo Pl., Edinburgh, Catalogue No. 11 (24 p., 16°).—W. O. Davie & Co., 16 E. 4th St., Cincinnati, Catalogue, No. 30, of Law Books, and works in law literature, government, etc. (18 p., 16°).—Henry Gray, 47 Leicester Sq., London, Pt. 3 of special catalogue, A 11, of Town and County Histories (8 p., 16°); also, Catalogue, A 13, containing a list of "Books Wanted" as well as a list of curious and out-of-the-way books for sale (12 p., 16°).—W. B. Saunders, 33 S. 10th St., Philadelphia, Catalogue No. 7 of Rare and Fine Books.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Manning & Visscher, book-sellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership, James A. Visscher retiring. Frederick C. Manning will continue the business under his own name at the old stand, 32 Maiden Lane.

BOSTON, MASS.—A special despatch to the New York Tribune, dated October 21, says: "The announcement that the Rand, Avery Company, one of the largest printing and publishing houses in New England, had failed was made to-day. The assignee is Nathaniel J. Bradlee. The concern was doing a large business and it is said made $45,000 net during the last nine months. But they had contracted to do more work than they could complete and on Saturday the firm found itself with obligations amounting to $140,000, of which $12,000 was then due, which included a week's wages to about 400 persons. A futile effort had been made to raise the required capital by a mortgage. The assets, it is claimed, are about $450,000."

REDDING, CAL.—A. J. C. Woodward, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

SIGOURNEY, IA.—Langworthy & Hall, book-sellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MR. JOHN GILMER SPEED has become the editor of the American Magazine. Mr. Speed was for several years managing editor of the New York World, before it was purchased by its present proprietor. Since then he has spent much time in foreign travel, and has also been a frequent contributor to the magazines and newspaper press. He has written a life of John Keats, and edited his letters and poems.

Harper's Weekly in its current issue, in addition to other excellent matter, presents an extended article on the New York Times. In this paper will be given a history of the Times' new building and an account of the remarkable methods employed in publishing a newspaper while demolition and rebuilding took place without disturbing the occupants. A carefully-executed wood-cut gives an exact idea of the present structure.

THE forthcoming volume of Wide-Awake will have some unusually attractive papers. Mrs. Frémont has prepared for it her reminiscences of "Early Days in the Wild West"—a series of picturesque and exciting tales. Miss Woolsey (Susan Coolidge) has written a girls' serial with the suggestive title of "A Little Knight of Labor"—the story of a girl who made her own fortune—and J. T. Trowbridge will furnish a serial, "The Adventures of David Vane and David Crane," a story of country life. Among the frontispieces preparing for Wide Awake for 1889 are portraits of John Burroughs at twenty, Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson in her young womanhood, "Pet Marjorie," Sir Walter Scott's famous little friend, and Lady Raleigh, the wife of Sir Walter Raleigh.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have arranged for the agency in the United States of the publications of Messrs. Williams & Norgate, of London. These include the issues of the Theological Translation Fund Library, the Hibbert Lectures, and works by Baur, Cobbe, Ewald, Keim, Kuenen, Strauss, Zeller, and other scientific and theological writers.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will soon add to their series of French texts for schools and colleges, "La Belle Nivernaise," by Alphonse Daudet, with 6 illustrations, and "Bug Jargal," by Victor Hugo—both edited by James Bofelle, Senior French Master at Dulwich College, England; also Scribe's "Le Verre D'Eau" and Lamartine's "Jeanne D'Arc." These last are to be edited by A. Barrere, Prof. of Modern Languages in the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, England. These texts will each have a literary introduction and such notes as will best adapt them to school use.

THE NEW YORK NEWS COMPANY has published a unique and very dainty card-case holding a complete pack of cards. It is a book cover of plush or velvet with a clasp and looks for the world like a book of devotions. Inside the back is a stiff clamp-like opening large enough to hold a "deck." The title-page of this little volume reads: "The Devotee's Manual; or, the History of the Four Kings. By Jack Pott, Esq., author of 'Miss Deal's Vicissitudes,' 'The Last Chip,' 'The Fatal Raise,' etc." The cards are of a fine quality and are gilt-edged. The retail price is $1.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish shortly "Pen and Ink Papers on Subjects of More or Less Importance," by Brander Matthews. It contains essays on Locker and Austin Dobson, on war songs and short stories, on the antiquity of jests and on the ethics of plagiarism; and also the first serious paper yet written on the genesis and practice of the American game of poker. They also announce "B. C. 1887," a volume of travels in British Columbia, by the authors of "Three in Norway." It will be freely illustrated from sketches by one of the authors and from photographs taken during their rambles. Although humorous in manner and full of anecdote, "B. C. 1887" is an account of a serious expedition of two young Englishmen who came to America with a view to settling in the Dominion.

C. Y. TURNER has completed his large plate of "John Alden's Letter," as companion to the popular "Courtship of Miles Standish." It is a fine etching, well conceived and boldly executed. Mrs. Ruutz-Rees in criticising it says "It tells its story well, and yet leaves something to the imagination; the artist has seized the moment in which Captain Standish interrupts his friend's letter home, filled with praises of Priscilla, to entrust to him the important commission to win the maiden for him. John naively replies: 'If you would have a thing well done you should not leave it to others.' The contest between the men is excellently brought out, all the accessories are good, the homely furniture of the room, the view of the ocean through the open lattice, and the Mayflower at anchor. Critically considered, 'John Alden's Letter' is a fine example of modern etching, particularly as regards the treatment of light and shade."

"NOTES ON DANTE ROSSETTI" is the title of a forthcoming volume prepared by William Rossetti.

It is said that 2700 letters on the question, "Is Marriage a Failure?" have been addressed to the London Telegraph. A volume of selections from these letters, accompanied by an article by Mrs. Lynn Linton, is to be published in England.

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON & Co. will publish early next year the "Memoirs of Grenville Murray," written by his widow. According to London Truth, this ought to be the most lively and interesting work of the "reminiscence" kind which has ever appeared.

A. & C. BLACK, Edinburgh, will publish next month the twenty-fourth and concluding volume of the Encyclopædia Britannica, which has been under way nearly ten years. A general index to this Encyclopædia is also in press and may be looked for some time next year.

"ITALIAN booksellers," says the London Athenæum, "are taking advantage of the customs war commenced by their Government against France to charge four francs for a French novel instead of three francs fifty, alleging the application of the general tariff. As the usual price of an Italian novel is four francs this change places the fiction of the two nations on a level as to price; but unfortunately Italian novelists must improve considerably before the equality will extend beyond the price."

ARRANGEMENTS are being made, it is reported, with the sanction of the German Emperor, for the publication of an English translation of the "Reminiscences of Ludwig Schneider," who was for twenty-six years the reader, secretary, and confidential friend of the Emperor William. Schneider's diaries were regularly revised by the Emperor every year, and his book is a work of great interest and importance. He accompanied the Emperor throughout the campaigns of 1866 and 1870-71, and one of the most interesting passages is his Majesty's own account of the battle of Rezonville.

It is proved that Victor Hugo's literary remains are becoming little better than deadly tiresome; and it will go near to be thought so shortly. In addition to the volumes which have appeared since his death, there is enough unpublished material to fill ten more volumes. There is a "a lot" of poetry; there's a work on metaphysics; there are travels in England, Belgium, Holland, and Spain; there are several plays; and there's an enormous mass of correspondence. It is said that the complete edition of his works will be one of at least fifty volumes. How much of all this writing ought to live?—New York Tribune.

A BOOKSELLER BY APPOINTMENT.—We learn that Mr. Alexander Gardner, of Paisley, has been appointed "into the Place and Quality of Publisher and Bookseller to Her Majesty," under a warrant dated 17th September, ult. Mr. Gardner, we may add, is also publisher and bookseller, by choice and preference, to a good many of Her Majesty's subjects, both in England and Scotland.—London Bookseller.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price.

 It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then titles in separate lines (see below), all written on a separate sheet, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

The Christmas Bookshelf.

There will be "a new departure" in the imprint edition of the CHRISTMAS ISSUE of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for 1888.

New title, as above, and new cover of attractive design, in colors.

As usual, special articles on leading books, the finest specimen illustrations from others, full descriptive summary of new books and stationery novelties, reference price-lists covering the ILLUSTRATED WORKS, BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG, and other CHOICE BOOKS published during 1888, etc.

Furnished at the earliest possible date, orders recorded in order of receipt. As paper is made for it, we need prompt word.

Prices are put below cost of manufacture, to insure the widest circulation to advertising.

This is the most representative of the Christmas issues and gives best value to both dealers and advertisers.

To avoid delay it is absolutely necessary that copy for imprint, together with full directions for forwarding, should accompany the order. All packages sent by express unpaid, unless other shipping directions are given.

NOBODY KNOWS; or, Facts that are not Fictions in the Life of an Unknown.

An anonymous book, consisting of a series of vigorously written and quaintly illustrated sketches from the life of an obscure but real philanthropist. It is an addition to the sociological literature of the day—the story of a man in the humbler walks of life, who brings to the surface the wrong and sufferings he sees, together with the cure for them put in epigrams. A model of terse, epigrammatic English. 12mo, cloth, 270 pages, $1.25.

Choice Library Editions of Dumas and Hugo

JUST PUBLISHED BY

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.

THE D'ARTAGNAN ROMANCES.

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS.

These fascinating works, of as great interest as the Waverley Novels, appear for the first time in a style worthy of their merits, translated into English, unabridged, and beautifully printed in handsome, clear type.

- I. THE THREE MUSKETEERS. With a portrait of the Author. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $3.00.
- II. TWENTY YEARS AFTER. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $3.00.
- III. THE VICOMTE DE BRAGELONNE; or, Ten Years Later. A Sequel to "The Three Musketeers" and "Twenty Years After." 6 vols., 12mo, cloth, $9.00.

The complete set, 10 vols., 12mo, cloth extra, gilt top, $15.00.

"Books which to see is to covet. Surely Porthos, Athos, and Aramis, and their comrade D'Artagnan, here have suitings wholly worthy of them."—Boston Daily Advertiser.

Of Dumas' famous creation, D'Artagnan, Robert Louis Stevenson, the popular writer, says: "I do not say there is no character as well drawn in Shakespeare; I do say there is none that I love so wholly." His "favorite book" is "The Vicomte de Bragelonne."

Large, handsome type and clear, white paper combine to make these the most beautiful and desirable library editions of these great works.

VICTOR HUGO'S ROMANCES.

Comprising the following works, translated into English, complete and unabridged, with many important passages hitherto omitted. Uniformly and beautifully printed in large, clear type at the University Press, Cambridge, and illustrated with twenty plates by French artists, including several from "The Book of Gold."

- I. NOTRE-DAME. With two additional chapters and the note to the last edition, specially translated. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $3.00.
- II. THE MAN WHO LAUGHS. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $3.00.
- III. TOILERS OF THE SEA. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $3.00.
- IV. NINETY-THREE. Translated by Mrs. Aline Delano. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $1.50.
- V. LES MISERABLES. Wrexall's excellent English translation, the standard, with all omissions supplied, including special translations of several important chapters. 5 vols., 12mo, cloth, $7.50.

The complete set of Hugo's Romances. 12 vols., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $18.00.

ALSO RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

A CHEAP EDITION OF WHITE'S SHAKESPEARE.

THE WORKS OF WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE. With all the Notes of RICHARD GRANT WHITE, the eminent Shakespeare scholar. A new edition, printed from the same plates as the previous edition. With portrait. 6 vols., 12mo, cloth, $7.50.

This edition combines good large type with the advantages of the best text and most valuable notes, at an extremely low price. It includes the plays and poems, White's Life of Shakespeare, an Essay on the Rise and Progress of the English Drama, and considerable valuable matter not found in other editions.

A NEW EDITION OF GROTE'S GREECE.

A HISTORY OF GREECE. By GEORGE GROTE. 10 vols., crown 8vo, cloth, $17.50.

Printed from new type, and the best edition in circulation.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO., Publishers, 254 Washington Street, Boston.

Ideal Holiday Books.

The Story of Mary, the Mother. Compiled by ROSE PORTER. "An outline story of Mary, the Mother-Maid, as told in the pages of the Holy Book, and by Historical and Legendary Art, as well as by the singers of high poems." 10 full-page illustrations from famous paintings. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

Old Concord: Her Highways and Byways. By MARGARET SIDNEY. A picturesque series of papers on the famous old town, welcome to all interested in the beginning of American history. Fully illustrated. 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

The Star Bearer. By EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN. Illustrated by Howard Pyle. No nobler Christmas poem than Mr. Stedman's "Star Bearer" has been written since Milton's "Nativity." Mr. Pyle's illustrations are conceived in the same lofty spirit. Proof impressions on Japanese silk paper; presswork in black, red, and gold. In box, $1.25.

The Lost Earl. With other Poems and Tales in Verse. By J. T. TROWBRIDGE. Now first published in book-form. Illustrated. 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Warwick Brookes's Pencil Pictures of Child-Life. With Biographical Reminiscences. By T. LETHBRIDGE. Pictures of child-life unrivalled by old or modern masters, in ideal innocence and artistic charms of artlessness. In box, $1.25.

Longfellow Remembrance Book. An outline of the poet's life, by E. S. BROOKS; the story of his boyhood and his relations with children, by Rev. Samuel Longfellow; Whittier's memorial poem; Miss Guiney's poem on the unveiling in Westminster Abbey. With portraits and illustrations. In box, $1.25.

Pansies for Thoughts. Selected from the writings of Mrs. G. R. ALDEN (Pansy) by GRACE LIVINGSTON. 16mo, cloth, 75 cents.

Christmas Eve and Easter Day. By ROBERT BROWNING. With an introductory essay, and explanatory notes to each poem by Heloise E. Hersey. Preface by W. J. Rolfe. 16mo, cloth, 75 cents; white, $1.25.

The Luck of Edenhall. By AMANDA B. HARRIS. All the romantic legends and ballads about the famous fairy goblet, with many charming drawings made at Edenhall by Garrett. In box, 60 cents.

A Dissertation upon Roast Pig. By CHARLES LAMB. A separate issue of the humorous masterpiece of the gentle "Elia," characteristically illustrated with 12 designs by L. J. Bridgman. Small 4to, $1.00.

The Kingdom of Home. Edited by ARTHUR GILMAN. Several hundred of the choicest poems about home, with nearly as many illustrations. Large 8vo, gold cloth, $3.00. Alike desirable for a Christmas or a wedding present.

A Dozen Delightful New Juveniles.

My Uncle Florimond. By SIDNEY LUSKA. $1.00.

"Characters and story that deserve a place on the children's shelf beside Mrs. Ewing's Jackanapes and Mrs. Burnett's Little Lord Fauntleroy."—American Bookseller.

Little Joe. By JAMES OTIS. $1.00.

"Altogether one of the best of the new books of the year. Little Joe is one of those boys for whom the writer has already shown so much love—plucky, honest, and lonely."—Golden Rule.

In War Times at La Rose Blanche. By M. E. M. DAVIS. $1.25.

"The feeling is so true, the humor so bright, the pathos so appealing, that the book is almost perfection."—Boston Advertiser.

Royal Girls and Royal Courts. By Mrs. M. E. W. SHERWOOD. $1.25.

"The most graphic picturing of the home life of princesses that has ever been given."—Literary News.

Howling Wolf and His Trick Pony. By LIZZIE W. CHAMPNEY. $1.25.

"A charming book; the graphic sketches of Indian life are as vivid and truthful as photographs."—Woman's Journal.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish shortly in the Camelot series "The Teaching of Epictetus," with an introduction of notes by T. W. Rolleston; in the Canterbury Poets "Poems of Wild Life," edited by Charles G. D. Roberts; and in the Great Writers "Life of Heine," by Wm. Sharp.

D. APPLETON & Co. publish this week in their Town and Country Library "The Master of Rathkelly," a novel by Hawley Smart, author of "A False Start," etc. "The Master of Rathkelly" is an Irish landlord, and the incidents of the story are said to illustrate the nature of the present conflict in Ireland in a striking manner.

THE Dearborn Publishing Company, Chicago, will publish on the 5th inst. a small book entitled, "Thinks," by Bill Nye, a collection of short, amusing sketches from the pen of this popular humorist. Also a larger volume, the joint effort of Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, with numerous illustrations by Baron De Grimm, E. Zimmerman, Walt MacDougall, and other celebrated artists, the title of which will be "Nye and Riley's Railway Guide." The authors explain in the initial article "why it was done."

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. have ready a complete and unabridged translation of Zola's latest work, "Le Rêve," made by Dr. George D. Cox. This dream of the great realist is of a little waif picked up in the snow by a worthy couple who embroider church vestments in a little mediæval town of France. The heroine has an innocent, simple nature which helps her when she loses her heart to one far beyond her in station. The painter of the horrors of "La Terre" shows the wonderful versatility of his genius in his exquisite work in "Le Rêve."

ESTES & LAURIAT, of Boston, and H. R. Jenkins, of New York, have made arrangements to bring out Victor Hugo's great novel, "Nôtre-Dame de Paris," in an illustrated édition de luxe, with nearly two hundred reproductions of original paintings by Rossi, Bieler, and de Myrbach, sixteen of which are aquarelles printed in colors in Paris especially for this work. The work will be printed at the University Press of Cambridge. It is in two fine octavo volumes. The five hundred copies bearing Estes & Lauriat's imprint have as text a new translation by A. L. Alger, while Mr. Jenkins' five hundred copies have the original French text. To these thousand copies the edition is limited, and the same illustrations appear in both languages. Each publisher will have one hundred copies on imperial Japan paper, with colored plates in proof on Japan paper in two satin portfolios, and four hundred copies on satin finish paper, half morocco, Roxburgh style. Illustrated specimens can be had on application, and orders will be supplied by each publisher according to the language desired.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish next week Mr. W. H. Hurlbert's book "Ireland Under Coercion," which has been received with effusive gratitude by the Tories of England, and which, as the work of a very bright man, will not fail to have a good deal of value and interest even if its conclusions are not always correct. At the same time will appear Prof. James K. Hosmer's work on "Young Sir Henry Vane," an excellent subject to which Prof. Hosmer has given much time and careful study of documents, and which he has made an exceedingly engaging and valuable book; a little volume by Mrs. Katharine Floyd Dana, entitled "Our Phil, and other stories," with illustrations by E. W. Kemble, the whole forming a very attractive book, designed to be in some sense a memorial of the author; a little book of extracts from the various writings of Mrs. Stowe entitled "Flowers and Fruit;" and the "American Poets' Calendar for '89," which includes selections from Longfellow, Emerson, Whittier, Holmes, Lowell, and Hawthorne, with portraits of these authors.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); O. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (name: 20 cm.); S. (name: 17½ cm.); T. (name: 15 cm.); Tl. (name: 12½ cm.); P. (name: 10 cm.). Sq., etc., name, designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adams, W. T., ["Oliver Optic," pseud.] Taken by the enemy. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 3-344 p. il. D. (The blue and the gray ser.) cl., $1.50.

A new series for young people, of which this is the first issue, has been begun under the general title of "The blue and the gray." The series will be completed in six volumes. They will deal with the events of the late war, both north and south, and though written from the Union standpoint, the author hopes that it will not be found that he is "unfair or unjust to those who looked from the opposite point of view." This story is entirely one of adventure by sea, the scene taking place chiefly on board the steam-yacht Bellewite, which the owner offers finally to the government for the Union cause. In this volume he makes use of the yacht to bring his family up from the south, where they are when the war breaks out.

*Æchylus. The seven against Thebes; with an introduction and notes by A. W. Verrill and M. A. Bayfield. School ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 30+127 p. S. cl., 90 c.

Alden, Mrs. I. M., ["Pansy," pseud.] Pansies for thoughts; from the writings of "Pansy." comp. and arranged with an appropriate text for each day by Grace Livingston. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 146 p. T. cl., 75 c.

Appleton, G. W. A terrible legacy. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-304 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1235.) pap., 20 c.

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud.] Undercurrents. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 1+377 p. S. (Lippincott's select novels, no. 90.) pap., 25 c.

The scene is a coast village of England. Vera and Griselda, cut with the mould that patterned Phyllis and Mully Bawn, are nieces of an old miser, with whom they are forced to live after their scarcely pleasant father's death. Two young men appear, whose courtship is uphill work, of which the details, added to a hidden will, a villainous old housekeeper's machinations, a terrible wreck, and little glimpses of balls and flirtations, make up a story rather more worthy of "The Duchess" than the recent publications to which she has lent her name.

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud.] Undercurrents. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-279 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1244.) pap., 20 c.

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud.] Undercurrents. N. Y., G. Munro, [1888.] 3-291 p. S. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1123.) pap., 20 c.

B. S. A. The sea is his; words of comfort for sea and shore. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] 48 p. T. il. pap., ribbon-tied, 50 c.

Bosant, Walter, and Rice, Ja. 'Twas in Trafalgar's Bay, and other stories. Library ed. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1888.] 5-399 p. O. cl., $1.50.

*Bosant, Walter. The world went very well then. Lib. ed. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 8+402 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Black, W. In far Lochaber: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 4+300 p. D. cl., $1.25. Same, 299 p. O. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 629.) pap., 40 c.

Mr. Black goes back in this novel to the scenes he described so often in his earlier works—the Highlands of Scotland. The heroine, Alison Blair, is a sweet, intelligent young girl, who has been raised in a small town in Lanarkshire, her father being a Free Church minister, with all the prejudices and narrowness that that often means. Alison goes to "far Lochaber" to visit an aunt and meets Captain McDonnell, and between the two a deep love springs up. McDonnell is a Catholic, and Alison, though free from a good deal of her father's bigotry, is influenced in a measure by it. Before McDonnell wins her for his bride there are many exciting scenes and much real unhappiness.

Black, W. In far Lochaber. N. Y., G. Munro, [1888.] 3-281 p. S. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1132.) pap., 20 c.

*Blatherwick, C. Uncle Pierce: a novel. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 279 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Braune, Charlotte M., ["Bertha M. Clay," pseud.] A mad love. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-260 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1199.) pap., 20 c.

*Bramm, W. T. The metallic alloys: a practical guide for the manufacture of all kinds of alloys, amalgams, and solders used by metal workers; together with their chemical and physical properties, and their application in the arts and the industries, with an appendix on the coloring of alloys; tr. and ed. chiefly from the German of A. Krupp and Andreas Wildberger; with extensive additions by W. T. Bramm. Phil., H. C. Baird & Co., 1884. 428 p. D. cl., $2.50.

Bray, S. Alice, comp. The baby's journal; designed and comp. by S. A. Bray. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1888.] c. '85. 40 p. obl. T. cl., reduced to $1.50.

Bruce, Alex. Balmain, D.D. The training of the twelve; or, passages out of the gospels, exhibiting the twelve disciples of Jesus under discipline for the apostleship. 4th ed., rev. and improved. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1889. 10+552 p. O. cl., $2.50.

*Burrows, Montagu. Cinque ports. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 8+262 p. D. (Historic towns ser., ed. by E. A. Freeman and W. Hunt.) cl., $1.25.

*Cæsar, C. Julius. The commentaries: The Gallic war: Books 1 and 2, ed. by Rev. C. E. Moberley. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. S. cl., 50 c.

Camp, Eugene M. Journalists: born or made? paper read before alumni association of Wharton school, Univ. of Pa., Mar. 27, 1888. Phil., Social Science Association, 720 Locust St., 1888. 15 p. O. gratis.

An argument in favor of adding journalism to the curriculum of our colleges. The author belongs to the editorial staff of the Philadelphia Times.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

*Castle, Horace. The doctrine of protection to domestic industries examined. Phil., H: C. Baird & Co., 1888. 39 p. O. pap., 20 c.

*Ohlsholm, G: G. Longmans' junior school geography; with 31 maps. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 96 p. Q. bds., 45 c.; cl., 60 c.

Collins, Wilkie. No name: a novel. Pt. 2. N. Y., G: Munro, [1888.] 311-623 p. S. (Munro's lib., pocket ed., no. 1119.) pap., 20 c.

Comins, Lizbeth B. The birds' Christmas. Bost., L. Prang & Co., 1888. c. no paging, il. sq. T. pap., 50 c.

A pretty poem telling how a brother and sister prepared sheaves of wheat for the sparrows at Christmas is printed in brown monotint and daintily illustrated in the same coloring. A pretty pasteboard cover with colored design.

*Cook, E: T., comp. Popular handbook to the National Gallery; including notes coll. from the works of J: Ruskin; with preface by J: Ruskin. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 18+703 p. D. cl., $4; hf. mor., $4.50.

Cooke, Rose Terrv. The old garden (from "Grandma's garden," arranged by Kate Sanborn); il. by Harriet D. Andrews and Mary K. Talcott. Bost., L. Prang & Co., 1888. c. no paging, Q. sateen, $1.50.

This well-known poem has been illustrated with flowers in all the rich colors of nature. The binding is light gray sateen, with a border of lattice-work over which twine the names of the flowers which bloomed in the old-fashioned gardens many years ago.

Oralk, Mrs. Dinah Maria, [formerly Miss Mulock.] A Christmas carol; il. by J. Pauline Sunter. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1888. c. no paging, obl. T. card-board, ribbon-tied, $1.

A Christmas souvenir, printed in sepia tint and gold on heavy card-board. The verses and designs are twined together, and printed only on one side of the card-board.

Oralk, Mrs. Dinah Maria, [formerly Miss Mulock.] A friend stands at the door: a psalm for New Year's eve. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1888. c. no paging, obl. T. card-board, ribbon-tied, $1.

A souvenir gotten up in the same style as "A Christmas carol."

Oranch, Christopher Pearse. Kobboltozo; a sequel to the "Last of the Huggermuggers." [New ed.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. '57. 4+95 p. il. sq. D. cl., $1.

This story takes "Little Jacket" among a Liliputian people, the opposite of the "Huggermuggers," and multiplies his singular adventures.

Oranch, Christopher Pearse. The last of the Huggermuggers: a giant story. [New ed.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. '55. 4+70 p. il. sq. D. cl., $1.

The "Huggermuggers" were a people of giant size among whom "Little Jacket," a sailorboy, has some queer adventures.

Oruger, Mary. How she did it; or, comfort on $150 a year. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. c. 212 p. 1 il. S. pap., 50 c.

The author vouches that this story is a portrayal, step by step, of her own experience, that the every-day life described is one she has absolutely lived and gloried in. With a little capital she managed to buy a house and get a mortgage on it, the interest on which also came out of the liliputian income. Three friends come to board with her, and the details of their inventions in furniture, cooking, and gardening are minute. Every penny of the money is accounted for in itemized lists of expenses.

*Curtis, Emma Ghent. The fate of a fool: a novel. N. Y., J: B. Berry & Co., 145 Nassau St., 1888. D. cl., $1.

*Darwin, C: The descent of man, and selection in relation to sex. New ed., rev. and enl.

Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. 2 v., il. O. cl., $4.50.

*Darwin, C: The origin of species by means of natural selection; or, the preservation of favored races in the struggle for life. New 6th ed., with additions and corrections. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. 2 v., O. cl., $4.50.

Daudet, Alphonse. Choix de contes de Daudet; sel. and ed. by W: Price. Bost., C: H. Kilborn, 5 Somerset St., 1888. c. 32 p. S. (Select French texts.) pap., 15 c.

Selections from Daudet's "Contes du Lundi," which has never been surpassed by any other living French writer in vividness, accuracy, and variety of expression. In the notes the only aim has been to explain those points which would be likely to puzzle those not thoroughly familiar with the idiom of the language.

De Foe, D: Tour through the eastern counties of England, 1722. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] 192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 3, no. 141.) pap., 10 c.

*Demosthenes. Pro Ctesiphon; De corona oratio; ed. with introduction and notes by B. Drake. 6th ed., rev. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 22+166 p. S. cl., $1.

Dodd, Anna Bowman. Glorinda: a story. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 293 p. S. cl., 75 c.

The scene is southern Kentucky after the war. Glorinda is the daughter of a broken-down planter, who, with scarcely anything to live on, clings to the home and the state of other days, though everything is in a deplorable condition of decay. Glorinda is a wild, uneducated beauty, with a passion for the stage. Some of the prettiest scenes in the book are where she personates Juliet and Rosalind, in the woods, to a select company of little darkies. Her mind and heart are developed through the visit of a rich Northerner who visits her father, and who woos her and rides away. She loves him, but does not die of a broken heart, as the story discloses. The author has written "Cathedral days" and shows brilliant powers of description.

*Douglas, J. Strange threads: a novel. N. Y., J: B. Alden, 1888. D. cl., 59 c.

*Dumas, Alex. Twenty years after. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. 2 v., D. cl., $3.

*Dumas, Alex. The Vicomte de Bragelonne; or, ten years later. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. 6 v., D. cl., $9.

Earle, N. The gypsies' festival: a musical entertainment for young people; arranged for public representation at church entertainments, school exhibitions, etc. N. Y., Harold Roorbach, [1888.] c. 28 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Edwards, G: Wharton. Sundry rhymes from the days of our grandmothers; coll. and il. by G: W. Edwards. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., 1888. c. 109 p. F. cl., $4.

Eighteen full-page designs illustrate as many old-fashioned rhymes by the Taylor family. The pictures are very quaint, and mostly figures in the garb of long ago. The paper is very thick and printed only on one side; the margins are most generous. Mr. Edwards will be remembered as one of the artists of "The last leaf." The cover is in white and écru cloth, with gold lettering.

Elliot, George, [pseud. for Mrs. J: W. Cross.] Complete poetical works. Family ed. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. ed. 271 p. por. and il. O. cl., $2.50; im. seal, $4.

The text is surrounded by an ornamental border, by J. D. Woodward, printed in tints; contains a number of full-page eng. made for the edition.

Elliott, Charlotte. Just as I am, without one plea; il. from designs by W. St. John Harper. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. no paging, sq. S. bds., 50 c.

Printed on thick rough paper, with half-tone engraving.

ings after original designs, and bound in illuminated padded covers, with mulitudes of ornamental cherub heads of all sizes and ages.

*Fay, E. Allen. Concordance of the divina commedia. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. O. cl., net, $10.

Fleming, May Agnes. The Virginia heiress. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1888.] c. 239 p. D. (The select ser., no. 15.) pap., 25 c.

*Fox, L. Webster, M.D., and Gould, G. M., M.D. Compend on diseases of the eye and refraction, including treatment and surgery. 2d ed., rev. and enl., being no. 8, Quiz-compend ser. Phil., P. Blakiston, Son & Co., 1888. 212 p. il. D. cl., $1; interleaved, $1.25.

Frost, A. B. Stuff and nonsense. [New ed.] N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. '84, '88. 96 p. il. O. cl., $1.25.

A gay new cover, the addition of some new illustrations and sketches, and a redrawing of some of the old ones, make this practically a new book. It is a delightful specimen of Mr. Frost's incomparable humor.

Gerard, Dorothea. Orthodox: a tale. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 161 p. D. (The Gainsborough ser.) pap., 25 c.

The hero is an Austrian nobleman, a Roman Catholic, longing to be a monk, but a soldier by his father's command. While stationed in Poland he falls in love with a beautiful auburn-haired Jewess, the daughter of a Polish rag and bone seller of the lowest type. His efforts to educate the girl, her father's interference and perfidy, the clashing of Roman Catholic and Jewish bigotry, descriptions of Polish Jews, their habits and thoughts, and the working out of the rather slender plot are worded by a fellow-officer of the hero. All the characters remain "orthodox."

Good manners. N. Y., The Butterick Pub. Co., 7 West 13th St., 1888. c. 384 p. D. cl., $1.

The Delineator is constantly receiving letters asking for information on points of etiquette, which are answered briefly in the correspondence columns of the paper. The material thus accumulated is now elaborated and worked into a volume which aims to cover all doubtful points of social etiquette.

Greener, W. W. Modern shot-guns. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] 9+192+4 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Gives information constantly demanded of gunmakers by shooting-men. This information is divided into historical, descriptive, analytical, technical, special, critical, and practical sections in Part 1. Part 2 treats of ammunition and accessories, and Part 3 of trap-shooting. The book is full of illustrations and the technical part teems with figures. By the author of "Modern breech-loaders" and "The gun and its development."

*Grenfell, Mrs. H., and Baker, Miss. Dress cutting out, with diagrams on sectional paper: a simple system for class and self teaching. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. F. envelope, 50 c.

*Grote, G. A history of Greece from the earliest period to the close of the generation contemporary with Alexander the Great. New ed. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. 10 v., O. por. and plans, cl., $17.50; hf. cl., $37.50.

Hamilton, J. A. Life of Daniel O'Connell. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 6+224 p. D. (International statesmen ser.) cl., 75 c.

The great Irish agitator was the son of a gentleman of ancient family. He was born in 1775 and died in 1847, enfeebled by overwork and anxiety for Ireland, where his life-work had been the emancipation of the Roman Catholics. His biographer tells marvellous facts about his vast power of work and attention to detail. For thirty-five years he was so much the first man in his country that in the eyes of the world he stood for Ireland. He was a great orator, a great politician, and an amiable and upright man.

Harlow, L. K. Golden milestones; il. by L. K. Harlow. Bost., L. Prang & Co., 1888. c. no paging, obl. S. pap., $1.50.

Extracts from English and American poets arranged to typify the advance of life. Illuminated by eleven full-page monochrome and color illustrations. The cover is hand-painted and shows a distant village with a great golden milestone in the foreground.

Harney, Rev. Gilbert L. The lives of Benjamin Harrison and Levi P. Morton. Providence, R. I., J. A. & R. A. Reid, 1888. c. 2+480 p. por. D. subs., cl., $2; $2.25; shp., $3.25; hf. tky. mor., $3.50.

The biographies are written by Rev. Gilbert L. Harney and Edwin C. Pierce add a history of the Republican party, a statement of its position on the great issues of the present day, the platform of the party, the letter of acceptance of Benjamin Harrison, statistics of elections, etc. It has several illustrations and portraits of the first five Republican presidents, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, and Arthur. The book is a compilation of facts, totally free from partisanship.

Havergal, Frances Ridley. Blossoms from a believer's garden. Phil., American S. S. Union, [1888.] c. 144 p. Tt. cl., n. p.

Prose extracts from various books and short sketch of the writer's life.

Havergal, Frances Ridley. Leaves of life: choice poems. Phil., American S. S. Union, [1888.] c. 150 p. Tt. cl., n. p.

Havergal, Frances Ridley. Songs for the master select poems. Phil., American S. S. Union, [1888.] 144 p. por. Tt. cl., n. p.

The above two little books are selections of poetry. All three of the Havergal books are put up in a pasteboard case, but can also be had separately.

Hawthorne, Julian. Another's crime; from the diary of Inspector Byrnes. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] c. 242 p. S. cl., $1.

A young man unjustly accused of a theft of twenty-five hundred dollars by a woman who has professed to love him is the chief figure. His career is ruined by the suspicion, and he escapes from New York before the affair comes to trial. He is reported to have been lost on a vessel he sailed away in, and his sister resolves to clear his memory of the stain that rests upon it. The usual detective work follows, with Inspector Byrnes as the prime mover of events.

*Higgins, C. Ophthalmic practice: a manual for students and practitioners. Phil., P. Blakiston, Son & Co., 1888. 314 p. il. D. cl., $1.75.

Eight chapters have for their subjects: 1, The first steps that count; 2, Under-clothing; 3, Shirts; 4, Suits of clothes; 5, The care of clothes; 6, Hats and neckwear; 7, Jewelry and gloves; 8, How to branch out a little.

Hitchcock, Ripley. Important new etchings, by American artists; text by Ripley Hitchcock. N. Y., F. A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. no paging, F. cl., $7.50.

Contents: "The East river from Brooklyn" by C. A. Platt; "What o'clock is it?" by J. D. Smilie; "Lucille," by W. St. John Harper; "Uncle Remus and the little boy," by E. W. Kemble; "Tokens," by C. D. Weldon; "Sailing toy yachts in Central Park, March," by Otto H. Bacher; and "A political marriage," by J. A. Mitchell. Mr. Hitchcock writes a hopeful introduction on the future of etching. The cover design is a matting of bronze and green, with green corner medallions and gilt ornamentation.

Hitchcock, Ripley. Madonnas, by old masters; text by Ripley Hitchcock; ten new photographs of masterpieces. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. no paging, F. hf. cl., $7.50.

The Madonnas selected are Raphael's "Madonna di San Sisto," "Madonna Della Sedia," "La Belle Jardinière," "Madonna Del Granduca," and "Madonna of the diadem;" Murillo's "Holy family" and "Immaculate conception;" Guido Reni's "Mater Dolorosa;" Holbein's "The Burgomaster Meyer Madonna;" and Correggio's "Madonna Della Scala." These can at any time be loosened from the binding and framed. Ripley Hitchcock has written an exhaustive essay. The book is chastely bound in white and brown matting with white parchment back and gilt.

*Holland, J. W., M.D. The urine and the common poisons; memoranda, chemical and microscopical, for laboratory use. New rev. ed., with il., interleaved. Phil., P. Blakiston, Son & Co., 1888. 65 p. D. cl., 75 c.

cences; twenty-four eng. from pictures by Warwick Brookes. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 76 p. S. hf. cl., $1.25.

Twenty-four engravings from pictures by this popular English artist, with biographical and descriptive text by T. Letherbrow. Neatly and tastefully bound in gilt cover with brown panel.

*Livy, Book 22; with introduction and notes, by M. T. Tatham. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. S. cl., 60 c.

Longfellow remembrance-book; a memorial for the poet's reader-friends. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., 1888. c. 116 p. il. sq. S. cl., $1.25.

A book made up of a very warm introduction by E. S. Brooks, Whittier's poem on the death of Longfellow—"The poet and the children"—Miss Guiney's "Longfellow in Westminster Abbey," and several chapters from the pen of the poet's brother, giving loving details of the childhood and boyhood and later life of the brother whose life he has already covered in his two previous volumes. About a dozen pictures show several of Longfellow's possessions.

Loomis, Chester. Familiar rhymes from Mother Goose; with new pictures by Chester Loomis. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1888. c. 48 p. Q. bds., $2.

A beautiful book exquisitely printed by Nister, of Nuremberg. A succession of plates in colors illustrate in an unusually happy manner the old familiar rhymes of Mother Goose.

Lothrop, Mrs. H. M., ["Margaret Sidney," pseud.] Old Concord, her highways and byways. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., 1888. c. 114 p. il. O. $3.

The author is a resident of Concord and a dweller in one of its historic mansions and is thoroughly acquainted with every nook, and corner of the town as well as with every legend that belongs to them. The illustrations are nearly all views about town and pictures of the home of Thoreau, Emerson, Hawthorne, and the Alcotts, father and daughter.

Lubbock, Sir J. On the senses, instincts, and intelligence of animals; with special reference to insects. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 26+292 p. il. D. (International scientific ser., no. 64.) cl., $1.75.

"In the present volume I have collected together some of my recent observations on the senses and intelligence of animals, and especially of insects. While attempting to understand the manners and customs, habits and behavior of animals, as well as for the purpose of devising test experiments, I have found it necessary to make myself acquainted, as far as possible, with the mechanism of the senses and the organs by means of which the sensations are transmitted. With this object I had to look up a great number of memoirs, in various languages and scattered through many different periodicals, and it seemed to me that it might be interesting and save others some of the labor I had to undergo myself if I were to bring together the notes I had made and give a list of the principal memoirs consulted. I have, accordingly, attempted to give very briefly some idea of the organs of sense, commencing in each case with those of man himself."—Preface.

Martin, Mrs. Herbert. Amor vincit. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-214 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1219.) pap., 20 c.

Mathews, Joanna H. Uncle Rutherford's nieces: a story for girls. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. 302 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

All the children introduced in "Uncle Rutherford's attic" about a year ago live a few more years of their helpful, happy lives as "Uncle Rutherford's nieces." Poor carrot-top Jim, the devoted "help" of the family, is put to school, learns to control his temper, and at the close is almost sure of a scholarship at West Point. His efforts as peanut merchant and Amy's experience at cooking-school teach good, practical lessons.

Malleson, G. B. Life of Prince Metternich. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. 5+209 p. D. (International statesmen ser.) cl., 75 c.

The man who, after the downfall of the great Napoleon, practically ruled Europe for thirty-three years was born in 1773, at Coblenz on the Rhine, and died in 1859. He was always cold and calculating in all his political measures, and in all the events which led to the fall of Napoleon, Metternich was chief factor, chief conspirator, the principal agent. A fair estimate of this almost forgotten despot, for many years prime minister of Austria. Index.

Milton, J: Poetical works; with memoir. Fam-ily ed. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. ed. 16+221 p. il. O. cl., $2.50; im. seal, $4.

The text is surrounded by ornamental borders by G: Wharton Edwards, printed in tints. Il. by a number of full-page cuts made for the edition.

A collection of verses in large print, intersected at all points by attractive pictures. The cover is an imitation of the country-house patch-work quilt of our grandmother's days.

Our little men and women; illustrated stories and poems for youngest readers. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 296 p. il. O. bds., $1.50.

Peck, Wallace. The golden age of patents; a parody on Yankee inventiveness. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. 55 p. il. S. bds., 50 c.

The witty author says our Commissioner of Patents has abandoned all idea of ever again taking stock of the patents evolved by Yankee brains for great conveniences, little conveniences, alleged conveniences, imitation conveniences, and over-the-left conveniences. This volume is to give notable instances of the latter class. It is very happily illustrated.

Pollard, Josephine, ed. Favorite birds, and what the poets sing of them; il. by Fledelia Bridges. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. 103 p. Q. cl., $3.50.

Selections from prose and verse, with illustrations of robin-redbreast and snow; swallows skimming over white daisies; humming-birds; city sparrows and wisteria; doves and peach-blossoms; chipping-birds and pussy-willow; vireos and nest; white doves and blossoming apricot. The third and concluding volume of the lovely series. Bound in dark green cloth with innumerable gilt birds of every size flying toward the silver names of the editor and artist.

Porter, Rose, comp. The story of Mary, the mother. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 88 p. il. O. cl., $3.

An outline story of Mary, the mother, as told in the Bible, by historical and legendary art, and in poetry. Eleven reproductions of famous pictures are included in the sketch; Deger's "Annunciation;" Ittenbach's "St. Mary the Virgin;" Titian's "Presentation" and "The Assumption;" Murillo's "Annunciation;" "The Mater Dolorosa," by Guido Reni, and the one by Carlo Dolce, and "The Madonna Addolorata," by Sassaferrato. Appropriately bound in two shades of gray.

Stoddard, Mrs. Elizabeth. Temple House: a novel. Rev. ed. [New issue.] N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] c. 3+333 p. D. cl., $1.

An old country-house in a pretty New England spot comes by inheritance to Argus Gates at the age of forty-one. His ne'er-do-well brother, with wife and daughter, come to live with him. The plot is very simple, but the study of character shows keen observation and a remarkably happy choice of words to convey the finest shades of meaning. The book was published by G. W. Carleton & Co. twenty-five years back and has been highly praised by E. C. Stedman. Argus Gates and the girl he fears to love are unusual figures in fiction.

Stoddard, W: O. Grover Cleveland. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. 6+263 p. por. D. (Lives of the presidents ser.) cl., $1.25.

Tells the life of the twenty-second president of the United States in a concise and interesting manner. The binding is plain maroon cloth, differing from the scarlet and gold of the rest of the series. A good portrait of Mr. Cleveland forms the frontispiece.

Stoddard, W: O. Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce, and James Buchanan. N. Y., F: A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. 6+104 p. por. D. (Lives of the presidents ser.) cl., $1.25.

The four presidents whose lives are here written were administrators during the years immediately preceding the Civil War. Mr. Stoddard makes clear to the boys of this generation why it became necessary for their fathers to fight to preserve for them the United States.

Strong, Helen P. The garment of praise. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] c. no paging, il. obl. S. pap., ribbon-tied, $1.

Twelve full-page pictures of beautiful children, with expressions and belongings typifying the months of the year. These are described in rich rhythm by one of the sweetest of English singers. Seven little faces also smile from the light green board cover, and the whole makes a very pretty gift-book.

*Trench, R: C., D.D. On the study of words. 20th ed., rev. by the Rev. A. L. Mayhew. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 10+348 p. S. cl., $1.

Trowbridge, J. T. A start in life: a story of the Genesee country. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 3-163 p. il. S. (Start in life stories.) cl., $1.

The first volume of a new series for boys. The hero is a boy of about seventeen, who leaves his home, on account of the tyranny of an elder brother, to seek his fortune. After going through many depressing experiences, he gets work, and by his energy, industry, and honesty makes an independent position for himself. Many incidents of frontier life—the time of the story being during the first settlements in Genesee county—are woven in with the story, such as coon and bear hunting, wood-cutting, and wild honey gathering.

Verne, Jules. The adventures of a Chinaman in China; from the French by Virginia Champ- lin. [New ed.] Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889, [1888.] c. tr., '79. 5+271 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

What can I do? A question for professing Christians; by the author of "Didley Dumps" and "May I not?" Rev. ed. Phil., American S. S. Union, [1888.] c. '87. 36 p. T. cl., n. p. First published before 1876. Taking St. Paul as example of what an entire change in life a conversion must make, the writer teaches lessons of unselfishness and duty to young Christians.

White, Margaret E., comp. After noontide. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 3+168 p. S. cl., $1.

Selections from about 130 different authors, collected "in the hope of presenting a cheerful view of the afternoon of life, by bringing forward its pleasures, possibilities, and hopes." Index to authors.

Whittier, J: Greenleaf. The writings of J: G. Whittier. In 7 v. V. 1 and 2, Poetical works. New Riverside ed. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. '48 to '88. 435; 347 p. por. D. cl., ea., $1.50.

An entirely new edition of Whittier's complete works. The poetic works will comprise 4 volumes, the prose 3. The text has been carefully revised by Mr. Whittier, who has added such notes as seemed desirable concerning the occasion of any poem or prose article, or the circumstances under which it was written. This feature lends especial value and interest to the edition. The last volume of the poetic works will contain, in an appendix, poems heretofore omitted by Mr. Whittier from the successive general collections of his poetry. It will also include an index to the four volumes, and a table of first lines of all the poems. The prose writings, in addition to those heretofore collected, will embrace a number of essays, sketches, prefaces, and letters, brought together from a variety of sources. The five portraits included, two etched and three engraved, represent Mr. Whittier at different periods, from the beginning of his career as a writer to the present date.

Wide Awake, volume Y. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. '87. 3-394 p. il. sq. O. bds., $1.75. Contains as serials Charles Egbert Craddock's "The story of Kiedon Bluffs" and "The secrets of Rose-ladies."

Woolsey, S. C. ["Susan Coolidge," pseud.] Clover; il. by Jessie McDermot. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 3-304 p. sq. D. cl., $1.25.

The story of Katy and Clover Carr, begun in "What Katy did," "What Katy did at school," and "What Katy did next," is continued here. The book opens with Katy Carr's marriage and a charming description of all the details of this important event. Afterwards "Clover goes out to Colorado with "Phil," who is not very strong, and finds her own fate there in a young Englishman.

Wright, Elvirton. Pen's venture. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1888.] c. 2-298 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Penelope Randolph was always having adventures. She had a genius for coming upon the unusual, and for telling about it. One day something unusual did happen to her. Something she saw in the condition of the cash girls in a certain store gave her a thought; the thought became a plan; the plan became a venture—Pen's venture. It was nothing more or less than to equip a reading-room for cash girls, and do something to keep them off from the street when not on duty.

OBITUARY.

JOSEPH E. AINSWORTH, formerly of the firm of Potter, Ainsworth & Co., died at his home, Dedham, Mass., October 20. A sketch of his life and work will be given in our next issue.

DR. ROBERT YOUNG, the well-known linguist and Oriental scholar, died in the sixty-sixth year of his age, in Edinburgh, October 14. He was the author of a great many works of analysis, translation, and research in the wide field of Biblical literature, several of which have obtained an extensive circulation both in this country and America. His "Analytical Concordance of the Bible"—a work which involved a vast amount of intricate and trying labor—is perhaps most generally esteemed, as it is certainly the most useful to students.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Bradlee Whidden will remove on November 1 to 18 Arch Street.

BOSTON.—A. K. Loring, newsdealer and circulating library, has removed from Bromfield Street to 18 Bosworth Street, under Horticultural Hall.

DEWIL'S LAKE, DAK.—Cordner & Co., book-sellers, have dissolved partnership.

NEW YORK CITY.—Miss Charlotte Rehbein, formerly with C. F. Cox & Co., has opened an Uptown Book Exchange, 1532 3d Ave; she has on hand a stock of scientific books, medical works, novels, and a line of school and college text-books, both new and second-hand.

NORWALK, CONN.—Andrew Sellick, said to be the oldest bookseller in western Connecticut, has retired from business.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MR. HENRY A. CLAPP, the well-known Boston dramatic critic, has written for the December American a paper on William Warren, the eminent comedian.

THE Fortnightly Review (Leonard Scott Publishing Co.) has two articles of unusual interest and great literary merit in "The Journal of the Brothers de Goncourt," by Henry James, and "The Irresponsibilities of Genius," by E. Lynn Linton.

THE Nineteenth Century (Leonard Scott Publishing Co.) gives an article on the "Chautauqua Reading Circle," by J. G. Fitch; and essays on "John Marston," by Algernon C. Swinburne, and on "Mr. Forster and his Colleagues," by T. Wemyss Reid.

THE Contemporary Review (Leonard Scott Publishing Co.) contains scholarly articles on "The Liberal Creed," by R. P. Haldane; "A Dip in Criticism," by Andrew Lang; "The Position of Women in Ancient Rome," by Principal Donaldson; and on "George Meredith's Novels," by J. M. Barrie.

MR. GEORGE EDGAR MONTGOMERY contributes to the November number of the American Magazine a most valuable and interesting article, profusely illustrated, upon the theatres which have been conducted by Mr. A. M. Palmer. This is the first article of a series on similar topics. A finely engraved portrait of Mr. Palmer appears as the frontispiece.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

ALBERT P. SOUTHWICK, editor of "Notes and Queries" in the Baltimore American, author of several books, and a well-known story-writer, has nearly ready for the press a novel entitled "Bijou," a love-story full of dramatic interest.

MR. SAMUEL BARTON, the author of the novel "Ask Her, Man! Ask Her," which was published some months ago under the pen-name of A. B. Roker, has written a little volume entitled "The Battle of the Swash and the Capture of Canada" on the plan of "The Battle of Dorking," which gives an account, supposed to be written in 1930, of the bombardment and destruction of the city of New York by a British fleet in May, 1890.

L. B. GILMORE, Assistant Librarian of the Detroit (Mich.) Public Library, writes us that "since the death of Bishop Samuel S. Harris, of this diocese, it has been found that he was the author of 'Sheikern,' a novel published by Bleloch & Co., of New York, in 1868. I understand that the author, so far as he could, tried to suppress the book. The discovery was made by Rev. Dr. McCarroll, of this city. I find it entered in all the catalogues, as it was published, under 'Christopher Coningsby.'"

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 3, 1888.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

WHAT "ROBERT ELSMERE" HAS TO SAY TO THE TRADE.

THE appearance and success of "Robert Elsmere" is an event in literature which recalls strongly the early days of George Eliot. The author of "Robert Elsmere" has indeed made an earlier appearance in letters with work which was quite creditable, but it is only now that we recognize in her one capable of taking up the mantle of the great writers who have passed away and giving us the new work of the new day. The only literary parallel in recent years was the publication of "John Inglesant;" whether "Robert Elsmere" like that will prove to be the one great work of its writer, remains yet to be seen. If Mrs. Humphry Ward, heir of the literary genius of the Arnolds, wife of one of the best known of the younger men in English letters, and herself the hostess of one of the most charming salons in London, should prove to have staying power as well as present gift, she is likely to become the foremost of present writers, and the queries which have been raised as to whence the successors of the great men of the past are to come, will be answered again as in George Eliot's case, not from the masculine but from the feminine side. The younger men of promise, like Stevenson himself, with his freshness, his Defoe-like directness, and his good English, are not to be compared with the writer of "Robert Elsmere." It is in form one of the most delightful and absorbing of novels, but as a Brooklyn clergyman said the other night, it is really a theological treatise, compressing the religious crises of the past hundred years into its significant pages. In fact, it is the lineal descendant of Matthew Arnold's "Literature and Dogma." It has been so eagerly read that clergymen of all denominations have preached upon it, that great crowds have come to hear them because this book was to be talked about. All these are signs of the times of curious significance.

This, however, is sufficiently emphasized in the literary journals; we desire to point out the significance of the run of this book from the trade point of view. It was published in London by Messrs. Smith, Elder & Co., and was introduced here by Messrs. Macmillan & Co., acting practically as an American house. Whether the significance of the book was appreciated by Mr. Brett, the American manager, or whether the arrangement was made by the English house for the American branch, we do not happen to know. In this case as in several cases before, the branch house has marketed in America books which were not published by the English house. It is often said that under an international copyright law English houses would get the first chance at American trade. But when at the meeting of the Typothetæ the delegate from Scotland assured the American printers that if the Chace bill were to be passed the Edinburgh printers would be coming over here body and boots with their men, one of the convention expressed the thought of every one in saying that if American printers could not take care of themselves against such invasion, they had better go to the wall. This is the spirit which should rule in the book-trade. We fail to see why branch houses, like those of Macmillan, Cassell, Nelson, and Routledge, or still others, doing business in this country, employing for the most part Americans to do it, and in some instances manufacturing in America, are to be distinguished from American houses because the capital comes from England. If, as in the present case, houses like the Harpers, the Appletons, the Scribners, the Putnams, the Houghton firm, and the Lippincotts, all of whom have agencies or close relations with England, fail to appreciate the significance of a book or are not alert enough to obtain it for themselves, it is all the more to the credit of a smaller house to obtain it. This is another example of the opportunities given to the younger houses to grasp business advantages overlooked by those longer established and therefore more conservative in method, a state of things which would still exist under any form of copyright law, which indeed exists now under our domestic copyright law.

As the book was imported in English editions by the authorized publishers, and not made here, there have been several intervals when it could not be had at all from them. Although six importations have been made, the book has been once or twice out of print. Meanwhile, of course, it was taken up in the cheap series of reprints and no less than five competing editions, including those in cloth of Messrs. Macmillan and Belford, Clarke & Co. and those in paper of the John W. Lovell Co., Geo. Munro, and J. S. Ogilvie. We are glad to note en passant that Messrs. Lovell forwarded £100 to the author in recognition of their sales here. We have taken some pains to obtain the figures of the several editions, but are not at liberty to give them in detail. More than 100,000 copies of the book have been sold in this country. One edition, nominally published by R. H. Macy & Co., the dry-goods people, is retailing by them as low as eighteen cents a copy, which is little above the cost of paper, printing, and binding, all brought down to the closest margin. This edition is practically that of one of the houses we have just mentioned, of which a large supply was marketed at a very close price, because a still cheaper competing edition was about to be offered to the trade. These cheap editions, though wonderfully good for the price at which they are retailed, leave much to be desired for a book worthy of permanent preservation. Neither publisher nor retailer, we fancy, has made enough on their sale to fairly cover the cost of handling—although the most salable book of the year ought certainly to have yielded some profit.

Under better publishing conditions, and under an international copyright law, this should have been the course of the book: The author would naturally have made a separate contract for the American market and, under the Chace bill, for the manufacture of the book in America. The book is evidently one to justify wide sale, and a live publisher, knowing that his investment in the book was safe, would have been ready to invite demand by marketing it cheaply. A dollar edition in cloth binding on good paper and in good shape, and a thirty-five cent edition in paper cover on cheaper paper, would have proved the most paying forms for the publisher, and given the public its choice between permanent and temporary shape. Certainly a large proportion of buyers would have preferred the better edition. There would have been a fair margin for wide advertising, and the sale would have been still more increased. The publisher and the retailer would have made a decent profit—and who would have been hurt? A royalty to the author of ten cents on one and three and a half cents on the other edition could easily have been paid, and would have given the author at least $5000. The public would have been better satisfied. An instance like this is practical proof of the advantages of international copyright. Soon may it come!

THE PARIS UNIVERSAL EXPOSITION OF 1889.

IN addition to the announcement already made of the proposed Universal Exposition at Paris next year it may not be out of place to recall to mind that the French Government extended a formal invitation to the United States to take part in the Exposition. The invitation was accepted by a joint resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives, and the Governors of the several States and Territories were requested to invite the people to assist in the proper representation of the products of American industry and of the natural resources of the country. The President was directed to appoint a Commissioner-General and an Assistant Commissioner-General, to make all of the arrangements for exhibits and represent the Government at the Exposition. He was also directed to appoint nine scientific experts as assistants to the commission, each to be assigned to one of the nine groups into which the exhibits will be divided. Provision was made for the salaries of the Commissioners and the necessary assistants, and the sum of $250,000 was appropriated to be used under the direction of the Secretary of State to defray all expenses. The action of Congress was approved May 10, and the President has appointed General William B. Franklin Commissioner-General and Mr. Somerville P. Tuck, Assistant Commissioner-General. The Commissioners have established their headquarters in the Mills Building, in New York City, and are busily engaged receiving applications and perfecting the details for a complete representation. The Exposition will open May 5 and close October 31, 1889, and there will be no charge for space occupied by exhibitors. The Commissioners will forward and return all articles received free of freight charges.

Goods of exhibitors who are unable to go to Paris or send representatives, will be cared for free of all expense, except that of unpacking and repacking. There will be no duties to pay except on goods that are sold or consumed. The French regulations state that all objects exhibited will be protected against piracy of inventions or designs.

The French Government has appropriated 43,000,000 francs towards the expenses of the Exposition. An advisory commission consisting of 300 members and styled the "Grand Council of the World's Exhibition of 1889," has been appointed. The Minister of Commerce and Manufactures acts as President of this Council and also as Commissioner-General of the Exhibition. The Grand Council is divided into twenty-two advisory committees, who have charge of the different departments and the management of the Exposition.

The buildings for the Exposition are now nearly completed. They occupy the Champ-de-Mars and the Trocadero Palace and park on the banks of the Seine. In the park at the entrance to the Exhibition on the Champ-de-Mars the wonderful Eiffel Tower is now in course of erection. It is to be entirely of iron and 1000 feet in height. Its object is to show the triumph of modern engineering skill. It will be furnished with an elevator of American manufacture. On the right of the tower is the Palace of Liberal Arts, and on the left the Palace of Fine Arts. Large gardens occupy the centre of the square, and at the back is the main building, or the gallery of machines, as it is called. The Esplanade of Invalides is reserved for the products of the French colonies. The buildings are magnificent structures of glass and iron, lighted by electricity and fitted with every modern convenience.

It is expected that the total number of exhibitors from all countries will reach 30,000; it is estimated that 12,000,000 persons will enter the grounds and buildings. Some idea of the magnitude of the Exhibition may be gained from the fact that the total area of buildings and enclosed grounds, which is to be lighted by electricity, is 3,000,000 square feet. The space allotted to the United States is about 75,000 square feet.

As noted last week, Mr. Terquem has undertaken to look after the exhibits of the American book-trade. His charge is $10 per running foot of books arranged upon the shelves, which includes all charges, as follows: Show-cases, catalogues, care and attendance before, during, and after the Exhibition; repacking, reshipping. Also for placing the books in best manner before the jury, obtaining and forwarding awarded diplomas and medals. This will include all charges from the time the books leave the United States until they again reach the United States. Payments may be made in three instalments, one-third on Dec. 1, 1888, the other May 1, 1889, and the last a year hence. Many of the prominent publishers in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia have already made arrangements with Mr. Terquem for representation.

TESTIMONIAL OF ENGLISH AUTHORS TO MRS. FRANCES HODGSON- BURNETT.

THE address which the English authors presented to Mrs. Burnett ran as follows: "The undermentioned men and women of letters desire to express to Mrs. Frances Hodgson-Burnett their appreciation of the great service they believe she has rendered to British authors by so strongly attracting public attention to the unsatisfactory condition of copyright law in England through her recent action at law to prevent the performance of an unauthorized dramatic version of 'Little Lord Fauntleroy.' They are of opinion that her spirited action has done much to strengthen the hands of those who are striving to bring about legislative changes which shall give authors direct protection against all kinds of piracy, and they ask her to accept this address and the accompanying souvenir as an expression of the very general feeling which exists to this effect." Mrs. Burnett wrote in reply: "It would be difficult to express well the pleasure and pride I felt on receipt of the beautiful gift with its accompanying expressions of kindness and sympathy which came to me this morning. I shall be more than proud to take with me to America this mark of most generous interest in a subject upon which I have felt so strongly. At the time when I was making my struggle and had little cause to be sanguine about its results, I used to say to myself: 'Well, if not I, then perhaps another.' It seemed to me that, if I failed, my very failure, calling public attention anew to an old wrong, might at least lead to a step in a right direction which would render success possible for some one more fortunate in the future. To have given such an impetus to progress even through failure would have been something to rejoice over, but to have been allowed to aid through success itself, and to achieve such a generous tribute of sympathy, is to have been fortunate and privileged indeed. Will you convey for me my most earnest thanks to those who have given me such reason to feel at once happy and proud?"

THE DRUMMERS' TAX UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

From the N. Y. Times.

IN an opinion rendered by Justice Bradley in the drummer tax case of William G. Asher versus the State of Texas, the Supreme Court of the United States, October 30, declared unconstitutional all State laws imposing a license tax upon commercial travellers not residents of the State imposing the tax. Asher was a resident of New Orleans, and, while selling goods by sample in Texas, was arrested and fined for violation of the State law making it a misdemeanor for any person to do business as a commercial traveller without having first taken out an occupation tax. Asher contested the constitutionality of this statute, taking the ground that it was repugnant to the clause of the Constitution giving Congress the exclusive right to regulate interstate commerce. The State court decided against him. Asher appealed the case to the Supreme Court, which on the 30th ult. gave a decision in his favor. The court, in its opinion, says it sees no difference between this case and the Robbins Tennessee case, in which the State law was held to be unconstitutional. As to the contention of the authorities of Texas that the decision of the Supreme Court in the Robbins case was in conflict with prior decisions of the court, Justice Bradley very dryly says that, even were this true, the court has always supposed that a later decision has the effect of overruling a prior decision with which it may not be in harmony. The court then says: "We do not propose to enter into a renewed discussion of the matter at this time." The court reversed the judgment of the State court, with costs, and remanded the case, with instructions to discharge the plaintiff in error from the imprisonment complained of.

SUBSCRIPTION-BOOK PUBLISHERS' MEMORANDA NOT CONTRACTS.

THE verdict rendered on the 30th ult., by the jury (in a Philadelphia court) in the suit of Geo. Barrie, of Philadelphia, against Miss Kate Forsythe, the actress, will interest subscription-book publishers generally. It appears that Mr. Barrie brought the action to recover $200 for an alleged breach of contract, testifying that in May, 1885, Miss Forsythe subscribed for a book called "Mr. Vanderbilt's House and Collection," from Barrie's canvasser, and that she afterwards refused to take the book. Miss Forsythe asserted that she merely signed a memorandum giving the agent permission to send her sample copies for inspection. These were returned by her, as were the subsequent numbers which the publisher persisted in sending her.

PUBLISH THIS WEEK:

THE MASTER OF RATHKELLY.

A Novel.

By HAWLEY SMART,

Author of "A False Start," "Breezie Langton," etc., etc.

"APPLETONS' TOWN AND COUNTRY LIBRARY." 12mo, paper cover, 50 cents.

"The Master of Rathkelly" is an Irish landlord, and the incidents of the story illustrate the nature of the present conflict in Ireland in a striking manner.

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

On the Senses, Instincts, and Intelligence of Animals,

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO INSECTS. By Sir JOHN LUBBOCK, Bart., F.R.S., author of "Ants, Bees, and Wasps," "Prehistoric Times," etc. "International Scientific Series." With over 100 illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

In the present volume the author has collected some of his recent observations on the senses and intelligence of animals, and especially of insects, and has attempted to give, very briefly, some idea of the organs of sense, commencing in each case with those of man himself.

How She Did It;

OR, COMFORT ON $150 A YEAR. By MARY CRUGER. With an illustration. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

A record of actual experiences in building a small house, and in a systematic method of economic living. The narrative in every particular is based on facts, and will be found most suggestive to people with small incomes.

Handbook of Historical and Geographical Phthisiology,

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO THE DISTRIBUTION OF CONSUMPTION IN THE UNITED STATES. By GEORGE A. EVANS, M.D. 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

In this volume the author has attempted to present a sketch of the development of our knowledge of pulmonary consumption from the time of Hippocrates up to the present day, together with the ascertained facts regarding the geographical distribution of that affection.

Hints About Men's Dress:

RIGHT PRINCIPLES ECONOMICALLY APPLIED. By a NEW YORK CLUBMAN. 18mo, parchment paper, 30 cents.

A useful manual, especially for young men desirous of dressing economically and yet according to the canons of good taste.

Orthodox.

A TALE. By DOROTHEA GERARD, joint author of "Reata." "The Gainsborough Series." 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

A very striking story of modern Jewish life in Austrian Poland.

1, 3, & 5 BOND STREET, NEW YORK.

MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA.

This magnificent poem of American national spirit, which has been enthusiastically sung by myriads of veteran soldiers and true citizens during the past twenty years, is now brought out in a sumptuous new edition, forming a very attractive Holiday book, at a low price. The full-page illustrations are admirably done, by Charles Copeland, who has made long journeys through the South for this purpose. They include the evening bivouac, the march through the piny woods, the negroes' welcome to the column, the foragers, the welcome given by the Georgia Union men to the old flag, the charge of cavalry videttes, the building of causeways through the Salkehatchie swamps, the storming of a battery, etc., etc.

The music of the noble old song is printed at the end of the book.

Beautifully illustrated. Quarto. Full gilt. Bronzed Arabesque, cloth, ivory finish, or imitation wood, $1.50; seal, $2.50; flexible calf extra or tree calf, $5.00.

Days Serene.

A NEW artist has sprung up in a field we have grown to look upon as almost the special province of Miss Irene Jerome, namely Mrs. Margaret MacDonald Pullman. Her first work, "Days Serene," is brought out this year as the leading holiday work of Messrs. Lee & Shepard.

The book is a royal oblong quarto, and is composed on the same lines as "One Year's Sketch-Book" and its successors. Still, though in a measure an imitation, it displays so much artistic merit that Miss Jerome will have to look to her laurels. Twenty-six pages of text and designs show the varied talent of the artist. Beautiful landscape scenery, sea views and mountain views, blooming meadows and playful streams; the forest at early morn and in the shadow of the setting sun; with the many flowers of the fields—daisies, wild honeysuckles, and daffydowndillies—adorn the succeeding pages and testify to the artist's warm sympathy with nature.

Mrs. Pullman was born in Indiana, and received her art education in New York City. For the last few years she has lived in Chicago, although during the late few months of the past year she has resided in Peoria, Illinois. Mrs. Pullman found no difficulty in taking a position among the leading artists of Chicago, and was considered by many the best landscape artist in the city. Her exhibits in oil at the art expositions and exhibitions in the East and in the West have always received much praise. The entire bent of her mind has been in the direction of art, and in this she has greatly excelled. When she was but six years old she had decided in her own mind to be an artist, and from early life she has been in close communion with nature, of which she is a fond lover.

The designs on this page and the opposite page give some idea of Mrs. Pullman's style. The full-page is an illustration of Tennyson's lines:

" One willow over the river wept,
And shook the wave as the wind did algh,
Above in the wind was the swallow
Chasing itself at its own wild will,
And far thro' the marish green and still,
The tangled water-courses slept,
Shot over with purple and green and yellow "

M. M. B. P.

The tangled water-courses sleep."

Abbey's Old Songs.

ART and artlessness appeal in nicely balanced proportions to all who take up the sumptuous volume of "Old Songs" published by Messrs. Harper & Bros., in which Edward A. Abbey and Alfred Parsons have furnished fresh proof that "all nature is but art unknown to thee." They have made love, that "pretty thing as sweet unto a shepherd as a king," sing to the eye in their drawings of pretty rustic maidens and lovelorn rustic swains, against the backgrounds of river, sky, and field, that hold the mirror up to nature, and show just how their little corners of earth appeared upon Cupid's visit to "Nelly, My Heart's Delight," "Barbara Allen," "The Maiden of Bashful Fifteen," "Sally in Our Alley," and "Kitty of Coleraine." Who now remembers these and many more of the village beauties, whose joys and woes were sung by our grandmothers to rivet Cupid's darts in the manly hearts hovering about their spinnets and guitars?

Readers of Harper's Magazine who have looked forward month by month to the pictures of charming landscape and tender little love scenes, in which Mr. Abbey excels, and to the graceful bunches of flowers, illuminated titles, and neat initial letters, of which Mr. Parsons makes such a labor of love, will be delighted to know that all this pretty work has now been made into a book with thick paper, large margins, and careful printing, to set off the many points that even in a rapidly printed magazine page proved so telling.

Our full-page cut is taken from the sad ditty, "Early in the Morning":

Early one morning, just as the sun was rising,
I heard a maid sing in the valley below:
"Oh, don't deceive me! oh, never leave me!
How could you use a poor maiden so?"

Few of these tinkling songs of former days have known authors, but Henry Carey is responsible for "Sally in Our Alley," who looks happy on our page while awaiting her "Christmas box."

This handsome volume is an appropriate gift-book for a man or woman friend. It will bear close examination, and from its pretty title with brown monotint "presentment" of a "ladye faire" to its "last rose," it has succeeded in suiting the word to the drawing, the drawing to the word.

Béranger's Poems.

BÉRANGER is as emphatically the poet of the French people as Burns is of the Scotch people. When starving in his garret, writing songs that no one wanted to publish, and which were sent out into the world in manuscript and sung from man to man, he little thought he would one day be named among the greatest of French poets. Born in the bourgeois ranks, his sympathies never strayed from the joys and sorrows, the hopes and fears of those in his own class of life. Coming into the world in the last decades of the eighteenth century, his first memories were those of the stormiest period of France's history, and the earliest picture stamped indelibly on his receptive mind the storming of the Bastille, which event he witnessed from the roof of his first school.

All events conspired to make him a revolutionist. The times, the poverty of his own condition, the misery of his friends and associates, bred a natural hatred of a favored or powerful class, and of kings, princes, and priests. The advent of Napoleon he hailed with delight. He looked upon him as the realization of the republican idea, and tendered him at once his most enthusiastic adoration. Time changed his opinion of Napoleon, and he became a bitter satirist of the Emperor, but he never lost his admiration for the soldier.

It is pleasant to know that time brought to him, not only honors and riches, but freedom—that is, intellectual freedom—for he lived till 1857, and witnessed, after many revolutions and much spilling of blood, France under a liberal government. His pen was at last free, and he used it to such purpose that, after the Revolution of 1848, he was returned by the Department of the Seine as member of the Constitutional Assembly. But he was so unfitted for the post that it was at his own request that he was permitted to resign.

We have thus briefly sketched Béranger's life, for to know his life is to obtain a key to his ballads. Few events of his eventful career, few changes in the stormy time in which he lived, and few emotions of his warm, witty, sympathetic nature but find expression in his verses.

Heretofore, Béranger's "Poems" have been a sealed book to those unacquainted with French. He has often been translated, it is true, but mostly by English translators whose efforts were scattered through many volumes, or lost in the flood of literature which is buried in the magazines. The J. B. Lippincott Co. have done a good work for readers in collecting these scattered translations into one volume, which they now offer in illustrated form to the public as a most desirable Christmas work. The versions embraced in Béranger's "Poems" have been selected with great care by Mr. William S. Walsh, and all objectionable poems, or those even of an ephemeral interest, have been omitted. Thackeray was a great lover of Béranger. There was a witty, cynical vein in the man that accorded well with his own nature. He translated many of his best poems and imitated others. He appears in this volume as the translator of Le Grenier ("The Garret") and Le Roi d'Yvetot ("The King of Yvetot"). The first poem is a bit of description out of Béranger's early life, and the second a ballad deriding Napoleon. Robert Brough, a talented English writer who died young, left many spirited translations of Béranger's songs. William Maginn, William Young, and W. Falconer are the other translators.

The volume is of much literary importance. With its many fine engravings, of which we give reproduced specimens on this and the opposite page, and its dainty binding in white and blue, it should find ready appreciation.

LOUIS XI.

From "Béranger's Poems." (Copyright, 1888, by J. B. Lippincott & Co.)

THIS stirring old war song well deserves the beautiful setting given it by Messrs. Ticknor & Co. Not only does it commemorate an event that in dash and endurance has no parallel in the history of any other country, but it gives form to the triumphal march to victory which was one of the most brilliant of all the closing scenes of the late war.

Sherman's march was in those days on every one's lips. There was a reckless side to it that at once took captive the American heart. Those of us who lived through these exciting times followed in imagination, again and again, every step of the eventful campaign. This enthusiasm found vent in song, Henry C. Work's ringing ballad striking with unerring aim the popular feeling. It was adapted to a well-known air and included universally in the repertoire of army songs. Bands played it, soldiers sung it and whistled it, returning regiments marched to its martial chords, and in intervening years patriotic assemblies have many times awakened to the enthusiasm of the old heroic days, under the strains of "Marching Through Georgia."

Though once more a united country, we do not want to forget the brave deeds of the past. It is good for mind and heart to drop business for a time and remember that the commercial "Yankee," when the occasion inspired it, could be as picturesque a figure as any knight of old. For such reasons alone such publications as "Marching Through Georgia" should be warmly welcomed. Ticknor & Co., with the aid of the artist, Charles Copeland, have made a lovely gift-book of the ballad, reproducing with remarkable accuracy the scenes of the march. Mr. Copeland made his studies from nature, spending a long time in the South while preparing his designs. The result is a most charming book in every way, as we have endeavored to show by the illustrations on this and the opposite page. Uniform with this volume, the same house publishes in illustrated form two old negro melodies, "Nelly Was a Lady" and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground." Their quaint, sad stories, recalling old slavery days, are admirably told in Mr. Copeland's designs.

"Sing it as we used to sing it,
Fifty thousand strong,
While we were marching through Georgia."

India—Pictorial and Descriptive.

IN the history of the world nothing is more wonderful than the acquisition by England of her Indian Empire, except it be the consummate statesmanship she has shown in retaining possession of this great Eastern dependency. That, at a distance of several thousand miles, a population of thirty-six millions of people, occupying an area of about 116,000 square miles, should hold 1,770,000 square miles of conquered soil, and control the destinies of two hundred and fifty millions of people is one of the greatest triumphs of mind over matter which the past hundred years have witnessed.

Although some of the noblest blood of England has been spilled on Indian soil, England as a whole, until very recently, gave little thought to India.

It was the catastrophe of the Sepoy Mutiny that rudely awakened the national conscience and taught the old lesson that great power brings great responsibility and that a great trust cannot be safely neglected. To England has fallen the trust of training the peoples of India to self-government, of raising them to the level of Western civilization, of securing for them peace, order, and individual freedom. It becomes more and more necessary that trustworthy information concerning England's Eastern Empire should be put in popular form. To this end the present volume on "India," just published by Thos. Nelson & Sons, has been written by one who feels strongly that much work is to be done in India, and that there are many able to do it who have not as yet been awakened to the needs of their distant fellow-subjects. It is a book of description and not of criticism. The subjects of religion and education and the duties of the Imperial Government are not discussed. Things are pictured as they are, and readers are left to draw their own conclusions.

The full-page cut gives an idea of the feast of Ganesa, celebrated about the end of April. Ganesa, the God of Wisdom, is represented as a many-armed human figure, sitting cross-legged like a Mohammedan, and wearing the head and trunk of an elephant. Tradition runs that he was born with a human head, but lost it in battle. His mother vowed to furnish him with the head of the first living creature she should see. This proved to be an elephant, and Ganesa became possessed of the thoughtful elephantine brain. He is one of the most popular gods, regarded as the type of sagacity, prudence, and commercial enterprise. His image is conspicuous above the doors of houses of business, and all trade contracts and agreements open with an invocation to Ganesa. In Benares he has about two hundred sanctuaries, and on his fête-day processions of white-robed priests and musicians start from every temple for the river-bank. They embark in long skiffs amid the shouts of the multitude, and the gorgeous aquatic display continues until sundown. Effigies of the god in terra-cotta are on every boat, which, as the last ray of the sun disappears, are solemnly cast into the sacred water.

Although written for Englishmen, this book is full of interest for all nations, and the publishers have spared neither time nor means to make it a handsome gift-book.

The Knickerbocker Nuggets.

SINCE last Christmas ten more nuggets have been dug from the mines of the world's classics and artistically fixed in their dainty Knickerbocker settings. The taste which directs the "picking" in these literary mines is cosmopolitan and unfettered by chronology. With unerring judgment it strikes lode after lode of "metal more attractive."

Amongst the nuggets of the year are "Æsop's Fables;" "Undine and Sintram;" "Irish Melodies," by Thomas Moore; Lord Chesterfield's "Letters, Sentences, and Maxims;" Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield;" Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome;" Thackeray's "Rose and the Ring;" Lamb's "Essays of Elia;" Leigh Hunt's "Stories from the Italian Poets," and George Long's translation of the "Thoughts of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius Antoninus." The Knickerbocker Nugget cases could hardly contain a more varied collection of jewels.

To drop metaphor, Messrs. Putnam's Sons present in the Knickerbocker Nuggets a series of little gems of book-making, of which we show illustrations taken from the three volumes appearing first in the above enumeration. They give a correct idea of the size and style of the artistic typography that proves so irresistibly tempting to cultured bookbuyers. "Æsop's Fables," known to the cultured world more than six hundred years before Christ, have been rendered from the original sources many times, by many men of many minds. In the present version Rev. Thomas James has done the grateful work, and the illustrations, numbering nearly one hundred, are those of John Tenniel. Fouqué's idyllic story, telling of the birth of a woman's soul and of the great change wrought in Undine when she realized the suffering as well as the joy born of her spiritual nature, is a work of art in its grand simplicity. In strong contrast are the ideas of Thomas Moore, which have lived by their exquisite voicing, in spite of much of the tawdry quality of their intellectual and moral texture. The illustrations are those of Maclise, who has also designed the tasteful borders, fittingly printed in the national emerald hue. The wellknown "Harp that once through Tara's Halls" and "Rich and Rare were the Gems that She Wore" are the themes that have inspired the artist in the pages we show. With two more nuggets the first series of these little books will be complete. It is earnestly to be hoped that the publishers' undertaking will be sufficiently appreciated to warrant another and another. Many "rich and rare gems" are still in the classic mines awaiting to appear as "Nuggets" and take their place as peers among the many éditions de luxe in which they have already passed many stages of their long existence. The publishers show firm faith in the perennial youth of these classics, since they have decided, and decided with wisdom, that their correct costume for the year 1888-89 is "Knickerbockers."

The Fighting-Cocks and the Eagle 41

FABLE XXII.

THE FIGHTING-COCKS AND THE EAGLE.

Two young Cocks were fighting as fiercely as if they had been men. At last the one that was beaten crept into a corner of the hen-house covered with wounds. But the conqueror, straightway flying up to the top of the house, began clapping his wings and crowing, to announce his victory. At this moment an Eagle, sailing by, seized him in his talons and bore him away!

While the defeated rival came out from his hiding-place, and took possession of the dunghill for which they had contended.

On she went and her maiden smile
In safety lighted her round the Green isle!
And best for ever is she who relied
In Erin's honor and Erin's pride.

The Holiday Gift-Books.

THE preceding pages describe and illustrate in detail several of the most notable of the holiday books. The following is a more complete descriptive summary, covering the general field, and noting the new books and some of the standards of the several publishers, arranged in their alphabetical order. To them we are indebted for the many illustrations which adorn these pages and suggest more fully the books of the year.

THE AMERICAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION offer a pretty Christmas gift in a little box containing three lilliputian volumes of extracts from the writings of the popular Frances Ridley Havergal. The separate titles are "Blossoms from a Believer's Garden," "Leaves of Life," and "Songs for the Master."

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY have made a dainty oblong book of Helen P. Strong's compilation, "The Garment of Praise." It has a delicately tinted paper cover with the title in silver and red, a pretty design of a harp and sheaves of grass below it. The text consists of Scripture quotations and extracts from well-known writers, describing the various "garments of praise" worn by nature and the several instruments of praise. Ice and snow, flowers and fruit, wind, zephyrs and sunshine, harps, organs, trumpets, shawms, and cymbals, are all pictured in delicate gray monotone throughout the reading-matter, and the combination makes a pretty souvenir. "The Sea Is His" is a collection of suitable verses dedicated to "those who seek for peace and rest on the ocean or beside its shore." The extracts are from the Bible and from secular writers, all short and pithy. The illustrations are in color, representing the "sea and all that therein is," water, lighthouses, fishes, boats, seaweed, rocks, and shells, in sunshine, moonlight, and storm.

D. APPLETON & Co. offer as a holiday book sure to meet with a large sale a popular "Household History of the United States," by Edward Eggleston, which was loudly called for because of the success of his remarkable work as a textbook for schools. The questions and other portions intended for class instruction have been omitted and Dr. Eggleston has replaced these with matter making the book desirable for old or young readers. He has collected, assorted, and arranged the facts of the history of our country to form a most fascinating narrative. In all the part devoted to the late Civil War, Dr. Eggleston shows a glowing patriotism, with fine tact in describing the Southern side of the war and the great sufferings endured by the Southern people. The general appearance of the volume is attractive. Maps and illustrations abound, and the pages have been made up with artistic skill, with little cuts of every description nestling among the clearly printed text and flowing over into the generous margins. Another line of books appealing to old and young Americans is "The Advance Guard of Western Civilization," by Jas. R. Gilmore ("Edmund Kirke") and its predecessors. Messrs. Appleton are also the publishers of Bryant and other great American authors in styles suitable for holiday purchases.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have two books specially tempting to scholars and book-collectors. The eighth volume in the Book-Lovers' Library, to be known as "The Book of Noodles," is compiled by W. A. Coulston, who has made a most valuable collection for students of history of humor, the collector of jest-books, and the folklorist. Book-lovers will also gloat over "The Book-Worm," an illustrated treasury of knowledge on old-time literature, presenting its readers with stores of wisdom on subjects which are attractive to the book-lover, and giving them in a readable form much out-of-the-way and little-known information on the literature of the past. The book is produced in a style adapted to its subject, being tastefully printed in old style on antique paper, with numerous illustrations and ornamental embellishments. The house will again furnish three monotint booklets for the holiday season, uniform with "As Time Glides On," the success of last year: "The Voice of Nature," made up of descriptive poetry by Longfellow, Thomson, Montgomery, Eliza Cook, etc., illustrated with sixteen full-page monotints in six printings, very neatly bound with illuminated cover; "He Leadeth Me," containing texts and twelve full-page colored pictures from ten printings; and "Threefold Praise, and other pieces," by Frances Ridley Havergal, with monotint and finely-colored illustrations. These are all attractive small quartos.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR CO. have ready three little volumes which one or all would mightily please literary friends with a love of curiosities. These are fac-simile reprints of the first editions of "Pilgrim's Progress," George Herbert's "Temple," and Walton's "Compleat Angler," neatly gotten up in antique binding with Renaissance design, which have received great praise from our literary papers. A beautiful little publication has been made of Madame de Gasparin's "Under French Skies," which, though a religious book, is totally free from dogmatism and full of the spirit of Christlike charity. Its descriptions of the peasant-folk of the Jura in their little secluded mountain world are full of exquisite artistic work. "Songs in the Night Watches" is a collection of religious verse compiled by Helen H. Strong Thompson, who has carefully scanned the vast field of religious poems, and chosen those which show "light in the darkness," making a pretty, helpful volume.

A. S. BARNES & CO. have ready "The Three Germanies," a new history of Germany, from the earliest days to the present time, by ex-United States Minister Theodore S. Fay, a most interesting and important book, founded upon careful work by the author, and making a good and reliable history of Germany to the present day. During the fourteen years of his residence abroad Germany changed from a confederation of little states to one of the great empires of Europe, and Mr. Fay has described the details of this political transformation very happily. The house also has a new condensed history of art, which they bring out under the title of "Goodyear's Art Studies," by a writer lately Curator in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City. The book gives a comprehensive sketch of architecture, sculpture, and painting, intended for Americans who cannot hope to attain to the possession of Lübke. The principles of art are clearly stated and examples offered of every school that has been or still is famous. Other important books issued by the house, which if bestowed upon the right people would give more pleasure than gaudily bound holiday picture-books, are Barnes' ever popular "United States History" and Mrs. Lamb's standard "History of New York City."

CASSELL & CO. have ready "As You Like It" in their édition de luxe of Shakespeare, one of the most important artistic undertakings, on which they are spending much thought, and which is of interest to all the world, and especially the English-speaking portion of it. The reproductions of the designs in this edition of Shakespeare are in photogravure, and perfectly executed. Each impression is examined to see that it is a perfect copy of the original drawing, and everything that abundant means, directed by experienced talent, can accomplish, has been done to do justice to the work of the celebrated artists. The plays are printed on Whatman's hand-made paper and the text is in black and red. "Modern Art and Artists," edited by Wilfred Meynell, is very fully illustrated with cuts, showing the work of about thirty artists, chosen with taste and put together with literary ability and large-minded, cosmopolitan impartiality; "Character Sketches from Dickens" contains eighteen original drawings by Frederick Barnard, reproduced in photogravure on India paper; "La Fontaine's Fables" are brought out in two large volumes, with three hundred illustrations by French etchers of renown; "The Magazine of Art for 1888" is in its usual tasteful binding; and "Mother's Song," by Mary D. Brine, has very pretty full-page illustrations from designs by Miss C. A. Northam, gotten up in several styles of binding, each a thing of beauty. The édition de luxe of "American Art" is a limited edition, with plates signed and numbered, executed by the best American etchers and wood-engravers from paintings selected from public and private collections, with text by S. R. Koehler. Walter Scott's "Christmas in the Olden Time," illustrated from designs by Harry Fenn, Garrett, Davis, George A. Teel, Hy. Sandham, Childe Hassam, and H. O. Barnes, engraved and printed under the supervision of George T. Andrew, is gotten up in a series of specially handsome bindings. "Shakespearean Scenes and Characters," with text by Austen Brereton, treats of thirty different plays of Shakespeare, and illustrates them with thirty plates and ten wood-engravings by Dicksee, Hart, Barnard, Ralfton, Selons, Hopkins, Bromley, Fredericks, Edwards, and other noted artists. The very beautiful work of "Etchings" is gotten up in an édition de luxe in two volumes, with text by Koehler, and thirty plates exquisitely printed. There are even more of these beautiful art works of which this great house makes a successful specialty, but space only permits mention of the most important.

THE CONGRESS OF BERLIN.

from Fay's "The Three Germanies," (Copyright, 1888, by A. S. Barnes & Co.)

S. E. CASSINO's holiday publications show judgment in selection and taste in execution. "Artists of New England and Their Work" is compiled and edited by Frank T. Robinson, the well-known art amateur. Each artist represented has contributed a full-page illustration, presumed to be characteristic of his work, which have been reproduced by process. In addition a biography of each artist has been prepared by Mr. Robinson, each having a head and tail piece executed by the artist himself, and a portrait. Four different limited editions are issued in various styles and on different paper, and one edition gives the autograph signatures of all the artists. Two extremely pretty little folios of loose etchings are prepared by Louis K. Harlow. "Thames Sketches" gives many views of the working scenes and pleasure scenes on London's river, and "Coast Sketches" gives views of home scenes and happenings on the coasts of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Long Island, etc., etc. The same artist has put very lovely work in the "Whittier Gems," containing full-page colored illustrations and many little pictures in the borders of the pages, on which verses from Whittier are printed on squares of a restful shade of gray surrounded by a contrasting red line. This is bound in rough parchment with a dainty little hand-painting and makes a very charming souvenir. Miss Lurabel Harlow has done the text as well as the artistic work on a souvenir gotten up in the style of the "Whittier Gems," in memory of Louisa May Alcott, giving a short sketch of her life and descriptions of her various books, with illustrations of the "little men" and "little women" who have so delighted their little and big brothers and sisters and taught so many useful lessons so charmingly. Four very pretty little booklets have been made ready by J. Pauline Sunter, composed of verses of favorite poets, with illustrations in monotint and pretty cover designs in color. The titles are: "Wandering Winds," "Summer Roses," "A Little Bird's Song on My Birthday," and "A Winter Song." Little booklets that might be used to advantage by Sunday-school teachers at the Christmas festivals have been made of the dear old hymns, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Lead, Kindly Light," "Rock of Ages," and "Jerusalem, the Golden."

THE CENTURY Co., following the precedent of previous years, has not expended its great resources on the regulation Christmas book. It offers a volume always in season, and appealing directly to the lovers of wild sport and life in the far West. "Ranch Life and the Hunting Trail" is its title. Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, the author of "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman," and President of the Boone and Crockett Club of New York, a practical sportsman and an experienced and graceful writer, embraces in this handsome volume some of his most exciting and novel hunting adventures. Mr. Frederic Remington, a no less noted sportsman, furnishes the illustrations, which are drawn directly from life, and notably spirited and real.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co. have a book that will delight the heart of young amateur artists, although it is sufficiently technical to be of use to those who are starting in to make painting their profession. The title is "Painting in Oil," by Miss M. Louise McLaughlin, and it is the fourth in a series of art manuals by this writer which the firm is publishing. Every line in the book works towards its purpose and the author thoroughly understands her great subject. "Ohio," the poem written for the centennial celebration in 1888, by Bertha Monroe Rickoff, has been illustrated with many full-page pictures by E. J. Meeker, whose work has often been seen in the Century Magazine, and a pretty book has been prepared in white parchment covers. "Master Virgil," a series of studies by J. S. Tunison, is a scholarly work that will please a classical student mightily.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have acquired prominence during the past few years by their translations of the best and highest class of works of foreign authors. Chief in magnitude and importance stands the edition of Victor Hugo's prose works in fifteen volumes, with upward of six hundred illustrations by distinguished French artists, including the weird sketches by the author which were on exhibition in Paris last winter. The translations are entirely new and carefully done. Besides the enormous task of translating "Les Misérables," Miss Hapgood has finished "Nôtre-Dame," "Tollers of the Sea," and "By Order of the King." Mrs. Nathan Haskell Dole was entrusted with "Ninety-three" and Mr. Huntingdon Smith with "The History of a Crime." All these works have now been gotten up in cloth, half calf, and half crushed morocco bindings in the 15-volume edition, and they have also been compressed into a popular edition of six volumes, retaining every picture however, and being a most excellent make-shift for those who still must pass the finer edition by. A uniform edition of Count Tolstoy's works in thirteen volumes puts one of the greatest writers of the century within the reach of every library, and shows his unique power as novelist, historian, religionist, and humanitarian, while giving an impression of the man himself that must be an inspiration and a help to every human being striving to assist his fellow-men. The Red Line Poets are all again ready in their various holiday costumes and always make pretty gifts. A little manual very neatly dressed is "Golden Words for Daily Counsel," giving on each page a Bible text, a prose selection, and a verse, selected and arranged by Anna Harris Smith and Huntingdon Smith. The authors range from Thomas à Kempis to Phillips Brooks, and nearly all literatures are represented. The book specially aims to teach personal duty and forbearance and will help any Christian, whether Catholic or Protestant.

CUPPLES & HURD have a new book of travel by W. H. H. Murray, author of "Adirondack Tales," which they have entitled "Daylight Land." Mr. W. H. H. Murray has chosen the northwestern side of the continent for the scenes of this book and produced a volume full of information, with vivid descriptions of magnificent scenery, which has been illustrated with one hundred and fifty cuts in various colors, by many well-known artists. They have two or three more interesting works which hardly come under the head of gift-books, including a second edition of "Wit, Wisdom, and Pathos," from prose of Heinrich Heine; and Grimm's "Life of Raphael," with frontispiece after Braun of the recently discovered portrait, outlined by Raphael in chalk.

DE WOLFE, FISKE & Co. have now ready for the holiday season "The Artist's Year," poems of the months, by Margaret P. Jones and others, with an illustration for each month by a representative American artist; and a new edition of "Songs of Bird Life," from the German, translated by Josephine Pollard, with illustrations by Giacomelli.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have some sumptuous art books this season. Their richest publication is "Etchings by French Artists," which they bring out in book-form with short descriptions of each of the ten etchings, and also fifty impressions on Japan paper of the etchings only, which are put up in portfolios. It is a collection to make the mouth of an artist water, and considering its intrinsic value is sold very reasonably. "Rembrandt's Etchings" gives fifty of the most notable ones, reproduced in Paris, with a biography of the painter and notes to each painting by Charles B. Curtis. Of this the regular edition is in vellum, but fifty copies are on Japan paper. An edition of Halévy's "Abbé Constantin," translated into English, but wholly manufactured in France, is limited to 750 copies, of which 500 have been bespoke for America. It has all the illustrations of the French édition de luxe of last year and appears in a silk wrapper. Two dainty books are offered in "Through the Woods and Fields with Tennyson" and "Under the Greenwood Tree with Shakespeare," each furnished with eighteen illustrations from dainty designs in colors by Wedworth Wadsworth, and gotten up in a neat box. There is also a new edition of "Nature's Serial Story," with all the original illustrations by Gibson, Dielman, and others, at a surprisingly low price.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. use all their facilities for holiday books in presenting colored and monotint publications of great beauty and finish. Twice during the year a member of the firm has crossed the ocean to make arrangements for the books that now bear its imprint. Most imposing volumes are "The Cathedrals of England and Wales," by Charles Whibley, with a preface by Bishop Potter, of New York, giving sixteen full-page colored plates and sixty-four monotints; and "Midsummer-Night's Dream," a companion volume to "Undine," by the same artist. "All Things Bright and Beautiful" must be seen to convey any idea of its beauty of get-up in cloth and also in Japanese calf. "Sweet Nature" is a companion to the "Treasures of Art and Song" of last season. There is a bewildering array of booklets, souvenirs, etc., all printed in monotint and color and bound with rare taste and finish. Of these we rapidly mention: "Floral Friends," familiar flowers with appropriate verses by prominent poets; "Onward," a text-book for every day of the month; "As Thy Days So Shall Thy Strength Be," a text-book for a month, illustrated by Fred Hines; "Talking with Jesus;" "By the Right Way;" "The Better Land;" "Life's Pathway;" "In the Service of the King;" "Everlasting Love;" "Songs of Love and Joy;" and "Songs for Life's Journey." Mary D. Brine, whose "Grandma's Attic Treasures" was so beautiful, has prepared a companion volume fully as bewitching, to be called "Grandma's Memories." A line of monotint books, booklets, and novelties, to be had at from 15 cents to $1.25 retail, includes an endless variety of pretty hymns and verses, classified as the Walking with God series; Heavenly Wisdom series; Poetic Gem series; In the Poet's Garden series, etc. "Ways of Pleasantness;" "Evening Bells;" Gray's "Elegy;" "Village Blacksmith;" "Falling Leaves;" "Christmas Roses;" "Violets Sweet;" "Golden Leaves;" "Sweet Pansies;" "The Message of the Dove;" "Christmas Song," etc., etc., ad infinitum, make a collection of pretty gifts and souvenirs that will satisfy every taste and desire both in literary matter and mechanical execution.

ESTES & LAURIAT have so many beautiful books especially prepared for the season that words fail us in attempting to do them all justice. Their most superb publication, and the one of most original merit, is "Endymion," illustrated by W. St. John Harper. Truly may we apply to this exquisite edition the oft-quoted opening lines of Keats' beautiful poem:

A thing of beauty is a joy forever:
Its loveliness increases: it will never Pass into nothingness."

The artist has surpassed himself in interpreting the graceful, poetical imaginings of the poet. It is a real delight to examine his work. Nothing excelling it in permanent value, real artistic merit, refinement of fancy, elegance and finish has passed through our hands this season. His designs appear as head and tail pieces, as portions of the text, and as full-page pictures. The originals were paintings, some forty-eight in number, and have been reproduced in photo-etchings by Frank E. Barentzen, and beautifully printed in many lovely tints. The work is offered only in a limited édition de luxe of 250 copies, printed on imperial Japan paper, and enshrined in a rich yellow satin cover, lettered in gold. We take next in the order of review Tennyson's "Fairy Lilian," as another fine specimen of American art. F. S. Church, Hamilton Gibson, T. Moran, Edmund H. Garrett, Charles Copeland, W. St. J. Harper, Jessie C. Shepherd, and Maud Humphrey have made some charming pictures for "Fairy Lilian" and other poems of Tennyson. Each page has a delicate border in tint surrounding the text or illustration printed in black. The cover, in delicate blue and white cloth, has an elaborate decoration in gilt after a design by W. L. Taylor. "European Etchings," a handsome volume, 18 x 13 inches, embraces a series of twenty-two original etchings by famous foreign artists. A brief text describes the pictures and gives some biographical facts. Various editions are issued, with proofs on satin, on India paper, genuine parchment, and Japan paper. Following this in order is "Recent Italian Art," a work equally large, and in a rich scarlet and gold cloth cover. The specimens here are photo-etchings in tints, printed very carefully. They are also accompanied by biographical and descriptive text from the pen of Walter Rowlands. "The Goupil Gallery of Photogravures" presents ten photogravures by Goupil et Cie., of Paris, from recent Salon favorites. It is a large quarto, and has some descriptive text. Poems of Tennyson, Goethe, Moore, Longfellow, and Scott are illustrated in a small quarto volume under the title "The Bugle Song." The illustrations are by American artists and extremely pretty and graceful. The volume makes a most desirable low-priced gift. "Song-Birds and Seasons," a collection of essays in the style of Thoreau and Burroughs, on the charm of outdoor life, the beauties of nature, and the many inhabitants of the forests, is daintily gotten up, and illustrated with a number of Giacomelli's graceful plates. Among the many fine editions of standards this house gets up, we would call attention to the limited edition of "George Eliot's Poems," and the édition de luxe of Victor Hugo's "Nôtre-Dame de Paris." They are both superb specimens of book-making in which collectors will take great delight. The first is printed on hand-made linen paper, and is illustrated with thirteen artist proofs, on Japan paper, of photo-etchings and etchings by the best known American artists. The "Nôtre-

Dame" is specially notable in its illustrations, sixteen of them being aquarelles printed in colors after the originals, paintings by the celebrated artists, Rossi, Bieler, and De Myrbach. The other illustrations, some two hundred in number, are from the same artists, and unusually pictorial. The book is in two volumes. Sets of the plates are issued on Japan and satin-finish paper, in portfolios.

Forus, HOWARD & HULBERT have four volumes in their handsome new edition of "Henry Ward Beecher's Sermons," containing the words spoken in Plymouth Pulpit between September, 1873, and September, 1875, the years when Mr. Beecher did some of his very best work as preacher and touched upon a bewildering variety of social weaknesses and wrongs, showing as never before his trained thinking mind and his remarkable gift at putting things for the oral grasp of heterogeneous intellects. The publishers have also put the "Library of Poetry and Song," edited by another typical American, William Cullen Bryant, into attractive dress for still another of its many successful seasons. The two-volume "Concise History of the American People," by Jacob H. Patton, ought to be examined, if a United States history is wanted for a friend.

FUNK & WAGNALLS call attention to several books published by them which can be used to great advantage as gift-books. They have a special holiday edition of the "Hoyt-Ward Cyclopædia of Quotations," which gives 17,000 quotations and an appendix containing proverbs from the Latin as well as from modern languages, law terms, names, dates, and nationalities of quoted authors, and a concordance of over 50,000 lines. "The Wit of Woman" is a careful and extensive collection by Kate Sanborn; and "How to Win" is a healthy book, specially addressed to young women, by Frances Willard, whose life has been spent for and with young womanhood. A new edition of "Sweet Cicely," by "Josiah Allen's Wife," is also ready and very attractively bound.

GEBBIE & Co., Philadelphia, have several very handsome books of great literary and artistic value. "Œuvres Choies des Grands Maîtres Modernes" contains fifty highly finished photogravures by Goupil & Co., from celebrated paintings by some of the foremost new artists of the French, German, Belgian, Spanish, and American schools, gotten up in folio, richly bound in full-grained morocco. Goethe's "Reynard, the Fox," is translated by Arnold, with all Kaulbach's illustrations and etchings and photogravures; and "The Five Senses" has five etchings on Holland paper after Teniers, five "lichtdrucks" after Hans Makart, and five photogravures by Goupil & Co. after Herman Leo, Frappa, and Chevilliard. Longfellow's poem of "Nuremberg" has been copied and arranged by Mary E. and Amy Comegys with the permission of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and has been illustrated with twenty-eight photogravures from views of that old German city, and the twenty-seven verses have initial letters from works of the Middle Ages. The "Works of Robert Burns" and "Shakespeare's Songs and Sonnets" also make beautiful publications. The house also has a line it calls Gebbie's Select Portfolios from Literature and Art, of which there are seven ready for the holidays; "Rare Portraits of Eminent Actors;" "Choice Works of Gerome;" "Choice Works of Hans Makart and G. Wertheimer;" "Character Sketches from Dickens;" "Celebrated Comedians;" Burns' "Cotter's Saturday Night" and "Tam O'Shanter," and "Auld Lang Syne." All these have etchings and photogravures printed on India paper.

HARPER & BROS. make a handsome holiday book of "Old Songs," with drawings by Edwin A. Abbey and Alfred Parsons, of which an extended notice appears in our front pages. General Lew Wallace's pretty Christmas story furnished Harper's Magazine last season is now made into a sumptuous gift-book under its original title, "The Boyhood of Christ." The basis of this book is the story told in the New Testament, but the author has wrought into this fabric many of the pleasing traditions preserved in the writings of the Christian Fathers and in the fictitious Gospels concerning the life of Christ and the Virgin Mary. Thus a charming and instructive narrative is made up, in which, however, the story-teller is careful to point out what is true and what is mere legend. The illustrations, all full-page, are the finest possible engravings from the great paintings picturing Christ as a child, and are wonderfully well printed. A very pretty gift to a musical friend is Geo. W. Warren's "Hymns and Tunes as Sung at St. Thomas' Church," which, although composed for the Protestant Episcopal Church, are in themselves so tuneful and artistic that they must be appreciated by musical ears of every sect. These hymns are very chaste in print and binding, and make a most attractive-looking volume. Not strictly to be ranked as holiday books, but of lasting value, are one or two books published during the year and now ready for Christmas purchasers. "The Capitals of Spanish America," by W. Eleroy Curtis, has most interesting text, profusely illustrated, describing the present condition and appearance of a score of cities. "American Game Birds" is an account of the names and portraits of birds which interest gunners, by Gurdon Trumbull, who has had extensive opportunities for acquiring the information he has condensed in this volume of about upwards of sixty birds. His plan is, first to give a picture of the bird; after this is given the scientific name, then a minute description of the bird in plain English that children can understand. Then follow the various names given the bird by travellers and authors, and the several names popularly given to this particular bird in different localities from Maine to Florida, and westward to the Rocky Mountains. Nordhoff's "Peninsular California," matching his previous works on the Pacific Coast, is of national interest. Lea's "History of the Inquisition" in three volumes would be a much coveted addition to many a friend's library; and there are few books of more delightful reading than Walter Besant's "Fifty Years Ago," with numerous portraits and illustrations. It gives in Mr. Besant's inimitable style a true picture of England when Queen Victoria ascended the throne.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co.'s leading holiday book for this season is "The Courtship of Miles Standish." This famous and perennially popular poem is now brought out in a style well suited to its historic, personal, and poetic interest, and also in a style well adapted to the uses of the gift season. The wood-cuts are from George H. Boughton, Reinhart, Shapleigh, Smillie, and others, and there are also six full-page photogravures after designs by F. T. Merrill. The numerous and satisfactory art features of the book are supplemented by sumptuous typography and tasteful binding, and the book can hardly fail to be one of the most acceptable which this holiday season will bring. Another book of very great literary and pictorial interest is a volume by Rodolfo Lanciani, entitled "Ancient Rome in the Light of Recent Discoveries." It comprises an account of the very important and curiously interesting discoveries which have been made under Prof. Lanciani's direction, and the illustrations, though not intended for embellishments, yet are so in a high degree, inasmuch as they depict so many scenes and objects of the remarkable civilization of old Rome. The publishers have put in fancy silk and vellum cloth binding, and also in brocaded binding, several volumes which have been acceptable in previous years as holiday books, such as Longfellow's "Evangeline," "Building of the Ship," "Twenty Poems," "Hanging of the Crane;" Dickens' "Christmas Carol;" Dr. Holmes'

"School-Boy;" Bayard Taylor's "Home Ballads;" Whittier's "Snow-Bound," "Mabel Martin," "Ballads of New England;" Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal" and "Winter Poems." The publication of the new edition of Mr. Whittier's works is at once so important a literary event, and the books themselves are brought out in so tasteful and attractive a form, that these may well rank as holiday volumes. The poems are all included in four crown octavo volumes like those of the Riverside Longfellow; the prose will be included in three. Five etched and engraved portraits of Mr. Whittier accompany this edition, and add a special interest to it, inasmuch as two of the portraits are entirely unfamiliar to the public. The edition is edited by Mr. Whittier; the contents have been rearranged, and notes have been prefixed to many of the poems and prose articles. The large-paper edition of Mr. Whittier's works, in seven volumes, is a gift which any person of cultivation and taste would highly value. A new edition of Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," with Mary Halleck Foote's excellent illustrations, is commended afresh to public favor by the fact that the volume contains an admirable steel portrait of Hawthorne. Other books to be mentioned in this brief summary are a little volume, very tasteful in all its details, containing "Romances, Lyrics, and Sonnets" selected from Mrs. Browning's works, and "Our Phil and other Stories" of Southern life, by Katharine Floyd Dana, supplemented with numerous illustrations by E. W. Kemble. Two excellent little volumes of selections are well suited for gift purposes, namely, "Flowers and Fruit," selected from the writings of Harriet Beecher Stowe, and "After Noontide," a selection of passages intended for the comfort of those in the afternoon of life, by Mrs. Margaret E. White.

HURST & Co. make a specialty of inexpensive editions of standard works, including such authors as Dickens, Elliot, Macaulay, Walter Scott, Guizot, Rollin, Captain Marryat, and others. They have this season published a good edition of Dr. Geikie's interesting and valuable work on "The Holy Land and the Bible," elaborately illustrated and neatly bound in cloth. They have also issued Dr. Geikie's "Hours with the Bible" and "Life and Words of Christ" in attractive style.

WILLIAM R. JENKINS contributes his quota, and a handsome one, towards the works of Victor Hugo competing for favor this season. He has an edition in French of the great historical romance, "Nôtre-Dame de Paris," with illustrations, nearly two hundred in number, from original paintings by the celebrated artists, Rossi, Myrbach, and Bieler, sixteen of which are aqua-relles printed in colors in Paris especially for this work. This beautiful edition is limited to five hundred copies, of which one hundred are printed on imperial Japan paper, with colored plates put up in two satin portfolios, and the remaining four hundred copies on satin-finish paper, bound in two volumes, half morocco. He also issues "Les Misérables," also handsomely bound, but without illustrations.

"Life, thou art done!"

From "Infelicia" (J. B. Lippincott Co.)

LEE & SHEPARD are the discoverers of a new artist, said to rival Miss Jerome in her own field. They offer the first work of her pencil, "Days Serene," as their leading holiday book. The chief points of Mrs. Margaret McDonald Pullman's beautiful work will be found fully set forth on our front pages. Miss Jerome's books are always in order, and of these they have issued new editions. "Nature's Hallelujah," "A Bunch of Violets," and "One Year's Sketch-Book" and the pretty little "Message of the Bluebird" still hold their own among notable American art works, and are among the choicest of gift-books. The demand for them is so constant that they find difficulty sometimes in meeting it. Buyers will be glad to obtain fresh copies in new rich bindings. "Baby's Kingdom" and "The Guest-Book," two novelties of former seasons, are books that will never go out of fashion. The one is designed to chronicle the baby's doings from day to day; the other records the coming and going of guests, embracing their autographs, incidents of their visits, etc. They are so handsomely issued that they are most charming to the eye, while their contents cannot fail to prove of interest to the whole family. Two little sepia-tint novelties make seasonable souvenirs—the text of each is by Mrs. Muloch Craik—"A Christmas Carol" and "A Friend Stands at the Door." In view of the author's recent death they are full of a tender interest. The first one is a little poem worthy to be set in gold. While it is a tribute to the great day of the year, it appeals to the religious and kindly qualities of the heart forcibly and tenderly. The second is a psalm for New Year's eve. The artist has caught the inspiration of the poet, her illustrations introducing many pretty faces and charming types of children. They are printed in tints on stiff board and held together with ribbons. Both are very pretty, the illustrations being the work of J. Pauline Sunter. Other souvenirs of a timely character may be found in the Regal Beauties series, the Golden Persian series, and the Dainty Miniature series. These series include a number of old favorite hymns and poems in dainty new dresses.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. present to the attention of Christmas buyers two unusually well-made and artistically illustrated books, "The Traveller" of Oliver Goldsmith and Goethe's "Hermann and Dorothea." Both are large octavos with full-page etchings. The varied scenes of "The Traveller" are reproduced by M. M. Taylor with the same grace and softness that characterized his designs of last year for "The Deserted Village." Goethe's masterpiece is illustrated by Hermann Faber, the artist of "The Legends and Poems of Faust." The designs are figure pieces such as the poem calls for, and are strong and exceedingly meritorious. All that fine paper, rich binding, gilt edges, and excellent type can add to the attractiveness of a book has been put forth here. Béranger's "Songs and Poems" is a work that has a specially literary character. The work is issued in holiday style, with a number of steel-plate illustrations from the best French edition, and a pretty blue and white cloth cover. It is fully described in our front pages. Mr. W. S. Walsh edits a new holiday edition of the poems of the ill-fated Adah Isaacs Menken, and gives a sketch of the author's stormy life, treating her faults and failings with infinite tenderness and charity. "Infelicia" is the same title under which these poems first appeared some years ago. Then they found admirers not only here but among English and French littérateurs, Charles Dickens and even Victor Hugo offering their meed of praise to the writer's genius. That the volume still lives and is asked for is probably the strongest proof of some vital quality that it possesses. For this Christmas edition the original small sixteenmo page has been printed on a quarto page and enclosed in a red line, with the illustrations of F. O. C. Darley, Harry Fenn, F. E. Sammis, F. S. Church, and others for the most popular of the poems. Keat's "Lamia" with Will H. Low's illustrations is practically a new book, as it is a reduction in fac-simile of the elegant folio edition published two years ago. It is now gotten out in small quarto size and at a greatly reduced price. It makes a beautiful book still, even in comparison with the larger and more expensive edition. One of the most popular of German love-stories, Eichendorff's "Life of a Good-for-Nothing," charmingly illustrated in photogravure, is included among this firm's Christmas books. It promises to be a most successful volume from both a literary and artistic standpoint. Mrs. A. L. Wister's English text has all the grace and finish she has accustomed us to in many previous translations, while the publishers have spared no efforts to make the book exceptional in all its mechanical details.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have added "Nôtre-Dame de Paris," "The Man Who Laughs," "Ninety-three," and "Tollers of the Sea" to the five volumes of "Les Misérables" published last season, and now offer Victor Hugo's great romances in twelve volumes printed in sharp, clear type and bound with exquisite neatness. "Nôtre-

He was a born story-teller, like Walter Scott, who early became conscious of his literary instincts, but by reason of his unfortunate mulatto blood and the poverty of his younger years was so uncultivated that many years were passed in laborious self-instruction before he acquired the clear, correct, idiomatic style that is his characteristic. The D'Artagnan romances make ten volumes—"The Three Musketeers" and "Twenty Years After," each in two volumes, and the "Comte de Bragalon" in six volumes, all resting on historical foundation and giving Dumas' version of French history and character. So competent a critic as Robert Louis Stevenson says there is no character in fiction he so wholly loves as D'Artagnan. "Boating" is the new volume in the famous Badminton Library, and although dealing with the sport in English waters is of great interest to all lovers of aquatic pastimes. Several additions are also made to the Mermaid series, giving the best plays of old English dramatists in the original version, which already includes Marlow, Massinger, Middleton, Wycherly, Congreve, Beaumont and Fletcher, etc. There is also a new edition of Grote's "Greece" in ten volumes, which makes a most valuable gift for a learned friend, and a new edition of "Leech's Pictures from Punch," comprising nearly four thousand of the famous satirist's drawings, put up in three volumes and at a price which places it within the reach of many.

Dame de Paris," "Les Misérables," and "Tollers of the Sea" picture the great struggle of humanity with superstition, social laws, and nature; "Ninety-three" and "The History of a Crime" tell the histories of the two Napoleons; and "The Man Who Laughs" formulates modern French philosophy, so that, aside from the plots and the manner of telling, these great romances could almost live by the deep interest of their matter, and are sure of lasting fame through the great literary skill of the poet-novelist. Totally different from Hugo and yet with as clear a perception of his kind was Alexandre Dumas, and it is very satisfactory that his great romances are also brought out in English, with the best of type, ink, and binding, by this generous firm. For brilliancy of imagination and ingenuity of invention the elder Dumas has no equal.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have ready for the holiday season several books of great literary value, which, although they do not come strictly under the heading of holiday gift-books in its now generally accepted meaning, would give great pleasure if bestowed in the right quarter. "Pen and Ink" is a collection of papers on various subjects by Brander Matthews, with an introductory poem by Andrew Lang and an "Epistle to the Author" in verse by H. C. Bunner. There are two books by Andrew Lang, "The Grass of Parnassus" and "The Gold of Fainilee," the latter having fifteen colored illustrations after drawings by T. Scott and E. A. Lemann. "The Eulogy of Richard Jefferies," by Walter Besant, is a beautiful tribute from one literary artist to another; and "The Life of the Hon. Stratford Canning," by Stanley Lane-Poole, is a model of condensed and vivid biography. Of descriptive interest are: "The Inns of Old Southwark," by William Rendle and Philip Norman, with numerous illustrations and plates; "B. C. 1887," by J. A. Lees and W. J. Clutterbuck, under which title it is difficult to recognize a ramble in British Columbia made clear by a map and 75 illustrations from sketches and photographs by the author; and "Cinque Ports," by Montagu Burrows, the new volume in the Historic Towns series. "The Besom-Maker" is a collection of country folk-songs edited and illustrated by Heywood Sumner, and published with music in neat shape and binding.

THE D. LOTHROP CO. provide lavishly for the ever welcome holidays. The book most closely in accord with the spirit of the season is "The Story of Mary, the Mother," a compilation by Rose Porter from the Scriptures and secular writers, as well as from historical and legendary art, made in the purest devotional spirit, giving an outline story of the impersonation in the feminine character of beneficence, purity, and power typified in Mary, the Mother. The curious legends which have been handed down or created by the religious writers of the Middle Ages are put in consecutive order, and illustrated by reproductions of well-known pictures. The various poems by Adelaide Procter, Robert Browning, Mrs. H. B. Stowe, Keble, and Cardinal Newman are selected with rare tact. The book is clearly printed on thick paper, and is bound in a chaste cover in two shades of gray. A gift-book for all lovers of children is Warwick Brooke's "Pencil Pictures of Child-Life," from the pen of T. Letherbrow, a personal friend of the artist, whose pictures are as yet not owned by Americans, but who is very dear to English art lovers, and many of whose original drawings have been purchased by so good a connoisseur as the Queen of England. He excels in drawings of children, and in this pretty volume twenty-eight of these child-pictures are reproduced. The biographical sketch of the artist given by his friend is very interesting. The book is tastefully bound in gilt cover, with brown title-label, and is sure to be picked up by wandering shoppers. In gilt cover of "Mikado" design, with maroon trimming, ornamented with flames and Chinamen, surmounted by a student at his writing-table, is once more furnished Charles Lamb's immortal "Dissertation on Roast Pig," with humorous illustrations by L. J. Bridgman, making a book "satisfactory to the critical sense of the censorious palate." "Old Concord, her highways and byways," is a series of sketches by Margaret Sidney, giving descriptions of a place which is like no other in New England. Its picturesqueness, its Revolutionary history, and its fame as the home of Hawthorne, Emerson, Thoreau, and the Alcotts, father and daughter, are all brought out by the author, who is a dweller in one of the historic mansions, and loves every nook and corner of the town. The book is fully illustrated with photographs by A. W. Hosmer, and drawings by L. J. Bridgman, and very attractively gotten up, and must prove tempting to all who take pride in their country's history, and love facts and pictures about their favorite authors. Appealing also to the American heart, but not less to all English thinking people, is the "Longfellow Remembrance Book," chiefly written by his brother and biographer, Rev. Samuel Longfellow, but containing valuable matter besides in the introduction by E. S. Brooks, who always does careful and graceful work, Whittier's poem on the death of Longfellow, and Miss Guiney's "Longfellow in Westminster Abbey." This volume is beautifully illustrated and gives an excellent portrait of Longfellow as frontispiece. It is impossible to describe in detail several other pretty books, and we can only call attention to a booklet entitled "Pansies for Thoughts," compiled and arranged from the writings of "Pansy" (Mrs. G. den), by Grace Livingston, author of "A Chautauqua Idyl," who adds an appropriate text for each day.

DAVID MCKAY, Philadelphia, calls special attention to his Reader's Edition of "Shakespeare's Complete Works," in which the text of Malone and Steevens has been used and all the poems and sonnets included. This edition includes a biography, index to characters, glossary of obsolete terms, and a concordance covering over 3200 familiar passages, designed not so much as a complete concordance of Shakespeare's works, but as a selection of all the desirable quotations, inserted under the most prominent word, thus avoiding endless duplicating and the inserting of thousands of trivial passages. There are also added explanatory notes selected from the works of Johnson, Reed, Farmer, and other commentators. The edition is in eight octavo volumes, illustrated by steel-engravings and two photographs, carefully printed on best plate paper. Mr McKay also mentions particularly an edition of Emerson's "Essays," in two volumes, each complete in itself and sold separately if desired, in which he takes some pride for neatness of print and get-up. The veteran Walt Whitman has collected a volume of his stray verses and thoughts which have heretofore floated around in magazines and papers, and made them into a volume, to which he has added much new material, and a backward glance over his life, which was never strewn with roses. This book is aptly termed "November Boughs." The frontispiece is an excellent portrait of the old poet in his seventieth year, taken from life.

MACMILLAN & Co.'s name is associated in this country with the great success of the year, "Robert Elsmere," and their new Library Edition of two volumes of this remarkable book would make a most acceptable present to many friends who have galloped through this sensation of the year, and are waiting for the day to come when they can add it in a good standard edition to their library shelves. If the Library Edition cannot be given, even the one-volume edition published by this house is in good lasting shape.

more smaller pictures scattered through the text. This big book is gotten up in every style of binding, ranging in price according to richness of dress.

G. & C. MERRIAM & Co. again offer the book with which their name is identified. "Webster's Dictionary" unabridged, and even abridged,

"The Complete Poetical Works of William Wordsworth," with introductory essay by John Morley and portrait, authors' notes and a hitherto unpublished poem of about seven hundred lines, would make an excellent gift to a literary friend. "Coaching Days and Coaching Ways," by Outram Tristram, with numerous illustrations by Hugh Thomson and Herbert Railton, would be most acceptable to lovers of description, history, and studies of the life and customs of former days. "Wild Beasts and Their Ways in Asia, Africa, and America," is written by Sir Samuel White Baker, and founded on observations made while travelling from 1845-1888, in which interesting matter is made valuable by many illustrations. Another descriptive work of unusual literary merit is "Sketches from a Tour Through Holland and Germany," by J. P. Mahaffy and J. E. Rogers, with illustrations also by the latter author. A new and cheaper edition of "The Journal Intime of Henri Frédéric Amiel" will appeal to many to whom even Amiel conveyed little meaning by the fact that the charming book is translated and has an introduction and notes by Mrs. Humphry Ward, the talented woman whose latest work is now under discussion in all literary circles.

EDWARD MEEKS has the popular Avon Edition of Shakespeare complete in one imperial octavo volume containing 966 double-column pages, and thirty-four full-page illustrations, and many makes as handsome a Christmas present as can be thought of, and is sure to please and be of use to people of the most diametrically opposite tastes and in the most distant stations of life. Every little while new additions are made to this treasury of knowledge, and those who own a copy bought many years ago little know how much new wisdom has crept between the covers of this book, which even at our present rate of progress manages to keep up to the times.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have published a fine descriptive work on "India," a full notice of which is given in our front pages. Next in importance is their annual number in the Pen and Pencil series, this year devoted to "Irish Pictures," drawn by the Rev. Samuel Manning, Rev. S. G. Green, and others, who have made a beautiful volume of their thoughts and sketches of the Emerald Isle. It is worthy of notice that the same publishers should bring out at the same time books on the great Eastern Empire, which England shows such skill in governing, and on the comparatively lilliputian dependency, in the government of which she makes so many blunders. The illustrations are picturesque and true to nature and to human nature, and are good engravings remarkably well printed. In color gift-books there is a series beautifully printed in monotypes, comprising "Little Friends," "Serving the King," by Cecilia Havergal and others; "Under the King's Shadow," by W. A. Garratt, M. A.

Spiller, and others; and "When to Trust Jesus, and other hymns," a companion volume to "Communion, or, a little talk with Jesus," composed of beautiful landscape designs in colors and tints. In religious and devotional books there will be "Lyra Christiana," a treasury of sacred poetry, selected and arranged by H. L. L., author of "Hymns from the Land of Luther;" "Religious Life in Scotland," from the Reformation to the present day, by Prof. Lindsay, Rev. Charles G. McCrie, Rev. Dr. Blair, Rev. Dr. Landels, and Rev. Norman L. Walker; "Why Weepest Thou?" a book for mourners, containing a choice collection of appropriate hymns and sacred poetry; and three pretty little text-books, entitled respectively "Our Daily Bread," "Our Daily Duty," and "Our Daily Food," gotten up in various styles in cloth with red edges, Persian calf, limp, cordage design, frieze design, new engine turned, round corners, etc., at remarkably low figures. The name of Thomas Nelson & Sons, however, more than anything else, means "Bibles" and "Prayer-Books and Hymnals," and every holiday season these are sent out in an abundance and variety that must be seen to be appreciated. This year there is also on hand the "Jubilee Bible," of which a fac-simile was sent to Queen Victoria and accepted graciously on the fiftieth anniversary of her accession. This is a square 16mo Bible without the many teacher's aids, handsomely bound, containing all the important maps and references and index to the same.

NIX & KNIGHT have a goodly list of bona fide holiday-books. "Celebrated Artists" gives etchings from paintings by Jules Breton, Albert Cuyp, Franz Defregger, Détaillé, Duez, Flameng, Hugo Kaufmann, Laufberger, Munkacsy, Nordgred, Obermuller, Rubens, Schonleber, Uhde, and Alessandro Zeddos, bound in a striking cover. "Gems of French Art" has ten plates after paintings by Dupré, Lerolle, Loblrichon, Allongé, Flameng, Mercié, and others, reproduced in photogravure by Goupil & Co. "An Autumn Pastoral" is William Cullen Bryant's well-known poem on "The Death of the Flowers," gotten up as a companion to Tennyson's "Song of the Brook," with a series of seventeen photogravure illustrations after original drawings by C. E. Phillips; and "Gems of Art" is a collection of twelve photogravures from original paintings by Corot, Bougereau, Lerolle, Jacquet, Voltz, and other celebrated artists. Very pretty volumes are gotten up of views of the finest of our American scenery. "Lake George" contains twelve photogravures from sketches by S. R. Stoddard; "Among the Mountains of the Adirondacks" has forty or fifty views of the same artist, who has also done "The Lake Country of the Adirondacks," "The Hudson River from its Source to the Sea," and "Corners in the Catskills." "Bits of Nature" has ten views of noted places printed from photogravure plates on Japan paper, mounted on boards and sold in a portfolio envelope tied with ribbons. Poems by Tennyson, Wordsworth, and other well loved poets have been illustrated with seventeen color and sixteen monochrome plates from original water-color sketches by Alice M. Baumgras, and are published under the smooth alliterative title of "By Lawn and Lea," in two styles of binding, one a lithographed cover, tied with chenille, and the other tinted parchment cloth, with lithographed design on side and back. A very pretty book is also made of "Mission Sketches—Santa Barbara," where are gathered the Franciscan friars, which gives descriptive text of this old mission, illustrated by a series of ten plates from sketches by Mrs. K. S. Torrey. "King of the Night," by Barry Cornwall, "Echo and the Ferry," by Jean Ingelow, and "The Two Voices," a collection of poems of the mountains and the sea, edited by John W. Chadwick, are all furnished with pretty illustrations, are handsomely printed on fine toned paper, and dressed in original costume of tinted torchon board, with photogravure medallion and title in blended bronzes, tied with chenille, and also of full American seal or fancy embossed leather. "From Queens' Gardens" consists of poems selected by Rose Porter from the works of Mrs. Browning, Jean Ingelow, Adelaide Procter, Christina Rossetti, and others; and "Staff and Scrip" are gems of religious thought, selected by J. H. Gilbert. The enterprising publishers call special attention to a book of Holy Land travel, by Rev. E. S. De G. Tompkins, which they call "Through David's Realm." This volume has upwards of 200 illustrations of Palestine life, comprising landscapes, figures, street scenes, and architecture, drawn by the author and reproduced by the process made familiar in the French editions of Daudet's celebrated novels. Besides the above, all the well-known publications of the house are once more upon the booksellers' counters, and some may still prefer to the newcomers such handsome works as "Twenty American Etchings," "Song of the Brook," "Our Wedding Souvenir," etc.

"Farewell, yer Honor!"

PHILLIPS & HUNT always have a list of books from which it is safe to select a Christmas gift for a clergyman, for although their name is identified with a sect, all their publications have sterling value for students of religion of every form of faith. Rev. Charles W. Bennett, Professor of Church History in Garrett Biblical Institute, has written a work on "Christian Archaeology," for which Dr. Ferdinand Piper, Professor with pronounced appreciation. A new edition of Henry T. Coates' "Fireside Encyclopædia of Poetry," which makes number twenty-seven, is brought out, thoroughly revised, giving portraits of prominent American poets and fac-similes of their handwriting. About one hundred and fifty new poems have been inserted, all the old material has been revised, and the volume is furnished in half a dozen different styles of binding. Their of Church History in the University of Berlin, has written a scholarly introduction. "The Footsteps of John Wesley" is the result of a camera tour in England, made during 1886 and 1887 by Mr. G. W. Edmonson, who has secured photographs on the spot of most of the scenes where the noble father of Methodism accomplished his hardest and most telling work. These pictures are published in well-bound albums containing fifty views. A much-appreciated souvenir would be "Representative Methodists," by Robert Doherty, with introduction by Bishop Thomas Bowman, containing portraits and biographical sketches of the members of the General Conference of 1888.

PORTER & COATES this year have added a new volume to their Bells series in "Gems from Tennyson," illustrated with twenty-six engravings from drawings by Hammatt Billings, and gotten up in all the dainty costumes that have thus far made the series tempting, of which the "ivory surface," introduced last year, seemed to meet well-known series of Octave Poets, comprising all the classic English names, has been treated to a new suit of embossed leather, with padded sides and burnished yellow edges, and makes a rich, tasteful appearance at a remarkably reasonable price.

JAMES POTT & Co. are the agents in this country for "Bagster's Comprehensive Teacher's Bible," of which they have five editions in different sizes, with circuit covers and various bindings, all very thin and portable. The season of Christmas is indissolubly connected with the Bible, although the feast is now kept by many who do not appreciate the new helps, new concordance, indexed atlas, and polyglot references which make these Bibles so good that Mr. Spurgeon says, "I do not see how they could be better." Sunday-school teachers will find them as acceptable and useful a gift as can be found for an intelligent, diligent scholar. A large selection of Prayer-Books and Hymnals are also always among Messrs. Pott's Christmas provisions.

L. PRANG & Co. have ready their usual beautiful supply of pretty art souvenirs for the gift season. L. K. Harlow has again turned in much painstaking and pleasing work. He has made eleven full-page monochrome and color illustrations for "Golden Milestones," a volume of carefully-selected extracts from leading American and English poets, and designed a cover showing a distant village on a soft background, and in the foreground, amidst luxurious grass, one of the great golden milestones of life. His tasteful work shows to advantage in "The Home of Shakespeare," a volume of quotations, with full-page illustrations in water-color taken on the spot, of the poet's home, the grammar-school, the West Gate, Guy's Mill, Warwick Castle, Kenilworth Castle, the West Tower, the old mill, the bridge, Anne Hathaway's cottage, the weir walk, Holy Trinity Church, the avenue, the tomb, and other noted scenes; in "Mount Desert," designed for an autograph-book, in which views of Porcupine Island, Profile Rock, Duck Brook, Southwest Harbor, the fishing smacks and Indian huts, all full-page in color, are separated by blank pages to serve its purpose, the leaves, numbering about 100, being then bound in a cover in imitation of foaming, seething water, in the centre of which appears a seashell with the title in gold lettering in high relief, and in "Come, Sunshine, Come," a poem from the French of Charles Vincent, with six full-page illustrations, to which have been added six pages of vignette illustrations by Schuyler Mathews. "The Christmas Processional" and other works of his in previous years are as timely now as at their first publication. An appropriate gift for lovers of old-fashioned garden flowers, such as tulips, hollyhocks, asters, sun-flowers, etc., would be a copy of "The Old Garden," Rose Terry Cooke's sweet poem of reminiscences, which has been illustrated in rich colors by Harriet D. Andrews and Mary K. Talcot, and bound in most attractive style.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, though they have no elaborate illustrated work this season, present a feast of good things in the way of new books that will tempt the most cultured. That dainty little series, The Knickerbocker Nuggets, has had a number of notable additions, any one of which would be well worth possessing. A description of the series and list of the new-comers will be found in our front pages. The little volumes in their pretty dress of blue and gold, with their clever illustrations, are most enticing even in their looks. They are sold singly and also together in sets—the first series, comprising eighteen volumes, being put up in a neat case. The new edition, edited by John Major, of Walton's and Cotton's "Complete Angler" leaves nothing to be desired. The etchings and colored plates which generously intersperse the reading-matter are graceful and artistic, and full of the dreamy beauty of the text. Many little gems in the way of wood-cuts are interwoven with the reading-matter in a manner that must delight book-lovers. In the Story of the Nations series the latest volume is "The Story of Mediæval France." Gustave Masson's narrative begins with the reign of Hugues Capet and ends at the beginning of the sixteenth century. While he gives full space to the history of Mediæval France, he has devoted considerable attention to what may be called the intellectual side of the subject, more especially to the formation and progress of national literature. This has been illustrated by extracts from several authors, accompanied in most cases by English translations. This literary element gives the work an exceptional interest, even in a series noted for a long line of books of unusual importance and permanent value. The many illustrations serve chiefly to interpret the text, and are especially interesting on account of their subjects. Johnston's "American Orations," sent out in a new large-paper edition, is recommended as a valuable and appropriate gift to any library, private or public. In its new shape it is much more desirable than in the former sixteenmo size. Twenty-two portraits on steel make us familiar with the authors of the eloquent specimens of American oratory quoted.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. have brought out a large-paper edition, limited to 250 copies, of "Fifty Years of English Song," edited and arranged by Henry F. Randolph, which proved a success last year. The fifty years are those of the reign of Queen Victoria, and the volumes are thus divided and in the cheaper edition can be purchased separately: Vol. 1, Earlier poets, the limited to 600 copies, all registered and numbered. The "Westminster Abbey" is also ready in a cheaper form, but still very neat and attractive. In illustrated books the house offers two new and an old attraction in "Sundry Rhymes from the Days of Our Grandmothers," collected and arranged by George Wharton Edwards, with ornamental title and half title, seventeen full-page illustrations, vignettes, and tail-pieces, a quaint, old-fashioned book, which cannot fail to please the readers of the present generation and make them familiar with seventeen of the "original poems" by the Taylor

Blackwood coterie and early Scottish poets; Vol. 2, The poets of the first half of the reign and the novelist-poets; Vol. 3, The writers of vers de société; Vol. 4, The Pre-Raphaelite brotherhood, the ballad and song-writers, and the religious poets. The marked favor which this work received from the critical press and the students of English literature has led to the publication of this edition, which is worthy of the attention of collectors of American books as a specimen of careful editing and fine American book-making. The same careful editor has also selected and arranged "The Book of Latter-Day Ballads," giving the choicest of English and American ballads written within the last thirty years, in chronological order, with full biographical and explanatory notes. "The Memorials of Westminster Abbey," another great success of last season, receives a companion volume in the "Historical Memorials of Canterbury," also by Arthur Penrhyn Stanley, which is reprinted from the eleventh London edition, and family, upon which the artist who made beautiful Dr. Holmes' "Last Leaf" a few years ago has again shown most satisfying work; "The Cross, Ancient and Modern," by W. W. Blake, with 100 illustrations showing that the sacred symbol of the Christian Church for nineteen centuries has typified holy things among all nations, in all lands, and all times; and a new edition of that old favorite, "The Baby's Journal," designed and compiled by S. Alice Bray, an excellent Christmas gift to some young mother still such a novice in her beautiful rôle that her baby's weight, her baby's shoes, her baby's first words, etc., are the telling points in the play of life. The many pretty Christmas booklets and daily readings bearing the Randolph imprint are also all in stock once more.

ROBERTS BROS. have selected for illustration a story that in its time had probably more readers than any short story ever published. "The Man Without a Country," written by Edward Everett Hale at least twenty-five years ago, called up a wave of sympathy and wonder that passed over the whole country, intensifying and increasing the patriotism and enthusiasm of the period. The present generation will find the story comparatively a new one, and will enjoy, as other readers have, its realism and pathos, and ask again and again, as has been asked many times before, Is it true? This holiday edition is illustrated by F. T. Merrill with many designs in sympathy with the story. No more delightful book is offered for the holiday trade than this popular story. "The Book of Christmas," by Thomas K. Hervey, is a new edition of a clever book that has long been out of print. It is an especially timely book, as it describes the customs, ceremonies, traditions, superstitions, fun, feeling, and festivities of the Christmas season. Bound in dainty white cloth, with gold lettering, and embellished by many amusing illustrations by R. Seymour, it seems just the book one wants for a Christmas gift. In view of the coming ball season, and the many public and private fancy dress occasions now so popular, we would recommend "Fancy Dresses Described," by Arden Holt. It is a reprint from the 5th English edition, and contains sixteen richly-colored, full-page plates and numerous smaller ones, representing picturesque costumes of all nations and periods of time. The details are so accurate, and the descriptions so simple, that ladies could easily make up the costumes at home.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS continue their finely-illustrated editions of translations from the French with Sue's "The Wandering Jew," in three volumes, and Hugo's "The Man Who Laughs" and "Ninety-three" in uniform style phy, paper, and presswork is as noticeable in these issues as in those that preceded them. The house also adds to its exquisite edition of Daudet, "Thirty Years of Paris" and "Robert Helmont," two of the notable books of the year in matter and workmanship. George Sand's ever beautiful idyl, "François, the Waif," appears in Gustave Masson's translation, with lovely illustrations by Eugène Burnand; Octave Feuillet's "Romance of a Poor Young Man" is gotten up in the exquisite style of "La Dame aux Camélias," and the talented young lieutenant of the French Navy, Viand, who writes under the name of Pierre Loti, has had his "Mme. Chrysanthème" put into beautiful dress. The work is Japanese in scene and incident and correspondingly Japanese in the illustrations, which are of exquisite delicacy. The book is capably translated by Laura Ensor, and the designs are by Rossi and Myrbach, who have already shown such good work in the Daudet novels on which this firm puts its imprint. Randolph Caldecott, the appreciation of whom has so steadily risen since his death, will be represented by "Gleanings from the Graphic," the concluding volume of the Graphic series that this firm have for some years been publishing. Like its predecessors it is overflowing with good-natured laughs at man's follies and weaknesses. "John Gilpin" has been illustrated once more, and H. Rosa has made a success of the adventurous ride. The title, pictures, type, and shape are all neatly planned and executed. "Guiding Lights," by Margaret Haycraft, with monotints by W. H. S. Thompson, makes a pretty souvenir. Besides these they also call attention to a handsomely illustrated edition of Sterne's "Sentimental Journey," gotten up uniform with their edition of Mérimée's "Carmen" and De Ner-with their "Les Misérables," "The Tollers of the Sea," "Nôtre-Dame," and "Monte Cristo." tribution to the history of art. It tells the story of French art from its earliest to its latest practice, including an account of the French Academy of Painting, its salons, schools of instruction, and regulations. Sixteen full-page reproductions of the masterpieces of French painters of all times give the work a rich appearance and emphasize its value as a useful gift-book. The well-known artist, Edwin H. Blashfield, has designed a handsome cover for the volume. "Stuff and Nonsense" is an old friend in a new dress. Mr. Frost has added so many new sketches and redrawn so many of the old, that with its new and brilliant cover we scarcely know it as a publication of a previous season. All the old inimitable humor is there, raising a hearty laugh as each leaf is turned. Without a word of text, the ridiculous point of each sketch would be apparent to all. Thos. Stearns' "Around the World on a Bicycle" is completed with the issue of the second volume. It carries the plucky rider through Persia, India, China, and Japan, and contains an amazing number of amusing and novel adventures. The woodcuts, which profusely illustrate the text, are usually graphic, and appear as if taken from life. The large army of bicyclists that has grown among us should all be supplied with a copy of this volume, so rich in details of their favorite sport. Ex-Secretary McCulloch's "Men as Measures of Half a Century," a thick volume of reminiscences of the noted men of recent days, is so fresh and candid, and so full of new details and new estimates of historical sonages, that no one should be without reading it. This house is preparing a "Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians," edited by John Denison Champlin, Jr., and William F. Apthorp. It will be in three elegant volumes, the first of which is almost ready, uniform with the "Cyclopedia of Painters and Paintings," and in a limited edition of five hundred copies. Rev. Henry M. Field's book on "Gibraltar," finely illustrated, is the latest addition to his popular books of travel.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have on hand a list as brilliant as ever of illustrated and standard works for the holiday season. "The Reminiscences and Recollections of Captain Gronow" are anecdotes of the camp, court, clubs, and society of 1810-1860, with portrait, four wood-cuts, and twenty etched and aquatint illustrations from contemporary sources by Joseph Grego, with illustrations in duplicate, one on plate paper proofs before letters, and the other on Whatman paper, colored by hand, published in two handsome volumes. The genius of Leech has never been seen to better advantage than in "John Leech's Pictures of Life and Character," from the collection of "Mr. Punch," which is brought out complete in one volume, with 900 pages of pictures, in a very handsome and appropriate cloth binding. A book of great importance, sure to be valued by musical friends, is "Correspondence Between Wagner and Liszt (1841-1861)," translated from the German by Dr. Francis Hueffer, a work in two volumes, giving an insight into the character and aspirations of the great musical reformer that has not yet been shown in existing biographies. Of historical and domestic and social importance are "The Memoirs of the Margravine of Baireuth" and "The Correspondence Between the Margra-vine of Baireuth and Voltaire," both translated from the German by H. R. H. Princess Christian. The "Life of Matthew Fontaine Maury, U. S. N. and C. S. N.," and "Life in the Confederate Army," by William Watson, make handsome books and give a fair account of an important phase of the late Civil War. A new, original, and valuable work on Egypt and Mohammedanism is "Leaves from an Egyptian Note-Book," by Isaac Taylor, Canon of York; and another portion of that great continent is described in "Tropical Africa," by Henry Drummond, a book full of valuable information concerning Central Africa. "Chronicles of Bow Street Police Office" has not the ring of "peace on earth, good-will towards men," but will no doubt be a most acceptable work to people interested in test cases, in its handsome two-volume shape with many illustrations. Volumes IV. and V. of the very beautiful Henry Irving Shakespeare are ready, and the remaining ones will follow at intervals of three months. "John Standish, or, the harrowing of London," is by Rev. E. Gilliat, and has numerous colored illustrations. It treats of Wat Tyler's rebellion, and among the characters introduces Chaucer, Gower, Langland, King Richard II., and the Fair Maid of Kent—the heroine Calote, daughter of the poet Langland. "Pictures from Ireland" is this year's volume in the Pen and Pencil series. Besides the above new works there are also new editions of Villari's "Girolamo Savonarola;" D'Anvers' "History of Art;" "Autobiography of Mark Rutherford;" "Life of Benvenuto Cellini;" "Francis the First and His Times" and "Louis XIV.," by Julia Pardoe; "Some of Shakespeare's Female Characters," by Helena Faucit; Caldecott's "North Italian Folk," colored by hand, and several other always popular works, many changes being made in several of them.

MARSHAL SIMON AND HIS DAUGHTERS.

From "The Wandering Jew." Copyright, 1888, by George Routledge & Sons.

FRED. A. STOKES & BRO. have an important and very beautiful art work in "Madonnas by Old Masters," ten photogravures after old masters' paintings, which give more accurate reproductions of the great originals than is possible in the case of any etching or engraving, however excellent. The text, including an important new essay on "The Madonna in Art," is by Ripley Hitchcock, author of "Etching in America," etc., published by this house. The photogravures are neatly matted, and, together with the leaves of the text, are placed loosely in handsome folios. There are de luxe editions on satin and thin, silky Japan paper, and regular editions on plate paper, in two styles of binding and casing. The Madonnas selected are Raphael's "Madonna di San Sisto," "Madonna della Sedra," "La Belle Jardinière," "Madonna del Granduca," and "Madonna of the Diadem;" Murillo's "Holy Family" and "The Immaculate Conception;" "Mater Dolorosa," by Guido Reni; "Burgomeister Meyer Madonna," by Holbein; and the "Madonna della Scala," by Coreggio. Ripley Hitchcock has also furnished the text for "Important New Etchings," and gives a hopeful account of the future of this art illustrated by examples, including "The East River from Brooklyn," by C. A. Platt; "What O'clock Is It?" by J. D. Smillie; "Lucille," by W. St. John Harper; "Uncle Remus and the Little Boy," by E. W. Kemble; "Tokens," by C. D. Weldon; "Sailing Toy-Yachts in Central Park," by Otto H. Bacher; and "A Political Marriage," by J. A. Mitchell. This is a large book with very tasteful cover design of a matting of bronze and green, with green corner medallions and gilt ornamentation. Special mention must be made of a remarkable novelty which has received the most careful attention in every detail. It is an attempt to reproduce with all possible exactness a Roman book of the Classic period. "Eight Songs of Horace" have been edited by George E. Vincent, and gotten up in a fac-simile of an old Latin manuscript, in the shape of a scroll of heavy parchment paper wound about a wooden cylinder with a white enamelled knob at each end, and tied with a leather thong. The verses are printed in facing pages in Latin and English most artistically finished. In order to insure accuracy professors in our greatest American university have been consulted and the British Museum has been visited. This work of antique art comes in a cylindrical box. The third and concluding volume of "Favorite Birds" is also ready, and Miss Josephine Pollard has done her usual tasteful editing of prose and verse selections, while Miss Fidelia Bridges has made almost prettier birds than before, and the combination has been mounted in a very handsome cover, with innumerable birds of every size flying towards the silver names of editor and artist. Miss S. B. Skelding, whose name for many years has been identified with the imprint of this firm, has compiled and illustrated three charming holiday souvenirs, entitled "Glimpses of the Shore," "Sea-Coast Views Here and There," and "Under Italian Skies." These selections from well-known poets are bound in rough-edged parchment with colored leaf design, and the title is fancifully printed in letters of cord upon a pink porcelain card. These three pretty volumes are also combined in one under the title, "Sea Vistas in Many Climes," and more durably bound in effective cloth cover. To their very pretty series of hymns the publishers add "Just as I Am, Without One Plea," and they have besides several pretty gift-books that lack of space makes it impossible to expatiate upon.

TICKNOR & Co.'s holiday volumes, three small illustrated quartos, found their inspiration in three familiar melodies, vividly recalling the old days of slavery and the dark hours of the night

"Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" are the titles of these attractive volumes. Charles Copeland made the designs for them, visiting the South to copy from nature the views of Southern scenery with which they abound. "Nelly Was a Lady" and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," two of the most plaintive of negro melodies, have the

in the first years of the rebellion, when our soldiers sung as they marched. To those whose locks time has whitened they are souvenirs of an intrinsic value far in excess of their appearance, while to the rising generation they give permanence to a phase of life already almost forgotten, but which should ever be held in remembrance with a patriotic interest. "Marching through Georgia," "Nelly Was a Lady," and story of their verses realized in a succession of scenes from old plantation life, and views from the Mississippi. An artistic picture of "Nelly" opens the one book, and an equally artistic one of "Old Massa" opens the other. "Marching Through Georgia" is fully described in our front pages. All the books have the music of the songs, are rich in plate paper and ornamental adornments of text, and are offered in a variety of novel bindings.

MARCUS WARD & Co. have, as usual, some of the finest color-books of the year, showing a finish of print and an elegance of style which make them irresistible. "Herald Angels" is a mediæval booklet composed of reproductions of ten designs of angels by Fra Angelico, and giving as text Christmas anthems and hymns illuminated in gold and colors and printed on rough hand-made paper. There are three little Christmas carols called "The First Nowell," "Mother and Child," and "Bells Across the Snow," each with delicate monochrome illustrations of subjects suggested in the verses; and three little volumes of songs and lyrics for land and sea called "Life on the Ocean Wave," "Home," and "O'er Hill and Dale." "The Shakespeare Souvenir" and "Sir Roger de Coverly" are two little companion booklets.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. have a low-priced humorous souvenir admirably adapted for a Christmas gift, "That Sister-in-Law of Mine." It is from the pen and pencil of Harry Parker, who created so much amusement by his first efforts in this line known in this country, viz., "The Man Who Would Like to Marry" and "The Girl Who Wouldn't Mind Getting Married." Like the latter books this is a combination of ridiculous sketches in pen and ink and equally ridiculous text, illustrating the surprises that awaited a newly-married man in his unknown sister-in-law.

WHITE & ALLEN's most important holiday work is a beautifully illustrated edition of Goethe's "Faust," with John Anster's translation and an introduction by Burdett Mason. In a huge folio, 31 x 16 inches in size, are embraced a series of aquarelles and black and white pictures made from the designs of Frank M. Gregory, the Secretary of the Salmagundi Club. There are ten full-page designs in water-colors, reproduced in fac-simile by the photo-aquarelle process; eighteen large black and white sketches in wash further illustrate the subject, while a number of graceful bead and tall pieces add to the holiday aspect of the volume. In a delicate pink satin portfolio, under the title "Vingt-cinq Eaux-Fortes par les Principaux Artistes Modernes," they send out for this special season a delightful collection of etchings by modern French artists. The designs are both figures and landscapes, and are thoroughly representative of the French school of to-day. A letter by Roger Marx is the only text which accompanies them. Among illustrated works must be included Goldsmith's "Poetical Works," edited by Bolton Comey, of which this house has a limited edition on large and small paper, calculated in either shape to delight the heart of the lover of luxurious editions. The illustrations, some forty in number, are from the pencils of the members of the London Etching Club, and are engraved on wood; proofs of these are printed on Japan paper and pasted in the text. "Favorite Folk-Ballads" gathers into one cloth-bound volume, upon larger paper, four little books published separately in ribbon-tied covers. Delicately tinted borders encircle the designs in this volume, adding to the richness of the appearance, and filling out the larger page. "The Old Folks at Home," "Annie Laurie," "When the Swallows Homeward Fly," and "Kathleen Mavourneen," were the source of inspiration to a number of German and English artists. "Log-Book Notes Through Life," by Elizabeth N. Little, is an oblong book printed inside and out in blue and gray, and is decidedly nautical in all its adornments. The pages are a combination of verses and ships' cables, sails, sea-views, anchors, etc.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has four pretty booklets, printed in monochrome and colors, especially prepared for the American market. "Golden Showers" is made up of poems from Shakespeare to Longfellow, selected by C. Forest, illustrated by A. Hanlip, in illuminated covers with round corners and tinted edges; "The Better Land," by Mrs. Hemans, is illustrated in chromo-lithography and chastely gotten up; "Angel Voices on Life's Pathway" gives texts and comments for the month, illustrated by J. F. Weeden; and "At Eventide" is also a text-book for quiet moments, illustrated by the same artist.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co.'s leading work is another of Ernest M. Jessop's interpretations of the "Ingoldsby Legends." Last season he was represented by "The Jackdaw of Rheims," of which a new edition with new illustrations is in the market. This season "The Witches' Frolic" is the quaint story chosen for illustration out of the many amusing rhymes added by the late Richard H. Barham to English ballad literature. Mr. Jessop has caught the spirit of the ballad most happily. Robin's adventures in the "Gray Ruin," where he meets the three witches with their coal-black cats, steeple-crowned hats, and kirtles green, are set forth in a succession of weird designs in which pictures and texts are welded together, and printed in monochrome. Beautiful old English letters, printed in red, open each page, while a characteristic cover enshrines one of the most amusing of Christmas books. In "The Christian Year," a selection from Keble's well-known and much-loved volume of poems, is offered a work said to be the most important yet produced in the line of monochrome lithography. The designs are by Alice Price and F. Corbyn Price and fully carry out the religious fervor of the text. The poems are so arranged that they afford short readings for the Sundays and holy days throughout the year.

Books for Young People.

UNDER this heading is given, in alphabetical order of their publishers, a descriptive summary of all the new books offered as specially suitable for young people.

THE AMERICAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION have half a dozen new stories and books of counsel for young people. Dr. Richard Newton's "Heroes of the Early Church," first written for The Youth's World, has been revised by his friend Mr. Rice, and is published in an attractive volume. "What Can I Do?" and "The Lamb of God" are two little books in colored cloth and gilt showing young Christians how their profession of faith must influence the details of their daily lives. Mary Hubbard Howell's stories of "Along the Old Road" and "Out of the Shadow" have received a companion, and all three are now put up in pasteboard box. The last comer, "In Safe Hands," tells us of a poor inventor of machinery and his little daughter, Joy, whose sufferings from cold, hunger, and neglect are relieved by a benevolent family with whom she finally becomes related by marrying good Doctor Randolph, the hero of her childish days.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY have a delightful book for little girls in their "Stories Told by a Doll." Laura Julia, the heroine of this autobiography, has belonged to four mothers of various circumstances and dispositions. She has managed to reach her twenty-fifth birthday, and though somewhat patched and with whitened curls where the paint has worn off, she is still hale and hearty, and still thinks there's nothing half so sweet on earth as little girl mothers. For older readers there are "Judge Havisham's Will," by Miss I. T. Hopkins, by which he made his nephews equal heirs with his only daughter, who objects and drives them off to earn their own living, but is finally obliged to take them back and ask their pardon humbly; "Margie at the Harbor Light," by Rev. E. A. Rand, the story of a pretty girl of seventeen keeping house for her father and brother in a lonely lighthouse near a life-saving station, who after a time is enabled to follow her inclination and become a helpful teacher; "Bernie's Light," by Minnie E. Kenney, the history of a little girl who wandered into a mission school and heard a hymn which inspired her to let her light shine in her small corner of Ragman's Alley; and "Changing Places," by Miss C. M. Trowbridge, the story of Robert Jenkins, the son of a rich widow, and Lewis Fleming, the son of a poor intemperate man, who start in business about the same time and some years after have changed places, Lewis becoming rich and helping his former chum to cure himself of intemperance and lead a nobler life.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON, have made an attractive juvenile of "Æsop's Fables for Little Readers," by Mrs. Arthur Brookfield, who has produced these charming and familiar stories in a form that fits them for the nursery. Easy and child-like language has been her aim, and the fables are printed with divided syllables, so they can be read by the little ones as soon as they have mastered the first principles of alphabet and sounds. She has been particularly happy in the "morals." The very well-drawn pictures are by Henry J. Fords. The book is put in red cloth with large gilt title and illustrations taken from the classic "Fox and Goose" fable, and makes an unusually pretty juvenile.

ROBERT CARTER & BROS. have several pretty stories suitable for the Sunday-school shelves and for children of every Christian denomination. Nellie M. Carter, in "Two Girls Abroad," describes a regulation trip through England, Scotland, Paris, Switzerland, and the Rhine countries, in the form of diaries and frequent letters home, which give bright pictures of the enterprising journey they took without a chaperone. In "From Flax to Linen," by Mrs. Nathaniel Conklin, Grace Maxim is being made aware of her shortcomings by being severely tried; her diary, begun in school-days, describes herself and her aims and objects, passes rapidly over an ungirlish girlhood, tells of a hasty marriage, dwells for a time on the trials of her wifehood and motherhood, but lingers until the story closes with the days of her widowhood and tells how she achieved her object by going through as many changes as flax before it becomes linen. "Bible Animals," by the late Dr. Richard Newton, is the last piece of work he did for the children, who owe so much to his marvellous talent in interesting and instructing them in religion. His sermons to children have sold in fabulous quantities, and some of them have been translated into sixteen different languages. Emily Sarah Holt has written two historical tales, "Out in the Forty-Five" and "The King's Daughter," a tale of the maiden martyrs of Essex; and Agnes Giberne has a story entitled "Ready, Aye Ready."

CASELL & CO. have lots of pretty juveniles at prices lower than ever, all good in matter and good in form, full of pretty stories and prettier pictures, and all laid out in prettiest bindings. That ancient lady, "Mother Goose," has again found new wooers, and I. Lane and J. L. Webb have done their best to prove to lookers-on that the old lady's charms are perennial, and that even now she can be made more attractive than her younger rivals. "A Dozen and One, or, the boys and girls of Polly's Ring," is written by Mary D. Brine, who tells in her delightful way of a ring of boys and girls, their woes and joys, smiles and frowns, their work and play, and of whose ideas the publishers have made a taking book in lithographic covers, the same happy author also writes of "Echoes from Story-Land," a collection of thirty stories, to many of which Effie, the bright grandchild of a country home, is listener, which tell of the days of her grandparents' youth, and of many interesting things in her daily life. "Our Children and Their Friends" is a translation from the French of Suzanne Cornoz, by Evelyn Shepard; "The Palace Beautiful," by L. T. Meade, is a story for girls, with eight full-page plates; and Edward S. Ellis begins a Great River Series, which will tell stories of the great rivers which are the beauty and fortune of this favored land. Besides these there is a long list of juveniles, single and in boxes, of which titles are classified under Books for Young People in this issue.

SOLID COMFORT.

From "Bible Animals." (Copyright, 1888, by Robert Carter & Bros.)

S. E. CASSINO have a novel and taking juvenile in "The Tin Army of the Potomac," in which little eight-year-old Walter is taught by his papa all about the great war that took place in his own country when even his papa was too young to read about it, but heard his papa and brothers talk about it until he had a clear idea of it all. Walter is given lots of tin soldiers, and his papa teaches him the history of the war in regular order, placing the men as they stood on the different fields of battle. The sub-title, a "kindergarten of war," gives the idea of his instructions. The book is lavishly illustrated, and many boys would learn a great deal if their parents give them this volume and enough soldiers to do it all themselves. The cover and type are odd and must strike buyers at once.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co. have in "Adventures of Pioneer Children," by E. Fenwick Coleridge, a collection of thrilling narratives of the adventures of the early settlers of the Western country, detailing their hardships and sufferings, but giving bright pictures also of their sports and amusements. The material has been gleaned from the general history of our United States, and from local histories of border wars. The details of encounters with Indians and the scarcely more dreaded wild beasts are very exciting, and the children of comfort and luxury in this Christmas season of 1888 will read breathlessly the story of the hard life of their fathers and grandfathers in what seems to them a bygone age, but is still well within the memory of many who may present them with the book. The publishers have made an illustrated, attractive book of these interesting facts of other days.

A QUIET CORNER.

From "Echoes from Story Land." (Copyright, 1888, by O. M. Dunham. Cassell & Co.)

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. make a specialty of instructive children's books, and throughout the year turn out volumes which every teacher or parent must be glad to add to their young people's libraries. In Lydia Hoyt Farmer's "Life of La Fayette" excellent material has been put into excellent shape, and a most fascinating account is given of the knight of liberty in two worlds and two centuries. Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton has made an interesting as well as useful book of "Famous American Statesmen," after the well-known and popular fashion of her "Famous American Authors," "Poor Boys Who Became Famous," and "Girls Who Became Famous." One of the prettiest books brought out during the year is a translation of Baumbach's "Summer Legends," a collection of fairy tales, full of poetry and delicate humor, that would make a pretty gift for older readers also. Louis Enault's little gem, "The Captain's Dog," has been most happily translated by Mr. Huntingdon Smith, formerly on the Boston Traveller, who has caught the spirit of the story of the good-natured retired sea-captain, whose heart is divided between his wife and his dog, by both of whom he is controlled most uncomfortably. This little book has several very good illustrations, which almost speak the details of the simple tale. In "Wrecked on Labrador," M. W. A. Stearns describes the grand scenery of that desolate coast, and the peculiar fascination of the region, which, it is now thought, was discovered by white men centuries before the landing of Columbus. Incidentally he gives much information about trapping, fishing, and preserving specimens, and no boy will drop the book until he has finished it. Boys who still like wonderful adventures with beasts in the wild woods will gloat over "The Search for the Star," by Edward Willett. This star is a diamond ornament supposed to have been stolen by a French Canadian servant, hiding in the woods of upper Maine and Canada. An edition of the Rollo Books in fourteen volumes deserves to be very popular, for they are natural, healthy books, teaching many practical lessons.

DE WOLFE, FISKE & Co. have gotten out another of Dr. C. M. Newell's exciting sea-stories, which not only tells of hair-breadth escapes, and almost goes beyond possibility of prowess on the treacherous deep, but actually tells of the capture of a most beautiful mermaid, who plays a thrilling part in "The Isle of the Palms." There is an offset to this fair being a terrible sea-monster with unnumbered legs that does great havoc through the story, but is finally made to lie down and be still by the courageous heroes. It is illustrated with a number of striking pictures.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have their regular holiday supply of books for young people, full of instructive and entertaining matter and most handsomely gotten up. "A Frozen Dragon," and other tales, is a story-book of natural history for boys and girls, by Charles Frederick Holder, illustrated by J. C. Beard, D. C. Beard, J. M. Nugent, and others, from sketches by the author; "Marooner's Island," by W. R. Goulding, has six double-page illustrations by W. C. Jackson; and the same author's "Sapelo," "Marcooche," and "Salooah" are brought out in one volume and called Woodruff Stories. "Blue Jackets of 1776" forms a companion to the Blue Jackets of 1812 and 1861 of which new editions are ready, and these three volumes give boys splendid ideas of the gallant work done by American sailors in the three great American wars. Prof. Church's new volume is "The Chantry Priest of Barnet." Miss Finley still finds something to say of the Elsie who has seen and done and been so much to several generations of her relations, all within the few years since she appeared to us. "Christmas with Grandma Elsie" is the new title. New editions of Abbott's "Pioneers and Patriots of America," Rossiter Johnson's "Minor Wars of the United States," and "Tales from Many Sources" are also ready. The imprint of the house is guarantee of good work, and this year they in nowise endanger their steadily earned reputation.

E. P. DUTTON & Co.'s juveniles are all little works of art, far too dainty and æsthetic for little mortals that almost chew their mental food. "Dutton's Annual for 1889" is fully up to the mark of the initial volume last year, which is now quite out of print. This is a book of prose and poetry with six full-page colored illustrations and covers printed in finest lithography. Miss Bennett, who did such lovely work in "All Around the Clock" and "Through the Meadow," has this year worked up a little gem called "Jack in the Meadows." "Selections from Mother Goose," with new illustrations in color by Chester Loomis, show originality, humor, and exquisite color-printing; and "Old Father Santa Claus," by Mr. and Mrs. Mack, has still something new to show of the great things done for children by this blessed old hero. "When All Is Young" and "Jack in the Box" show more of Miss Bennett's artistic work; "A Snow Baby," "Famous Fairy Tales," illustrated by J. Lawson, and many others are all worth buying, and some would rather keep them than make others happy with them. A long line of books in sets and boxes deserves special mention. It covers almost every subject.

ESTES & LAURIAT bring out new volumes of all their various travel series for young people. The "Vassar Girls," "Great-Grandmother's Girls," the "Zigzag Club," and the "Knockabout Club" displayed their usual activity during the year.

visiting some of the most remote quarters of the globe. "Three Vassar Girls in France" is the title of Mrs. Champney's latest account of the wanderings of Melicent Davenport, Alice Newton, and Sallie Benton. It happened to them to be shut up in Paris during the bombardment, and they witnessed many thrilling sights and had no end of romantic adventures, which "Champ" and others have illustrated with numerous full-page pictures. Of course, as in all these books, accurate descriptions of the people and places, with carefully prepared historical accounts, are intermingled with the girls' personal adventures. Hezekiah Butterworth's "Zigzag Journeys in the Antipodes" is the tenth volume of the series. It has a double purpose—"to make young people better acquainted with Siam and the islands of the Indian Ocean, and so to aid the teacher in his work, and to illustrate the fact that kindness to harmless and tamable animals, as exemplified in Buddhist countries, adds to the general happiness of mankind." "The Knockabout Club" sought adventures "in the Antilles and thereabouts." In his usual clever vein, Mr. F. A. Ober, with the assistance of many pictures, interests the boys in the birds, plants, and scenery of the smaller West Indian group of islands. Mrs. Champney's "Great-Grandmother's Girls in New Mexico" is the second volume of a series begun last year with adventures in New France. It is a more pretentious book than the preceding volumes in size and in general appearance, and is intended, as the publishers say, "to occupy a position between juvenile books of the 'Zigzag' style and the high-priced gift-books." The text is as much for grown people as for young readers, giving as it does a good deal of old Spanish history in the days of the early adventurers. The story of Monita, a quaint little Indian maiden, which lightens the more serious parts of the narrative, is quite within the comprehension of young people. Many pictures, some by "Champ," and a rich cloth binding make this a very attractive volume. Prof. Soley, who obtained many readers for his "Boys of 1812," brought out last season, has again delved into naval history, bringing his narrative nearer home. Accounts of the naval engagements of the Civil War and the deeds of its heroes fill a beautiful quarto volume under the name of "The Sailor-Boys of '61." This is a most healthy, attractive book for boys, feeding their imaginations and at the same time making them acquainted with the most exciting and picturesque period in our history. "Little Ones Annual, volume 7," is full of reading-matter and cuts adapted to very young people. Mr. Adams ("Oliver Optic") edits it, and he has included in his selections the work of some of our best writers of "juvenile" literature. Six fifty-cent books, quartos, with many pictures, pretty stories, and illuminated covers, are included in the following titles: "Supper Under the Apple Tree," "Jimmy's Happy Family," "How the Cucumber Got into the Bottle," "Tommy's Fright," "Bertie's Corn Popper," and "How the Goslings Rode Out." They are for the youngest, and are just the thing for those looking for a good deal for their money, as they make a generous show.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT have remade Dr. H. C. McCook's "Tenants of an Old Farm" into a most attractive and very seasonable holiday book. The purpose of this book is to present exact truths from natural history in popular form. The author on a slight thread of story introduces researches of scientific value. There are upward of 140 illustrations prepared expressly for the book. The scientific ones are by the author's own pen, while the element of humor has been illustrated by Daniel C. Beard. It is well printed and appropriately bound, and to a boy interested in natural history it will prove a mine of pleasure and information.

HARPER & BROS. issue in "Marching to Victory" the second volume of the series begun with the "Drum-Beat of the Nation." As in the latter work, the author has endeavored to set forth impartially and truly the cause, scope, and meaning of the war by a grouping of leading events. The volume treats specially of the events of 1863—distinguished by a series of victories for the armies of the Union. It is a handsome book, profusely illustrated with portraits and war scenes and maps of battle-grounds. Thomas W. Knox describes his indefatigable "Boy Travellers in Australasia," and the method followed in the preparation of previous volumes of the series has been observed in the present book, as far as it was possible to do so. The author's knowledge of the countries and people of Australasia has been supplemented by information drawn from many sources—from books, newspapers, maps, and other publications, and from numerous Australian gentlemen whom he has known or with whom he has been in correspondence. During the progress of the work he has kept a watchful eye on the current news from the antipodes, and sought to bring the account of the condition of the railways, telegraphs, and other constantly changing enterprises down to the latest dates. Frank Bassett and Fred Bronson and Dr. Bronson are again the chief characters. The book is profusely illustrated. The central figure of "The Household of Glen Holly," by Mrs. Lucy C. Lillie," is Felix, a little crippled boy. For several years he had been in Europe with his young maiden aunt trying every means of regaining the use of his legs, and had just returned when the story opens, his case having been pronounced hopeless. He is an orphan and there is a mystery about the cause of his lameness. Added to the lameness he has a frightful temper, which makes him a very troublesome boy to manage. Near Glen Holly is a family named Thorne, and Felix becomes very intimate with their children. The details of this friendship, the improvement it works in Felix, and the mystery of a closed-up room at Glen Holly give the material for a charming story for young people. The ninth volume of Harper's Young People, for 1888, as usual, is not content merely to amuse its readers; it aims to interest them by appealing alike to their intelligence and their imagination. Fiction, poetry, anecdote, history, biography, travel, natural history, and other branches of science make up its contents from month to month, and by the end of the year it is a rich mine of enjoyment for every child that gets it.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. make but few juveniles, but when they decide to manufacture something for children, they turn out a little gem in body and spirit. Miss Lucy Gibbons Morse has written "The Chezzles," a story partly of France and partly of America, written of and for children, and, like all good juveniles, a treat to older people. The talented author has added to the interest of her book by illustrating it herself. "The Birds' Christmas Carol" is a very well-told little story about a bright, entertaining family named Bird, to which pictures have been added, and which makes a pretty, inexpensive gift. A new edition of Horace E. Scudder's "The Bodley Books" in four volumes is ready, with all the old pictures, and he has rewritten the "Book of Folk Stories," and made it a "nursery classic for schools."

HUBBARD BROS. have been truly fortunate in securing three juveniles by Palmer Cox, whose text and illustrations are inimitable. All three books bear the general title of "Queer People." In one these queer people are "Goblins, Giants, Merry-men, and Monarchs," in the next they are "Queer People with Wings and Stings," showing every variety of bird and insect in every variety of grotesque and "cute" attitude; and in the third they are "Queer People with Paws and Claws," dealing with the four-footed animals. Palmer Cox is a genius in drawing animals in caricature, and with two or three simple lines and dots can express no end of action, drollery, and humor. The allegorical wisdom of his text is also unique. These are certainly very funny books and remarkably cheap, although they are in handsome shape, quite worthy of a place beside the "Brownies," the artist-author's beautiful book of last season. Both old and young will relish these volumes. They contain the picture of every "queer" friend you have.

THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS CO. have in their Moving Picture Series, by L. Meggendorfer, three charming holiday books for little eyes to feast on: "Live Animals," "More Living Animals," and "Moving Animal Pictures." They are a complete novelty in picture-books, are printed in large, clear type and handsomely bound in illuminated covers. The Showman's Series has four more little works of art called "Living Pictures," "The Mammoth Menagerie," "The Theatre Picture-Book," and "The Children's Year," the last a collection of unusually child-like songs of happy days in all seasons. By special arrangement with publishers in far-away Japan this house offers quite a line of genuine Japanese colored picture-books, printed in bright tints on fine plate paper, all the illustrations being of Japanese country scenes, flowers, birds, insects, as well as of Japanese family life, and the little male and female "Japs," who seem to take much the same positions as little "Yanks" do under the same conditions. There are also fairy tales with English text and an Oriental lavishness of illustration. Much can be learned by children in these books in a very pleasant way.

LEE & SHEPARD'S Christmas publications for the young are all in the nature of story-books, and all of them offer solid pleasure in the way of reading-matter. Good, well-made books they are all, representing in their authors several of the most popular American "juvenile" writers existing. Oliver Optic begins a new war series this season with "Taken by the Enemy." The series is called The Blue and the Gray, and deals with events of the civil war both North and South. While written from a Union standpoint, it will aim to present events impartially. In the initial volume the scene is almost entirely laid aboard a Northern steam-yacht, the owner of which goes South to rescue his daughter, who is at Mobile. Some thrilling sea-fights and kindred episodes make the book very attractive to boys. The binding is remarkable, the cover having a strip of blue cloth with the Union badge, and a strip of gray cloth with the Confederate. The boys seem specially well provided for by this house, J. T. Trowbridge's two new books being written for them, and also Captain A. J. Farrar's "Up the North Branch." Trowbridge's stories, "A Start in Life" and "Biding His Time," are eminently practical. While full of healthy fun, they are quite real in all their incidents, and offer, besides, to clever, ambitious boys, looking around for a chance to help themselves, many useful suggestions. "Up the North Branch" records the events of a camping-out trip up the north branch of the Penobscot and down the St. John River, by members of the Lake and Forest Club. "Little Miss Weezy's Brother," by Penn Shirley (Sophie May's sister), is a little book in the "Prudy" and "Dolly" style, full of the amusing doings of bright children. "The Story Mother Nature Told Her Children," by Jane Andrew, is in the same instructive vein as "Seven Little Sisters," and "The Year's Best Days" is a collection of stories and poems for young people, by Rosa Hartwick Thorpe.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have four bright juveniles, which they have divided evenly among the boys and girls. "The Boys' Book of Indoor Sports" and "The Boys' Book of Outdoor Sports" are full of amusement and pastimes for little males of every taste and every age. Spring, summer, autumn, and winter find boys just boys, and the bright compiler of these volumes seems to understand just what will keep them amused and make them happy boys. The girls too are provided with "The Girls' Own Book," giving girls' games, and needle-work, and occupations, and Rosa Nouchette Carey, who knows that girls like a book "that has a little love in it," has written a sweet story for girls "standing with reluctant feet where the brook and river meet," that will interest them and teach them some useful lessons in a motherly way.

THE D. LOTHROP Co. have succeeded in obtaining books for young people from Louise Imogen Guiney and Skiney Luska. Miss Guiney's "Brownies and Boggles" may fitly be styled a fairy handbook, as in it the author describes every kind of the "little people" that is found in traditions or literature in all the countries of the world. There are the brownies and waterkelpies of Scotland, the troll and necken of Sweden, the German kobolds, the English fairies, pixies, and elves, the Norwegian and Danish dwarfs and bjergfalls, the Irish leprechauns, and a score of others, some of whom are mischievous, some malicious, some householders, and some who are always waiting to do a good turn to those they like. The illustrations by Edmund Garrett add much to the beauty of the book. Sidney Lusk's "My Uncle Florimond" introduces little Gregory, the hero, as an orphan, living with his uncle and grandmother, a dear old French lady of the old school, in Norwich, Conn. My uncle, Florimond is the grandmother's brother, of whom from his earliest years Gregory makes a hero, although he has never seen him. After his grandmother's death he leaves his cruel uncle and comes to New York, where he meets with the kindest friends and protectors among Jews. The author again has opportunity to describe Jewish home life, and also to introduce his knowledge of law. The story is charmingly told. It is impossible to give even an idea of the individual books provided so lavishly throughout the year by this house, and to make a fair selection for comment is a difficult task. "The American Sailor," by E. S. Brooks, is a book full of instruction, and calculated to rouse noble, patriotic feelings in the hearts and minds of healthy boys; "Some Successful Women," by Sarah K. Bolton, gives biographies of Marion Harland, "Pansy," Clara Barton, the philanthropist, Alice Freeman, the former President of Wellesley College, Rachel Bodley, Dean of the Woman's Medical College, Philadelphia, Mrs. Candace Wheeler and her daughter Dora, who have done so much to develop the love of decorative art in this country, and several others who have gained distinguished places in art, literature, and industry. James Otis always pleases boys, and his "Little Joe," the story of a newsboy who finally becomes a successful farmer, is in his best vein. In "Howling Wolf and His Trick Pony" Lizzie Champney tells a genuine Indian story, and ends with an interesting description of the Indian school at Carlisle, Pa. C. F. Holder, in "A Strange Company," tells stories of all kinds of animals, which have been illustrated by Beard; while "Ned Harwood's Visit to Jerusalem," by S. G. Knight, "Adventures of Early Discoverers," by Francis A. Humphrey, and "Christmastide Stories and Poems," by Hezekiah Butterworth, have self-explanatory and self-recommending titles. The various periodicals in which this house takes special pride are all ready in bound volumes, and as full as ever of the instructive information of which the publishers make a specialty. Wide Awake, vol. Z, Our Young Folks at Home, Our Little Ones, etc., look as fresh and pretty as ever. The house calls special attention to its sets of books in boxes, which purchasers would do well to examine. In our list of juveniles in this issue will be found many titles we could not crowd into this department.

MACMILLAN & Co. are fortunate year after year in obtaining the name of the author of "The Heir of Redclyffe" as author or editor for a new Christmas juvenile. E. Van Bruyssel, a French writer, has written stories of insect life under the title of "The Population of an Old Pear Tree," and the translation of these happy stories has been edited by Charlotte M. Yonge. The book has been made more attractive and more useful by numerous illustrations from the pencil of Becker. Mrs. Molesworth is also indefatigable in her work for young people, who have learned to look to the author of "Carrots" and "Little Miss Peggy" for a Christmas treat. This year it carries a holiday title, and "The Christmas Posy" with Walter Crane's illustrations needs only to be mentioned to be wanted.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS always have numberless books for young readers which are healthy in tone and excellent in manufacture. Athol Mayhew has written a sketch of "The Emperor of Germany," which has been illustrated with eight full-page pictures by R. Caton Woodville; and "Whatsoever" is an every-day story by M. A. Paull, author of "Tim's Troubles." Into the long array of books in sets and boxes and books of every kind, ranging in price from ten cents to five dollars, we cannot enter. Everything they have is good, and everything looks pretty and makes a good show on Christmas trees and tables. R. M. Ballantyne's new book tells of soldier life in the Soudan under the title of "Blue Lights;" "David Livingstone" is the story of the great explorer's life, with many illustrations; the new volume of "Little Arthur at the Zoo" is sub-titled "Birds;" "Rhoda's Reform" is by M. A. Paull and gives the good advice to owe no man anything; "Loving Work in the Highways and Byways" is a tale of a coffee-room for poor children, lovingly written by Lady Hope; and "Favorite Tales for the Nursery" is a collection of beloved old stories with many new illustrations.

PHILLIPS & HUNT have several new stories for young people and suitable as gifts to the Sunday-school library shelves, a place to bestow presents often overlooked even by generous people thoroughly attached to their church and its Sunday school. "What Happened on Christmas Eve" is by Emily Huntington Miller, author of the pretty story of "Thorn Apples;" "Angus Leslie's Daughter" is by Lydia L. Rouse, who understands making the serious side of life and character attractive; she has also written "The Laird's Son," which shows a boy's duties as the former does a girl's responsibilities. Rev. Edward A. Rand tells a patriotic story, which he has called "When the War Broke Out;" and Ella S. Birdsell has dedicated "Phil Preston" to "Those Boys" who appeared in a former work of her pen.

PORTER & COATES have the ever popular names of Horatio Alger and Edward S. Ellis upon their provision for youngsters. Alger writes of the life of a young ranchman of the Missouri under the name of "Bob Burton," and tells how he got into trouble with a cross-grained old man named Wolverton, how he circumvented him, paid off the mortgage on his ranch, and became a prosperous man. Ellis begins a new series, to be known as the Wyoming Series, to which the first book gives the name. The hero is Fred Godfrey, who has come from Wyoming, where he has fought Indians, to take up arms in the Continental Army of George Washington, stationed in New Jersey in 1778. It gives a good picture of those stirring days and an ideal conception of the Father of his Country. Besides these books intended specially for the sterner youth of the land, there is a prettystory for girls by Mrs. Lucy C. Lillie, called "Esther's Fortune."

L. PRANG & Co. have made a book sure of buyers in the memorial by Mrs. Ednah D. Cheney of "Louisa May Alcott—the children's friend." The book is shaped like a choir-book of psalm tunes, containing about fifty pages, and bound in light blue seersucker stamped with silver. The pictures are process cuts by Lizbeth B. Comins, who has also prepared a soft-toned chromo for the frontispiece, showing Miss Alcott reading the children's classic, "Little Women," to eager young faces of every nationality. Mrs. Cheney, Miss Alcott's life-long friend, assures the children by many extracts from their favorite books that almost all Miss Alcott wrote was of an autobiographical character, and explains to them who May, Beth, Amy, and the idolized Jo really were, and who furnished Miss Alcott characteristics for the almost perfect Laurie. Children will delight over the details of the life of their sadly mourned story-teller. In point of fine art work "Baby's Lullaby Book—mother songs," by Charles Stuart Pratt, with music by G. W. Chadwick, takes the lead on the publishers' rich list. There are twelve poems, a mother's songs to her infant during each month of the year, set to tender melodies, and accompanied by full-page illustrations in color, by W. L. Taylor, all soft and delicate, and set in a frame of solid tint. The stiff cover is stuffed to make it soft to the touch, and the book is exceptionally pretty. "What the Bird Said to Bertha" and "The Birds' Christmas" are two pretty thoughts charmingly worded and charmingly illustrated by Miss Lizbeth B. Comins; and "Old Stories in New Attire," by Mrs. Rose Mueller Sprague, presents the nursery songs of our babyhood, but changes the stiff, grotesque little heroes and heroines that wandered through our crudely printed text into little actors correctly dressed for their parts in the poems. Red Riding Hood, Miss Moffat, Bo-peep, Jack Horner, Mother Hubbard, Cinderella, Tom the Piper's Son, and Little Boy Blue all appear in strictly correct costume in rich colors to delight even eyes now accustomed to the chromos, plaques, panels, etc., to which our childish eyes had not been educated.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION has some excellent juveniles with good healthy morals and charitable religious tone. "Who Wins?" is a story for boys, by Belle V. Chisholm, pointing the value of noble plans and steady application; in "Ruthie's Story," Charles Stedman Newhall lets one child tell the story of Jesus to other children in a very pretty way; "Saved by Grace" is a biographical sketch of Davis Johnson, Jr., told by Rev. John D. Wells; and "Mrs. Darwing's Daughter," by Helen B. Williams, tells the story of the numerous trials and final success of a motherless girl in her struggle with the world. In spite of the sectarian name the publications of this house can be put in Sunday-schools of any denomination. They teach Christianity far more than Calvinism.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS' publications for young readers are among the best of their kind. In preparing their leading book they have gone back to the old Arthurian romances, so familiar to us through Malory's chronicles and Tennyson's "Idyls." Our literature is so full of illustrations from the Arthuriad that young people should be as well grounded in these myths as they are in those of the Greeks and Romans. Mrs. Margaret Vere Farrington, in "Tales of King Arthur and His Knights," embraces over forty of these romantic narratives, told in simple, understandable prose, that young minds will find no difficulty in grasping or becoming interested in. Sir Arthur, Sir Launcelot, Sir Geraint, Sir Galahad, and all the other picturesque heroes are made real to them, not only through the admirable narrative, but through Alfred Frederick's pictures, the latter covering eight full pages and being noticeably graphic. Prof. A. J. Church has written another of his charming historical tales, "Three Greek Children," which is brought out in handsome style. It is a tale of the Peloponnesian war, and is illustrated with twelve full-page designs in dull reds and browns. In the new holiday edition of "The Silver Treasury" the publishers have adorned the covers with characteristic designs in silver, and the poems printed on fine tinted paper, octavo size, are surrounded with colored borders and illustrated with many pictures and portraits. This excellent compilation of Miss Brackett and Miss Eliot, already embraced in the majority of home and school libraries, should take a new lease of life in its pretty new dress.

A GALLANT RESCUE.

From "Blue Lights." (Thomas Nelson & Sons.)

ROBERTS BROS.' "Prince Vance," by Mrs. Eleanor Putnam Bates and Arlo Bates, is a real fairy tale of the old-fashioned type, in which there are some wonderful performances by wizards and giants and other characters belonging to fairyland. The sub-title to the story is "The story of a prince with a court in his box." And "Prince Vance" really does go round the world with his whole family in a small box under his arm. The fact is he is a very ill-tempered, impatient boy with many bad associates, and yields to a temptation set before him by the "Blue Wizard" to give the royal court a new bon-bon for dessert. They are thus all reduced to pygmies, and he is turned out into the cold world. Although his wanderings are exceedingly amusing, they have also their lessons of patience and good temper. Frank Myrick has made some capital illustrations for the story. The same class of readers for whom "Prince Vance" was written will enjoy "Sparrow, the Tramp," by Lily F. Wesselhoeft. Here the hero is a bird, and a very naughty bird, who stays out nights and neglects his family. The idea of the story is quite fresh and "taking." Though there is a little boy and girl around whom the interest centres, the domestic pets, such as the cat, the canary-bird, and the parrot, take part in the story, speaking a language among themselves which they only understand. Their "talks" are quaint and instructive. They criticise the actions of children to dumb animals, and are the unknown cause of much of the action. Jessie McDermott's illustrations add greatly to the interest of the story. "The Happy Prince, and other tales," written by Oscar Wilde and illustrated by Walter Crane, is a most desirable little volume from a literary and artistic standpoint. The fairy element of the stories will make the book a great favorite with young readers, but there is a suggestive moral, or application rather, of the stories, for they are all in the nature of allegories, which are quite beyond immature minds. This witty, humorous side recommends the fables to the consideration of older readers, who, we can testify, will enjoy them hugely. For a very good girl and a very good boy of about fourteen or fifteen, this house has two excellent stories, namely, "Clover," a sequel to the "Katy Books," by Susan Coolidge, and "Raymond Kershaw," by Maria McIntosh Cox. In the first we have an account of Katy Carr's marriage, Clover's journey to Colorado, and her engagement to a young Englishman. Girls who have followed the young lives of "Katy" and "Clover" through the other books will find no lack of interest in this portion of their career. The second book tells how a bright, enterprising boy helped himself. Left an orphan at nineteen, and disappointed in his expectations of a fortune, he is forced to earn a living. The edition of Edward Lear's "Nonsense Books" that Roberts Bros. bring out comprises in one volume "A Book of Nonsense," "Nonsense Songs," "More Nonsense Pictures," and "Laughable Lyrica." The volume is extremely pretty, with the original illustrations and a portrait and sketch of the author's life. This inimitable "nonsense" should find a permanent place among the classics of the nursery.

GEO. ROUTLEDGE & SONS have in Robert Browning's "Pied Piper of Hamelin," illustrated by Kate Greenaway, one of the most charming children's books of the season. The pathetic words written by the great poet for the amusement of the actor Macready's little son have inspired the graceful pencil of Miss Greenaway to some of the most tasteful work she has done for some time. Two books illustrated in color by Charles Mars, who did such pretty work on "Our Darlings" last season, are quite up to the mark of his former success. His "Friends and Playmates" this year is just the thing for the youngest children, as all who possess babies and know what they appreciate will readily see. It shows all kinds of children and all kinds of animals doing and saying about the same things as the children. "A Journey Round the World," illustrated by the same hand, is for older children. A father with failing health sails from England with his family and goes first to Spain and from there to Ceylon, China, Japan, Sandwich Islands, California, South America, and Africa, and home to the British Isles, thus giving descriptions of countries not so widely known as those usually described in children's books of travel. A slight quantity of text and a generous supply of pictures in colors, by Julius Kleinmichel, make up "Our Country House," the happy English home of the child who describes its grounds, cattle, chickens, views, servants, pleasures, and sports. The description of the fox-hunt cannot fail to interest little Americans. All three of the above are large quartos with effective covers. Miss Josephine Pollard has completed her "History of the Old Testament" in words of one syllable, and it is brought out with full-page pictures uniform with the well-known successful one-syllable books published by the house. Eva Hartner has written a very helpful story for girls in "Pythia's Pupils," who live in Germany and have their little pleasures and their lovers, and under Pythia's direction learn to be good cooks and housekeepers, many details of the cooking lessons being given. In "Persons and Places in America" Helen Ainslie Smith has made a delightful as well as useful compilation from recognized authorities, giving descriptions of scenery and industries, as well as biographical anecdotes of those who have made America the great country it now is, skillfully put together and lavishly illustrated. Boys will take interest in "From Keeper to Captain," by Major-Gen. Drayson, telling of a boy who was born in a keeper's lodge in England, who, fired by reading Captain Marryat's books, begged leave to join the army, met with luck in his African campaigns, struck gold and found a wife and returned to England to buy large estates; and in "Harry Treverton," in which the hero himself tells his tramps and troubles in Western Australia, a story English boys found delightful during its run through the Boys' Own Paper this year. A new edition of Captain Marryat's "Little Savage" and many other nice books are also ready for Christmas presents.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' "Two Little Confederates," by Thomas Nelson Page, is one of those delightful books for young readers which will take its place some day with "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and other juvenile classics. Mr. Page has told a graphic story of the war as it appeared to two little Southern boys left at home on a Virginia plantation with the women and slaves, in which there is not a trace of sectional bitterness. Only the humorous and pathetic side is made evident, the merits of the cause not being touched upon. To these two bright little fellows all was intensely funny and interesting, from the donning of the gray uniform by their father and uncle and their riding away to Richmond, to the burial of the silver, the running low of provisions, and the giving out of shoes, and the carrying of food to Confederate officers hid away in their own pirate's cave in the woods. A comic element is found in the actions of the negroes and a pathetic one in the death of a Union soldier. The illustrations really illustrate the story, and are full of pictorial interest. "Otto of the Silver Hand," written and illustrated by Howard Pyle, is a tale of romantic interest, with a very lovable young hero, the motherless son of a valiant robber baron of the old days of medieval Germany. The graceful, spirited illustrations tell the tale of his many adventures. This is one of the most artistic books for the young issued. Two other books for young readers, but more in the line of instructive reading, are "Little People and Their Homes," by Stella Louise Hook, and "Children's Stories of the Great Scientists," by Henrietta C. Wright. The "little people" are butterflies, crickets, bees, ants, spiders, and other inhabitants of the fields and air. Their marvellous ways are made clear by the aid of many pictures and a direct, simple text addressed to youthful comprehensions. The second book gives brief biographies, with sketches of the times, and descriptions of the nature and importance of the discoveries or inventions of sixteen great scientists, beginning with Galileo and coming down to Darwin and Huxley.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have added three new volumes to their superb edition of Mr. Henty's books, who is placed by the London Academy "in the very first rank of writers of stories of adventure for boys." "Captain Bayley's Heir" is a tale of the gold fields of California, full of adventures, including a wreck on the Mississippi and many hardships on the prairies; "The Lion of St. Mark's" uses facts of Venetian history as a background for its fictitious hero, who uses the mouth of the lion of St. Mark's to achieve the purpose of the plot; "The Cat of Bubastes" is a tale of Ancient Egypt, for which Mr. Henty takes his material from good authorities, and writes it up in a bright story. Uniform with these Henty stories are two by Manville Fenn, "Quicksilver, or, a boy with no skid to his wheels," and "Dick o' the Fens," a tale of the great East Swamp. Harry Collingwood has also prepared something fascinating in "Missing," a tale of the merchant marine. All these books have a dozen or more illustrations by Frank Dadd. For girls there are "Under False Colors," by Sarah Doudney, and "Giannetta," by Rosa Mulholland, with eight illustrations by Lockhart Bogle. The Annuals published in the holiday season, one for boys and the other for girls, will also be ready for the season of 1888-89.

FRED. A. STOKES & BRO. have a taking picture-book in Edith M. Thomas' musical verses, "Babes of the Year," illustrated in colors and monotypes by Maud Humphrey by twelve full-page pictures of beautiful children, with faces typifying the months of the year. These are confined in a light green board cover showing seven little sunshiny faces. "Patchwork in Pictures and Print" is a collection of verses in giant print, intersected at all points by attractive pictures, having a cover with a design of a real, old-fashioned patchwork quilt. For children old enough to read and think for themselves there are "Uncle Rutherford's Nieces," a pretty story of healthful, happy child-life; and the two new volumes in the Lives of the Presidents series, dealing with Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce, and James Buchanan in one book and Grover Cleveland in the other.

TICKNOR & Co. have prepared for the young people several books of a holiday nature. "The Dead Doll, and other verses," by Margaret Vandegrift, a favorite and well-known contributor to St. Nicholas, Harper's Young People, and other magazines for youthful readers, contains some of her wisest and wittiest verses. "The Dead Doll" and "The Fate of a Facemaker" are in a measure public property, so often have they been heard at public and private recitations. But added to these charming poems are many others never before published and equally tender and ingenuous. Another volume for older children, "Little Helpers," is also from the pen of Miss Vandegrift. The doings of a little boy and girl, brought up by a sensible mother on common-sense principles, are made the vehicle of many unobtrusive morals. Johnny and Tiny Leslie are interesting in themselves, however, and are not created solely to serve as moral guide-posts. Young readers will get quite fascinated with their simple story. Both of these books are very nicely illustrated, and are uniform in size and general appearance with "Davy and the Goblin." A new edition, enlarged and printed from new plates, of Harry M. Kieffer's "Recollections of a Drummer-Boy" may be mentioned here. It will be remembered as a stirring story of actual experience during the late war, which originally appeared in the St. Nicholas. In its new form, which is uniform with the foregoing books of Miss Vandegrift, many new illustrations appear and some new adventures, rendering it even more attractive than formerly. Nora Perry's "Youngest Miss Lorton" is a prettily illustrated volume of short stories for girls of fourteen or fifteen. The stories all represent real life, and have for heroines lovely, real girls, with whom it is a pleasure to become acquainted.

MARCUS WARD & Co. have a generous supply of colored picture-books for young people that will educate their tastes while amusing them amazingly. "Young Maids and Old China" is a charming volume of dainty and beautifully colored drawings, by J. G. Sowerby, with clever verses from F. W. Bourdillon, gotten up in delicately decorated boards; "Little Boy Blue" is a collection of popular nursery rhymes handsomely illustrated; "Three Old Friends" introduces once more "The Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe," "Three Blind Mice," and "Three Little Kittens," comprised in one volume, illustrated by E. Caldwell, with the familiar words set to music; "Imps," illustrated by Catherine Seton Flint, shows the pranks of two mischievous children; "Oranges and Lemons" is a book of happy child-life with designs by T. Pym, who also illustrates "Skipping-Time." "Baby's Birthday-Book" is lovely with margins packed with colored pictures of friends made by baby in its nursery rhymes, and blank spaces of beautiful paper on which Mamma can write the names of the baby's little friends, so they may not be forgotten when baby grows up and has her little mind full of the cares of boyhood or girlhood.

WARD & DRUMMOND, New York, have issued a new book for girls entitled "Her Opportunity," by H. C. Pearson, author of "His Opportunity;" also a "Handbook for Workers: Bible Gems, Lesson Dictionary, and Golden Texts for 1889;" "The Babe Divine," a new Christmas service; and "Christmas Carols," No. 10.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. show several beautiful fine art "juveniles," chromo-lithographed in Holland. "Over the Hills," by E. L. Shute, with illustrations by Jessie Watkins, is a delightful collection of studies of little boys and girls fishing, gathering blossoms, skipping the rope, trundling hoops, dancing, picnicking, and so on, with pretty rhymes describing the pictures. "Young America's Nursery Rhymes," illustrated by Constance Haslewood, is a charmingly quaint interpretation of the old Mother Goose rhymes in text and design. "A Merry Round," illustrated also by Constance Haslewood, with rhymes by A. J. Daryl, represents children at play in many familiar attitudes. This is a little sixteenmo, while the previous books are quartos.

standard story-books that all children read, or ought to read, in their first plunge into literature. They are "Robinson Crusoe," "Swiss Family Robinson," "Arabian Nights," Hans Andersen's and Grimm's "Fairy Tales." Each one is gayly bound in cloth, printed in large type on good white paper, and illustrated with numerous full-page colored pictures. Any one of the volumes will make a Christmas gift of enduring pleasure to all the inmates of the nursery—for those who cannot read themselves will be entranced to hear their elders read these fascinating old narratives. Lear's "Nonsense" books, of which this house brings out new editions in separate volumes as originally published, promise

PRINCE VANCE'S CHRISTMAS PARTY.

The coloring and drawing in all three of the books are most excellent, while the cover designs are delicate and artistic and exceedingly attractive. The Presentation Series brought out this year includes new editions of a number of to become nursery classics, as many of the works have already gone through twenty-five editions. When so great an authority as Ruskin indorses their innocent fun, there is little left to say about them. If any reader, old or young, is so unfortunate as not to have seen these books, let him invest at once in an infallible cure for the "blues." They consist of "The Book of Nonsense," "More Nonsense," "Nonsense Songs and Stories," and "Nonsense Alphabets and Botany." "The Royal Military Tournament" and "At the Christmas Pantomime" are picture toy-books, large quarto in size, and brilliantly printed in colors. They are lovely books, full of soldiers, horses, and fairies, at which little ones will delight in looking.

WHITE & ALLEN have many charming books suitable for children of all ages. Among their largest volumes are their "P. T. Barnum" books, intended, however, for the very smallest boys and girls. They are a series of large quartos, gorgeous in colored pictures and brilliant bindings, and are issued in three languages—English, German, and French—and in three separate parts or bound together in one volume. The three parts are called "Barnum's Circus," "Barnum's Museum," and "Barnum's Menagerie," and represent in their pictures such portions of "the greatest show on earth" as the title indicates. The pictures and text were prepared under the direction of the great showman and Miss Sarah J. Burke, and describe actual scenes at Barnum's and the numerous freaks and curiosities inseparably connected with the name of Barnum. Little ones who cannot yet read will delight in these bright, graphic pictures, and enjoy hearing the clever text, which tells all about them, read by their kind mamma or obliging nurse. Three fairy tales, "Cinderella," "Beauty and the Beast," and "Little Ho-Peep," with the favorite poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas," by Clement C. Moore, are sent out in uniform shape for the special enjoyment also of the nursery. They are little square twenty-fourmos, delicately printed in colors, and most artistic productions for the small price asked for them. "Daddy's Boy," by L. T. Meade, is one of the many exquisite stories of the order of Mrs. Burnett's "Little Lord Fauntleroy." The boy-hero, left alone in the world through his young father's accidental death, has his brave, true heart severely tried by the new guardians appointed to look after him. His quaint, bright sayings and his beautiful little life, with its noble effort towards the right, will charm all readers. "Alma," by Emma Marshall, is a story for girls, and relates to the trials of a little music-teacher, a clever young girl of about twenty, who supports an invalid mother and three little brothers through her own efforts. She has a love-story of course—the wealthy nobleman bringing happiness at apparently the darkest hour. A new series of books for girls called The Eaglehurst Series is instructive without being didactic, each volume having a pretty story. The four volumes are entitled "Eaglehurst Towers," by Emma Marshall,

"The Strait Gate," by Annie S. Swan, "Clovie and Madge," by Mrs. G. S. Reaney, and "The Gypsy Queen," by Emma Leslie. It is good news that four stories by Mayne Reid, never before published in this country, have been added to this house's long list of publications. "No Quarter," "The Naturalist in Siluria," "The Child-Wife," and "The Free Lances" are their names. They are all handsome illustrated twelvemos.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has several new books for the young by well-known writers, sure to please and sure to be profitable reading and teach many lessons especially of history. "Edwin, the Boy Outlaw," by J. F. Hodgetts, is laid in the end of the twelfth and beginning of the thirteenth century, of which the author gives a correct picture, while introducing Robin Hood and his associates to make the story attractive; "To Horse and Away," by Frances Mary Peard, also cunningly interweaves history and romance, introducing real and fictitious characters, and giving many graphic scenes from the life of Charles II. of England; "Carried Off," by Esmé Stuart, is a story of pirate days, giving much information about the West Indies; "Silver Star Valley," by M. Bramston, treats of miners and gives facts about the Rocky Mountains; in "Making the Best of It" the Rev. E. A. Rand deals with the temperance question; in "The Dashing Days of Old" the ever popular Gordon Stables has told a story of naval battles in the war of 1812, and worked out his plot in Canadian waters chiefly; and in "Our New Mistress" Charlotte M. Yonge tells a story of school life and the friction caused by the arrival of the new teacher. A clever little story of the Fauntleroy type is "Little Grandpa," by M. A. Cruse, telling of the efforts of an earnest little Episcopalian to fill the coffers of the church during the Lenten season.

THE WORTHINGTON CO., have given all their attention this year to juveniles, and have turned out some very nice volumes in very attractive covers which show good taste in selection of material and generosity and care in execution. "Worthington's Annual for 1889" holds its own with its predecessors, and from the colored frontispiece, showing Mamma tying up a little wounded hand and doggy looking on, to the last page, where several girls are raking in salt hay, is full of items that interest healthy, average children on such subjects as biography, natural history, and history, with a generous sprinkling of "nice" stories. "The Girls' Own Book" is a collection of pretty stories and pictures for our little women, done up in brilliant cover with three girl faces looking expectant of good things promised. E. O. Chapman, Mr. Worthington's faithful collaborator, has revised the "Arabian Nights" for young readers, and the text is profusely illustrated. Ida Waugh, who did such charming work last year on "Wee Babies," has this year illustrated Amy Ella Blanchard's verses of "Tell Me a Story," "Tangles and Curls," "Bonny Bairns," and "Happy Blossoms." All these books show the prettiest of baby faces and have charming ideas voiced in the jingling verses of snow and bed-time, and stars, and lessons and love, Mamma's love and Papa's love and all the other people's love for the darling little tyrants of the household. The covers are very pretty, especially the "Bonny Bairns," with little faces in medallions all around and the heavy title letters each held by bonny bairns of various sizes. "A Bunch of Daisies" is a book of pictures and stories illustrated profusely for our pets; "Happy Hours" is of the same kind; as are also "Little May's Story-Book," "Home Sunshine," and "Happy Holidays."

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co.'s books in color for the young are among the most lovely in appearance and the most reasonable in price of the many of this description of publication issued this year. "Snap-Dragons," a tale of Christmas eve, and "Old Father Christmas," an old-fashioned tale of the young days of a grumpy old god-father, are two of Mrs. Ewing's charming tales embraced in one volume, with a pretty lithographed cover and a number of Gordon

Browne's designs in colors. The tales are both pathetic and amusing, and told in the inimitable manner characteristic of the author of "Jackanapes." Fourteen of Mrs. Ewing's graceful little stories in verse, with R. André's illustrations in colors, have been gathered into three volumes under the titles of "Mother's Birthday Review," "Blue Bells of the Lea," and "A Soldier's Children." They make charming volumes, being so dainty and witty in reading-matter and illustrations, and are not only well adapted to children, but to the entertainment of every member of the household. Also in colors and monochrome are the following small quartos: "Nurse's Memories," a series of juvenile stories by Charlotte M. Yonge, illustrated by Florence Mapleton and Fred Marriott; "Five Minute Stories," by Mrs. Molesworth; "The Zoo," stories and pictures in natural history, by the Rev. J. G. Wood, illustrated by Harrison Weir; "Old Friends with New Faces," nursery rhymes in a new setting; and "Puff, an Autobiography," by Katherine S. Macquoid. "Sunday for 1889" is full of good reading-matter and large pictures, very suitable to be put into the hands of young people on this day. Among stories for older children we select out of innumerable aspirants for public approbation but a few for notice—not but what they are all meritorious. Mrs. Lowndes' "Both Sides of the River" has a brave, spirited heroine, who gains her experience of life in the capacity of governess, her many trials coming to a successful ending in a happy marriage. Rev. A. D. Crane's "Brian Fitz-Count" and E. J. Oswald's "Dragon of the North" are historical tales for boys. They are both of the Middle Ages, the one being an English story, the other a tale of the Normans in Italy. Cowper's "Captain of the Wight" also comes under the heading of reading for boys, describing life in the Isle of Wight during the fifteenth century, when the French made many invasions of the island. "Bryda" a story of the Indian Mutiny by Mrs. Field, with illustrations by A. Forester, is a book that will prove acceptable either to a boy or girl, so varied is its interest and so attractive its style of narration.

Specialties.

L. PRANG & Co. have their never-failing supply of Christmas and New Year's cards—all pretty, prettier, prettiest, as might be expected. One of the successes of the season in satin art prints is their "The Prize Babies," gotten up in plain mat and also in hand-painted daisy mat, which will delight every lover of childish beauty. Two very dainty conceits are "Flotsam and Jetsam" and "Christmas Mince Pie." The former volume is the mainsail of a yacht. The hoops around the mast, the throat and peak halliards, and the topping-light are of miniature white cordage; the mast, boom, and gaff are nickel-plated. Across the satin sail, above the "American Poets' Calendar for 1889." A graceful design has been made for the new card, including the portraits of all the contributing authors.

LEE & SHEPARD call attention to a very pretty invention of Mary Elizabeth Parker's which they are using as a finishing attraction on some of their bristol-board booklets. This work consists of representations of pansies, buttercups, daisies, sweet peas, forget-me-nots, and violets in lifelike form and color, which by a patented process are made from the scales of fishes of the Southern seas. These flowers first appear on "It Is Christmas Day," by Mrs. Whiton Stone, where they are fastened by a pin in the centre and can be removed at pleasure and used as an ornament for the dress or hair.

NIMS & KNIGHT have half a dozen calendars for 1889. "The George Eliot Calendar" is a handsome block Calendar. The back consists of a portrait of George Eliot, a view of her home and the Donnington arms, and ideal portraits of Romola and Hetty. Besides this new-comer, the old favorites made up from Dickens, Thackeray, and Schiller are ready for 1889. "Sunshine" and "The Year in Thought Calendar" again look as fresh as always when they are in condition for another year's run. One of these is as pretty as the other. Choice does not rest in merit, but merely in the idiosyncrasy of the buyer.

GEO. ROUTLEDGE & SONS have a cute production this year which they call the "Kirmess Almanac" for 1889. This represents the national dances of all countries and makes one's feet feel ready to dance with representatives from every nation.

WHITE & ALLEN have in their "Christmas Calendar" an original idea to enroll among the army of Christmas souvenirs. It consists of twelve pages about 8 x 12 in size, with designs painted in the style of an old medieval missal, which illustrate the most important events in the life of him who lived and died to establish "peace on earth, good-will toward men." Each page also has a quotation from the Bible, from which a whole month of helpful lessons can be preached.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co. show quite a line of "Christmas Card Booklets," which are only 25 c. each and really very good for their purpose; they have also "Milestones," twelve booklets for the year; and "Steering Home," containing poetical extracts for the month. Besides these they have a long list of little books just on the border-line between gift-books and specialties, all of which are worth asking for.

reef points, is the title in silver bronze. The book is a series of verses of the sea by Longfellow, Helen Hunt, Mrs Browning, Lucy Larcom and others. The illustrations in color and monochrome are by the indefatigable L. K. Harlow. "The Christmas Mince Pie" is a realistic and tempting piece of pie, in which the fork holes and fluted edge in the upper crust look just from the oven. Inside these are pages of Shakespearean quotations and monochrome illustrations by Lizzie K. Harlow setting forth the contents of Christmas pie.

FRED. A. STOKES & BRO. have several new calendars for 1889, all vying with each other to be selected to fix dates during the coming twelve months. Their given names in the great family of calendars are: "The Ivoryine," "The Hand-Painted," "The Floral," "The Ring Out Wild Bells," "The Tennyson Photogravure," "The Humphrey," "The Brass," and "The Photograph Frames," and like all children of a family, they have a strong family resemblance to the lookers-on, but marked distinctive features known best to their owners.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have this year made a selection from their Longfellow, Emerson, Whittier, Holmes, Lowell, and Hawthorne Calendars, and bring out this combination as the

PUBLISHERS,

111 AND 113 WILLIAM STREET, NEW YORK.

In addition to a complete and excellent list of school and college text-books, we invite attention to the following

FAY'S THREE GERMANIES.

A new History of Germany, from the earliest days until the present time. By ex-United States Minister Theodore S. Fay. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $6.00.

A most interesting and important work, being the result of the life experience of the author in a field not before fully explored. There has been no good and reliable history of Germany, and this, we believe, will fill the niche.

GOODYEAR'S ART STUDIES.

A new condensed history of Art, profusely illustrated. By William H. Goodyear, lately Curator in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. 315 pp., 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The writer presents a comprehensive yet brief sketch of architecture, sculpture, and painting, intended for American use where such books as "Lübke" are too cumbersome and costly.

HALE'S LIGHTS OF TWO CENTURIES.

Fifty brief biographies, with portraits, of some of the most distinguished and successful men of the past two hundred years, edited by Edward Everett Hale. Complete in one volume, cloth, $1.75.

An admirable book for young people who are curious to know the secret of success in life.

MRS. LAMB'S NEW YORK.

An illustrated History of the City of New York, by Mrs. Martha J. Lamb. 2 vols., cloth, $20.00.

No New York collection can now be said to be complete without this interesting and valuable work. It is a complete history of the city from the earliest times, giving special attention to the social side. As a gift-book it is without a superior. It is standard in character, interesting in style, and printed from large type with broad margins, and issued in all the library bindings. It possesses great value as a work of reference in these centennial times.

BARNES' POPULAR UNITED STATES.

A popular history of the United States, by the author of "Barnes' Brief History of the United States," "France," "Rome," "Greece," and "The World," for schools. 1 vol., cloth, $3.50.

This illustrated history has the advantage of being complete in one volume, and presents the subject in an attractive form which can be enjoyed by all members of the family, particularly the young. Its chapters on the Civil War are said to be the most judicial and impartial of all the histories. It includes President Cleveland's Administration.

CARRINGTON'S BATTLES OF THE REVOLUTION.

The Battles of the Revolution, with 57 full-page topographical maps. By Col. Henry B. Carrington, U. S. A. 1 vol., cloth (new edition), reduced to $5.00.

This accurate and valuable description of all the battles which were fought for American independence should be found in every library alongside of the Encyclopædia and family Bible. It is highly endorsed by competent judges, both civil and military.

LYMAN ABBOTT'S COMMENTARY.

An illustrated Commentary on the New Testament for Christian workers. By the Rev. Lyman Abbott, D.D. THE EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS, just published, $1.75. Previously published: MATTHEW ($1.75). MARK (75 cents). LUKE ($1.00). MARK AND LUKE ($1.75). JOHN ($1.75). THE ACTS ($1.75). The set in 5 volumes, $8.75.

For Sunday-school teachers and older scholars, and for all students of the Bible this Commentary is one of the most modern, satisfactory, and useful that has yet appeared. It gives old and new versions, and not only the opinions of the author, but of all other well-known commentators, and is not denominational.

DR. PENTECOST'S BIBLE STUDIES.

A Commentary on the International Sunday-School Lessons for 1889. By Rev. Dr. George F. Pentecost. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. In quarterly parts, $1.80 per dozen.

The Bible Studies for 1888 has been widely used and very acceptable.

SONGS OF PRAISE SERIES.

OARMINA SANCTORUM. Hymns and Tunes for Congregational Singing, edited by Roswell Dwight Hitchcock, Zachary Eddy, and Lewis Ward Mudge. 746 hymns; 450 tunes. $1.25.

Separate edition of Hymns only. Edition with tunes and Responsive Worship, and edition for the Chapel.

This Hymn and Tune book has taken high rank, and has been adopted by over 400 churches of different denominations. It contains the familiar old hymns and tunes, and a large number of popular new ones. The character and reputation of the editors is a guarantee of its great and abiding excellence.

111 and 113 William Street, New York. 263 and 265 Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

JUST PUBLISHED:
WALT WHITMAN'S NEW BOOK.
November Boughs.

Octavo, cloth, gilt top, uncut edges, $1.25. Full-length portrait, "The 70th Year"—taken from life.

Mr. Whitman was anxious to make this book in all respects his own, and attended (though confined to his room) to all the details of its make-up. Even the publisher was not permitted to see it until completed and the first copies bound.

SOME ADVANCE CRITICISMS.

There is nothing of the sapless "November Boughs" in this robust branching thought.

The comparison between Shakespeare and George Fox seems to us the most brilliant piece of prose Mr. Whitman has ever written.

This volume, which every book-lover will hasten to procure, be it as a souvenir of the man or last link in his ruggedly wrought work, has a mixed memorial interest.

Emerson's Essays.

FIRST SERIES.

SECOND SERIES.

12mo, cloth, gilt top, the set in a box, or sold separately, cloth binding, per volume, $1.00; half calf, per volume, $1.50.

Carefully printed from new plates, on best quality book-paper, well and tastefully bound, this makes altogether a beautiful and desirable set.

The Reader's Shakespeare.

Eight volumes, octavo, gilt top, uncut edges, tastefully bound in dark blue cloth, printed from large, open-faced type, leaded. Illustrated with twenty-three fine steel-engravings and two photogravures, and having explanatory notes and concordance. Cloth, $14.00; half calf, $20.00; three-quarters fine English calf, $25.00.

This edition is without doubt the best and most complete library Shakespeare in the market.

OUR FIRST NOVELIST.

Charles Brockden Brown.

Edition limited to 500 sets, beautifully printed on all-linen paper and bound in genuine half vellum. Gilt top, uncut edges, each set numbered, six volumes, $18.00.

SOME OPINIONS.

"The appearance of these Novels constitutes an epoch in the ornamental literature of America. They are the first decidedly successful attempts in the walk of romantic fiction."—WILLIAM H. PRESCOTT.

"They are the historical beginning of all imaginative prose literature in America, and it is impossible to understand its development without having read them. . . . They are monumental books in our literary history and can never be forgotten."—THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON.

"Brown in his depth of insight into the morbid phenomena of the human mind really anticipated Hawthorne."—EDWIN PERCY WHIPPLE.

"As a novelist he ranks very high; he is the precursor of Hawthorne, and hitherto his only American rival."—ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA, 9th Ed.

DAVID McKAY, Publisher, Philadelphia.

FIFTEEN CALENDARS FOR 1889, at prices ranging from 25 cents to $3.00 each. For full list, send for catalogue.

The most important are:

XII. The Tennyson, Photogravure Calendar.

A companion to "THE SHAKESPEARE, PHOTOGRAVURE CALENDAR."

An original design for each month has been made by W. ST. JOHN HARPER, and each design has been beautifully engraved by the photogravure process.

The designs are printed in various colors, and each illustrates a quotation from Tennyson, appropriate to the month.

Each photogravure is printed on a separate leaf, and the twelve are tied together with white ribbon and have roughened edges.

Each, in a box, $1.50.

XIII. The Humphrey Calendar.

A new water-color drawing has been made for each month by MAUD HUMPHREY. Each represents a little child, in its dress, face, etc., appropriate to the month for which it stands.

Fac-similes of these charming drawings have been made in colors, on heavy water-color paper, and the twelve leaves have roughened edges and are tied with white ribbon. The whole is in a neat box, and makes one of the most beautiful calendars ever offered.

The dates for each month are printed in connection with the design.

Each, in a box, $1.50.

Two rich holiday books, with ac-similes of water-color designs by our best artists.

I. SEA VISTAS IN MANY CLIMES.

Contains the following illustrations:

THE GOLDEN GATE, SAN FRANCISCO; IN THE BAY OF NAPLES; FORT MARION, ST. AUGUSTINE; DUTCH PINCKS, OFF SCHEVENINGEN; VENETIAN FISHING BOATS; TWILIGHT, MARBLEHEAD; ON THE CORNICER ROAD; BASS HARBOR LIGHT, MT. DESERT. By SUSIE BARSTOW SKELDING.

II. BITS OF DISTANT LAND AND SEA.

Contains the following illustrations:

THE SEA OF GALILEE FROM TIBERIAS, by Harry Fenn; MORNING, VENICE, by Susie Barstow Skelding; CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY, BETHLEHEM, by Harry Fenn; ALEXANDRIA, by Susie Barstow Skelding; THE MOUNT OF OLIVES FROM JERUSALEM, by Harry Fenn; THE BAY OF NAPLES AND VESUVIUS, by Susie Barstow Skelding; JERUSALEM FROM MOUNT SCOPUS, by Harry Fenn; ON THE COAST OF HOLLAND, by Susie Barstow Skelding.

These are accompanied by many poems by the best writers, handsomely printed, with very wide margins, on especially fine, laid paper.

Each is a beautiful oblong 4to, richly bound in an entirely new style. Backs and half-sides of white vellum cloth, covered with graceful design of shells, grasses, etc., outlined with gold and filled in with pink and blue. Outer half-sides of cloth, stamped with title and appropriate design in color and gold. Full gilt edges. Each volume in a suitable box.

Price, each, $3.50.

An entirely new departure in every detail.

THE LAND AND SEA SERIES.

Illustrated by HARRY FENN and SUSIE BARSTOW SKELDING.

The illustrations are fac-similes of water-color drawings, and are printed with the utmost care, on "water-color" paper. The subjects comprise interesting bits of land and sea in various parts of the world, and are treated in the best manner.

THE BINDINGS HAVE RECEIVED SPECIAL ATTENTION, AND ARE ENTIRELY NEW IN EFFECT.

I. Glimpses of the Shore.

Fac-similes of water-color drawings by SUSIE BARSTOW SKELDING, of "The Golden Gate, San Francisco;" "Fort Marion, St. Augustine;" "Sunset, Marblehead;" "Bass Harbor Light, Mt. Desert."

With poems of the sea by well-known authors.

III. Under Italian Skies.

With fac-similes of water-color drawings, by SUSIE BARSTOW SKELDING, of "In the Bay of Naples;" "Morning, Venice;" "Naples and Vesuvius;" "Venetian Fishing Boats."

With poems of the sea by well-known authors.

Each one of volumes I., II., and III. is in THE NEW "SEA-SHELL" BINDING.

Originated by Frederick A. Stokes & Brother.

The cover of heavy "water-color" paper is entirely overspread by a delicately tinted design of sea-weed in pale greens and pinks, and outlined in gold. In the centre of this cover is a panel of sea-shell color, made of ivory (especially manufactured in the likeness of the pink sea-shell), and this is attached by silk-floss to the cover of the book. The cover itself is roughened at the edges, and is tied with silk and metal cord.

A remarkably novel and attractive binding.

Each of the three books is in protector and box, covered with silvered paper.

Price of each volume, $1.50.

IV. Bethlehem to Jerusalem.

A new poem by GEORGE KLINGLE, author of "Make Thy Way Mine." Written especially for the publishers. With fac-similes of water-color designs from studies made in the Holy Land by HARRY FENN, of:

The Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem; Sea of Galilee, from Tiberias; Mount of Olives, from Jerusalem; and Jerusalem, from Mount Scopus.

Parchment-paper covers, with lettering and decoration in purple and gold. In a box, $1.50.

LIMITED EDITIONS.

I. FIFTY YEARS OF ENGLISH SONG; or, Selections from the Poets of the Reign of Victoria. Edited and arranged by HENRY F. RANDOLPH. Beautifully printed by the University Press. Large-paper limited edition of 250 copies. 4 vols., small 8vo, boards, $10.00.

Volume I. The Earlier Poets. The Blackwood Coterie and Early Scottish Poets.—Volume II. The Poets of the First Half of the Reign. The Novelist-Poets.—Volume III. The Poets of the Latter Half of the Reign. The Writers of Vers de Société.—Volume IV. The Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood. The Ballad and Song Writers. The Religious Poets.

"We praised last year on its appearance this Anthology of the Victorian Era. We found it to be admirably selected and annotated, and most carefully printed, and published in excellent taste. It has since been, with good reason, thought worthy of promotion into a large-paper edition in the same number of volumes. The result is an exceedingly dainty set of books."—Evening Post.

II. HISTORICAL MEMORIALS OF CANTERBURY. The Landing of Augustine—The Murder of Becket—Edward the Black Prince—Becket's Shrine. By ARTHUR PENRHYN STANLEY, D.D., late Dean of Westminster, formerly Canon of Canterbury. First American from the eleventh London edition. With etched portrait of the author and other illustrations. Large-paper edition, small 8vo, limited to 600 copies and uniform with the limited edition of Westminster Abbey. Half cloth, $3.00.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS.

I. SUNDRY RHYMES FROM THE DAYS OF OUR GRANDMOTHERS. Collected and illustrated by GEORGE WHARTON EDWARDS. With ornamental title, and half-title, 17 full-page illustrations, vignettes and tail-pieces. Folio, in unique binding, cloth and gold, $4.00.

"A quaint, old-fashioned book. Seventeen of the 'Original Poems,' by the Taylor family, a famous book in its day, have been selected by George Wharton Edwards for illustration, and most successfully has he accomplished his task, preserving in illustrations, tail-pieces, title-page, and half-title that great appropriateness which earned him so much praise in his work on Dr. Holmes' 'The Last Leaf,' a year or two ago. The form of the book is long and narrow, and in every respect the old-fashioned look is retained, which cannot fail to attract the readers of the present generation to the rhymes that delighted their grandmothers."—Publishers' Weekly.

II. THE CROSS, ANCIENT AND MODERN. I. In the Orient.—II. In the Occident. By W. W. BLAKE. With 100 illustrations. Small 4to, cloth, $2.00.

The author's design is to show in connection with 100 illustrations that while the Cross has for nineteen centuries been the sacred symbol of the Christian Church, it had been previously known to all people, in all lands. In the illustrations he not only shows the various forms of the Christian era, but also those found among the nations of the East and the early peoples of the Western continent.

III. THE BABY'S JOURNAL. Designed and compiled by S. ALICE BRAY. With numerous illustrations and text printed in gold and colors. New edition, oblong, cloth, with stamped design, $1.50.

A new (the fourth) edition of this popular little book. "It has some ten appropriate illustrations, such as 'Weighing the Baby,' 'Baby Learning to Walk,' 'Baby's Shoes,' etc., together with blank pages for recording the birth, for a list of gifts, etc., together with a choice collection of verses, from various authors, all printed in gold and color. It is the very thing to send to Baby's mother." The work is printed in the best style of Prang & Co.

NEW BOOKS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians.

Edited by JOHN DENISON CHAMPLIN, JR. Critical editor, WILLIAM F. APTHORP. With over 1000 illustrations, including 36 full-page etched portraits. 3 vols., 4to, decorated parchment binding, uniform with the "Cyclopædia of Painters and Paintings." This edition limited to 500 numbered sets for this country and 50 for Europe. $25.00 per volume, net.

This work founds its claim to a high place in the literature of its art upon the character and comprehensiveness of the information which, through its text and illustrations, it for the first time makes accessible; the new simplicity of its arrangement, and the bibliography, of a kind hitherto unattempted, through which it furnishes a key and guide to the whole literature of music. In other words, it is—

A Full Biographical Dictionary of the musicians of all times and all schools.

A Guide to Musical Literature embracing works in all languages.

A Cyclopædia of the Great Musical Works with reproductions in fac-simile of famous scores.

A Superb Collection of Illustrations of all phases of the subject.

The thirty-six portraits etched expressly for this edition will be divided among the three volumes, the first of which will be ready immediately. Those wishing to secure copies should make application at once, as the larger part of the edition is already subscribed for. A full descriptive circular will be sent to any address.

A History of French Painting

FROM ITS EARLIEST TO ITS LATEST PRACTICE, INCLUDING AN ACCOUNT OF THE FRENCH ACADEMY OF PAINTING, ITS SALONS, SCHOOLS OF INSTRUCTION, AND REGULATIONS. By C. H. STRANAHAN. Illustrated. 1 vol., 8vo, $5.00.

The comprehensiveness of Mrs. Stranahan's book is well indicated by the sub-title; and the importance of the volume as a contribution to the history of art is not easily over-estimated. Every phase of the subject is treated with detailed fulness, and the work thus occupies a place that has always been vacant. Its usefulness as a book of reference or for general reading is combined with an attractiveness that makes its publication at this season peculiarly fitting. The well-known artist, Edwin H. Blashfield, has designed a handsome cover for the volume, and this, with the sixteen full-page reproductions of the masterpieces of French Painters of all times, gives the work a rich appearance, and emphasizes its value as an interesting and useful gift-book.

The Diary and Letters of Gouverneur Morris

Member of the Constitutional Convention, Minister to France, etc. With two portraits. Edited by ANNE CARY MORRIS. 2 vols., 8vo, $7.50.

The publication of this work is an event of signal importance. For the diary will take rank with the classics of its kind in revealing a personality of literary interest and historical importance with all the frankness and freedom of self-portrayal so intimate as to be in effect as unconscious as it is unpremeditated. The work, in fact, contributes a new portrait to the gallery of eminent Americans. Morris himself is a figure of extraordinary interest, and the picture he gives of the manners and morality, the customs, habits, foibles, and ideals of the fashionable Paris of the Revolutionary period, is as valuable as it is entertaining.

Men and Measures of Half a Century.

SKETCHES AND COMMENTS. By HUGH McCULLOCH, Secretary of the Treasury in the administrations of Lincoln, Johnson, and Arthur. 1 vol., 8vo, $4.00.

The scope and value of ex-Secretary McCulloch's work may be gathered from the following summary of a few of the leading topics which he discusses and of the men of whom he gives reminiscences:

Massachusetts in 1833—Boston Men, Webster, Quincy, Everett, Longfellow, Holmes—The Boston Clergy, Channing, Gannett, Parker, etc.—Indiana Leaders in 1836—The Harrison Campaign—Beecher at the Height of his Career—Lincoln and the War—Chase, Fessenden, and other leaders—Grant, Hancock, McClellan, and other Generals—Johnson's Administration and Character—English Society—Arthur and Cleveland—The Tariff—Our Shipping Policy—Our National Banking System and Finances.

"The sketches are so sharp in outline, so positive in feature; the comments are so explicit and delivered with so ex cathedra an air of personal observation and infallible accuracy that the volume must become one of the standard works in the history of our time. Five hundred pages of more force or pungency, of greater candor and of more deliberate disturbance of accepted national judgment and of established taste about the incidents, personages, and details of the War of the Rebellion, are not to be found in our literature."—The Chicago Tribune.

"We find what we want in every page—the author's keen recollections of distinguished men and important affairs."—The Philadelphia Press.

"The reminiscences come from one whose judgment was keen, clear, and accurate, and whose opinions are entitled to great weight."—The Boston Herald.

SCRIBNER'S BOOKS FOR THE HOLIDAYS—Continued.

DR. HENRY M. FIELD'S NEW BOOK OF TRAVEL.

Gibraltar.

By the Rev. HENRY M. FIELD, D.D. Illustrated. 1 vol., square 8vo, $2.00.

Often-described places acquire a fresh charm through Dr. Field's entertaining style and his suggestive comments and comparisons. He has written a new book, "Gibraltar," which has all of the charm of his other works. In it he gives an historical survey of the famous fortress and of the town, including an account of the great siege; describes the fortifications and the picturesque aspects of the place, and has much entertaining information to impart touching the military and social life of the people. The volume is presented in a handsomely illustrated form, which will add to its interest for the general reader.

The Five Talents of Woman.

A Book for Girls and Women. By the Author of "How to be Happy though Married," "Manners Makyth Man," etc. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.25.

A book at once entertaining and helpful, relating to the influence, work, and position in the world, of girls and women; bright, amusing, and yet having a serious purpose.

"It is a book crowded with racy insights relating to character, temperament, acquirements, costumes, and fascination. The pages are withal full of significant suggestions that may well be taken into life and character."—The Boston Traveller.

"Entertaining and edifying in every page."—Brooklyn Times.

"From beginning to end it is exceedingly entertaining, full of wise suggestions to readers of both sexes and all ages."—The New York Sun.

Stuff and Nonsense.

By A. B. FROST. New Edition with new Sketches and Designs. 1 vol., 8vo, $1.25.

Mr. Frost's amusing series of sketches and designs was received with such great popular favor a few years ago that a new edition, with a new cover and new drawings, will without doubt meet with even greater approval. The fun to be found in these pages is as clean and wholesome as it is uproarious.

"A most amusing and brilliant literary and artistic salad."—The New York Telegram.

"The funniest and most ingenious book of the year."—The Churchman.

New Edition of Donald G. Mitchell's Works.

"No American writer since the days of Washington Irving uses the English language as does 'Ik Marvel.' His books are as natural as spring flowers, and as refreshing as summer rains."—The Boston Transcript.

Around the World on a Bicycle.

VOL. II., FROM TEHERAN TO YOKOHAMA. By THOMAS STEVENS. Illustrated. 8vo, $4.00.

Covering the most dangerous portions of the daring bicyclist's journey, this second volume is even more interesting than the first. The pages are alive with thrilling adventures.

"This second volume is, on the whole, of stronger interest than its predecessor."—The Christian Union.

"Rich in incident and adventure, sometimes highly amusing, and always crisp and frank in the telling."—The Boston Gazette.

"It is a most entertaining book. We admire the pluck and manliness of the author, his intelligence and resources. His descriptions of people and places are fresh and vivid. The 'wheel' draws to itself a crowd in every village. It introduces its owner to men

The Reveries of a Bachelor.

The Darley Edition. By DONALD G. MITCHELL. With all the illustrations, printed in tint, made by F. O. C. DARLEY for the original illustrated edition. 1 vol., square 8vo, $3.00.

"This is the most popular of all of 'Ik Marvel's' books; and the illustrations made for the original edition by F. O. C. Darley, printed in tint, give it a quaintly interesting and attractive appearance.

Letters of Thackeray.

A New Edition, with Portrait of Thackeray and reproduction in fac-simile of a characteristic letter. 1 vol., 12mo, gilt top, $1.25.

In this dainty edition, these famous letters are again being sought for by thousands to whom the other editions were inaccessible.

First Harvests.

By F. J. STIMSON. 12mo, $1.25.

After its wide success as a serial in Scribner's Magazine, this novel by the author of "Guerndale" will command a still greater audience in book-form. The story is worthy of its author, and will prove one of the most notable fiction successes of the year.

SCRIBNER'S BOOKS FOR THE HOLIDAYS—Continued.

SCRIBNER'S BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG.

A NEW BOOK BY HOWARD PYLE.

Otto of the Silver Hand.

Written and illustrated by HOWARD PYLE. With 25 full-page and many other illustrations. Royal 8vo, half leather, $2.00.

A thread of romantic and touching interest runs through this tale by the author of the ever-popular "Merry Adventures of Robin Hood." The young hero is the motherless son of a valiant robber baron of the old days of medieval Germany, and passes through many exciting adventures. Otto is a lad of sweet and lovable character; and his trustful tenderness of heart is brought into striking prominence by contrast with the savage roughness of most of those around him. The illustrations are in Mr. Pyle's best vein, graceful, spirited, and vigorous.

The Merry Adventures of Robin Hood.

Written and illustrated by HOWARD PYLE. Royal 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

Two Little Confederates.

By THOMAS NELSON PAGE. Illustrated. Square 8vo, $1.50.

The first edition of this captivating story was exhausted at once upon the day of publication, and a second edition has been prepared and is now ready.

"It tells the story of two Virginia lads left at home on a plantation while the men went to fight. The story abounds in stirring incidents, and gives a very picturesque view of home life in Virginia during the Rebellion. It is an admirable juvenile book, teaching an excellent moral of self-reliance."—The Boston Saturday Gazette.

"One of the best books for a boy's Christmas."—Wilmington News.

Heroes of the Olden Time.

By JAMES BALDWIN. 3 vols., 12mo, each beautifully illustrated, singly, $1.50; the set, $4.00.

As a library for the young which will prove entertaining and at the same time instructive, no better series than this by Mr. Baldwin has been placed on the market for years. He takes heroic figures and weaves their great deeds in a narrative so strong and fascinating as to stir in the reader the desire to emulate their noblest traits.

A Story of the Golden Age.

The Story of Siegfried. The Story of Roland.

Stories of the Great Scientists.

By HENRIETTA CHRISTIAN WRIGHT. With numerous full-page portraits. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.25.

Miss Wright's narratives have that graphic picturesqueness which is rarely found in the treatment of such topics for the young. Her subjects include: "Newton and the Finding of the World Secret," "Herschel and the Story of the Stars," "Agassiz and the Story of the Animal Kingdom," "Linnæus and the Story of the Flowers," etc.

Children's Stories in American History, $1.25.

Children's Stories of American Progress, $1.25.

Little People:

AND THEIR HOMES IN MEADOWS, WOODS, AND WATERS. By STELLA LOUISE HOOK. Illustrated by Dan Beard and Harry Beard. Square 8vo, $1.50.

The boy or girl who reads this book will be astonished at the amount of curious and entertaining information which it contains about insects. It is a book that takes the young reader into a veritable fairy-land.

"A delightful excursion for the little ones into the fairy-land of nature; with such pretty illustrations that the little readers will be charmed as much as they will be instructed by the book."—The Evangelist.

Marvels of Animal Life Series.

By CHARLES F. HOLDER. 3 vols., each profusely illustrated, singly, $1.75; the set, $5.00.

The marvellously strange forms of animal life that exist or have existed on the earth, air, or sea, supply Mr. Holder with a theme of entrancing interest. The style is popular, while the mass of information given is both fascinating and instructive.

Living Lights. $1.75. The Ivory King. $1.75.

Marvels of Animal Life. $1.75.

A Tale of the Indian Mutiny;

Or, THE SERPENT-CHARMER. By LOUIS ROUSSELET. Translated from the French. With 68 engravings. New edition. $1.50.

Wild Men and Wild Beasts;

Or, SCENES IN CAMP AND JUNGLE. By Lieut.-Col. GORDON CUMMING. With 18 spirited illustrations. New edition. $1.50.

MRS. BURNETT'S TWO FAMOUS JUVENILES.

Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Illustrated by R. B. Birch. $2.00. 57th thousand.

"In 'Little Lord Fauntleroy' we gain another charming child to our gallery of juvenile heroes and heroines."—Louisa M. Alcott.

Sara Crewe.

Illustrated by R. B. Birch. $1.00. 26th thousand.

"Everybody was in love with 'Little Lord Fauntleroy,' and I think all the world and the rest of mankind will be in love with 'Sarah Crewe.'"—Louise Chandler Moulton.

CAPT. GRONOW'S REMINISCENCES.

Illustrated throughout, in 2 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, gilt top, with 25 illustrations in duplicate, one on Plate Paper, Remarque Proofs, and the other on Whatman Paper, with Titles, and Colored by Hand. $20.00, each copy numbered.

THE REMINISCENCES and RECOLLECTIONS of CAPT. GRONOW;

Being Anecdotes of the Camp, Court, Clubs, and Society, 1810-1860. With portrait, four woodcuts, and twenty etched and aquatint illustrations from contemporary sources by Joseph Grego.

NOTE.—It has been the lot of Capt. Gronow, as he informed his readers, "to have lived through the greater part of one of the most eventful centuries of England's history; to be thrown amongst most of the remarkable men of his day, whether soldiers, statesmen, men of letters, theatrical people, or those whose birth and fortune—rather, perhaps, than their virtues and talents—have caused them to be conspicuous at home and abroad." A pronounced taste for fashionable society, an early introduction to the best circles, the advantage of possessing an extensive acquaintanceship with the most conspicuous celebrities of his day, an omnivorous appetite for racy anecdotes, a retentive memory, which, without effort, gathered and stored up the literary waifs and strays—the conversational "small change" which passed current in his generation—were in themselves elements sufficient to qualify the gallant captain as an exceptionally entertaining raconteur.

The twenty plates, etched by Joseph Grego throughout, are finished in aquatint, an art which flourished at the period in question, and was much in favor for book illustrations. The art of aquatinting, described by the French as "the washed manner," once esteemed a felicitous method of imitating shaded drawings, has now become almost extinct as originally practised; Mr. Grego has been fortunate in securing the assistance of an artist who for more than half a century has devoted himself to the development of this branch of art.

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF GIROLAMO SAVONAROLA.

By Prof. PASQUALE VILLARI. Translated by Linda Villari. Portraits and illustrations in photogravure. New edition, revised and enlarged. 2 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, $7.50.

THE LIFE OF BENVENUTO CELLINI.

Newly translated into English by JOHN ADDINGTON SYMONDS. With portraits. Revised and cheaper edition. 2 vols., crown 8vo, handsomely bound in cloth, $3.00.

"As a piece of workmanship, Mr. Symonds' translation deserves to rank among the best translations in the English language."—London Athenæum.

RELIGION AND POLITICS IN EGYPT.

Leaves from an Egyptian Note-Book.

By ISAAC TAYLOR, LL.D., Canon of York. Crown 8vo, cloth, $1.25.

"There is much new in this account of Modern Theology, the Harem, etc. In style and temper the book is simple and candid, and reads itself."

Lyrics from the Song-Books of the Elizabethan Age.

Edited by A. H. BULLEN. New and revised edition in one volume. 16mo, gilt top, uncut edges, cloth, $1.50.

Mark Rutherford.

The Autobiography of Mark Rutherford; and Mark Rutherford's Deliverance. With a new preface, and the addition of another paper. Second and cheaper edition, in one volume. Crown 8vo, cloth, $2.25.

Irish Pictures.

Drawn with Pen and Pencil. With numerous illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

The volume of the Pen and Pencil Series for 1888. In the engravings, which will be more numerous than in most volumes of the series, all the characteristic features of Irish architecture, art, scenery, and life will be depicted. In the letter-press special attention will be paid to the natural features, social customs, etc., exhibited in this remarkable country.

* * * All previous volumes of the Pen and Pencil Series on hand.

The Apocrypha.

With a Commentary Explanatory and Critical. By the following writers: Introduction, Prof. SALMON, D.D.; Esdras, J. H. LUPTON; Tobit, J. M. FULLER; Judith, C. J. BALL; Esther, Prof. FULLER; Wisdom, Archdeacon FARRAR, D.D.; Ecclesiasticus, Dr. EDERSHEIM; Baruch, Archdeacon GIFFORD, D.D.; Song of Three Children, Susanna, Bel and Dragon, and Manasses, C. J. BALL; Maccabees, Canon RAWLINSON. Edited by Henry Wace, D.D. 2 vols., medium 8vo, cloth, $16.00.

"The books called 'Apocrypha' formed an integral part of the Authorized Version of the Holy Bible in 1611, and it was thought, therefore, that the design of a Commentary on that Version would not be completely carried out unless these books received a similar treatment with those which are recognized as Canonical, while their inherent interest and importance rendered it desirable that the English reader should be furnished with a much more complete edition and explanation of them than any he has hitherto possessed."—Dr. Wace's Preface.

NEW WORK BY PROF. HENRY DRUMMOND,

A Fascinating Book for Young People.

Household History of the United States and its People.

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

ILLUSTRATED WITH 75 HISTORICAL MAPS AND DIAGRAMS AND MORE THAN 350 DRAWINGS BY THE BEST ARTISTS, EXHIBITING HISTORICAL EVENTS, COSTUMES, MANNERS AND CUSTOMS, ARMS, IMPLEMENTS, INVENTIONS, MODES OF TRAVEL, ETC.

A school edition of this work was published in September, and received with instantaneous and remarkable favor. In the present edition "questions" and other features designed specially for the school-room are omitted, the text is rearranged and enlarged, new illustrations are added, the work is printed on larger paper, and is bound in a more attractive style.

This work is illustrated in a novel and strikingly effective manner. Engravings adorn every page, and appear in the text and in the margins. There are full-page illustrations in colors, maps in colors line the covers, and many small maps are inserted in the text.

The Household History of the United States will delight young readers and readers of every age, not only on account of its beauty, but because of the charming and animated style of the author.

Square 8vo, cloth, $2.50.

Stirring Books for Young Americans.

The Advance-Guard of Western Civilization.

BY JAMES R. GILMORE

("EDMUND KIRKE").

WITH MAP, AND PORTRAIT OF JAMES ROBERTSON.

12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This work is a narrative of an episode which is perhaps the most unique and remarkable in American History—that of the settlement of Middle Tennessee. It is in a measure a continuation of the thrilling story told by the author in his two preceding volumes, "The Rear-Guard of the Revolution" and "John Sevier as a Commonwealth-Builder."

Nothing more vivid, stirring, and picturesque has appeared in recent literature than these absorbing volumes, which unfold little known but most romantic episodes in our national history.

Rev. ANDREW THOMSON, D.D., of Edinburgh: "The essence of fifty expensive volumes, by men of sacred learning, is condensed into the pages of the 'Oxford' Bible for Teachers."

"We have no reason to change our expressed opinion that the 'Oxford' Teachers' Bible is the most serviceable for the use of the ordinary Sunday-school teacher."—S. S. Times.

"The 'Oxford' Teachers' Bible, invaluable companion for the working teacher."—S. S. Times, Feb. 7, 1885.

Rev. JOHN S. MACINTOSH, D.D., of Philadelphia, says: "A splendid and perfect book. A Biblical library extensive yet condensed. It deserves a wide circulation."

"Makes the very best Bible for handy use either at home or in the class-room."—National Baptist.

Bishop JOHN H. VINCENT, of the M. E. Church, says: "All things taken into consideration, it is one of the most perfect editions of the Sacred Scriptures I have ever seen. I wish we could place a copy in the hands of every Sunday-school superintendent and teacher in America."

The Methodist Recorder: "This invaluable and incomparable book is the most wonderful digest, both in compactness and completeness, of Biblical information, compiled by the best scholarship of the age, that has been offered to the general reader."

The Christian World: "The most complete Bible yet published."

Rev. HORATIUS BONAR, D.D.: "A noble edition, remarkably full and accurate, giving a wonderful amount of information under the various heads."

New Library Edition of the Works of Walter Besant and James Rice.

Complete in 12 octavo volumes, beautifully printed and bound in cloth, gilt top, at the uniform price of $1.50. The titles are:

The Golden Butterfly.
By Celia's Arbour.
With Harp and Crown.
The Chaplain of the Fleet.
The Monks of Thelema.
The Case of Mr. Lucraft.

My Little Girl.
The Ten Years' Tenant.
Ready Money Mortiboy.
The Seamy Side.
This Son of Vulcan.
'Twas in Trafalgar's Bay.

"As stories every one of these has its individual charm. Their men are manly and their women are womanly. Honor and gentlehood form the theme of all the novels. It is this which gives them their potent charm. To the fancy of these writers every good girl is a princess, and every young man is a knight, sworn to pay her reverence and to defend her against all breath of evil. And as long as such suggestions appeal to the truest and highest of feelings, Besant and Rice will have a deserved popularity."—The Epoch.

A Frozen Dragon, and Other Tales.

A Story-Book of Natural History for Boys and Girls. By Chas. Frederick Holder, author of "The Ivory King," "Marvels of Animal Life," "Elements of Zoölogy," "A Strange Company," "Living Lights," etc. Illustrated by J. C. Beard, D. C. Beard, J. M. Nugent, and others, from sketches by the author. 4to, cloth, $2.00.

A Daughter of Elfe.
The Bow of Orange Ribbon.

The Squire of Sandal Side.
Master of His Fate.

"The world does not yet fully appreciate Mrs. Barr. In our opinion there is no living American woman novelist superior to her in healthiness of perception and helpfulness of purpose. There is not a trace of morbidness in her books. Let the reader who is disposed to question the title of Mrs. Barr to the place we have assigned ask himself which of the American women novelists of the day could have written 'Jan Vedder.'"—The Advertiser, Boston.

Through Woods and Fields with Tennyson.

Under the Greenwood Tree with Shakespeare.

Printed in five colors from designs by Wedworth Wadsworth, silk sewed, 12mo, each, $1.25.

History of Painting.

A New Edition. By Woltman and Woerman. With many illustrations. Vol. I. Ancient, Early Christian, and Mediæval. Vol. II. The Period of the Renaissance. 2 vols., half roan, $7.50.

A New Edition. By Lucy M. Mitchell. With 295 wood-engravings. 2 vols., half roan, $7.50.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY

753 and 755 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

"The large type, the broad page, the substantial and tasteful binding of these volumes give them an appearance of finality. No one certainly could desire to possess the works which have appeared in this edition in any more elegant or substantial form."—Christian Union.

Uniform Editions.

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS. By VICTOR HUGO. With 140 illustrations from designs by D. Vierge and G. Rochegrosse. 2 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, $6.00.

NINETY-THREE. By VICTOR HUGO. With numerous illustrations from designs by Victor Hugo, Bayard, Brion, Vierge, and other eminent French artists. 2 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, $6.00.

NOTRE-DAME. By VICTOR HUGO. With numerous illustrations from designs by Victor Hugo, Bayard, Brion, Johannot, and other eminent French artists. 2 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, $6.00.

THE TOILERS OF THE SEA. By VICTOR HUGO. With 150 illustrations from designs by Chiffart, Vierge, and Victor Hugo. 2 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, $6.00.

With "The Man Who Laughs" and "Ninety-Three" is completed the publication of this edition of Hugo's great romances, begun two years ago with "Les Misérables" (now sold only through Mc Donnell Bros., of Chicago). In all that goes to the making of really fine editions—heavy and rich paper, profuseness and splendor of illustration, the highest skill in engraving, the utmost care in presswork, and appropriate and tasteful binding—the publishers are confident that no edition can be found in the market that can in any respect be compared with this.

"Hugo, with his erudition and his passion, his knowledge of all the chords of the human heart, a knowledge which depends as much upon sympathy as upon intellect, is one of the great masters whose places along the centuries will always be few and far between."—New York Journal of Commerce.

Uniform with the Hugo Edition.

THE WANDERING JEW. By EUGENE SUE. With 182 illustrations from designs by A. Ferdinandus. 3 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, $10.00.

"It is printed in the same sumptuous style as the works of Hugo and Dumas, which this house has published, and is in every way a fitting complement to these masterpieces of French literature which have been issued by this house in the present and previous years. The illustrations are all by the same artist, Ferdinandus, and, therefore, preserve throughout a unity of conception and design which cannot be achieved when various hands have been engaged on one and the same work."—THE PUBLISHING WORLD.

SYLVIE: Recollections of Valois. By GERARD DE NERVAL. Preface by Ludovic Halévy. With 42 etchings by Ed. Rudaux. 12mo, half levant, gilt top, $4.00.

"Noticeable for grace and sweetness, in this translation as well as in the original, this charming story is rendered still more charming by the etchings with which M. Edouard Rudaux has enriched it, and which are the perfection of loveliness and elegance."

—NEW YORK MAIL AND EXPRESS.

CARMEN. By PROSPER MERIMEE. With illustrations from designs by S. Arcos. Engraved by A. Nargeot. 12mo, half levant, gilt top, $5.00.

"The pathetic love-story of the impulsive and passionate heroine receives additional power and pathos from the wonderful illustrations by Arcos. The book is a gift-book of rare beauty and exquisite taste."—BUFFALO TIMES.

A SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY THROUGH FRANCE AND ITALY. By LAURENCE STERNE. Illustrated with 75 engravings on wood, by Bastin and G. P. Nicholls, from original designs by Jacque and Fussell. 12mo, half levant, gilt top, in a box, $4.00.

Uniform with Merimee's "Carmen" and De Nerval's "Sylvie." In fineness of paper, exquisiteness of illustration, and beauty of typography, it is unquestionably among the choicest editions ever published of Sterne's great work.

THE ROMANCE OF A POOR YOUNG MAN. By OCTAVE FEUILLET. With 100 illustrations and portrait of the author from design by Mouchot, engraved by Méaulle. Large 4to, tapestry covers, in a box, $7.50.

The first really fine edition in which this immortal classic has appeared. The paper, typography, presswork, illustration, and engraving leave nothing to be desired in furnishing a suitable dress to this ever delightful love story.

PAUL AND VIRGINIA. By BERNARDIN DE ST. PIERRE. With 120 wood-cuts and 12 full-page engravings from designs by Maurice Leloir. Large 8vo, cloth, $13.50; in a cloth portfolio, $12.00.

The illustrations so sympathetically interpret the text that new beauties are discovered through them in this forever charming pastoral of child-love.

A THOUSAND MILES UP THE NILE. By Miss AMELIA B. EDWARDS. With many illustrations by the author. New and revised edition, 12mo, cloth, $2.50.

This beautiful book by Amelia B. Edwards was published at a high price in 1876, by Messrs. Longmans & Co., and has for some years been out of print and scarce. It is now reproduced with the original plates at the suggestion of many friends of the charming author.

"The book is a model of the printer's art, and is eminently fitted for the writings of an author of Daudet's delicate and beautiful style."—The Critic.

ROBERT HELMONT: The Diary of a Recluse, 1870-1871. By ALPHONSE DAUDET. Translated by Laura Ensor. With 123 illustrations from designs by Picard and Montegut. 8vo, paper, $5.00; half leather, $6.00. Limited (numbered) edition.

"The sureness, lightness, and deftness of Daudet's art, his constant and exquisite sympathy with nature, the sure evidence in every phrase, in every little picture or episode, of the artistic delight of the artist in his work, make his writings the source of a pleasure that must express itself, if at all, in enthusiastic hyperbole. In reviewing 'Robert Helmont' we find it hard to keep ourselves within bounds, and we sympathize with Mr. James in his desire to say that Daudet is adorable and thus to have done with it."—Boston Advertiser.

Uniform with "Robert Helmont."

MADAME CHRYSANTHEME. By PIERRE LOTI. Translated by Laura Ensor. With 199 illustrations from designs by Rossi and Myrbach. 8vo, paper, $5.00; half leather, $6.00. Limited (numbered) edition.

"Kindly welcome my book with the same indulgent smile, without seeking therein a meaning either good or bad; in the same spirit that you would receive some quaint bit of pottery, some grotesquely carved ivory idol, or some preposterous trifle brought back for you from this singular Fatherland of all preposterousness."—From Loti's Dedication in "Madame Chrysanthème."

Uniform with "Robert Helmont" and "Madame Chrysanthème."

FRANCIS, THE WAIF. By GEORGE SAND. Translated by Gustave Masson. With 100 illustrations from designs by Eugene Burnand. 8vo, paper, $5.00; half leather, $6.00. Limited (numbered) edition.

"The domestic morality, the quiet nature, the home feeling of ['Francis, the Waif'], may be described as something wonderful for George Sand. . . . And then follows close upon the blazing track of revolution, a picture of household virtues so sweet and tranquil, so full of tenderness and love, that it is difficult to believe it to be the production of the same hand."—Bentley's Miscellany.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, 9 Lafayette Place, N. Y.

For the Delight of Children.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN. By ROBERT BROWNING. With 35 original illustrations by Kate Greenaway. Engraved and printed in colors by Edmund Evans. Medium 4to, boards, $2.00.

The designs which Miss Greenaway's fancy has pictured for this most pathetic classic of childhood, by one of the GREATEST OF OUR LIVING POETS, are as winning and as full of airy gracefulness as those in the many other works illustrated by her hand.

FRIENDS AND PLAYMATES. With colored illustrations designed by MARS. Oblong 4to, cloth, $3.00; boards, $2.50.

As in its companion volume, "Our Darlings," the charming and varied illustrations leave the text but scant room to say what it has to say. But this the reader, whether young or old, will readily forgive when he has once opened the covers and beheld the delights thus revealed.

OUR DARLINGS: at Home, in Town, at the Seaside, in the Country, and at Play. By MARS. Printed in colors and gold by Plon. Oblong 4to, cloth, $3.00; boards, $2.50.

First published in France, where it met with great success among both old and young. The children, laughing, dancing, romping, doing everything that children (and only children) can do—gracefully drawn and most charmingly colored—crowd every page with their happy faces, so that the text is obliged to wedge itself in as best it can.

THE FAIRY TALES of the COUNTESS D'AULNOY. Translated by J. R. Planché. New edition. With numerous illustrations by Gordon Browne and Lydia F. Emmet. 4to, cloth, $2.00; boards, with lithographed double covers, $1.50.

"It is delightful to turn from the earlier mutilated paraphrases of these incomparable stories to the fresh, simple, and accurate versions of this practised man of letters, who was not vain enough to think he could better his author."—R. H. SPODDARD, in N. Y. MAIL AND EXPRESS.

FAIRY TALES. By EDOUARD LABOULAYE. With 251 illustrations. 4to, cloth, $1.00; boards, with lithographed double covers, $1.50.

"The choice is excellent. The narrative has the literary quality which made the reputation of the genial compiler."—NATION.

PYTHIA'S PUPILS. From the German of Eva Hartner. By Mrs. J. W. DAVIS. With original illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"An ideal story for young girls."—ALBANY JOURNAL.

"One of the most delightful girl stories of the year."—BALTIMORE AMERICAN.

"It will always be a favorite in the domestic circle."—BOSTON SATURDAY EVENING GAZETTE.

GLEANINGS FROM THE GRAPHIC. Comprising all of Randolph Caldecott's contributions to the London Graphic not included in the "Graphic Pictures" series already published. Printed in colors, and in black and white, by Edmund Evans. Oblong 4to, boards, $3.00.

Overflowing with the good-natured laughs at human follies and weaknesses which was so strong an element of Caldecott's popularity and artistic power.

THE KIRMESS ALMANAC FOR 1889. An American Almanac. Novel in design and unique in arrangement. Printed in colors and gold. Torchon binding, 50 cents.

Intended to illustrate the national dances of all countries. Forms a pretty souvenir or an appropriate favor for "the German."

THE DIVERTING HISTORY OF JOHN GILPIN. Showing how he went further than he intended, and came safe home again. By WILLIAM COWPER. With illustrations by H. Rosa. Printed in tints. Oblong 4to, flexible boards, $1.50.

John Gilpin's immortal ride is most happily illustrated by this young American artist, who seems in some way to have caught the very spirit in which Gilpin's neighbors themselves would have pictured him had their fingers known the use of the pencil.

STORIES OF PERSONS AND PLACES IN AMERICA. By HELEN A. SMITH. Copiously illustrated. 4to, boards, with lithographed double covers, $1.50.

Like the volume on Europe, this book aims to attract the interest of the young by entertaining descriptions of the natural features of the country and of striking events in its history and in the lives of its prominent men.

STORIES OF PERSONS AND PLACES IN EUROPE. By E. L. BENEDICT. Copiously illustrated. 4to, boards, with lithographed double covers, $1.50.

"A capital book to teach and interest American children in the geography, antiquities, legends, historical events and personages, industries and works of art in foreign countries."—BOSTON GLOBE.

MATTIE'S SECRET. By EMILE DESBEAUX. With 100 illustrations. 4to, boards, with lithographed double covers, $1.25.

"A charming little child-story, combining, in the most delightful manner, instruction with amusement. . . . We cordially commend it to the notice of our readers in search of pleasant and profitable reading for their children."—BOSTON SATURDAY EVENING GAZETTE.

ONE HUNDRED FAMOUS AMERICANS. By HELEN A. SMITH. With portraits and numerous other illustrations. 4to, boards, with lithographed double covers, $1.50.

"Is in itself a library of biography for young people."—INDEPENDENT.

"The book is exceedingly useful."—NEW YORK EVENING POST.

"The book is a treasure indeed."—PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER.

EVERY BOY'S ANNUAL FOR 1889. Edited by EDMUND ROUTLEDGE. Twenty-seventh year of publication. With numerous illustrations. 8vo, cloth, $2.50.

"The stories of travel and adventure, biographies, notes on natural history, expositions of parlor magic, . . . combine to make the volume extremely interesting."—CINCINNATI COMMERCIAL GAZETTE.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES OF AMERICAN BOYS. By HENRY CHADWICK. With numerous colored and plain illustrations. 4to, cloth, $2.00; boards, with lithographed cover, $1.50.

"A book that will captivate boys at once."—CINCINNATI COMMERCIAL GAZETTE.

"A most acceptable present to any American boy of spirit."—CHRISTIAN UNION.

"A welcome volume to the youth of this country."—MIRROR OF AMERICAN SPORTS.

KATE GREENAWAY'S ALMANACK FOR 1889. With original designs by Miss Greenaway. Printed in colors by Edmund Evans. Calf, $1.00; embossed designs, torchon style, 50 cents; boards, 25 cents.

Kate Greenaway's almanacs have retained their popularity for so many years that a new issue scarcely needs an introduction. This latest one has the same charm of drawing and color that has distinguished each of its predecessors.

"Next to that of the Bible Society, we suppose the most famous Bible House in the world is the Publishing House of Samuel Bagster & Sons. For many years this firm has maintained preëminent reputation for the excellence and cheapness of its editions of the Holy Scriptures. The Polyglot Bible is a household word wherever the English language is spoken. Travellers tell us they have seen it in Greek and Assyrian monasteries. . . . At a time when Bible study has reached a high point of exactness, Messrs. Bagster have responded to a pressing demand by publishing in handy portable editions, as well as in more sumptuous form, their Comprehensive Teachers' Bible."

THE D'ARTAGNAN ROMANCES.

BY ALEXANDRE DUMAS.

These fascinating works, of as great interest as the Waverley Novels, appear for the first time in a style worthy of their merits, translated into English, unabridged, and beautifully printed in handsome, clear type.

I. THE THREE MUSKETEERS.

With a portrait of the Author. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $3.00.

II. TWENTY YEARS AFTER.

2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $3.00.

III. THE VICOMTE DE BRAGELONNE; OR, TEN YEARS LATER.

A Sequel to "The Three Musketeers" and "Twenty Years After." 6 vols., 12mo, cloth, $9.00.

The complete set, 10 vols., 12mo, cloth extra, gilt top, $15.00.

Of Dumas' famous creation, D'Artagnan, Robert Louis Stevenson, the popular writer, says: "I do not say there is no character as well drawn in Shakespeare; I do say there is none that I love so wholly." His "favorite book" is "The Vicomte de Bragelonne."

"Books which to see is to covet. Surely Porthos, Athos, and Aramis, and their comrade D'Artagnan, here have suitings wholly worthy of them."—Boston Daily Advertiser.

"Those wonderful romances, which have delighted readers of the last forty years, have now for the first time been put into elegant library form, and will take their place on the library shelf side by side with the works of Hugo, which they rival in interest, ingenuity of construction, and pure literary merit. D'Artagnan, who is the hero of them all, stands out like a real character. In all romantic literature there is no one like him."—Boston Transcript.

JUVENILES.

The Sailor Boys of '61.

By Prof. J. RUSSELL SOLEY, author of "The Boys of 1812," etc. This volume contains an accurate and vivid account of the naval engagements of the great Civil War, and the deeds of its heroes. Elaborately and beautifully illustrated from original drawings.

1 vol., crown 8vo, cloth..... $2.50

Zigzag Journeys in the Antipodes.

This volume in the perennially popular series takes the reader to Siam, and, with delightful illustration and anecdote, tells him of the interesting animal worship of the country.

1 vol., small quarto, illuminated board covers and linings..... $1 75

1 vol., small quarto, cloth, bevelled and gilt ..... 2 25

The Boys of 1812.

By Prof. J. RUSSELL SOLEY, author of "Blockaders and Cruisers," "The Sailor Boys of '61," etc., etc. This "most successful war book for the young, issued last year," is now made in boards with an illustrated cover designed by GEORGE FOSTER BARNES.

1 vol., 8vo, chromo-lithographed board covers..... $1 75

This large and handsome volume is a companion volume to Charles Carleton Coffin's "Boys of '61," and rivals it in point of interest. Its author, Professor J. Russell Soley, collected his materials from the archives of the Navy Department at Washington. He traces the development of the American Navy from Revolutionary times down to and through the war of 1812. As all boys know, or should know, the great battles of that war were fought upon the water.

Little Ones Annual. Vol. 7.

Illustrated Stories and Poems for the Little Ones. Edited by WILLIAM T. ADAMS (Oliver Optic) This beautiful volume consists of original stories and poems by the very best writers of juvenile literature, carefully selected and edited. Andrew.

1 vol., quarto, illuminated board covers..... $1 75

1 vol., quarto, cloth and gilt ..... 2 25

Great-Grandmother's Girls in New France.

By ELIZABETH W. CHAMPNEY, author of "Three Vassar Girls," series. This volume had such a cordial reception last season that it is now put forth in an attractive illuminated cover.

1 vol., 8vo, chromo-lithographed board covers..... $1 75

"Mrs. Champney has used a very thrilling episode in New England history as a foundation for a delightful story for girls. The capture, by Indians, of the two little girls, Eunice and Submit, their residence with Indians and with the Jesuits, who converted them to the Roman Catholic religion, their pretty love stories, and strange adventures, are all told in Mrs. Champney's best style, veiled in old-fashioned language, as related by Submit Dare. There is a great deal of sound history in the story, and it may lead many girls to discover that the history of their own land is not all Congressional debates and distressing wars. There are many fine illustrations, original ones, by 'Champ,' and good selections."—Press.

Three Vassar Girls in France.

A story of the Siege of Paris. By ELIZABETH W. CHAMPNEY. A thrilling account of adventures in the troublous times when Germany and France were engaged in their terrible struggle. Illustrated by "CHAMP," D  taille, and De Neuville.

ILLUSTRATED GIFT-BOOKS.

Artists of New England and Their Work. In this work the publisher aims to make a truly elegant and sumptuous book, and one worthy of the artists represented. The first volume, which will be complete in itself, will contain an account of the career of the twenty-six artists, and others will be given in future volumes. The compilation and editing of this work has been entrusted to Mr. Frank T. Robinson, the well-known art amateur. Many of our artists have had very interesting careers, and their works are widely known, some of them on both continents, and Mr. Robinson, who has been intimate with them, for many years, has been indefatigable in the genial task of collecting the data for the biographies.

Each artist has contributed a full-page illustration, which is presumed to be characteristic of his work, and, in many cases, will be representative of his magnum opus. These have been reproduced by that process which seemed best adapted to the subject, while many are the work of the artist's own etching-needle. In addition to this, each biography will have a head and tail-piece executed by the artist himself, and a portrait in pen and ink. The fact that most of these portraits are from drawings made by the artist represented gives them an added interest.

In paper, typography, press-work, and general make-up, the work will be an example of luxuriant book-making.

The following is a partial list of the artists who will be embraced in the work: L. D. ELDER, W. F. HALSALL, D. J. STRAIN, W. L. TAYLOR, F. P. VINTON, FRANK T. MERRILL, SCOTT LEIGHTON, F. CHILDE HASSAM, W. B. CLOSSON, J. APPLETON BROWN, I. M. GAUGENGIGL, L. K. HARLOW, W. F. LANSIL, ROSS TURNER, HY. SANDHAM, J. FOXCROFT COLE. Price, $15.00.

BEACON-LIGHT TEXT-BOOKS.

The Wings of the Morning. The new volume in this series is pronounced by all the best work yet issued. It is the work of LOUIS K. HARLOW and Miss LIZZIE K. HARLOW. Each of the thirty-one texts has a beautiful full-page illustration lithographed in monotints, and the cover is a work of art itself. Price in bronze and colored covers, $1.50; with ivory covers, $2.00.

AN EXQUISITE SERIES.

This series of new booklets is entirely new in design and general appearance. They are the production of a well-known and favorite artist, Mrs. J. PAULINE SUNTER. Each booklet has from ten to twelve very attractive designs, very delicately executed by lithography, in sepia tints, and a cover in exquisitely delicate colors. Nothing on the market approaches these booklets for originality and beauty. They are published in paper covers, at 50 cents; in satin, at $1.25; in ivory, at $1.25.

A Little Bird's Song on My Birthday.

Summer Roses.

Wandering Winds.

Whittier Gems. This beautiful souvenir of WHITTIER contains twelve designs illustrating his most popular poems, with extracts from the same. The book is designed by the very popular artist Mr. L. K. HARLOW, and exhibits his best work. In addition to the twelve illustrations by Mr. Harlow, a very fine etched portrait of the poet is given. The cover is entirely unique and is decorated by hand and lettered in metaline. Price, $3.00.

A Souvenir of Miss Alcott. A short account of the life of Miss LOUISA MAY ALCOTT by Miss L. HARLOW illustrated by many sketches in the text by Miss E. K. HARLOW and three etchings, including an etched portrait. This attractive souvenir of the author of "Little Women" cannot fail of a popular reception. Price, $2.00.

Summer and Winter. Two popular etchings put up in a very attractive cover in a unique style. Printed on Japanese paper and matted. Size 9½ x 12. $1.25.

Morning and Evening. Two etchings of very attractive subjects bound uniform with "Summer and Winter." Size 9½ x 12. $1.25.

Coast Sketches. A series of sketches of characteristic views of the coast of New England, etched by LOUIS K. HARLOW. This is one of the most attractive productions of this very popular artist. There are nine etchings in the series. A special limited edition is printed on satin, carefully mounted and matted and put up in a cover with a beautifully hand-painted landscape, by the artist. In this edition all the proofs are signed. Price, $7.50. A special limited edition on Imperial Japanese paper mounted and matted and signed, at $5.00; the same on etching paper, $2.50; bound in vellum cloth, $2.50.

Thames Sketches with Pen and Needle. By LOUIS K. HARLOW. A series of eight etchings. Size 9½ x 12, with text. Tied cover, with a satin proof of a beautiful etching in metaline panel, $2.00. A limited edition of the above on satin, signed by the artist, and mounted in mats, with wide margins, $3.60 net. $6.00.

Etchings from Nature. A series of six brochures each containing two picturesque views etched by L. K. HARLOW. Put up in an entirely unique and attractive manner. Size 9½ x 12. Price, each $1.00.

The Tin Army of the Potomac. A Kindergarten of War. By W. H. DOWNS. Illustrated by J. F. GOODRIDGE. A book for children, and one that every boy from six to ten years will be delighted to own. Size 7 x 10, boards, $1.00.

Old Plymouth. A series of ten very picturesque sketches about this quaint and interesting place by Wm. GOODRICH BEAL, author of "Picturesque Cambridge." Price, $1.00.

Salem Sketches. A series of etched views in Salem, by H. R. BLANEY. $1.00.

A Christmas Carol

By DINAH MARIA MULOCK, author of "John Halifax." Illustrated by J. PAULINE SUNTER.

Printed on heavy board in sepia tint and gold, gilt edges, ribboned and boxed

Price, $1.00.

From the quaint figure with its youthful face and winter costume of the olden time, who stands at the opening of the poem with his salutation "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen," through the beautifully decorated pages with the celestial winged cherubs, pastoral scenes, bits of sea-beach and spray, ocean views and floral designs, to the benediction "Peace Be with You," exquisite taste and poetic genius have wrought hand in hand to produce a marvel of grace and beauty.

A FRIEND STANDS AT THE DOOR

By DINAH MARIA MULOCK, author of "John Halifax." Illustrated by J. PAULINE SUNTER.

Printed on heavy board in sepia tint and gold, gilt edges, ribboned and boxed

Price, $1.00.

The artist catches the inspiration of the poet, and is exceedingly happy in her embellishments of the subject. Of the universal love for children she has taken advantage, and her illustrations introduce charming types of children, whose pretty faces will win all hearts. The maturer beauties have not been passed by, but have their realization in such pictures as that of the "Sower," and kindred subjects. From the opening line, "A Friend Stands at the Door," to the benediction, there flows a constant stream of graceful and appropriate decoration of the timely verses of the gifted author, in life-like flowers, in joy bells ringing "the old year out and the new year in," in sprays of foliage and the spray of wave-dashed shore, with many a quaint and curious turn of the artist's pencil.

THE SEPIATINT CALENDAR

ALL AROUND THE YEAR

A Charming Illustrated Calendar for 1889.

By J. PAULINE SUNTER.

Consists of beautiful original designs, on heavy board, in sepia tint and gold, gilt edges, ornamented with rings and chains in silver, with silk tassels, and boxed.

Price, 60 cents.

The successive dates of the months appear in plain figures, or tablets twelve in number, and with other illustrations form a beautiful souvenir. The entrance to "all the year round" introduces two rustic "tots" by the wayside, looking out

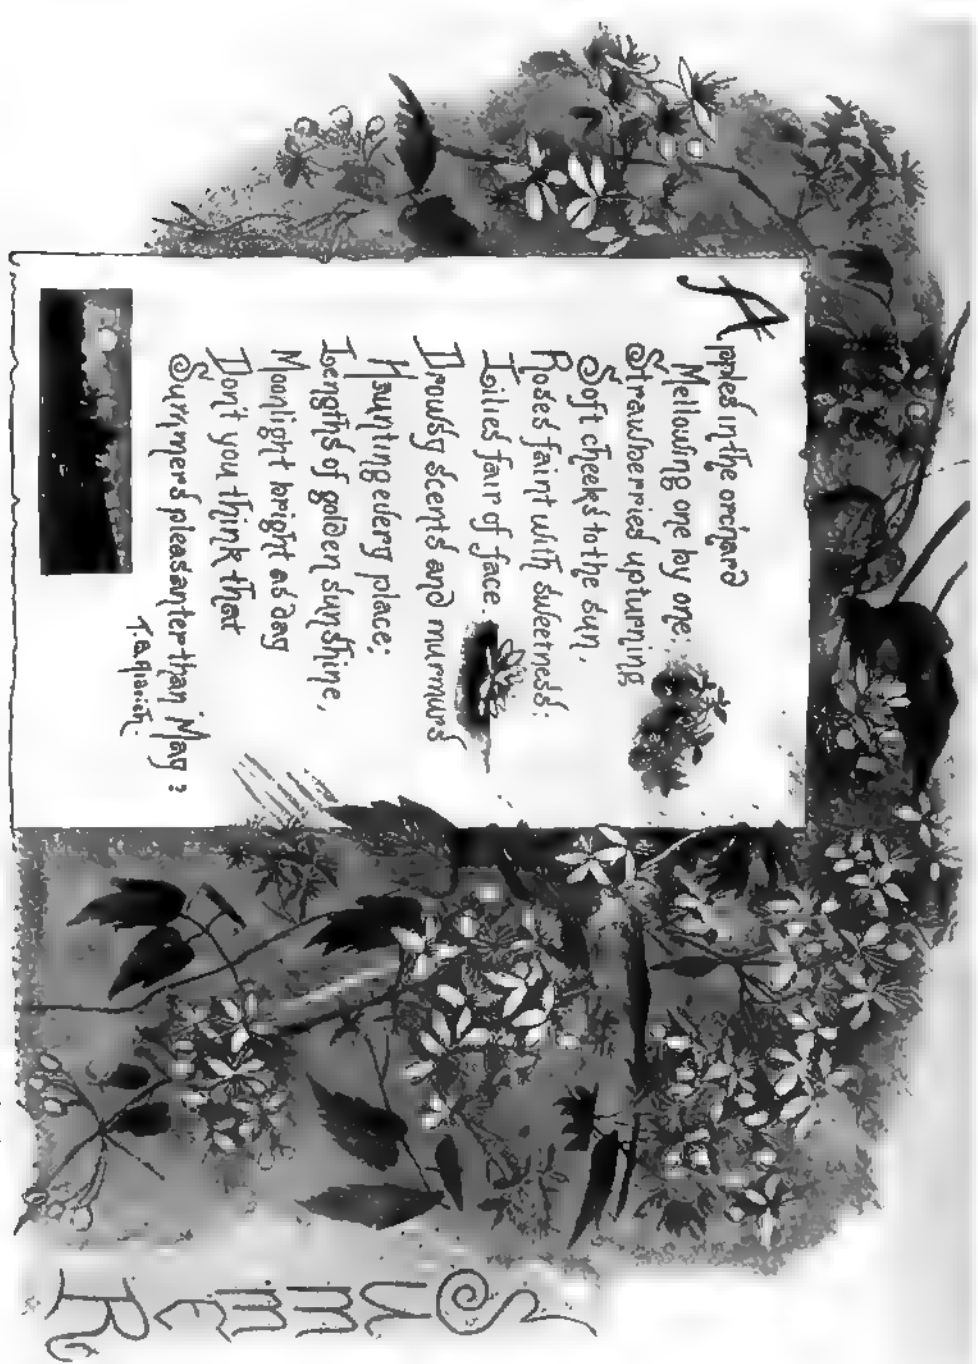

Size 3 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches
Outside printed in colors

with curious eyes. Opening the cover, we find the winged ringers of "the New Year's bells." Then come the emblematic figures of the months. The shivering little figure of January, bending over the fire, has a smiling "Happy New Year" for the visitor. The extremely youthful lovers of February will provoke a smile. Little Miss March looks as though she might blow away and enjoy it. The drenched figure of April frolics in tiny showers. The herald of spring is enjoying a Maying. The rustic maid of June is "like roses sweet and fair." The youthful rogue July chases the butterfly. The heated little maid of August is charming. Each month has its characteristic illustration, is a touch of genius in the originality of its conception and in its application to the works it represents. As might be expected, the "tots" at the end of the year are snugly tucked away in a hammock for rest.

Size, 3 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches.
Inside printed in sepia tint.

Apple in the orchard

DAYS SERENE

Original Illustrations by Margaret MacDonald Pullman

Engraved on Wood by Geo. T. Andrew, and printed under his direction. Royal Oblong Quarto. Emblematic Cover Designs in Colors. Twenty-six Full-Page, Original Illustrations. Full Gilt. Size, 10 $\frac{1}{2}$  X 14 $\frac{1}{2}$ . Cloth, \$5; Turkey Morocco, \$12.50; Tree Calf, \$12.50; English-Seal Style, \$9.

The pleasure of an examination of the work, which the title happily anticipates, is continually enhanced until the last page has given the eye and the mind actual delight. Beautiful landscape scenery—the grand and picturesque in nature—has been photographed, as it were, upon these charming pages by this student of nature and new connoisseur for artistic honors. Down by the sea, as its billows pound the rocks and the shore; on the side of the mountain, with its appealing grandeur; in the midst of forests; in the blooming meadow, and beside playful streams, has this lover of nature wandered that she might transcribe the enchanting pictures for the pleasure of the multitude. There is evidence in this artist's work that her conceptions of nature are mellowed by a gentle sympathy with her beautiful subjects. The poetic selections—the choice thought of some of our favorite poets—which are associated with this artistic production, still further and forcefully appeal to “the better angels of our nature.” The book's magnificent proportions, rich binding, creamy paper, and handsome letter-press make it deservedly a choice art volume.

THE “PEERLESS-JEROME” ART-BOOKS NEW EDITIONS

The most notable series of illustrated works published in this country. Their sale is not confined to the holiday season, but they are in constant demand. Miss Jerome will publish no new book this season, she being entirely occupied in the preparation of a work for next year, which it is confidently expected will surpass all her former works.

THE GUEST BOOK

In which may be recorded the coming and going of guests, with pages for autographs, incidents, and sketches pertaining to pleasant visits, social circles, and other gatherings. A companion to "Baby's Kingdom."

Invented and illustrated by ANNIE F. COX.

Printed in colors. In rich binding.

Cloth and gold, gilt edges . . . $3 75

Turkey morocco . . . 9 00

Tree calf . . . 9 00

The "Guest Book" is a happy thought. The illustrations are exquisite, and the work is in the best style of the enterprising publishers, who have published more of the really beautiful than any firm in the country.—Toledo Blade.

BABY'S KINGDOM

Wherein may be chronicled by the loving mother the story of the events, happenings, and cunningness attending the progress of "My Baby," as a memento for grown-up days. Designed and illustrated by ANNIE F. COX. Printed in colors. Bound in elegant style, gilt edges.

Cloth and gold, $3.75; Turkey morocco, $9.00; Tree calf, $9.00.

Size, 8 x 7 1/2 inches.

The author was certainly inspired when she designed this beautiful book. The colors are, to the eye, solid, embossed gold; the illustrations in colors are a panorama of baby's development, and the poetry with which it is interspersed is brimful of motherly love. All is in the highest style of literary and pictorial art. Any man or woman who could have such a history of the first year of his life, written in mother's own handwriting, would find it a benediction to the end of life, especially after that mother had passed away.—Chicago Evening Journal.

THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN

By SIR WALTER SCOTT, with 14 full-page illustrations by PARRY MACQUINN, R.I. Oblong quarto. Size 10 1/2 x 14.

Bound in gold cloth, $3.50; Turkey morocco, gilt, $9.00; tree calf, $9.00; seal style, $7.00.

The illustrations to this dramatic poem of great power are of large proportions, and illustrate the setting out of the hero in search of a sleeping beauty, his trials and triumphs. It is a grand story, and finely illustrated.

Size, 10 1/2 x 14 inches

Size, 7 x 10 inches

THE LADIES' CASKET

Of Flowers and Jewels for Her Adorning

With original designs printed in colors. By ELEANOR W. TALBOT. Oblong quarto. Cloth, gold and silver colors, full gilt edges.

Price . . . $3 75

Turkey morocco . . . 7 50

Tree calf . . . 7 50

Whoever desires to make a truly satisfactory holiday present will find great satisfaction in this selection, and the fortunate recipient will be ever proud to have it grace her centre-table in parlor or library. It "takes the tassel from the cap of climax." It is unique in design, captivating in style, delicate in sentiment, and faultless in finish. The illustrations are supremely beautiful. Figures of youth, idealized stand out from the pages so seemingly real as to invite the manual grasp. The artistic conceptions, too, which accompany the text are most delicate and charming.

Of the First Editions of the "Pilgrim's Progress," Herbert's "Temple," and Walton's "Angler," dating respectively from 1678, 1633, and 1653. Each, antique binding, with Renaissance design, gilt top, $1.25; also in imitation panelled calf. . . . . $1 25

"The fac-simile reprints are charmingly printed, and bound in a fashion quaint and engaging. They are as pleasant little gifts for a friend as one could select."—New York Tribune.

Under French Skies;

OR, SUNNY FIELDS AND SHADY WOODS. By MADAME DE GASPARIN, author of "Near and Heavenly Horizons." 16mo, cloth. . . . . 1 25

"We have seldom read a professedly religious book so thoroughly free from dogmatism, so sympathetic in its tone, and so wholesome in its spirit of wide and truly Christian charity, or one in which the author so evidently wrote from the fulness of the heart. Considered merely as a literary production, Madame de Gasparin's work is equally deserving of praise."—Glasgow Herald.

"A beautiful and attractive volume. The style of the authoress is simple and fascinating."—Baltimore Methodist.

"Among these peasant-folk of the Jura, with their temptations and their joys, their poverty and their homely ways, Madame de Gasparin is not only at home, but at home as a tried and trusted friend."—New York Evangelist.

Songs in the Night Watches.

From Voices Old and New. Compiled by HELEN H. STRONG THOMPSON, with an Introduction by Dr. JOSIAH STRONG. Square 16mo, gilt top. . . . . 1 25

This is a collection of religious verse designed, in the words of the compiler, "to pierce with a joyous note the darkness of the night." The songs are classified as appropriate to I. Darkness, II. Heaviness, III. Temptation, IV. Humiliation, V. Poverty, VI. Captivity, VII. Fear, VIII. "The House of My Pilgrimage," IX. Remembrance, X. Sickness, XI. Bereavement, XII. Death, XIII. "The Song of Songs," and "The New Song," to be sung only when the Night Songs are past.

Keystones of Faith,

OR, WHAT AND WHY WE BELIEVE. By WOLCOTT CALKINS, D.D. 16mo, cloth, gilt top. . . . . 75

This book is designed for young Christians and busy people who need a brief outline of the great doctrines of grace, in which all evangelical denominations agree. In the body of the work, Chapters I.—VIII., this is given in popular language, free from all technical phrases of theology. In Chapters IX. and X., another outline is given in the language of the Catholic and evangelical confessions; and in Chapter XI. still another short, but complete outline is given in the exact language of Scripture.

"It is finely and nobly done, with a large and firm grasp of the subject, setting it forth in a rich, racy, and vigorous way. I am sure that the book will do good."—Rev. R. S. STORRS, LL.D.

"It is simple, strong, substantially orthodox, practical, helpful to both the old and young believer."—Bishop JOHN H. VINCENT.

Todd's Index Rerum.

By JOHN TODD, D.D. 4to, half leather. . . . . 2 50

Very acceptable as a gift to a student or professional man.

"Better adapted to the object for which it is intended than any other with which I am acquainted. Its great excellence consists in its simplicity."—Ex-President MARK HOPKINS, Williams College, Mass.

"An indispensable part of every literary man's equipment."—Chicago Interior.

"Perhaps one of the best possible means of arranging the results of one's reading, so as to make them afterward readily accessible."—N. W. Christian Advocate.

The Student's Manual.

By JOHN TODD, D.D. 12mo, cloth. . . . . 1 00

"This book is still, perhaps, the best uninspired guide-book to put into the trunk of a boy just starting for college."—Sunday-School Times.

"Baker & Taylor, of New York, publish a new edition of one of the best volumes ever written for young people attending schools and colleges, away from home—'The Student's Manual,' by Dr. John Todd."—Zion's Herald.

I, 3, & 5 BOND STREET, NEW YORK.

PUBLISHED THIS DAY:

THE DIARY AND LETTERS OF GOUVERNEUR MORRIS,

Minister of the United States to France, Member of the Constitutional Convention, etc. Edited by ANNE CARY MORRIS. With portraits. 2 vols., 8vo, $7.50.

The journal and letters of a man so active and conspicuous in the events of his time as Gouverneur Morris have naturally an interest that is both fascinating and absorbing. Morris himself is a figure of extraordinary interest, and the picture he gives of the manners and morality, the customs, habits, foibles, and ideals of the fashionable Paris of the Revolutionary period, is as valuable as it is entertaining. Morris remained in France through the Revolution, and until the Reign of Terror. His popularity was great. He was intimate with most of the prominent men, and was a trusted confidant of many of the women in their political intrigues. The Diary is supplemented by Morris' letters to Washington, Jefferson, and others of his distinguished countrymen, and is brought down to his death in 1816.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

A HISTORY OF FRENCH PAINTING.

From its Earliest to its Latest Practice, Including an Account of the French Academy of Painting, its Salons, Schools of Instruction, and Regulations. By C. H. STRANAHAN. Illustrated. 8vo, $5.00.

The season has brought no more valuable book.—BUFFALO EXPRESS.

In character Mrs. Stranahan's book is historical, critical, biographical, and descriptive, covering the whole field of French art with detailed thoroughness, and filling a place that has always been vacant. Its information is so copious and exact—the volume has nearly 500 large octavo pages—that as a work for popular reading and reference it will have no rival. The rich and artistic reproductions of sixteen famous paintings, and the cover, designed by the well-known artist, E. H. Blashfield, make the work especially appropriate as a useful and beautiful holiday gift.

J. S. OF DALE'S LATEST NOVEL.

FIRST HARVESTS.

An Episode in the Life of Mrs. Levison Gower. A Satire without a Moral. By F. J. STIMSON. 12mo, $1.25.

"First Harvests" is a panorama of New York life; its characters are drawn from both top and bottom of the social scale. Those who remember "Baby" Thomas in "The Crime of Henry Vane," will take an interest in seeing her way of life in "First Harvests;" while in Flossie Gower and Arthur, the protagonists, in Gracie, Jenny Starbuck, and Durwent, true aims and false, low lives and high, are intermingled.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY have just published "The Story of Louisiana," by Maurice Thompson, the third volume in their historical series of The Story of the States; "Glimpses of Great Fields," by Rev. J. A. Hall, a scientific treatise designed to refute the materialistic theories of evolutionists; "The Lost Earl, with other poems and tales in verse," twenty-one poems, narrative, satirical, imaginative, etc., by J. T. Trowbridge, liberally illustrated; "The Story of the American Sailor," from the earliest times to the present, by Elbridge S. Brooks, who has devoted considerable time and study to the subject, fully illustrated; and "White Sails, stories in verse for our lads and lassies," by Mrs. Nason, a well-known writer for young people in Wide Awake and St. Nicholas.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish early this month a work entitled "From Flag to Flag: a woman's experiences and adventures in the South during the war, in Mexico, and in Cuba." The author, Mrs. Eliza McHatton-Ripley, was the wife of a planter in Louisiana, and the first part of her narrative relates some very dramatic adventures experienced after the capture of New Orleans; the second part describes various vicissitudes undergone in attempting to reach Mexico; the third affords graphic descriptions of life on a sugar-plantation in Cuba. They will also publish shortly an entirely new book on Florida, from the pen of Prof. James Wood Davidson, bearing the title "Florida of To-Day: a guide for tourists and settlers;" a posthumous work by Dr. W. B. Carpenter, entitled "Nature and Man: essays scientific and philosophical," accompanied by a somewhat extended memoir, written by J. E. Carpenter, in which an attempt has been made to portray Dr. Carpenter's chief aims as an investigator and teacher, and his character as a man; an entirely new edition of Darwin's "Origin of Species," reprinted from the sixth and last London edition, which contains the author's latest revisions, and in Appletons' Town and Country Library a novel by Helen Kendrick Johnson, entitled "Raleigh Westgate; or, Epimenides in Maine;" and a translation of Ernest Daudet's powerful novel, "The Apostate."

LEE & SHEPARD have just ready "The Julia Ward Howe Birthday-Book," containing selections from the poems and prose writings of Mrs. Howe, edited by her daughter, Laura E. Richards, with illustrations; "Andersonville Violets," by Herbert W. Collingwood, a romantic story of the War of the Rebellion, embracing many pathetic incidents connected with Andersonville prison; "Our Glorified," a selection of poems and passages of consolation, edited by Elizabeth Howard Foxcroft; "Aryans, Semites, and Jews, Jehovah and the Christ: a record of spiritual advance from the household or personal God of the Semite Abram, and from Jehovah, the tutelary or national God of the Israelites, to the universal Father revealed by Jesus the Christ, with the contracts made between the household God and Abram, the tutelary God Jehovah and the Israelites, and between 'Our Father in Heaven' and all mankind, also the circumstances, incidents, and events attending the preparation and promulgation of the second Revelation," by an anonymous writer; "Essays, Religious, Social, Political," by David Atwood Wasson, with a biographical sketch by O. B. Frothingham; "The Apostle of Burma," a missionary epic commemorative of the centennial of the birth of Adoniram Judson, by William C. Richards; "Incidents of a Collector's Rambles in Australia, New Zealand, and New Guinea," by Sherman F. Denton, artist of the U. S. Fish Commission, Washington, D. C., with illustrations by the author; and "Free Trade," a speech delivered before the Democratic Club, Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 9, 1848, with extract from "La Misère de la Philosophie," by Karl Marx, translated into English by Florence Kelley Wischniewsky, with preface by Frederick Engels.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fc. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

Abbot, Willis J. Blue jackets of '76: a history of the naval battles of the American revolution, together with a narrative of the war with Tripoli; il. by W. C. Jackson and H. W. McVickar. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1888.] c. 7+301 p. sq. O. canvas, $3.

Gotten up in blue and white canvas, and with many full-page pictures, uniform with "Blue jackets of '61" and "Blue jackets of 1812." Like these works the volume is meant for young readers, presenting its subject in a very attractive manner.

Æsop's fables for little readers; told by Mrs. Arthur Brookfield; pictured by H: J. Ford. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, [1888.] 70 p. il. sq. O. bds., $1.50.

The reason for reproducing the old fables of Æsop in a somewhat new form is, that Mrs. Brookfield found that even the simplest editions published were too difficult for her own little children to understand. She has therefore "tried to produce the charming and familiar stories in a form which may be welcomed in the nursery and approved by little readers, to whom easy and childlike language is an object."

Brine, Mary D. A dozen and one; or, the boys and girls of Polly's ring. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] c. '87. 300 p. il. sq. O. bds., $1.50.

The story of a little girl and her many friends; il. with many page pictures.

Browning, Rob. The piper of Hamelin; with 35 il. by Kate Greenaway. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, [1888.] 64 p. sq. O. bds., $2.

Kate Greenaway's graphic designs are beautifully engraved and printed in colors by Edmund Evans. They tell the tale most charmingly of the rat-infested town of Hamelin, and how the Piper with his music charmed them all away, and how, upon the corporation refusing him their promised reward, he tried the magic of his music upon the children of Hamelin. This opportunity for depicting children Kate Greenaway has taken full advantage of, and we get some of her finest studies of little ones in all attitudes and swayed by a multiplicity of emotions.

Bryant, W: C. An autumn pastoral: The death of the flowers; with 15 il. by the Photo-Gravure Co., after original drawings by C. E. Phillips. Troy, N. Y., Nims & Knight, 1888. no paging, Q. cl., $5; flex. seal, $8.

Printed only on one side of page; il. and lines of poem mingled together.

Bunch (A) of daisies; pictures and stories for our pets. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1888. c. no paging. il. sq. O. bds., 50 c. Pictures on every page; large type.

Burnett, Mrs. Frances Hodgson. Kathleen: a love-story. New cheap. ed. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1888.] c. 18-212 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Takes young readers to Siam and the islands of the Indian Ocean, and tells them, with many interesting anecdotes, of the animal worship of that country.

Caldecott, Randolph. Gleanings from the Graphic. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1889 [1888.] 84 p. por. and il. obl. Q. bds., $3.

Contributions made by the late Randolph Caldecott to the London Graphic between 1876 and 1886. They are humorous in text and design, hitting in a capital manner, the follies and fashions of the times. They include sketches at Trouville, Brighton, Buxton, American facts and fancies, notes at the Royal Agricultural show, Paul and Virginia, etc.

Champney, Elizabeth W. Great-grandmother's girls in New Mexico, 1670-1680. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1888.] c. 2+330 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

A story of New Mexico in the time of the Spanish adventurers. There is a quaint little Indian maiden, "Monita," who is the heroine, and who is the centre of much that is interesting. The book is quite instructive, telling a great deal about the country and its history at that period.

Champney, Elizabeth W. Three Vassar girls in France: a story of the siege of Paris; il. by "Champ" and others. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1888.] c. 4-240 p. O. cl., $2; bds., $1.50.

Adventures in Paris during the commune and siege, in the time of the Franco-German war. The same "Vassar girls" again appear, and have each a story of her own to amuse girl readers.

Chevillard - Lenoir, A. Celebrated artists; sketches of their lives and works; with translations on copper of fifteen notable paintings by Flameng, Monzies, Unger, and others. Troy, N. Y., Nims & Knight, 1888. no paging, 17+12 in., cl., $10; in portfolio, $25.

In this collection of etchings after famous paintings an effort has been made to cover a very wide range of schools and themes in a small compass, to select productions by famous aqua-fortists of canvases dating from the sixteenth century to the nineteenth, and whose subjects include many things, from the Holy Family to a cattle-piece.

Clarke, Mrs. C: M. More true than truthful. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-232 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1234.) pap., 20 c.

*Oochran, W: C. The students' law lexicon, a dictionary of legal words and phrases, with the meaning of Latin and French maxims. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1888. c. 7+332 p. D. shp., $2.50.

Eight large and seven small designs in tints.

*Oraik, Mrs. Dinah Maria, [formerly Miss Mullock.] Concerning men, and other papers. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 200 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Oraik, Mrs. Dinah Maria, [formerly Miss Mullock.] Two marriages. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-208 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1205.) pap., 20 c.

Oraik, Mrs. Dinah Maria, [formerly Miss Mullock.] Young Mrs. Jardine. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-237 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1207.) pap., 20 c.

Ourtis, C: B. Rembrandt's etchings: fifty of the most notable etchings of Rembrandt, reproduced by the photogravure process; with biography of Rembrandt, and descriptive and historical notes to each picture. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1888. c. no paging, 15X12 in., imitation vellum, $25; limited ed. of 50 copies on Japan paper, $50.

The title fully describes this work, which is one of the most important of the Christmas books. The work is an elegant one—not only in its illustrations, but in paper, print, and binding. The latter is imitation white vellum, with a portrait of Rembrandt in gold. A large etching, too large to go in the book, accompanies it, enclosed in a roll.

Downes, W: Howe. The tin army of the P mac; or, a kindergarten of war; il. by ] Goodridge. Bost., S: E. Camino, [1888.] c. 38 p. obl. D. bds., $1.

Describes in large, plain type, and with the aid of many illustrations, how a little boy with several boxes of tin soldiers learned, through a most interesting play, the whole history of the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac in the late war.

Downey, Edmund. In one town. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-352 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1216.) pap., 20 c.

Elliot, George, [pseud. for Mrs. J: W. Cross.] Complete poems; with introductory notice by Matthew Browne. Special limited edition, with illustrations on Japan paper. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1888.] 442 p. il. O. parchment cl., $6, real parchment, $7.50.

This beautiful edition is limited to 500 numbered copies; it is printed from new, large type, on hand-made linen paper, and is il. with 13 artist proofs on Japan paper of photo-etchings and etchings by the best known American artists. Contains Matthew Browne's concise introductory essay on George Elliot as a poet, which made such a stir when it appeared in the Contemporary Review. The binding is pure white, with a band in green and silver running around both sides and back in the centre of the volume. The lettering is in silver.

Etchings by French artists; containing ten etchings by Detaille, Martial, Delaunay, and others; with text by G. W. H. Ritchie. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1888. c. no paging, 20x15 in. cl., $10.50, on Japan paper, in portfolio, $50. Another of the many art works of this description prepared for this season. The etchings are unusually good. The volume a very handsome one.

European etchings: a series of twenty-two original etchings by foreign artists; with descriptive text. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1888.] c. no paging, 17½x12 in., hf. mor., $15.

The names of Volkhart, Grottohann, Bosch, Willreider, Kroener, Zimmermann, and Dahl are among the etchers. The artists, as may be seen, are mostly German, while the etchings are mostly German in subject. A very fine work in its artistic and mechanical parts.

Fairchild, Olive P. A struggle for love; or, cast pitilessly adrift. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1888.] 3-192 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 1236.) pap., 20 c.

Feuillet, Octave. The romance of a poor young man, from the French; with il. by Mouchot; eng. by Méaulle. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1889 [1888.] 4+232 p. Q. cl., $7.50.

A limited (numbered) edition of a novel that is now embraced among the classics. A finely etched portrait of Feuillet, and many full-page and text pictures interpret the story. Fine printing, good paper, and handsome binding make the volume a most attractive one.

Flagg, Edmund. De Molai; the last of the military Grand Masters of the order of Templar Knights a romance of history. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1888.] c. 378 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The scene is laid principally in Paris, and the theme is the suppression of the Order of Knights Templar by Philip the Fourth of France. Throughout the romance towers the commanding form of Jacques de Molai, the noble old warrior-monk, who was ready to bear the tortures of the Inquisition, and even to suffer martyrdom at the stake, for the cause of the persecuted Order of which he was the chief. A complete history of the Knights Templar is given, which will be found of great value and interest by the Masonic fraternity as well as by the general reader. The descriptions of old Paris and the abbeys and castles of that day are vividly and vigorously drawn. The loves of Blanche of Artois and Adrian de Marigni are set forth, and the narrative of the disappointed affections of Marie Morfontaine is replete with tender pathos.

Fothergill, Jessie. From Moor Isles: a story. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1888. 418 p. S. (Leisure hour ser., no. 221.) cl., $1; pap., 35 c.

Miss Fothergill's love of music is more apparent in this novel than in anything she has written since "The first violin." Felix Arkwright, the hero, has a beautiful baritone voice, and is a successful public singer. His life-long friend is a charming woman, who plays the violin. The reader is taken into a great deal of musical society and gets incidentally some pleasant writing on music. Inez Grey, Felix's ward, is the heroine. He adopted her when a little girl, her mother's death leaving her destitute in Paris. She tells her own story, which has chiefly to do with her love for Felix and her dislike of her father's wealthy relations. A second hero and heroine come out of Lancashire, who have a tragical history. A character of unusual beauty and strength is that of Alice Ormerod, a handsome country girl.

Gems of French art; reproduced in photo-gravure, with descriptive text. Troy, N. Y., Nims & Knight, 1888. c. no paging, il. P. cl., $3.75.

The ten illustrations are in tints, and are from the pencil of Marie-Auguste Flameng, Auguste Allongé, Eugène Aiselin, Albert Maignan, Mercier, Brilloins, Lerolle, Lebrichon, Dupré, and Monginot.

Holder, C: F: A frozen dragon, and other tales : a story-book of natural history for boys and girls; il. by J. C. Beard, D. C. Beard, and J. M. Nugent, from sketches by the author. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1888.] c. 6+285 p. sq. O. cl., $2.

The "frozen dragon" relates to an extinct species of the rhinoceros found in northern Russia some years ago. A land-slide exposed it to view, frozen in the earth as hard as stone, where it had probably been for thousands of years. The other stories are equally as interesting, being based upon the doings of various known animals, fishes, birds, etc., and upon the traits and habits of many extinct species. "The smallest circus in the world," telling of the performance of educated fleas, and "The left field in the Lincoln nine," having for a hero a dog who had a passion for base-ball, are extremely amusing chapters. The whole work is instructive together with being most entertaining.

Hubbell, Walter. The curse of marriage: a true story of domestic life. N. Y., The American News Co., 1888. c. 224 p. il. and por. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The scene of this story is laid in New England, the action being principally in an old homestead near Boston, and in the adjacent country. During the civil war the owner of this ancient house served his country on the battlefield, and it was during his absence that several horrible murders were committed, one of the victims being his beautiful little daughter, who was only six years of age. The whole country was aroused in consequence of these heinous crimes, and in the blindness of human passion an innocent man was made to suffer. Finally, after the death of the soldier-father in a rebel prison, his ghost returned to the old New England home, and by the most thrilling and wonderful supermundane effects proved to a clergyman and physician of the highest standing in the community, that the real and unsuspected murderer had been born with a mania for blood and slaughter, caused by antenatal maternal influences, all of which was afterward fully corroborated by the strongest material evidence, including a verse in the family Bible.

Hughes, T: Tom Brown at Oxford : a sequel to "School-days at Rugby." N. Y., G: Munro, [1888.] 2 pts., 3-266 ; 265-560 p. S. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1139.) pap., ea., 20 c.

Humes, Rev. T. W. The loyal mountaineers of Tennessee. Knoxville, Tenn., Ogden Brothers & Co., 1888. c. 400 p. il. O. cl., $2.

The gentleman who writes this book, Dr. Humes, was for twenty years Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, at Knoxville, and for eighteen years President of East Tennessee University. He was a loyal Union man all through the late war and witnessed in East Tennessee the scenes which he describes. The loyalty of a large portion of the people of East Tennessee to the Union during the war, through persecutions and hardships is one of the thrilling chapters of that history never before written. We have it here from an eye-witness, written with a clearness and vividness that charm the reader. The volume begins with a brief description of the early history of East Tennessee and the struggles and trials of its early settlers, afterwards giving an historical account of the peculiar political and military situation of East Tennessee immediately preceding and during the secession of some of the states. This is followed by a vivid and thrilling recital of political and military events as they occurred, soon after; interspersed with personal recollections and incidents of individual heroism, suffering, and daring.

Dulcibel lives in a sea-coast village of England with two aunts and an uncle, a hearty, retired physician of the navy. She is introduced lying on the sands, longing to "do noble deeds." She is overheard by a lady, who becomes her warm friend and shows her many neglected duties near at hand she has overlooked while dreaming all day long. Dulcibel's life becomes a busy and happy one, rewarded by a good man's love.

Marvin, Arthur Tappan. The olive; its culture in theory and practice. San Francisco, Payot, Upham & Co., 1888. c. 3-146 p. pl. O. cl., $2.

Gives facts and figures of olive culture throughout the world. The author states that California is the most favored of the United States for olive culture, but that there is a large territory besides where the climate, soil and conditions are favorable. He recommends the importing of an expert to adapt old world methods to our conditions and claims that if scientifically carried on, with good business management, olive-oil should make a valuable article of export for this country. A bibliography of works on olives prefaces the book.

Verses from favorite authors and designs of trees, birds, flowers, views of land and sea entwined on every page, after the style of Miss Irene E. Jerome. A beautiful gift-book, beautifully printed on fine tinted paper, bound in gray with silver stampings, the design being a graceful arrangement of daisies.

Pyle, Howard. Otto of the silver hand; written and il. by Howard Pyle. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 8+170 p. O. hf. leath., $2.

Illustrated in the same mediæval style as Mr. Pyle's "Merry adventures of Robin Hood." It contains twenty-five full-page pictures, and many decorative head and tail pieces. The scene of the tale is mediæval Germany in the days of the robber barons, when family feuds and the general lawlessness of the time gave scope to numberless deeds of bravery and cruelty. Otto is a most interesting figure, with a loving and tender nature, which often suffers among the rough chieftains with whom he is thrown. In the text and in artistic merit, the book is far above the ordinary juvenile.

Recent Italian art; or, selections from the portfolios of Segoni, Arturo Ricci, Muzzioli, Chierici, Conti, Pio Ricci, and others; with biographical and descriptive texts by Walter Rowlands. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1888.] c. no paging, 17½+12 in., cl., $7.50.

- Trobriand, Regis de. Four years with the army of the Potomac; tr. by G: K. Dauchy. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] 19+757 p. por. and maps, O. cl., $3.50.
- Gene al de Trobriand's story was written soon after the war, from notes and a diary. It was then published in French and for French readers. The strangest thing about it is that it has only just now found a translator. It presents in a life-like manner incidents of army life, of the bivouac and the battle, of the camp and of the field, besides giving the history of the campaigns of the four years de Trobriand was with the Army of the Potomac, from the opening scene with McClellan before Richmond to the closing one at Gettysburg. The General was not an admirer of McClellan, whom he criticises severely. He gives some trenchant accounts of Washington and the politicians, and of the famous figures of that day. Captain Dauchy, the translator, was in command of the Twelfth New York Battery, and was companion-in-arms with de Trobriand both in the Second and Third Corps of the army. He has made an excellent translation.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 1, 1888.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

OUR CHRISTMAS ISSUES.

By the time this issue reaches our readers, we have reason at this writing to believe, all the Christmas issues from this office will also be on their way. The question of time is so important to booksellers who use the Christmas issues of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY and of the Literary News in imprint editions, as their own publications, to extend their holiday trade, that we endeavor to publish at the earliest possible moment even at the risk of sending out the work in less satisfactory shape than if we should take the usual time allotted for such printing. The Christmas Bookshelf, as the issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is this year entitled, began to go out on Friday, November 23, and all orders for the first-named have been despatched by this writing. We expect to despatch all orders for the second by December 1. If it had not been for an unexpected break-down in the engines supplying power to the building in which the press-room is located, we should have beaten this record by one or two days.

The production of the Christmas PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY combines perhaps as many practical difficulties as any piece of printing turned out in New York during the year. The illustrations come to us often in electros from electros, they are of all styles of engraving and process-work, dark and light must be printed together on the same sheet and everything must be put through at the highest possible speed, with the smallest possible time for overlay work and making ready. Under these circumstances, we scarcely know from year to year whether to claim credit or to present apologies. We have, however, received already very kind words from the trade, which we transfer to the Economist Press, which did the body of the press-work, to the Hoffman Press, which did the composition and cover printing, to the Jessup & Moore Paper Co. and J. J. Murphy & Co., who supplied the paper, and to F. H. Levey & Co., who supplied the ink. Considering the difficult circumstances which we have mentioned, we have considerable satisfaction in the result, and trust that an attractive number has been sent out to the trade, though we should like very much to show what could be done with broader support and adequate time.

The thick-paper edition of the Christmas Bookshelf is already exhausted for imprint orders and can be sold only in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY edition and at single copy rates (35 cents, or 25 cents net to the trade). We are still able, however, to fill a limited number of orders for thin-paper imprint editions of the Christmas Bookshelf, and for imprint editions of the Literary News, provided they are sent to us at once. The experience of many dealers is that no better means of increasing holiday trade can be used by enterprising dealers, and we commend to others the example of the threescore houses who have this year taken editions of the Christmas Bookshelf and as many more who have ordered the Literary News. Every day now counts, and we should be glad to hear promptly.

THE American Copyright League, with the gold-mine discovered in its "authors' readings," with the prestige of having obtained, for the first time in the generation during which the subject has been agitated, an actual vote in either house of Congress on an international copyright measure—and that a favorable vote; with the hearty coöperation of the Publishers' League; and with an expressed and active willingness to promote a measure likely to obtain passage, while not surrendering its final ideal of "copyright, pure and simple"—is certainly in a position of vantage for carrying the Chace Bill through the House. To that purpose it will concentrate its efforts during the present session, for while the passage of the bill before March 4 would require only a Conference Committee to make the date of the bill July 1, 1889, instead of 1888, and to provide for a few merely verbal changes found necessary, after that date a bill must be introduced anew into the Senate as well as the House, and it would be so difficult to get together again the several interests which have consented to this compromise measure, that the chances for successful agitation would be very much reduced. It is, therefore, the time for everybody to "lend a hand" in attempting to get the bill through, if possible, before the Christmas holidays. Above all things, this bill should not be made a matter of "politics;" since the moment Republicans or Democrats, or Free-traders or Protectionists, as such, undertake to claim the credit or treat it as a party measure, there would be no chance for it, either in this or the next Congress, a two-thirds vote being practically necessary for it. As a matter of fact, leading Free-traders favor the present bill heartily, as an approach to international justice, despite its manufacturing clauses, while Protectionists are satisfied with these special provisions. We trust that under the leadership of the successor of Henry Clay, Col. Breckinridge, the bill will speedily pass the House.

IN accordance with our rule of giving a hearing to both sides in the columns of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, we reprint "a plea for cheap books" in the shape of a letter to the Boston Herald from Houghton & Dutton, proprietors of one of the Boston dry-goods shops which deal in books. The contention of those who plead for better methods in the book-trade is not against cheap books and wider distribution of them, but against methods which curtail the distribution of books by breaking down the book-shops and thus lessening the demand in the long run. On the contrary the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has plead always for books priced at the lowest possible figures which will enable the bookseller to maintain his shop; and the maintenance of book-stores we hold to be a very important feature of our civilization. It is a mistaken assumption to presume that the retail bookseller makes, or has ever made, from 50 to 100 per cent. on his wares; what he asks is a fair chance to make something like 5 or 10 per cent. above his store expenses as a return for the service he does for the public.

WE print elsewhere a letter from Mr. Henry Carey Baird which was accompanied by a personal letter to the editor to the following effect:

"As you have so far departed from the rule laid down when you declined in December last to print my communication, 'Our Postal Inconsistencies and Stupidities,' as to reprint an article from the N. Y. Evening Post advocating the free importation of books, I trust you will not refuse to print the enclosed criticism on the Post's article. It is far from agreeable to a publisher to see what is the organ of the book-trade presenting such arguments, thus virtually endorsing them. Yours is one of the few trade organs in this country which advocates free foreign trade in the products of its special industry; and this being the case I trust you will allow the other side to be heard too."

We print the above, which, though controversial, was written in an entirely friendly spirit, for the sake of stating once more the attitude of this journal in the matter referred to. THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY endeavors to print everything of trade interest relating to books, whether it be in line with its own views or opposed to them. The article from the Evening Post was printed because it contained much matter of information and interest, and any article on the other side of equal interest would receive the same attention. We must except again to the assumption that an article reprinted or quoted in our columns carries the opinion of the trade or of this journal. We did not decline so much of Mr. Baird's previous letter as referred to postal or trade matters, but requested him to omit a discussion as to the general question of protection vs. free trade, which has no place in this journal, whose editor carefully refrains from using its columns to present any views of his own on this political topic. In the relations of the tariff and like questions to the book-trade, our columns are open for all sides, but we carefully abstain from expressing any opinion as the voice of the trade which does not fairly represent trade opinion.

M. EM. TERQUEM has made a careful canvass of the book-trade here for the Paris Exhibition next year and expresses himself as very well satisfied with his success. His list now includes the names of the following firms: D. Appleton & Co., Dodd, Mead & Co., John Wiley & Sons, Charles Scribner's Sons, Ivison, Blakeman & Co., and A. S. Barnes & Co., of New York; Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Estes & Lauriat, D. Lothrop Co., and L. Prang & Co., of Boston; The J. B. Lippincott Co., Geo. Barrie, Robert M. Lindsay, Gebbie & Co., and Gebbie & Husson Photogravure Co., of Philadelphia; and A. C. McClurg & Co., of Chicago, and several other houses. A few leading houses are yet missing from the list, but it is hoped that they will decide to coöperate in making a worthy exhibit. M. Terquem will shortly mail to the parties who have taken space full particulars as to shipping, etc. His address up to the day of his return to Paris, December 8, will be 172 Mercer St., N. Y. City. After that any letters sent in our care will be promptly forwarded, or they may be sent direct to his address at Paris—19 Rue Scribe. The special catalogue for the American book exhibit will be printed at the Riverside Press by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and after M. Terquem's return proofs sent to his name in our care will be attended to here, at his request.

AMERICAN COPYRIGHT LEAGUE.

THE Annual Meeting of the American Copyright League (Authors') was held Nov. 12 at the Mott Memorial Hall, 64 Madison Ave, New York. Edmund Clarence Stedman, Vice-President of the League, presided, and among those present were G. W. Green, Secretary; R. U. Johnson, Treasurer; and Thomas W. Knox and R. R. Bowker, of the Executive Committee; Albert Matthews, Chas. Barnard, and Dr. T. M. Coan, of the Council; J. B. Gilder, Alfred R. Conkling, and other gentlemen and several lady members of the League.

Secretary Green presented a summary of his annual report, which in full is as follows :

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

THE year 1887-'88 has been the most prosperous in the history of the League, and during that time great advance has been made in the attempt to secure the passage of an International Copyright law.

At the Annual Meeting held November 3, 1887, the Council recommended to the League a resolution, urging Congress to pass the Hawley Bill, leaving all details of proposed legislation with the Council, and suggesting that the League and the Council should confer plenary power on its Executive Committee to deal with all questions.

At the meeting of the League which followed immediately that of the Council, it was apparent that the majority of the members favored a much more liberal policy than that which the Council had felt bound hitherto to support, owing to its instructions from the League; and after a long and animated discussion a resolution was finally unanimously adopted, advising the continuance of the League's policy, in support of the copyright principle pure and simple, as expressed in the Hawley Bill, but at the same time urging that "the Council and Executive Committee should use every effort to secure the passage of some acceptable and equitable copyright bill." This resolution, moreover, gave to the Council and its Executive Committee a greater latitude and discretion than had ever before been conferred, allowing them, in behalf of the League, to accept such limitations upon the absolute and simple right of literary property, as the Council and Committee might consider it necessary to concede, in order to secure the recognition of the principle itself, in the passage of some sort of an International Copyright Bill.

At the same meeting the proposition for a system of royalty copyright was brought up by Mr. Pearsall-Smith, of Philadelphia. The plan was examined with great care by the members of this League and of the Publishers' League, subsequently formed. Mr. George Haven Putnam, in a letter to the Evening Post, dissected the proposed measure with great skill, and showed the imperfect nature of its provisions; and after what your Council considered a fair investigation, on motion of Dr. Eggleston, the following vote was passed: "Resolved, That we regard the proposal recently made for a stamp system of copyright as unwise, impracticable, and a virtual surrender of the proprietary rights of the author; and that we consider it an unfortunate diversion at the present time."

Vested with the new powers conferred by the resolution of the League, the Council at once assembled and elected an Executive Committee, composed as follows: Chairman, Dr. Edward Eggleston, Messrs. Johnson, Knox, Bowker, and Green, Secretary, and in accordance with the resolution already referred to, conferred upon this Executive Committee the powers mentioned.

It was at once decided that all the interests concerned in the passage of a Copyright Bill should, if possible, be united in support of some acceptable measure; and the first work to which the Executive Committee devoted itself was to bring about this result. A suggestion was made in the form of a letter from the League to prominent publishers, urging them to organize a Publishers' League, to coöperate with this body. Accordingly, a meeting of American publishers was held on December 29, 1887, at Delmonico's, New York City, at which Mr. William H. Appleton was elected Chairman; Mr. George Haven Putnam, Secretary; and Mr. Charles Scribner, Treasurer. An Executive Committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Joseph W. Harper, Henry O. Houghton, Craig Lippincott, A. D. F. Randolph, and Dana Estes. From the time of its formation throughout the winter, the representatives of the Publishers' League held frequent joint conferences or meetings with the Executive Committee of our own League, and the two bodies worked in complete harmony.

Your Executive Committee mapped out its work, so as to assign special tasks to each member. Dr. Eggleston undertook to confer, from time to time, with representatives of the Typographical Unions, and, if possible, to secure their approval of some reasonable form of Copyright Bill. To Colonel Knox and Mr. Johnson was assigned the duty of communicating with various Congressmen, editors and newspaper men, throughout the United States. Mr. Bowker undertook the work of bringing together the various publishers, and striving to make the views of all concerned harmonize to the extent of agreeing upon some specific form of proposed legislation. Of course the members of the Committee were not confined to the special tasks assigned to them, the policy of the Executive Committee being to hold frequent meetings, and hear reports from each of its members, so that all might be informed from time to time of what each had accomplished, or was striving to secure, and might lend each other aid in every direction.

Two visits to Philadelphia were made, in order to confer with Mr. Henry C. Lea, the drafter of the Chace Bill, the Committee feeling that if that bill could be so amended as to meet their views, it would have a better chance of passage than any other form of proposed Copyright legislation. Dr. Eggleston—who could speak with a full knowledge of the plans and intentions of the Typographical Unions—had conferences with Mr. Lea; but the latter did not seem to think it possible to amend the bill in such shape as to meet the objections which we had to the form it presented at that time, and the Committee finally decided, after a conference with the Publishers' League, to go to Senator Chace and see if it would not be possible to agree upon a bill which, while involving concessions on the part of all interested, should yet recognize the principle of literary property, and be of such a character as to give reasonable hope of its passage. This was done. The Chace Bill was first submitted to a conference of the two Leagues and agreed upon in an amended form. The proposed amendments were then taken to Washington, and submitted to Senator Chace in a conference attended by Messrs. Eggleston, Gilder, and Green, representing this League, and Messrs. George Haven Putnam and Gurlitz, representing the Publishers' League. On the 13th of January, 1888, after numerous meetings and conferences, the bill was again introduced by Senator Chace and referred, in the customary way, to the Senate Committee of Patents, before which a hearing was had on the 9th of March. Meanwhile letters and circulars descriptive of the bill and explanatory of its various clauses, together with a copy of the proposed measure, were sent to every Member of Congress, and a special committee, consisting of Mr. Brander Matthews and Dr. T. M. Coan, undertook the work of preparing matter for the press and for general distribution; while the publishers sent out to Members of Congress declarations showing their interest in the measure and their anxiety to have it become a law.

While this work was going on Dr. Eggleston succeeded in getting together representatives of the Typographical Unions, and explained to them the true nature of the bill, showing them how the passing of such an act would in all probability be a benefit to their trade. The result was that when the hearing was had before the Senate Committee, all the interests concerned were represented. On behalf of the Copyright League, the Vice-President, Mr. Stedman; Dr. Eggleston, Chairman of the Executive Committee; Mr. Bowker, and Mr. Green were present. The Typographical Unions were represented by Messrs. Sherman Cummin, of New York; George Chance and James Welsh, of Philadelphia; and Michael Corcoran, of Cambridge, Mass. Messrs. William H. Appleton, George Haven Putnam, of New York; C. Febiger, of Philadelphia, and Dana Estes, of Boston, were on hand to speak in behalf of the publishers, and D. D. Merrill, of St. Paul, Minn., for the booksellers.

It was at once apparent that the members of the Senate Committee, Senators Hiscock, Platt, and Jones, and Senator Teller, the Chairman, were much interested in the subject under discussion. This was shown by their careful questioning of the various speakers and their close attention to the explanation of details.

The effect of Dr. Eggleston's work among the printers was shown at once in the admirable way in which the representatives of the Typographical Unions above mentioned backed up the bill; and the friends of the measure were able to refer with telling effect to the contrasts between the existing condition of affairs and that which obtained at the previous hearing before the same Committee, two years before, when publishers, authors, and printers seemed to be at odds. Several members of the Council remained in Washington after the hearing before the Senate Committee, and later on the Committee succeeded in getting Colonel Breckinridge, of Kentucky, to introduce the bill in the House of Representatives. No better champion could have been secured, for Mr. Breckinridge at once obtained for the supporters of the bill a hearing before the Judiciary Committee, to which the measure had been referred. Mr. Breckinridge was himself present at the hearing and made a capital speech, urging the Committee to make an early report in favor of the bill. He was followed by Dr. Welling, President of the Washington Copyright Association, and head of Columbian University; Messrs. Welsh, Matteen, Chance, and Evans, from the Typographical Union No. 2, of Philadelphia; Messrs. Duncan and Cummins, from the New York Union, and Messrs. Putnam and Houghton, of the Publishers' League; while Dr. Eggleston, Mr. Clemens, and Mr. Green spoke in behalf of this body.

On the 9th of May Mr. Chace succeeded in bringing the bill to a vote in the Senate; and for the first time in the history of this agitation, an International Copyright Bill was passed, by the handsome majority of 35 to 10. No sooner had the bill passed the Senate than opposition sprang up in an unlooked-for quarter. A well-known firm of New York lawyers were retained to circulate against the bill a petition which contained the statement that the foreign publisher would be greatly benefited by its operation, while at the same time the American author would be largely injured by it.

During the month of April it was found that a memorial was circulating in Canada, urging the Canadian Parliament to appoint a special Commission of Investigation, on the ground that the proposed Copyright Act in the United States would, if it became a law, injure the development of the book-trade in the Dominion. The Executive Committee at once sent out an address, published in all the influential newspapers of the land, urging readers of the appeal to write at once to their Members of Congress, and request a favorable and early consideration of the bill.

Meanwhile, the progress of the agitation had received great aid from the publicity given to the movement by the series of authors' readings held at New York and Washington. These readings not only increased materially the funds of the League, but also stimulated public interest in the proposed reform. The first one was held at Chickering Hall, in the city of New York, in November, 1887, and was presided over by Mr. James Russell Lowell, the President of the League, who was introduced by Bishop Potter, of New York. The other gentlemen who took part in the readings were Messrs. Samuel L. Clemens, Edward Eggleston, R. H. Stoddard, H. C. Bunner, James Whitcomb Riley, Geo. W. Cable, R. M. Johnston, George William Curtis, Thomas Nelson Page, W. D. Howells, Frank R. Stockton, and Charles Dudley Warner.

At the Washington readings, held in February, Mr. Lowell was unable to be present, and his place was taken by Edmund Clarence Stedman, the Vice-President of the League, who presided on the first day, and by Dr. Eggleston on the second. The gentlemen who assisted were: S. L. Clemens, R. M. Johnston, H. H. Boyeson, F. R. Stockton, Thomas Nelson Page.

The bill was favorably reported to the House by the Judiciary Committee; but although Mr. Breckenridge and General Collins, of Boston, made special efforts to push the bill forward, it was impossible to secure it a preference on the House calendar, owing to the tremendous pressure for time, due to the discussion which followed the introduction of the Tariff Bill. In the House, therefore, the bill went over until the next session, at which every effort will be made to secure its early consideration. The Committee and Council of the League earnestly request that every member as well as every person in the United States who favors the introduction of an International Copyright Law, will communicate at once with the Member of Congress from his district, urging him to favor an early consideration of the bill. The reports that we have secured from Members of Congress all show that the bill has a capital chance of passage, if it can only be reached before the session ends. There never has been a time in the history of the movement in behalf of International Copyright when the chance of success was so good; and if all who are interested will take pains to make their interest known to Members of the National Legislature, the Council feel confident that the measure will become a law.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE WALTON GREEN.

November, 1888.

Secretary.

Treasurer Johnson presented his accounts, showing total receipts for the year in addition to $125.69 balance Nov. 1, 1887, of $5808.18, in all $5933.87; and disbursements of $4134.85, leaving $1799.02 balance Nov. 1, 1888. The authors' readings in New York returned $4547, and cost $532.75, netting $4014.55; and those in Washington netted $667.73. This report was received with much satisfaction, and an Auditing Committee was appointed.

A motion that the same policy aiming at securing international copyright as during the past year should be followed was carried, and the new Council and Executive Committee were given the same powers as the old ones to promote speedy action.

Prof. Jas. R. Welling and Mr. Thorvald Solberg, of the Washington Copyright Association, and Alfred R. Conkling, of New York, were named to fill vacancies in the Council, which was otherwise reëlected.

The Council afterward met and reëlected the officers of the League as follows: President, James Russell Lowell; Vice-President, E. C. Stedman; Executive Committee, Edward Eggleston, Chairman, G. W. Green, Secretary, Robert U. Johnson, Treasurer, T. W. Knox, R. R. Bowker; Publication Committee, Brander Matthews and Titus M. Coan.

Resolutions in memory of the late Rev. E. P. Roe were also adopted.

"A PLEA FOR CHEAP BOOKS."

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT QUESTION.

To the Editor of the [Boston] Herald:

WE notice in two recent issues of the Herald editorial references to the cheapness of the American edition of "Robert Elsmere." You deplore the fact that there is not an international copyright law to protect the publishers in their regular prices. There has been not a little newspaper talk during the past few years concerning the so-called "pirated" editions of English books, and incidentally concerning the curtailing of the profits of American booksellers by the competition of the large general stores similar to our own. Now it seems evident to us that thus far only one side of the question has been presented to the public; and as, conforming to an inexorable law, there are always two sides to any question, it seems time that the other side to this subject was duly set forth.

The main argument of those in favor of an international copyright law is, it seems to us, entirely a selfish one, namely—to quote your own words—"there is too much difference between the wholesale and the advertised retail price of books. It is this which has spoiled the retail trade altogether, and put it at the mercy of unscrupulous cutting down of prices in and out of the legitimate book-stores." That is to say, the retail bookseller no longer makes the 50 or 100 per cent. on his wares to which he may have been formerly accustomed. But who is the beneficiary in this "cutting down of prices"? Is it not the great mass of people who read books? And are their interests not of primary importance? We fail to see how, by any ingenuity of reasoning, the word "unscrupulous" can possibly be applied. The privilege of purchasing books is open to all merchants alike, and if some choose to make smaller profits than others, whose affair is that but their own? It seems to us that the general trend of the 19th century has escaped the attention of those who decry competition. As has been so often iterated and reiterated by our distinguished fellow-townsmen, Edward Atkinson, the gigantic forces brought into play by the discoveries of the past thirty or forty years have resulted in cheapening all products of human industry, so that what were once luxuries to the poor man are now become necessities. And the hoi polloi of this generation fare immeasurably better than even the royalty and nobility of Europe but a century ago.

Steam and electricity, with their thousand and one inventions, have rendered possible the gigantic emporiums of to-day that distribute under one roof all the wares of the world gathered direct from their native climes. It is but a natural result that this reduction of merchandising to its lowest terms—this condensation of the profits of many middlemen into the profits of a single firm should be beneficial to the people at large.

What, then, is the reason for complaint? Because, forsooth, the retail bookseller is shorn of his profits? But what business or ethical law is there that compels him to sell books to his fellow-men? For what are books written if not to be read? The more books the people read make that people the more enlightened and intelligent. The highest end of book-writing is book-reading, and not bookselling. Leaving aside the remuneration of authors, which does not enter here, that end is best accomplished when books are cheapest, and hence most widely distributed. The writer has travelled extensively in the United States, and has seen George Eliot, Carlyle, Scott, Victor Hugo, Emerson, Edwin Arnold, Homer, Goethe, Dante, and Shakespeare read in the backwoods of Arkansas and in the mining camps of Colorado, in the popular 10 or 20-cent editions, by people who could never have afforded the books, and who probably would never have read them, had it not been for the price. Cheap books are almost as necessary in these days as cheap bread.

At a fair estimate there have been 150,000 copies of "Robert Elsmere" sold in this country. Had the figures been put at the English publishers' price, or even the American publishers' price, the sale would have been, at the very utmost, not more than one-fourth the number. Who that has read "Robert Elsmere" will deny its ennobling influence, its power for good, its stimulus to thought? Is it not, then, a boon to the people to have a book of this nature cheap—and the cheaper the better? If we mistake not, the broad principles of free trade underlie this same question, of which the Herald has been so able an exponent for some time past, and which you should be competent to apply with especial aptness.

We take the liberty of addressing this letter to you, because in your editorials you refer directly to our prices on the book, which have been "scrupulously" quoted as the lowest each week.

E. E. HALE PROTECTS HIS COPYRIGHTS IN SHORT STORIES.

REV. EDWARD E. HALE has filed a bill in equity, through Roger Foster, as his attorney, in the U. S. Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, against the publishing house of Porter & Coates, of Philadelphia. He issues an injunction against the alleged piratical publication, in a volume entitled "Modern Tales," of his stories, "My Double, and how he undid me," and "The Man Without a Country," and also the appointment of a receiver of the stereotype plates of the defendants' book. This is the second lawsuit that Mr. Hale has been obliged to bring to protect his rights in "The Man Without a Country." The former suit was brought in New York some years ago against Mr. George Munro, who, having bought the plates of The Lakeside Library, which contained "The Man Without a Country," published the story in The Seaside Library in the belief that he was entitled to do so. Upon the commencement of the suit, he investigated the facts and, discovering his error, promptly paid Mr. Hale his damages, and discontinued the publication of the story. Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., who had published the story without Mr. Hale's consent in their Little Classics, have also recently recognized Mr. Hale's rights and now pay him a royalty.

THE INVASION OF ENGLAND BY AMERICAN PUBLISHERS.

The Lounger in the Critic, Nov. 24.

I WAS talking with an American author who had recently returned from England. "Do you know," he asked, "what strikes me with more force every time I revisit London? It is the American invasion of England. As the years go by there are more and more American plays in English theatres, American books in English shops, and American magazines on English news-stands. Harper's has a circulation in England of over 30,000 copies a month, far more than that of any English magazine selling at the same price. I believe that it is only a question of time when all the leading American publishers will have branches in London. The Lippincotts and the Appletons have agencies now; the Putnams have a store where they sell, not only their own books, but those of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., whose English agents they are. The Harpers keep Mr. Osgood in London, and sooner or later they will see that it is to their interest to enter the English market boldly, publishing their own magazine themselves and their own books too, and bidding against the English publishers for the best books of the leading English authors."

I said that if the Americans did this, they would only be repeating the tactics of the several English houses which have branches here—the Macmillans, the Cassells, and now the Longmans—who not only publish English books in America, but American also. The Macmillans, for example, are the American as well as the English publishers of Henry James and Marion Crawford; the Longmans have just published a book of Mr. Brander Matthews' in New York as well as in London; and Mr. Dunham has developed an American side of Cassell & Co. quite as important as the English side. "That is true," said my friend; "the publishing house of the future, whatever its origin, must be international. At first no doubt the merely local houses on both sides will object, but the movement is inevitable and will prove irresistible." I asked my friend if he thought there would be any English hostility to American publishers in London. "I don't know," he replied with a smile. "Perhaps there may be a little, but probably not more than there is here toward some of the English houses. Do you know that one of the largest book-stores in Broadway has boycotted the latest book of a young American author, or at least refuses to keep it for sale, because it is published here by the branch of an English house?"

THE PIRACY OF ENGRAVINGS.

FREDERICK KEPPEL, the well-known art dealer and critic of New York, writes as follows to the Evening Post, under date of November 9: . . . "The piratical copying of foreign engravings is still worse than the piratical reprinting of foreign books. In the latter case, notwithstanding the shabbiness of the edition, we at least can read exactly what the author has written; but who would read such a book if the text itself were garbled and falsified? This is what is invariably done when an engraving or etching is 'reproduced.' Typography can reproduce the words of a book with absolute accuracy, but nothing except the original copper-plate can yield veritable impressions of an etching. While in Paris last summer I showed one of those pirated 'reproductions' of a fine etching to the etcher himself, and his dismay at the sight of it was actually pathetic. He earnestly begged me to suggest some plan whereby he could, if necessary, make a free gift of the original plate itself to those dreadful Americans, and declared that anything would be better than having his artistic reputation so libelled by the wretched 'reproduction' before him.

"People who can be content with such 'works of art' as these pirated pictures should be equally satisfied with shoddy for cloth and burned peas for coffee. They take as ignoble a view of a work of art as a certain English tavern-keeper once took of port wine. His guest having protested that the beverage served to him under that name was unfit to drink, the amazed landlord defended his wine thus: 'It's black, and it's thick, and it makes you drunk, and what more can you possibly want?'

"The time cannot be far distant when every American will feel profoundly ashamed of this meanest and most inexcusable breach of the ancient commandment, 'Thou shalt not steal.'"

PROPOSALS TO REPRINT LOUDON'S INDIAN NARRATIVES.

ONE of the rarest books in all American history is known to the very few people who ever heard of it as " Loudon's Indian Wars." The full title reads as follows: " A Selection of some of the most interesting Narratives of Outrages, Committed by the Indians, in Their Wars with the White People. Also, An Account of their Manners, Customs, Traditions, Religious Sentiments, Modes of Warfare, Military Tactics, Discipline and Encampments, Treatment of Prisoners, etc., which are better Explained, and more Minutely Related, than has been heretofore done, by any other Author on that subject. Many of the Articles have never before appeared in print. The whole compiled from the best Authorities, By Archibald Loudon." It fills two small 12mo volumes of only 724 pages, all told. The imprints read: " Carlisle: From the Press of A. Loudon (Whitehill) 1808," and, " Carlisle: From the Press of Archibald Loudon, 1811." At the auction sale of the library of Thomas W. Field, his set, which was somewhat defective, brought $200. From an interesting note appended to the title in the Field catalogue the following is taken: " This rarest of books on American Indian history has some bibliographical peculiarities of which that very rarity has hitherto prevented the recognition. A large correspondence with book collectors, and not a little familiarity with the best of public and private libraries, have brought to my notice but three perfect copies of this work. The popularity of its subject, which caused its constant perusal at country firesides combined with the fragility of the soft cotton paper upon which it is printed, insured its rapid destruction."

Of this book the Harrisburg Publishing Company proposes to reproduce an edition, limited to one hundred copies, for subscribers, at ten dollars per set, bound in half morocco, uncut. The set to be used in reprinting is that in the Pennsylvania State Library. Dr. William H. Egle, the librarian, a gentleman of much experience in letters, has undertaken to read the proof. Subscriptions sent to Chas. L. Woodward, 78 Nassau Street, New York, will be numbered and will be good until the list is full.

RETIREMENT OF JOHN BRUCE FORD.

MR. JOHN BRUCE FORD has retired from active connection with the publishing house which, first as J. B. Ford & Co., and for ten years past as Fords, Howard & Hulbert, has been associated with his name.

Mr. Ford was born in England in 1816. His first occupation was that of proof-reader in a printing establishment; but he soon entered the employ of the London Publishing Co., then doing a large business in part-books, and became their Manchester representative. There he succeeded so well that in 1849 they sent him to America to open up the subscription business here, and as it was a new thing he rapidly made it a marked success. At the expiration of some years he was engaged by Messrs. D. Appleton & Co. (1856) to open a subscription business for them, which after a few years put forth their " New American Cyclopædia." The great sales of that standard work are well known. Mr. Ford remained with the Appletons until the fall of 1867, when, taking his son Edward (also with that house), he started the firm of J. B. Ford & Co., having associated with him also his brother-in-law, Mr. J. H. Puleston (then a New York broker, now a London banker and Member of Parliament for Devonshire), Mr. Samuel Wilkeson (then and now Secretary of the Northern Pacific Railway Co.), and Mr. John R. Howard (at that time doing newspaper work in New York, and ever since remaining in the publishing house organized by Mr. Ford).

The new firm was started primarily with the intention of publishing Henry Ward Beecher's " Life of Jesus the Christ," but they of course took up other enterprises, and have been known to the public as publishers of a high grade of books, among their more prominent issues having been Horace Greeley's " Recollections of a Busy Life," Bryant's " Library of Poetry and Song," Mrs. Stowe's " Woman in Sacred History " and several of her novels, Knight's " American Mechanical Dictionary," Eggleston's " Circuit Rider," Tourgee's " A Fool's Errand " and his other novels, Dr. John Lord's " Beacon-Lights of History," some thirty odd volumes of Beecher's sermons and miscellaneous works, his religious weekly, the Christian Union, and many more, during the twenty-one years of their life and work thus far.

Mr. Ford is now seventy-two years of age, and retires to enjoy a well-earned rest. He had two sons in the army during the war; one died of troubles there contracted; while the other, Edward, who was with him in business, developed great enterprise, energy, and inventiveness, not only in publishing matters, but also in mechanical devices, for increasing speed in printing and folding, combinations of machinery for the simultaneous printing, pasting, folding, and cutting of newspapers from long rolls, instead of from sheets of paper, etc., such as all large establishments are now using. He contemplated its application to pamphlets and books also. Capt. Ford died in 1880, and Mr. Ford's retirement now takes the last of the Fords out of the present house, which, however, will still be known as Fords, Howard & Hulbert.

THE AUTHORSHIP OF "PRINCESS NOURMAHAL."

THE discussion relating to the authorship of " Princess Nourmahal " has called out a letter to the Nation from Mr. E. P. Smith (who was the editor of the Cosmopolitan at the time Lew Vanderpoole offered the ms. to that magazine), in which, among other things, he says: " Vanderpoole made such representations in regard to the ' Princess Nourmahal ' that I was induced to accept it. But happily, before a line of it appeared in the magazine, I became convinced that his statements were not to be believed. He had asserted, among other things, that he was a nephew of George Sand; that he had visited her at her home in France; that he had been intrusted by Victor Lamoureaux, his cousin and a co-executor of Mme. Sand, with the manuscript of ' Princess Nourmahal,' and that he had been authorized to translate and publish it in the United States. At my request, Mme. Adèle Roch, of New York, wrote to Baron Dudevant, Mme. Sand's son, in regard to the truth of these claims. What he wrote in reply I will let him say in his own words and in his own language,

His letter is dated Nohant-Vic, October 23, 1887, and the parts referring to the matter in controversy are as follows:

"(1.) Ma mère, Madame George Sand, n'a jamais laissé de manuscrit intitulé 'La Princesse Nourmahal.'"

"(2.) Elle n'a pas institué pour son exécuteur littéraire M. Victor Lamoureux. Je suis son seul exécuteur testamentaire, et je suis seul héritier de tous les manuscrits et autres travaux littéraires qu'elle a laissés, et seul chargé d'en user à ma seule convenance."

"(3.) Elle n'a aucun lien de parenté avec M. Lew Vanderpoole."

"(4.) Le monsieur susdit n'a jamais fait aucune visite à Mme. George Sand, et elle ne l'a jamais ni vu ni connu."

"(5.) Ce M. Vanderpoole n'a jamais été chargé, que je sache, par qui que ce soit, de traiter avec quel que ce soit pour la publication de manuscrits émanants de George Sand, et ces manuscrits n'ont pu lui être confiés, puisque j'en suis seul possesseur comme héritier légitime et direct avec plein pouvoir d'en user comme il me plaira sans que cela regarde personne autre."

"Whatever doubts I may have had in regard to the character of Vanderpoole and the genuineness of the 'Princess Nourmahal' were, of course, removed by this letter. I think that it will also solve any perplexities that librarians may experience when they come to catalogue the story. They need not hesitate to refuse to credit George Sand with the authorship of the story."

We think with the Critic that the only question to be determined now is whether the book is an original work or a translation from some other writer than Mme. Dudevant.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE TARIFF ON BOOKS.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: In your issue of Oct. 27 you reprint from the New York Evening Post an article, "The Tariff on Books," from which I make an extract as follows:

"During the discussions in the Senate upon the International Copyright Bill, a Republican Senator asserted that it was the 'ardent hope and expectation' of his party that the day might never come when the duty shall have been taken off books. Nevertheless, we believe that the rapid approach of that day is inevitable, and that it may safely be predicted that even fifty years hence it will be a matter of astonishment and incredulity that a Senator, supposed to represent that portion of our country which boasts the greatest intellectual advancement, should have ventured to announce that the political party which claimed to embrace the best intellect of this country was possessed, in the year 1888, of an 'ardent hope and expectation' that the time should never come for the abolition of a most reprehensible fraud, affecting the highest interests of the people. For what can be more blamable upon the part of a government with an overflowing treasury than to check, by the interposition of a heavy tax, the influx of the means of moral and intellectual advancement? During these same discussions upon the Copyright Bill, the following dialogue took place in the Senate Chamber:

"Mr. Beck—The object of this bill, I understand, is to disseminate knowledge among men."

"Mr. Chace—Certainly, to encourage it."

"Mr. Beck—Now, why not allow our own people to obtain, in the cheapest way they can, the product of the brains of foreigners? In other words, if we are to help our own people, and at the same time allow the people of all foreign countries to have the reward of their own talents, why not have free trade as regards books among all countries? Then our people would get the cheapest, and everybody would be protected at home and abroad, and the people would get the benefit. That would be fair all around, would it not?"

"Mr. Chace—I would say to the Senator that that is a very Utopian idea. If we could get the foreign countries to do it, perhaps we might; but they do not do it, and they will not do it."

"Mr. Beck—Suppose we make the offer to them to bring their books in free for our people if they will do the same thing, and they would jump at it, I think."

"Senator Beck's argument is incontrovertible, therefore his proposal is 'Utopian.'"

Now permit me to say that the above, like much of the wisdom which emanates from this same New York Evening Post, is fallacy, pure and simple.

Until Mr. Senator Beck and the indorser of his "incontrovertible argument" can devise some means, and enact them into law, whereby all American paper-makers, printers, type-founders, electrotypers, engravers, bookbinders, and publishers, coöperating in the production of books, are released from every form of taxation, national, state, and local, the National Government is in honor and duty bound "to check, by the interposition of a heavy tax, the influx of the means of moral and intellectual advancement" into this country, in competition with its own taxed productions, for a like "means of moral and intellectual advancement." If the "dissemination of knowledge among men" be an overmastering necessity, under a free government like our own, let that government begin by releasing all the workers, toward that end, at home, from all forms of taxation arising out of such work; and then may justly follow freedom to the foreigner, and not before.

The stupendous fallacy at the very foundation of the free foreign trade argument is the assumption that it addresses itself to a community, in which the producers can produce without taxation entering as an element of cost into that production; when no such untaxed community ever has, ever will, or ever can exist on the face of the earth. Mr. Beck's argument is "Utopian," and is therefore inapplicable to real and concrete communities and their industries, whether these industries be those of books, tin plate, cotton-ties, quinine, or wool. The application, in practice, of such arguments as Mr. Beck's to those industries would have the same destructive effects as they have to English agriculture, which, while it pays 14½% of its product in taxes, is forced by a stupid and unnatural Government, under the control of doctrinaires, into a competition, which is free and untaxed, with all the barbarous peoples of the world, who have similar agricultural produce for export. Let not this Government be guilty of such monstrous folly and wickedness, even under pretence of "the dissemination of knowledge among men."

HENRY CARRY BAIRD.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15, 1888.

"(1.) My mother, Madame George Sand, left no manuscript entitled 'La Princesse Nourmahal.'"

"(2.) She did not appoint M. Victor Lamoureux as her literary executor. I am her only testamentary executor, the only heir to all the manuscripts and other literary productions which she left, and the only one entitled to use such at my own option."

"(3.) She is in no way related to M. Lew Vanderpoole."

"(4.) The above gentleman never visited Madame George Sand, and she had never seen him or known him."

"(5.) This M. Vanderpoole was never authorized, to my knowledge, to make arrangements for the publication of manuscripts of George Sand, and such manuscripts cannot have been given him, for I am their only legitimate possessor as direct and legal heir with full power to use them as it pleases me without regard to any other person."

WANTED—3 VOLUMES OF ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA THAT WERE MISDIRECTED.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 23, 1888.

To the Book Trade:

SOME time in June, 1887, Scribner & Welford sent to T. W. Durston, Syracuse, N. Y., care of C. T. Dillingham, two vol. 23, "Britannica," one in cloth, one in half russa, English edition. Through a mistake they were packed by Dillingham in wrong case, and some other bookseller has received them. Will the bookseller who has received them please notify

T. W. DURSTON & Co.

OBITUARY.

JOSEPH F. AINSWORTH.

JOSEPH F. AINSWORTH, the widely known publisher, whose death was noted in our issue for November 3, was born in Bethel, Vermont, on Aug. 31, 1824. He went to Boston in 1840. He finished his education at the Roxbury High School, when John D. Philbrick was master, in 1842. He began his career in business with Crosby & Nichols. Later he became a partner, forming the firm of Crosby & Ainsworth, who did at that time the largest jobbing business in books of any firm in New England. In 1868 Mr. Crosby retired and Mr. Ainsworth, with the late Mr. A. S. Barnes, formed a partnership under the name of Woolworth, Ainsworth & Co., which afterward was changed to Potter, Ainsworth & Co., then to Potter, Knight, Ainsworth & Co., and later it has become Knight, Loomis & Co. Since 1868 Mr. Ainsworth has devoted his entire time and attention to the publishing of school text-books.

Mr. Ainsworth retired from business in March, 1888, after almost half a century of active business life, which had brought him in close and personal contact with all the prominent educators of the country. He had travelled in every State and Territory of the Union, and had given his close and personal attention to all the details of a business which extended from Halifax to the farthest limits of our country, the publications of his firm being used also in the Provinces of Canada, Cuba, the Sandwich Islands, and Japan. He had a marvellous knowledge of men and places, and an unusual ability for the recollection of faces. His kindly, genial nature endeared him to all who knew him. At the time of the census of 1880, repeated efforts were made to obtain a memorandum of the number of publications upon which his name had appeared. It was estimated at that time that his imprint had appeared as publisher upon over 200,000,000 copies of the various publications in use in the schools of the land. His great enterprise and work was devoted to the preparation and introduction of the Payson, Dutton & Scribner Copy-Books. He was also identified with the publication of Hanson's Latin Series, of Crosby's Greek Series, Wilson's Punctuation, Bartholomew's Drawing Series, Gillette & Rolfe's Series of Physics, Blanks for Written Spelling, Tablets for Supplementary Work in Language and Arithmetic, and many other well-known school text-books now published by Knight, Loomis & Co.

Mr. Ainsworth was something more than a mere business man. He loved the home of his birth, and fondly cherished the early associations of his New England life. His home has been for the past few years in Englewood, N. J., but he recently removed to Dedham, Mass., where he lived. He leaves a widow, two sons, and three daughters. The eldest son, F. F. Ainsworth, became associated with his father in business in 1870, and has been ever since connected with the house, and is at present his enterprising representative in Chicago.

HENRY F. WOGLOM.

HENRY F. WOGLOM, of the Goodenough & Woglom Co., died on Sunday, November 11, of typhoid fever, after a fortnight's illness.

Mr. Woglom was born on Staten Island, October 21, 1851, and at the age of fifteen entered the book-store of E. Goodenough, with whom he has since been connected. About six years ago he became a partner in the business, which, thanks to his untiring labor, grew rapidly. Last spring an unfortunate magazine venture swept away, in a few months, the savings of years. An arrangement was made for the continuance of the business, and Mr. Woglom worked day and night in the hope of placing the new structure on a firm basis. There is no doubt that his death was hastened by his unremitting toil. He was a quiet, unassuming man, greatly liked by those who knew him best. Mr. Goodenough says of him: "I have watched Henry as boy and man for more than a score of years, and he was the most strictly honest person I have ever known. I would have trusted him with uncounted millions. He is a sad loss to me." Mr. Woglom leaves a widow and a girl of about thirteen.

NATHANIEL CURRIER.

NATHANIEL CURRIER, widely known as a publisher of lithographs and prints, died at his home, 28 West 27th Street, late Tuesday night, November 20, of heart disease. Mr. Currier caught a severe cold about a week before and it developed into pneumonia. He was rallying from this when his physicians discovered evidences of heart disease. His illness grew more serious, until unconsciousness relieved him from pain.

It is doubtful if any publisher was more widely known throughout this country, England, and France than Mr. Currier. His prints and lithographs, from the cheapest and roughest description to specimens nearly equal in delicacy of color to the original, were distributed in nearly every place of public resort in the country as well as in most homes. He had spent his entire business life in perfecting his art, and long before he retired from business he had placed his firm at the head of the trade in the United States. Mr. Currier was born in Roxbury, Mass., in 1813. He received such schooling as his native village afforded, and then was apprenticed to the lithographic firm of W. & J. Pendleton, of Boston, which then had a considerable reputation, though the art was in its infancy. Mr. Currier remained with this firm until he was graduated as a finished workman. When he reached his majority he removed to Philadelphia for a short time, and then he came to New York City, in 1834. Upon his arrival he founded the business of which he was the head when he retired in 1880 beginning with only two hand presses. In 1850 he associated with him in his business James M. Ives, forming the firm of Currier & Ives, which established a large trade.

Mr. Currier was twice married. His first wife was Miss Farnsworth, of Boston, Mass., who died leaving him one son, Edward W. Currier, who succeeds his father in business. His second wife was Miss Laura Ormsbee, of Fayetteville, Vt., who survives him. He was buried at Greenwood.

KATHLEEN O'MEARA.—Readers of "Madame Mohl," "Diane Coryval," and "Narka" will be grieved to learn the death of Miss Kathleen O'Meara, which occurred in Paris on November 10, of pneumonia, after an illness of ten days. Miss O'Meara was of Irish birth and parentage. Dr. O'Meara, who was with Napoleon I. at St. Helena, was her great-uncle. It was not until after the war of 1870 that she turned her attention to literature, publishing at first under the pseudonym of Grace Ramsey. Her best known books are "Iza's Story," "The Life of Frederic Ozanam," "A Salon Under the Second Empire," "Madame Mohl," and "Narka," although these form only a small portion of her work. She was a contributor to the Catholic World of New York and to several English journals. Her style was graceful and picturesque, and she especially excelled in biography.

TO AN OLD BOOK.

Edgar Greenleaf Bradford, in the Mail and Express.

Old book forlorn, compile of ancient thought,
Now bought and sold, and once more sold and bought,
At last left stranded, where in time I spied,
Borne thither by an impetuous tide,
Well thumb'd stain-mark'd, but new and dear to me,
My purse and thy condition well agree.
I saw thee, yearned, then took thee to my arms,
For fellowship in misery has charms
How long, I know not, thou hadst lain unscanned,
Thy mellow leaves forsook by loving hand—
For there thou wast beneath a dusty heap,
Unknown I raised thee, therefore let me reap
A harvest from thy treasures Thee I found
Thee I'll cherish, 'e'en tho' new friends abound,
I'll still preserve thee as the years go round.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IN February next, Mrs. Humphry Ward, the author of "Robert Elsmere," is expected to visit this country.

THE author of "The Battle of the Swash," which satirizes the American Navy, is said to be James Barton, a nephew of the late Commodore Vanderbilt, and well known years ago in Wall Street.

DR. GEORG EBERS has finished a new story entitled "Die Gred." It treats of Nuremberg in the fifteenth century, and is said to be full of life and action, giving a vivid representation of the old city in its palmy days.

COL. WILLIAM F. FOX, of the New York State Forestry Commission, is engaged upon a work to be entitled "Regimental Losses in the Battles of the Civil War." Col. Fox was Lieutenant-Colonel of the One Hundred and Seventh New York Regiment.

GEN. CHARLES W. DARLING, Corresponding Secretary of the Oneida Historical Society at Utica, has compiled from manuscripts of public records a work which he entitles "New Amsterdam, New Orange, New York." It may be expected early next year.

"As regards the identity of 'The Duchess,'" writes E. W. B. to the Bookbuyer, "my information is that her name is Mrs. Mary Hungerford, and not Mrs. Maggie Argles." In a recent letter to an American friend, writing from her home in Ireland, she says: "There have been foolish reports to the effect that I am dead, or else have sold the right to my nom de plume. Let me here, once and for all, declare that such reports possess no smallest tithe of truth."

PERSONAL NOTES.

A WEDDING of considerable interest to literary and social circles of New York and Boston, as well as to the whole book-trade of this country, occurred in the Hotel Berkeley, Boston, at noon, November 26, when Mr. William Lee, of the firm of Lee & Shepard, and Mrs. S. L. White-Saunders, of New York, the well-known editress of Dress, were united in marriage. The ceremony, according to a despatch to the New York Times, was performed in the apartments of Mr. Shepard at the Berkeley, owing to his serious illness and his desire of witnessing the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. L. T. Townsend, D.D. Mrs. Saunders, who is a very charming and beautiful woman, made even a more charming and beautiful bride, her bridal costume being marked by extreme simplicity and beauty. Mrs. Saunders' mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss White, Miss Lee, Mr. Adams (Oliver Optic), Mr. C. T. Dillingham, a former partner in the firm, Mr. Shepard, and one or two of the immediate friends of the family only were attendant upon the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Lee go upon a short tour, and will reside at the Brunswick upon their return. Mrs. Saunders-Lee is a member of Sorosis and has many friends in New York. We feel certain the whole trade will unite with us in wishing the happy couple every happiness and prosperity.

MR. WALTER S. BUTLER, of the firm of Butler & Gatchell, Selma, Ala., was married to Miss Annie Hubbard, of Montgomery, Ala., November 28. We wish them all success on their new undertaking.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Art Age for November gives as a supplement a handsome plate—Poinsettia Leaves—a color study by Ross Turner.

"BETWEEN THE LINES," a new story of the war, by Capt. Charles King, U. S. A., the author of "A War-Time Wooing," was begun in the number of Harper's Weekly issued November 28.

COLLIER'S Once a Week has secured a story by Amélie Rives (Mrs. Chanler) called "My Lady Tongue," the heroine being a woman with garrulous tendencies. This is said to be the last prose work Mrs. Chanler will produce until she returns from Europe.

THE Book Lover is the title of an attractive monthly journal published by Wm. Evarts Benjamin, 6 Astor Place, N. Y., of which the first issue is dated November. It is intended for those interested in rare and standard books, portraits and views for extra illustration, autograph letters and historical documents, and is edited by Ingersoll Lockwood (Phil. Biblion.) (Small 4°, 7 $\frac{3}{4}$  x 10 $\frac{1}{2}$  in., \$1 per year.)

ELIZABETH ROBINS PENNELL, wife of Joseph Pennell, of Philadelphia, and his companion through Europe on a tricycle, will have a paper on "Wells and Its Cathedrals" in the December number of the Magazine of Art. In this same issue will be the first of two papers on the "Portraits of Dante Gabriel Rossetti," by Wm. M. Rossetti. The portraits of the poet-painter in this number cover the period from his sixth to his twenty-fifth year, and are by himself, Holman Hunt, John Hancock, J. E. Millais, and others.

THE next number of the Century is to contain Henry Ward Beecher's last manuscript—an uncompleted paper on his trip to England in 1863, which he was writing for the Century War Book the last week of his life. The article is supplemented by a brief paper by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D.D., who was an eye-witness and hearer of the famous speech which Mr. Beecher delivered in Liverpool, in 1863, in the presence of a howling mob.

A NEW feature in periodical magazines is announced in the Magazine of Poetry, a quarterly review, whose first number will be issued in January, 1889. A magazine to be devoted exclusively to poetry and the study of poetry. Among the poets to be discussed in early numbers are Mr. Stedman, Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton, T. B. Aldrich, Mr. Stoddard, Lowell, Holmes, Whittier, Boyle O'Reilly, Edgar Fawcett, and Edith Thomas.

MISS WOOLSON's new Harper novel, "Jupiter Lights," will be begun in the January number. Gen. Lew Wallace's historical play, "Commodus," will appear in the same number, with six illustrations by J. R. Weguelin, one of them being the frontispiece. Mr. Clarence Cook will write on "Russian Bronzes." Verestchagin, the Russian artist, will contribute a paper to this magazine some time during the year on "Russian Village Life," and the Vicomte Eugène de Vogtlé, who has just been elected a member of the French Academy, one on "Social and Court Life in Russia."

HARPER & BROS. have published a welcome folio of pictures and stories in a Franklin Square Library extra, containing "Yule-Tide Stories and Pictures," which have adorned the pages of Harper's Weekly and Harper's Bazar in former seasons. The extra is the size of Harper's Weekly, has an ornamental cover, and thirty-two pages of contents. The illustrations are by De Thulstrup, J. W. Alexander, E. A. Abbey, W. A. Rogers, A. B. Frost, Howard Pyle, and others, and prominent among a host of contributors are the names of the late E. P. Roe, W. H. H. Murray, Harriet Prescott Spofford, D. R. Castleton, and Will Carleton.

JOHN G. WHITTIER, who reaches the green old age of eighty-one on the 17th of December, was one of the contributors to the first number of the Atlantic Monthly, in November, 1857; and the purpose which the publishers announce of furnishing in the Atlantic for January, 1889, a fine new steel-engraving of the placid yet strongly marked features of the venerable Quaker poet is therefore most appropriate. It seems scarcely credible that the next generation can be destined to live through such a period of tremendous moral and physical development as Whittier has been privileged to witness during his fourscore years. He was born only a few months after Fulton's first steamboat experiment, and while slavery existed in New York State.

HIS CROWNING EFFORT.—"Ah, Lionel, that poem is beautiful."

"Yes, Agatha, it is the crowning effort of my life."

"And, Lionel—my Lionel!—it will bring you fame, eternal fame, will it not?"

"Yes, Agatha—and perhaps $2."—Life.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—J. E. Thomas, bookseller and stationer, has sold his business to Messrs. Riley & Jones, two young men formerly in his employ. They will continue the business as The Hawks Book-Store. Mr. Thomas takes pleasure in recommending his successors to his friends as young men worthy of confidence and credit.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL.—J. C. Hassinger, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Hassinger & McPhail.

WAXAHOCHIE, TEX.—Arnold & Shelton, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish shortly "Stray Leaves of Literature," a new volume by Frederick Saunders, of the Astor Library, author of "Salad for the Solitary and the Social," etc.

THE FOREST AND STREAM PUBLISHING COMPANY announces "Charley's Wonderful Journeys," a handsomely illustrated new book by C. F. Amery. It belongs to the "Alice in Wonderland" class of juveniles.

REV. JAMES B. CONVERSE, Morristown, Tenn., has in press a volume to be entitled "The Bible and Land," which, in the opinion of Dr. Sherwood, the editor of the Homiletic Review, will "utterly rout and annihilate the most pernicious of Henry George's theories."

"THE Historical Society of Rhode Island," says Mr. S. S. Rider, in his Providence Book-Notes, "has issued a proposal for the publication of a map of the State, 'defining the territories of the Indian tribes, and the Indian names of localities the rein, wherever they can be discovered.'"

IN the matter of Frederick A. Stokes & Brother and Mitchell & Miller vs. White & Allen, Judge Barrett of the Supreme Court, has handed down a decision that the injunction restraining White & Allen from publishing "The Spice of Life" should be continued, with costs.

TICKNOR & Co. have just ready "Wanderers," a collection of the poems of Wm. Winter, dramatic critic of the New York Tribune. It includes eighty of the choicest poems of this well-known and favorite author. It is issued uniform with the author's "Shakespeare's England."

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & Co. have just ready the "Memoirs of General Sheridan." Every precaution has been taken to secure the copyright in England, France, and Germany, and advance orders indicate that the author's estate will realize a comfortable income from the sales of the book.

CUSHINGS & BAILEY, Baltimore, have issued a handy blank-book for receipts entitled "Housekeeper's Casket and Cook's Delight." It will be a welcome addition to the housekeeper's library. An index of red leather tags, with gilt lettering, opens the page to soups, fish, meats, and eighteen other departments of cooking, etc.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have published Amelie Rives' "The Quick or the Dead?" in book-form. Miss Rives has written a preface for this edition, in which she explains her purpose in writing the book, and answers her critics in a trenchant but good-natured manner. They have also just ready Wm. S. Walsh's "Paradoxes of a Philistine."

P. BLAKISTON, SON & CO., Philadelphia, announce "A Text-Book of Midwifery, including the pathology and therapeutics of childbed," for physicians and students, by Dr. F. Winckel, University of Munich, translated by special arrangement with the author. They have just ready "The Physicians' Visiting List for 1889," the 38th year of its publication.

BRENTANO's have in press "The Song of the Palm, and other poems," by Mr. Tracy Robinson. Mr. Robinson is a native of New York State, although part of his life has been passed in the West Indies and on the Isthmus of Panama, which accounts for the tropical character of his poetry. The title-poem of his volume was greatly admired by the late Bayard Taylor.

C. D. RAYMER, Minneapolis, Minn., has just issued a new edition of "Bibb's Complete Library Index," prepared by C. W. Bibb. The index is a stout octavo volume of good writing-paper ruled with the headings Subject, Book and Author, Page, No. of Book, Shelf, with alphabet index-tags, intended to prove serviceable to owners of small libraries. ($1.75.)

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have published, in conjunction with Mr. Elliot Stock, of London, "The Bookworm." It makes an octavo of some four hundred pages, and is devoted to the kind of gossip which gathers like dust upon the tops of old quartos and folios. It was not designed for bibliographical readers, but rather for those who are fain to become such, and who will be helped by the quaint volume.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. have in preparation a novel by Dr. B. W. Richardson, entitled "Son of a Star," a historical romance of Great Britain and Judea in the days of Hadrian; also, "Masks or Faces? a study in the psychology of acting," by William Archer, who takes up afresh the question debated by M. Coquelin and Mr. Irving as to the amount of feeling an actor should have.

"AT the present moment it is interesting to know," says the London Academy, "that one of M. Emile Zola's short nouvelles, 'L'Attaque du Moulin,' has just been issued as a text-book for use in English schools, with notes, etc. (Librairie Hachette). In a letter to the editor, printed in the preface, M. Zola writes: 'Je suis très touché d'apprendre que ma prose si discutée en France pourra être utile à quelque chose en Angleterre.'"

D. C. HEATH & CO. publish this week "Historiettes Modernes," by Prof. Fontaine, of the Washington (D. C.) High School, a collection of interesting reading-matter taken from modern French literature, each dealing with occurrences of every-day life; also, "Leander's Träume-reien," edited with notes by A. N. Van Daell, Professor of Modern Languages in Boston High Schools, made up of good, easy German prose, intended for beginners or intermediate classes.

THE new novel, "Colonel Quaritch, V.C.," just published by Harper & Brothers, will have the effect of turning the tables upon Mr Haggard's hostile critics in England. They have been using the epithet "Rider-Haggard-like" as a synonym for "sensational," and have lately accused the "popular paper-stainer" of having a good deal to do with something they call "the fall of fiction." They must now shift their point of attack, for this last story is not "Rider-Haggard-like" at all, and yet has a charm about it which will make the author more popular than ever with the public.

A LINE of booklets published by Lee & Shepard, for the holiday trade, is styled "Art Scale Souvenirs." The booklet contains an original holiday poem by Mrs. Whiton Stone, entitled "It Is Christmas Day," printed on heavy bristol board, and bound in a pretty decorated cover, the characteristic feature of which is the "art scale" flower ornament. The inventor and patentee of these "art scale" flowers (which are formed of the scales of fish, caught in Southern waters, and colored and curled to imitate perfectly violets and other flowers) is Miss Mary Elizabeth Parker, with whom Lee & Shepard have made arrangements for the use of them as cover decorations for the embellishment of these special booklets.

"A CURIOSITY in the way of a dictionary," says the Boston Traveller, "has just been published by the Canadian Government. It is one of the Micmac language by Rev. S. T. Rand, D.D., of Hantsport, N. S. The aboriginal languages of North America have long been recognized by European philologists to be among the most perfect linguistic systems that are known; and among the Algonquin languages none is more perfect than that of the Micmacs, once a powerful body in that great ethnical division. Heretofore, however, there has been a great difficulty in studying these languages because of the lack of aids, such as grammars and dictionaries, which are both supplied in Dr. Rand's work, so that the importance of the work to scholars will be evident."

GINN & CO. will publish at once a revised edition of Allen & Greenough's "Latin Grammar." They will publish early in January next "Analytic Geometry," by Prof. A. S. Hardy, of Dartmouth College. This work is designed for the student, not for the teacher. Particular attention has been given to those fundamental conceptions and processes which, in the author's experience, have been found to be sources of difficulty to the student in acquiring a grasp of the subject as a method of research. The limits of the work are fixed by the time usually devoted to analytic geometry in our college courses by those who are not to make a special study in mathematics. They have also in preparation "A Vocabulary to the First Six Books of Homer's Iliad," by Prof. Thos. D. Seymour, of Yale College.

The Life and Times of Girolamo Savonarola.

By Prof. PASQUALE VILLARI. Translated by LINDA VILLARI. Portraits and illustrations in photo-gravure. New edition, revised and enlarged. 2 vols., royal 8vo, cloth, $9.00.

This is the work of an eminent scholar, who has made a special study of the period of the Renaissance. It is founded on the results of much original research, not only in the archives of the government, but also among papers preserved by the families of the old Italian nobility. The search has brought to light many new documents of great importance, and in the light of them the author has considered Savonarola both as philosopher and as a statesman. The work may be considered as the only one that does full justice to the life and public services of one of the most remarkable men of his time, and one of the most brilliant lights of mediæval history.

THE

Curse of Marriage.

A WONDERFUL NEW BOOK.

BY WALTER HUBBELL,

Author of "The Great Amherst Mystery," "History of the Hubbell Family," "Marcus Brutus, and Other Verses," Etc., Etc.

THE CURSE OF MARRIAGE is creating an intense sensation among all classes. The true and startling statements made in this powerful domestic story are being corroborated by physicians and the clergy. It is particularly interesting to all persons who have been discussing that momentous question, "Is Marriage a Failure?" and to those who have read "Robert Elsmere." 12mo, paper. Retail price, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. Three illustrations, including the author's portrait.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

HER ONLY BROTHER.

Translated from the German of Heimburg (BERTHA BEHRENS). One vol., 12mo, $1.25.

An interesting story of German country life. Those who like the pure, healthy fiction of the German school, where dramatic effect is attained by working on simple lines, will be enthusiastic over this book, which has attained immense popularity in Germany.

WHAT TO DO.

An Unabridged Translation from the Russian of Count LYOF N. TOLSTOI. In paper covers, 50 cents.

A friend and disciple of Count Tolstoi, having had access to the original ms. of this extraordinary work, made a new and complete translation of it. In its present inexpensive form, the American people have an opportunity to learn the views of the great Russian humanitarian in regard to abolishing beggary, class distinctions, and the abuses of society, and ameliorating the condition of his fellow-men. The views are presented with thrilling eloquence and honesty, and will interest all who think.

SCOTCH CAPS.

By J A K, author of "The Riverside Museum," "Birchwood," "Fitch Club," "Giant Dwarf," etc. 12mo, $1.25.

The increasing popularity of this author, whose books for young people have been warmly recognized for their freshness, originality, and good sense, and have met with unqualified success with the young, insures a good demand for this, her latest story, which will be found of the same standard quality and merit as the six already published.

THE SECRET DOCTRINE:

The Synthesis of Science, Religion, and Philosophy.

BY H. P. BLAVATSKY,
Author of "Isis Unveiled"

With a Copious Index and a Glossary of Terms.

In all ages, and in all lands, the belief has existed that a Divine degree of knowledge is possible to human beings under certain conditions; and, as a corollary to this, the conviction has dwelt in the hearts of the people that living men exist who possess this knowledge—whether they be called sages, philosophers, adepts, or by any other name.

The author of this work has devoted more than forty years of her life to the study and acquisition of this knowledge; she has gained admittance as a student to some of the Secret Schools of this Wisdom, and has learned to know and appreciate its extent and value.

The purpose of the present work, then, is to lay before the thinking world so much of this "Hidden Wisdom" as it is thought expedient to make known at present to men in general.

THE HOUSEHOLD HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES AND ITS PEOPLE, FOR YOUNG AMERICANS.

By EDWARD EGGLESTON.

ILLUSTRATED WITH 75 HISTORICAL MAPS AND DIAGRAMS AND MORE THAN 350.
DRAWINGS BY THE BEST ARTISTS, EXHIBITING HISTORICAL EVENTS, COSTUMES, MANNERS AND CUSTOMS, ARMS, IMPLEMENTS, INVENTIONS, MODES OF TRAVEL, ETC.

A school edition of this work was published in September, and received with instantaneous and remarkable favor. In the present edition "questions" and other features designed specially for the school-room are omitted, the text is rearranged and extended, new illustrations are added, it is printed on larger paper, and bound in a more attractive style, being very largely a different work.

It is illustrated in a novel and strikingly effective manner. Engravings adorn every page, and appear in the text and in the margins. There are full-page illustrations in colors, maps in colors line the covers, and many small maps are inserted in the text. Altogether it is a most attractive volume, and will delight young readers and readers of every age, not only on account of the beauty of its appearance, but because of the charming and animated style of the narrative.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. have just issued twenty-five-cent editions of Mrs. Southworth's popular novel, "The Discarded Daughter," and Zola's "La Terre."

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish at once a posthumous work of Sir Henry Maine, on "International Law." The work was, fortunately, left in manuscript ready for the printer except for some trifling editing of ambiguities. The sheets were seen through the press by Mr. Fred-eric Harrison and Mr. Frederick Pollock, both of Lincoln's Inn, who were appointed two of Sir Henry Maine's executors.

D. APPLETON & Co. have now ready "The Household History of the United States and its People, for Young Americans," by Edward Eggleston. A school edition of this work was published last September. In this edition "ques-tions" and other features designed specially for the school-room are omitted, the text is rearranged and extended, and new illustrations are added, being printed on larger paper, and bound in a more attractive style, it is very largely a different work from the one published before."

TICKNOR & Co. will publish on the 10th inst. the autobiography of the famous "Nun of Ken-mare" (Ireland), Sister Mary Frances Clare (Cu-sack), whose services in the great Irish famine of 1879 are world-famous, and who is equally known and beloved for her long service of devotion and charity for the aid and elevation of working-girls. The book is said to be not a polemic, but a plain statement of facts, confirmed by the official let-ters and documents of people of every grade and nation from Popes Pius IX. and Leo XIII., and English and Irish cardinals and archbishops, down to the simple priests, nuns, and laymen of England, Ireland, and America.

HARPER & BROS. publish this week the hand-somely bound book of "Old Songs," illustrated by Edwin A. Abbey and Alfred Parsons, fully described in our Christmas number. They will publish on the 14th inst. in their popular Young People series another volume by Kirk Munroe, entitled "Crystal Jack & Co.," but which also includes a shorter story, "Delta Bixby;" Mr. Howells' new novel, "Annie Kilburn," which while running as a serial in Harper's Magazine was aptly described as "the vivisection of a New England manufacturing town;" and Walter Be-sant's "All Sorts and Conditions of Men," the novel which initiated the enterprise of the Peo-ple's Palace in London, in the library edition of this author's works which Messrs. Harper are now publishing.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready a new volume by the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Field, in which the famous traveller describes "Gibral-tar," giving an historical survey of the world-famous fortress and town, including an account of the great siege and the fortifications by which the English conquerors have made Gibraltar im-pregnable. "The military and social life of the people also is given much attention, and the volume is handsomely illustrated. "The Diary and Letters of Gouverneur Morris," edited by Anne Cary Morris, also just issued, have natu-rally an interest that is both general and absorb-ing. As Minister of the United States to France, member of the Constitutional Convention, etc., the journal was crowded with material of inter-national interest. It is in two volumes and has two portraits. Owing to the vast amount of labor involved in the manufacture of Paul Du Chaillu's great work, "The Viking Age," the publication of the book has been postponed by the Scribners. The magnitude of the work may be learned from the single fact that there are to be over 1200 illustrations.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

Alger, Horatio, jr. Bob Burton; or, the young ranchman of the Missouri. Phil., Porter & Coates, [1888.] c. 330 p. il. S. cl., $1.25.

Bob Burton's father was a St. Louis merchant, who retired from business and bought a ranch in Missouri. Owing to the enmity of an older man, who owes a grudge to Bob's mother because she would not marry him, the Burton family is made to suffer many hardships. The father dies, and the son goes to work on a boat and finally owns it, shows up the knavery of the enemy, and takes care of his mother all his life.

Allen, Alfred. The heart of Don Vega. West-terly, R. I., G: G. Champlin, 1888. c. 8+156 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Don Vega, being told by doctors that he has heart disease and only five years to live, uses them to perfect an electric heart, which is inserted into his body at a clinic described in ghastly details. The operation is successful, and he is the hero of a sad romance filled with medical and surgical technicalities.

*Allen, Grant. Force and energy; a theory of dynamics. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 18+162 p. O. cl., $2.25.

*American law digest and legal directory, 1888-89; ed. by W: F. Wernse. N. Y., Chic., and St. Louis, W: F. Wernse & Co., 1888. c. 8-778+8 p. O. shp., $5.

American state reports; containing the cases of general value and authority, subsequent to those contained in the "American decisions" and the "American reports," decided in the courts of last resort of the several states; sel., reported, and annotated by A. C. Freeman. V. 2. San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1888. c. 6-1007 p. O. shp., $4.

This volume contains selections from Georgia reports, v. 76; Illinois reports, v. 121; Indiana reports, v. 112; Iowa reports, v. 72; N. Carolina reports, v. 97, 98; N. Y. reports, v. 108; Texas reports, v. 68; Pennsylvania state reports, v. 115-117; Wisconsin reports, v. 69; California reports, v. 73; Rhode Island reports, v. 15.

Andrews, C. Madame's ward: a novel. Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1888. 290 p. D. (Globe lib., no. 80.) pap., 25 c.

Antoninus, Marcus Aurelius. The thoughts of the Emperor M. Aurelius Antoninus; tr. by G: Long. Rev. ed. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, [1888.] 3+315 p. T. (Knickerbocker nuggets.) hf. cl., $1.

*Arnold, Matthew. Essays in criticism: second series. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 7+331 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Austen, Jane. Chapters from Jane Austen; ed. by Oscar Fay Adams. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 8+366 p. por. and il. D. (Cambridge ser. of English classics.) cl., 75 c.

Selected readings from "Pride and prejudice," "Sense and sensibility," "Northanger Abbey," "Mansfield Park," "Emma," and "Persuasion." Preceded by a brief account of Miss Austen's life; articles on her genius, her novels, character, etc. A bibliography completes the volume, which is intended for schools or home reading.

Balzac, Honoré de. Cousin Bette, tr. by Katharine Prescott Wormeley. Bost., Roberts

Bros., 1888. c. tr. 6+557 p. D. hf. mor., $1.50.

Another of Balzac's novels illustrating scenes from Parisian life. The special subject of dissection is "poor relations." Cousin Bette belongs to this class, and is a hard-working old maid, into whose life has come little of the beauty or pleasure that has belonged to her rich relations. Disappointments and poverty sour her, and change a nature that once had much good in it to bitterness and gall. This bitterness she seeks to gratify by bringing all down to her own level of viciousness. She intrigues to ruin all around her, and succeeds admirably. As a picture of the utter rottenness of Parisian middle class life previous to the Second Empire, this novel has never been surpassed.

Bamford, Mary E. Father Lambert's family: a story of old-time France. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. c. 128 p. D. cl., 65 c.

A tale of the persecution of the Huguenots in France in 1572 under Henry IV. The author gives references for her facts to Guizot, d'Aubigné, Miss Yonge, Abbott, etc.

Bardeen, C. W., comp. Song century: collections of standard songs for school and home. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1888. c. 87 p. sq. O. pap., 15 c.

Barron, Elwyn A. The viking; with preface by Lawrence Barrett. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888. c. 141 p. D. cl., $1.

"While all dramas are best appreciated when presented upon their proper arena, the stage, there are many which give great pleasure to the reader in book-form. This story is so engrossing in its love interest, so fascinating in the group of characters illustrating that story in their lives, so replete with those passages of poetical beauty too often sacrificed to the exigencies of dramatic action, that it will be studied by all classes of readers with rising interest. Dealing with that region whence sprang so many of the great romances and dramas, the weird and mystical north, this drama depends for its attractiveness upon the same means as those which the greatest of all dramatists used in 'Hamlet' and 'Macbeth.'"—Preface.

Bates, Arlo. The Philistines. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 3-442 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"The Pagans" [see P. W., Feb. 23, 1884, no. 630] introduced a society of artists in Boston calling themselves by that name. Its hero, Arthur Fenton, married into the ranks of the "Philistines," under which name German university students first designated commonplace, prosaic persons, full of wise saws. Pagan Arthur's position was that matrimony is a matter of temperament and convenience; whereas his Philistine wife held that the marriage ceremony imposes eternal obligations. Mr. Bates pictures the Boston of 1888, with its social occasions of ceremony, dinners and ladies' lunches, club life, studio experiences, social adventures, stock markets, Browning clubs, etc. Helen Greyson, who sacrifices self to principle in "The Pagans," again plays a prominent part. The plot involves a moral tragedy, handled with rare literary skill.

Bercy, Paul. Le second livre des enfants pour l'étude du Français. N. Y., W: R. Jenkins, 1888. c. 148 p. D. cl., 75 c.

This second book, published in response to many demands, is composed of anecdotes, object lessons, the simplest rules of grammar, and carefully graded exercises. Many cuts illustrate the subjects of the object lessons.

Berean beginners' lesson-book on the International [Sunday-school] lessons for 1889.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

- N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, [1888.] c. 223 p. Tt. (Berean ser., no. 3.) bds., 15 c.
- Berean intermediate lesson-book on the International [Sunday-school] lessons for 1889. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, [1888.] c. 198 p. Tt. (Berean ser., no. 2.) bds., 15 c.
- Berean senior lesson-book on the International [Sunday-school] lessons for 1889. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, [1888.] c. 224 p. Tt. (Berean ser., no. 1.) bds., 15 c.
- Berger, François. French conversations, idiomatic expressions and proverbs. N. Y., F. Berger, 853 Broadway, [1888.] c. 32 p. S. pap., 25 c.
The author advocates a conversational system of teaching the French language opposed to the "Natural Method."
- Berneike, Marion L., M.D. Astronomy note-book for high schools, academies, and colleges. N. Y., A. Lovell & Co., 1888. c. 7+36 p. interleaved, Q. pap., 40 c.
The object is to provide a suitable astronomy note-book, together with a condensed statement of the chief facts of descriptive anatomy.
- Bernhardt, W., ed. Deutsche novellenbibliothek, zur benutzung in schulen, höheren lehranstalten, sowie für das privat-studium ausgewählt und mit etymologischen, grammatischen u. erklärenden noten versehen. 2. Bd. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1888. c. 6+152 p. S. cl., 60 c.
Six short stories, in a light and cheerful vein, by contemporary and well-known novelists, chosen with reference to simplicity of style and wealth of phraseology. The notes are practical and helpful especially to independent thought and reasoning.
- Black, W. Nelson. Ultimate finance, a true theory of coöperation. N. Y., Humboldt Pub. Co., [1888.] c. 46 p. O. (Humboldt lib., no. 102.) pap., 15 c.
Claims to find in the ordinary methods of finance a way through which all men may control the capital needed for their own protection.
- Bradley, Mrs. Nellie H. A temperance picnic with the old woman who lived in a shoe. N. Y., National Temp. Soc. and Pub. House, 1888. c. 45 p. O. pap., 25 c.
An entertainment or cantata, adapted to temperance organizations, schools, or social gatherings. It consists of songs, recitations, choruses, solos, duets, colloques, etc., giving much temperance information in an entertaining manner.
- Brine, Mary D. Echoes from storyland. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] c. 4+362 p. 1 il. S. cl., $1.25.
A collection of thirty short stories and poems relating to various holidays, games, and home subjects of interest to girls and boys.
- Burrell, D. Ja., D.D. The religions of the world: an outline of the great religious systems. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1888.] c. 332 p. D. cl., $1.25.
The ten chapters consider, in their order, Fetichism; The religion of ancient Egypt; Zoroastrianism, Brahmanism, Buddhism; The religion of Greece; The religion of the Norsemen; Confucianism, Islam; The true religion. Under their several heads each system is outlined, so that readers acquire a knowledge of the character of all the great religions of the world. The book is written in a popular style.
- Burrows, G. Advanced growth in grace: the fulness of the Holy Spirit. San Francisco, Cal., Brier & Dobbins, 42 Gerry St., 1888. 50 p. O. pap., 25 c.
A sermon (reprinted from the Evangelical Review, of Gettysburg, Pa., April, 1868), "rich in spiritual thought, abundant in happy allusions, in spiritual authorities, and in living examples."
- Burt, B. C. A brief history of Greek philosophy. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1889[1888.] c. 13+296 p. D. cl., $1.25.
Gives a concise but comprehensive account of Greek philosophy on its native soil and in Rome. The work is critical and interpretative, as well as purely historical, its paragraphs of criticism and interpretation, however, being, as a rule, distinct from those devoted to biography and exposition. The subject-matter is distinctly outlined throughout the volume by paragraph headings. The volume contains a full topical table of contents, a brief bibliography of the subject it treats, and numerous foot-notes.
- Butts, Mrs. M. F. The princess, the pig, and Etsettery; ill. by C. W. Sumner. Buffalo, N. Y., Moulton, Wenborne & Co., [1888.] c. 3-40 p. O. bds., 40 c.
A quaint little story about a little girl named "Etsettery Budd." The pleasant style of the author and the pleasant pictures make it a very desirable book.
- Campbell, Helen. The American girl's home-book of work and play. New ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. '83. 14+431 p. il. O. cl., $1.75.
Five years have passed since the first edition of this work was prepared. It will still be found most useful and entertaining for young girls. Two chapters are added to the present edition; one on "Candy making," which has proved itself a practical and profitable home occupation; the other on "A new home industry," a new form of mosaic-work both pretty and practical.
- Cameron, Mrs. H. Lovett. This wicked world: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889 [1888.] 4+304 p. S. (Lippincott's ser. of select novels, no. 92.) pap., 25 c.
The heroine first appears in her pretty home, wearied to death of the care of a frivolous, selfish mother, who imagines herself an invalid. This mother married her vulgar physician, and her daughter, disappointed in her love for a talented member of Parliament, marries an old lover of her mother's. She begins a salon in London, and her friends, enemies, pursuits, and social successes furnish the incidents. The plot involves three romances. The object of the story is to show how men and women spoil each other's lives and unconsciously lower each other's natures.
- Carlyle, T. Essays on Burns and Scott. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] 3-192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 3, no. 147.) pap., 10 c.
- *Champlin, J. Denison, jr., and Apthorp, W. F., eds. Cyclopaedia of music and musicians. In 3 v. V. 1. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1888. il. Q. parchment, $25.
- Chaucer, Geoffrey. Chaucer; selected and edited by F. Noël Paton. N. Y., T. Whitaker, 1888. 35+290 p. T. (The Canterbury poets.) cl., 40 c.
Contains an introduction and Chaucer's representative poems, such as "The Booke of the Dutcheesse," "The assembly of foules," "Troilus and Cressida," "The house of fame," "The legend of good women," "The Canterbury tales," etc.
- Chester, J. M.D. Ruth, the Christian scientist; or, the new hygeia. Bost., H. H. Carter & Karrick, 3 Beacon St., 1888. c. 343 p. D. cl., $1.25.
Christian science claims that an intelligent Christian faith could be more utilized in the healing of the body, and that a large class of diseases now treated wholly with drugs could be better treated by the practitioner availing himself of that wonderful power of mind over body which the Great Physician has himself established. Ruth speaks words taken from the most accepted writers among Christian scientists. Esther represents the kindred, but distinct belief—faith healing. Dr Strong stands for the ultra-materialists of the medical profession. A thread of romance strings together the various theories.
- Christy, Rob., comp. Proverbs, maxims, and phrases of all ages; classified subjectively and arranged alphabetically. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. '87. 2 v., 7+665; 3+602 p. D. hf. mor., $5.
The method of arrangement in this collection is largely in its favor for reference. If one knows the chief word in a proverb or the chief sentiment, he will easily find it here under the subject. The subjects then run alphabetically through the two volumes. The compiler's principal aims have been, aside from making a full collection, to exclude all coarse or impure proverbs, those merely local, or consisting of allusions of a temporary character, or to individuals not historic. The work is finely printed and well bound.

Ohuroh, Rev. Alfred J. Three Greek children ; a story of home in old time ; il. after Flaxman and the antique. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889 [1888.] 4+205 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Gorgo, Rhodium, and Hipponax, two girls and a boy, were children two thousand years ago, living first in Athens and then in a country palace near the world-famed field of Marathon. Their lessons are made bright and instructive by the charmingly told stories of Theseus, Atalanta, Ulysses, and other mythological characters. The illustrations are after Flaxman and are effectively printed in terra-cotta tint. Mr. Church is an accomplished restorer of the antique and has a keen discrimination for points appealing to child-like imaginations.

Ohurohill, Gertrude H., ed. A birthday-book of musicians and composers ; including representative American musicians, composers, artists, and critics. Bost., Oliver Ditson & Co., [1888.] c. '87. no paging, S. cl., $1.25.

On one side, under dates, are the names of musicians, etc., with a pertinent quotation relative to music. The opposite pages offer corresponding blanks for autographs.

Olissold, H. R. Pocket lessons for Sunday-schools, 1889 : containing only the scripture of the International lessons, with golden texts and memory verses. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., 1888. c. 79 p. Tt. pap., 5 c. ; leatherette, 10 c. ; interleaved, 15 c.

Comstock, J. H. Introduction to entomology ; with original illustrations drawn and engraved by Anna B. Comstock. Pt. 1. Ithaca, N. Y., J. H. Comstock, 1888. c. 4+234 p. O. pap., $2.

"This work has been prepared to meet the demand for a text-book which shall enable students to acquire a thorough knowledge of the elementary principles of entomology, and to classify insects by means of analytical keys similar to those used in botany. By means of the keys the student can readily determine to what family any insect of which he has a specimen belongs. In many cases tables of genera are also given ; and the more common or conspicuous species in each family have been described." Nearly all the illustrations are original and have been drawn and engraved by Mr. Comstock. Author is Professor of Entomology and General Invertebrate Zoölogy in Cornell University, and was formerly United States Entomologist.

Connolly, C. Cashel. Songs of the Celt. Balt., J. Murphy & Co., 1888. c. 416 p. D. cl., net, $1.25.

A collection of short poems.

Cornoz, Suzanne. Our children and their friends ; from the French by Evelyn Shepard. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1888. c. tr. 4-251 p. il. S. cl., $1.25.

These stories are great favorites with very young French children. The translator has caught the author's simple style. The subjects are such familiar ones as sunbeams, chickens and ducks, little cherries, rabbit families, torn dresses, little knives, baby donkeys, sparrows, gnats and spiders, etc.

Counter-currents : a story ; by the author of "Justina." Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 303 p. S. (Handy lib., no. 4.) cl., 75 c.

In the health-restoring regions of southern California are brought together the self-made man of a prosperous western city, with his family, and a family with generations of cultured ancestors. The hero is the adopted son of the western merchant, a scholar with diplomas from American and European institutions of learning, with talents of most varied range, and a taint of hereditary weakness that almost spoils his career. The influence for good is the energetic daughter of culture, whose noble thoughts fire him to noble effort. The great western railway strikes are effectively brought in. The duty of man to his fellow-man is the keynote of a strong and poetic story.

Ouyler, Theodore L., D.D. Newly enlisted : a series of talks with young converts. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] c. 160 p. S. cl., 50 c.

The writer holds that Christian converts are like newly enlisted soldiers in an army, and need the drill of an older soldier. He points out the things to be done and left undone in a warm, encouraging way.

Dana, Katharine Floyd. Our Phil, and other stories ; il. by E. W. Kemble. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 7+147 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Three sketches of negro character published in the Atlantic Monthly some fifteen years ago under the assumed name of Olive A. Wadsworth. The author died in 1886. Our Phil, Aunt Rosy, and Marty are all slaves, and their peculiarities of character are delightfully drawn. The illustrations now appear for the first time, and add to the appearance of a neat book. "Aunt Rosy's chest" and "Marty's various mercies" are the titles of the other stories.

Defoe, Dan. From London to Land's End ; [also.] Two letters from the "Journey through England by a gentleman." N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] 192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 3, no. 149.) pap., 10 c.

*Derby, J. S. General assignments for benefit of creditors : a complete digest of decisions, the rules of practice and statutes of New York. 2d ed., by Morris Cooper. N. Y., Diossy & Co., 1888. c. 17+118 p. O. hf. shp., $1.50.

*Dickinson, W. Howship, M.D. The tongue as an indication in disease ; being the Lumelian lectures delivered at the Royal College of Physicians, in March, 1888. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 8+114 p. O. cl., $2.50.

Dimond, Mary B., comp. A handbook for pilgrims ; thoughts by the way for those who journey through this fair world on their way to one still fairer. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888. c. 3-82 p. sq. T. pap., 75 c.

Bible texts, hymns, and selections from religious writers, grouped under the following headings : The journey ; The country ; The inn ; The rainy day ; The city ; The mountains ; The valley ; The river ; The sea ; The storm ; The foreign land ; The day of rest ; The desert ; Going home.

Eggleston, E. The Graysons : a story of Illinois ; il. by Allegra Eggleston. N. Y., The Century Co., 1888. c. '87. 8+362 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A settlement of Illinois two generations ago is peopled by the imagination which produced "Roxy" with a dozen characters of the strongest individuality, who take part in a story of hearts and homes. Tom, a reckless scion of the Graysons, is tried for murder. His lawyer is Abraham Lincoln. The court scene is said to be founded on an incident in his practice. Tom's sister, his mother, the school-teacher, the village beauty, the man about the Grayson place, are all exquisitely finished studies of human nature, surrounded by early western conditions. Has appeared during the year in the Century.

Eichendorff, Jos. von, [Freiherr.] Leaves from the life of a good-for-nothing ; from the German by Mrs. A. L. Wister ; il. by Philipp Grot Johann and Edmund Kanoldt. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889 [1888.] c. ed. 5-115 p. sq. O. cl., $5 ; leath., $6 ; tree cf., $10.

Printed on fine plate paper, with broad margins, and il. with full-page and smaller photogravures in the text. This charming novel is gotten up for a holiday gift-book, and is very handsomely presented.

Ellis, E. S. Wyoming. Phil., Porter & Coates, [1888.] c. 371 p. il. S. (Wyoming Valley ser., no. 1.) cl., $1.25.

Wyoming lies in the valley of the Susquehanna in Pennsylvania. In the year 1778, during the American Revolution, the Tories and their Indian allies fell upon the inhabitants, and the incidents of that event are told in this initial volume of a series to which it gives its name. The hero is a young lieutenant in the Continental army.

*Elliot, Hon. Hugh. Life of Sidney, Earl of Godolphin, K. G., Lord High Treasurer of England, 1702-1710. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 8+425 p. O. cl., $5.

*Euripides, Heracleides; ed. with introduction and notes by C. S. Jerram. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. S. (Clarendon Press ser.) cl., 75 c.

Finley, Martha F. [Martha Farquharson.] Christmas with Grandma Elsie. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1888.] c. 2+317 p. il. D. (Elsie ser.) cl., $1.25.

The various "sisters, cousins, and aunts" composing the year by year increasing Elsie's relatives gather from the Oaks, the Laurels, the Pines, Woodburn, Fairview, and Roselands to spend their Christmas at Ion with the original Elsie, now a delightful old grandmother. They eat, drink, and are merry for a week, talk over the best way to spend $10,000 a year in charities, and finally have a little adventure with burglars.

Fiske, J. The critical period of American history, 1783-1789. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 17+368 p. D. cl., $2.

This book is devoted to the obscure period between the close of the Revolution and the definite organization of the present Constitutional Government of the United States. It is the result of minute research, and sheds a flood of light on the various opposing views and interests then prevailing in the thirteen States with regard to the most desirable form of government, or the form most likely to be satisfactory in practical operation. The various general conventions and legislative proceedings in the several States, which have a bearing on this subject, are carefully described; the commercial, industrial, and financial condition of the country is accurately portrayed; and, in short, the history of the country for those years, hitherto very imperfectly understood, is made thoroughly clear and intelligible by virtue of Mr. Fiske's profound study of the subject and his remarkably lucid style.

Franchillon, R. E. A Christmas rose: a blossom in seven petals. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 1+224 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 632.) pap., 30 c.

The story opens in the eighteenth century, some years after the battle of Culloden. The action turns upon a new conspiracy to restore the so-called "Pretender" to the throne, and its unfortunate failure. The "Young Chevalier," otherwise "King James," is represented as being in England, and the centre of the conspiracy. Sweet Hetty Cleve, who bravely gives her husband up to the "cause," and uses all her bright intelligence to release Nicholas Fenwick, the arch conspirator, from jail, is a charming character.

Gibbons, Agnes. Ready, aye ready. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bro., [1888.] c. 244 p. D. cl., $1.

Scene laid in an English factory town. The rector is bitten by a mad dog while rescuing some children. He says nothing of it, but the next day preaches a sermon on the text "Ready, aye ready," which has a lasting influence upon many characters in the story.

Gill, G., comp. Charming songs for little warblers: collection of 78 songs arranged for the pianoforte or harmonium, culled from the children's music of every land. Bost., Boston School Supply Co., 15 Bromfield St., [1888.] c. 88 p. obl. T. (Boston school ser.) bds., 25 c.

Good things (The) of Life: fifth series. N. Y., F. A. Stokes & Bro., 1888. c. 64 p. il. obl. O. cl., $2 50.

A collection of some of the most recent and best plates out of the society paper Life. They are as bright and witty as the previous collections, and "hit" off in a very clever way the foibles of society.

Goodyear, W. H. A history of art. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1888. c. 14+315 p. il. O. cl., $3.

Intended for the school-room. The subject is divided into three parts, Architecture, Sculpture-Painting. The publishers state that "the specific aim of the book has been to present such an amount and choice of illustration as have never been previously attempted in similar works, and as a class-book to present the subject in such a way that the use of still further illustration for the combined class will be easy and desirable." The illustrations, which are numerous, are reproductions of photographs.

Greely, A. W. American weather: a popular exposition of the phenomena of the weather. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1888. c. 11+286 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

The object of this work is to give clearly and simply, without the use of mathematics, an idea of meteorology in general, supplemented by climatic data regarding temperature, rainfall, wind, and storms, especially of our own country. There are chapters on cyclones and hurricanes, cold waves and blizzards, tornadoes, hail, thunder, and dust storms, and other interesting phenomena of American weather. The book is illustrated with thirty-two engravings and twenty-four charts. Gen. Greely is Chief Signal Officer of the Army Signal Office at Washington.

Haantze, Robert, comp. Historical tables: condensed key to universal history, for use in common, grammar, and high schools. Chic., Western School Supply Co., 623 W. Adams St., 1888. c. 32 p. S. cl., 35 c.; pap., 25 c.

Haggard, H. Rider. Colonel Quaritch, V.C.: a tale of country life. N. Y., Harper, 1889 [1888.] 4+333 p. il. S. hf. cl., 75 c.; pap., 25 c.

A story of the landed gentry of England. A proud old squire, his noble daughter, twenty-six years old, the lawyer and his wife, the holder of mortgages on the squire's property, and the hero, a retired soldier, are the characters. The author has not introduced the supernatural, but there is a hidden treasure and a cipher which leads to its finding that involve his customary imagination and intricate plot. The moral nature of a few of the characters is strangely warped. A match at pheasant shooting is of special interest.

Hague, Parthenia Antoinette. A blockaded family: life in southern Alabama during the civil war. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 5+176 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Told by a young woman who was school-teacher in Alabama from 1861 to the end of the war. She gives details of the hardships endured by the southern people, of their many makeshifts to obtain clothes and food, and of the freeing of the slaves and the gradual change in the conditions of southern life. The writer's father and brothers fought in the southern army. She believes that patriotism made the South secede and patriotism now makes it loyal to the stars and stripes.

Hale, E. E. The man without a country; il. by F. T. Merrill. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1889 [1888.] c. 106 p. O. cl., $2 50.

Many graphic pictures interpret the story of Philip Nolan, suspected of treason, who wished he might "never hear of the United States again." His punishment was literally such as he asked for—he was sent aboard of an American man-of-war, but never again "heard of the United States"—no one being allowed to speak to him on this subject. The story was first published 25 years ago and had an immense sale. In its new illustrated shape, it should again obtain many readers. Page and text pictures adorn it, and handsome paper, print, and binding add to its attractiveness.

Hanson, J. W., D.D. The heaven at work; or, some of the concessions of orthodoxy in the direction of universalism. Bost., Universalist Pub. House, 1888. c. 2+177 p. S. cl., 50 c. The heaven is Universalism, which, according to the author, has now found its way into all religions and made them all more effective. He cites the articles of the various Christian creeds and shows their present modifications owing to this new and elevating heaven.

Harland, Marion, [pseud. for Mrs. M. V. H. Terhune.] A gallant fight. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1888.] c. 3+414 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Mrs. Richard Phelps, the wife of a well-to-do judge living in an old New England manor-house adopts a young and beautiful girl. After this girl has been killed by a railway accident, in which the judge is also severely injured, Mrs. Phelps discovers a secret, which, for the good of all, she keeps, and her life for many years, during which the family travel to restore the judge's health, is one long, gallant fight with herself. She has a woman friend who plays a villain's part in first wedding and finally unravelling the plot.

Harper's young people, 1888. N. Y., Harper, [1888.] c. 6+928 p. il. Q. cl., $3.50.

Alden's "New Robinson Crusoe" and Mrs. Lillie's "Household of Glen Holly" are the two complete serials of the bound volume of Harper's Young People for 1888. Howard Pyle's fairy stories have run through the year, and there has been the usual bountiful supply of useful information on all kinds of timely topics, and a great variety of short stories, jokes, letters, etc., all profusely and appropriately illustrated.

Hawthorne, Julian. The professor's sister: a romance. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1888.] c. 3-180 p. D. pap., 50 c.; $1.

The professor, his sister, and his beautiful twenty-five-year-old stepmother, together with three American students of metaphysics in the University of Dresden, are the characters in this romance told by one of the latter. All the men have theories of matter, nature, future life, spiritism, occult science, electricity, etc. Jealousy between the two women leads to the death of the professor's sister, who after two years is raised from death by her brother by a process to which he has devoted his life. Her husband's ideas of intercourse between the dead and living are poetic.

Hayes, H. (psued.) Better times stories; by the author of "The story of Margaret Kent." Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 400 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Tales, "written in the better times when the author was younger, when stories made themselves out of instinct and sympathy, rather than from experience or observation, and when painstaking realism was not thought of." Gathered from the Atlantic Monthly, Good Company, Sunday Afternoon, Appleton's Journal, and the Galaxy.

Heimbürg, W. [psued. for Bertha Behrens.] Her only brother, from the German by Jean W. Wylie. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. tr. 406 p. D. cl., $1.25.

When "her only brother" was fifteen years old, little Anne Marie was laid in his arms by his mother, and at her death-bed Klaus promised never to leave his sister. He sternly put aside love and marriage for her sake, and when she was nineteen she did the same for him. They lived in an old German castle with a dear old maiden aunt, whose diary furnishes the chief part of the tale. Her only brother has reached the ripe age of thirty-five when a little fairy sprite, selfish, pleasure-loving in all things, the opposite of his sister, dances and sings her way into his heart. The story passes over thirty years, and the life of Anne Marie's only brother is read by another generation at the cradle of another Klaus.

Herrick, Mrs. Sophia Bledsoe. The earth in past ages. N. Y., Harper, 1888. c. 7+241 p. il. sq. S. cl., 60 c.

An elementary treatise upon geology. Mrs. Herrick wins the attention of the young reader at the start by leading him to regard as data for science familiar facts not hitherto considered by him in this light, for example, the discovery of sandstone having a surface like that of sand rippled by the sea, or bearing the delicate imprint of sea weed, or holding imbedded within it the remains of a star-fish or an exquisite shell. She next excites curiosity to know the meaning of these phenomena. The child, with imagination stimulated and guided by the author, feels that he is coöperating with her in tracing effects to causes, and experiences in a certain degree the pleasure of original discovery.

Higgins, L. A. The court of King Christmas: Christmas entertainment for young folk with simple incidental music and calisthenics. N. Y., Harold Ruorbach, [1888.] c. 26 p. D. pap., 25 c.

The action takes place in Santa Claus Land on Christmas eve, and represents the bustling preparations of St. Nick and his attendant worthies for the gratification of all children the next day. The cast may include as many as 36 characters, though fewer will answer, and the entertainment represented on a platform, without troublesome properties. The costumes are simple, and the incidental music and marches easily managed.

Higginson, T. Wentworth. Travellers and outlaws; episodes in American history. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 7-340 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Papers on. The old Salem sea captains. A revolutionary congressman on horseback. A New England vagabond. The Maroons of Jamaica. The Maroons of Surinam; Gabriel's defeat. Denmark Vesey. Nat Turner's insurrection. An appendix showing authorities for the narratives. Some of the sketches were originally published in the Atlantic Monthly, Harper's, and the Courier.

Hinman, Walter N. Under the maples; a story of village life. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., 1888. c. 399 p. D. (The household lib., v. 2, no. 15.) pap., 25 c.

Mapleville represents a quiet, peaceful village with a bustle of prosperity, such as are found in numbers in the Eastern and Middle States. A child of four is left by a woman in a travelling show to the tender care of the innkeeper of the little town, an old motherly woman living with her grandson. He protects the little girl all through her young life, and finally suffers much to shield her from imaginary wrong-doing. A healthy story for young people.

Holbrook, M. L., M.D. Eating for strength, or, food and work, and their relation to health and strength; with 500 recipes for wholesome foods and drinks. N. Y., M. L. Holbrook Co., 25 Bond St., 1888. 250 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Holmes, Margret. Dialogues for Christmas. N. Y., The De Witt Pub. House, [1888.] c. '87. 119 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Holmes, Margret, comp. Recitations for Christmas. N. Y., The De Witt Pub. House, [1888.] c. '87. 122 p. S. pap., 25 c.

Holt, Emily Sarah. Out in the forty-five; or, Duncan Keith's vow: a tale of the last century. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1888.] 384 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.50.

A tale of the days of the "Young Pretender" in 1745. An English Tory family play an important part, first in England, then in Scotland. Whitefield and Wesley are introduced.

Homér. The Iliad; ed. with English notes and introduction by Walter Leaf. V. 2, Books 13-24. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 17+505 p. O. cl., $4.

Hosmer, Ja. K. The life of young Sir Henry Vane, Governor of Massachusetts Bay, and leader of the long Parliament; with a consideration of the English commonwealth as a forecast of America. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 29+581 p. por. O. cl., $4.

Young Sir Henry Vane was one of the most interesting and noteworthy figures in the early colonial history of Massachusetts. He was also intimately connected with the leaders of the Commonwealth in England. Professor Hosmer, whose excellent book on "Samuel Adams" is one of the notable volumes in the series of American Statesmen, has made a prolonged and exceedingly careful study of the career and times of Vane, examining minutely the full records in the British Museum, and has produced a book of great biographical and historical interest. It is, as few books could be, of almost equal interest to Englishmen and Americans, and will serve to bring out into clearer relief one of the most striking and admirable characters of a memorable era.

Humphrey, Frances A. Adventures of early discoverers. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1885.] 96 p. il. O. cl., $1.

In this volume, written for young readers, the author tells the story of navigators of three and four hundred years ago, who bravely made their way across the Atlantic in the frail vessels, and met the most extraordinary adventures in the new countries where they landed. The list includes Columbus, Americus Vesputius, Sebastian Cabot, Sir Francis Drake, Walter Raleigh, and Ferdinand de Soto.

Hurlbert, W. H. Ireland under coercion: the diary of an American. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 21+475 p. D. cl., $1.75.

William Henry Hurlbert will be recalled as an American journalist of great prominence in New York some years back. In the first half of this year he made a series of visits to Ireland to endeavor through actual observation to throw some light upon the many social and political problems now disturbing it. His views are all rose-colored, and against the accepted ones generally. He did not find the country, as a whole, either misgoverned or ungovernable, nor did he discover any outward and visible signs of grinding misery, such as he saw in Belgium.

His observation of the working of so-called "coercion" does not carry out the statements of the Nationalists, nor have his visits made him strongly in favor of "home rule."

Hurlbut, Rev. Jesse L., and Simpson, Rev. H. M. Lesson commentary on the International Sunday school lessons for 1889. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. c. 262 p. il. and maps, O. bds., $1.25.

This work began its history with the Borean lessons for 1872 as the "Lesson Compend," prepared by Rev. J. H. Vincent and Rev. G. H. Whitney, and has been continued upon substantially the same plan, though enlarged and improved, until the present time. It does not design to give the original thoughts of its editors, but to present the results of the best thinkers upon the lessons of the year.

Illustrated Catholic family annual for 1889, with calendars calculated for different parallels of latitude, and adapted for use throughout the U. S. N. Y., The Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., [1888.] c. 156 p. D. pap., 25 c.

India, pictorial and descriptive, by the author of "The Mediterranean Illustrated." N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1888. 6-271 p. il. O. cl., $4.

A contribution towards the end of diffusing trustworthy information about England's vast Eastern dependency. It is a book of description, not of criticism. The religious and government of India are pictures as they exist without political or sectarian comment. It is profusely illustrated, and although written to quicken an anxiety in English people to promote the welfare of their far-off fellow-subjects, it is full of matter of universal interest.

Jak, (pseud.) Scotch Caps. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., 1888. c. 4+308 p. 1 cl. D. cl., $1.25.

A story of a boys' academy situated in a pretty harbor town of the Eastern states. The "Scotch Caps" was a society started in opposition to the "Off Shores" school club found guilty of stealing and general misdemeanor. The hero, Robert, is a manly, boyish boy.

Jebb, R. C., ed. Selections from the Attic orators, Autophon, Andocides, Lysias, Isocrates, Isæus; ed. with notes. 2d ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 24+434 p. S. cl., $1.50.

Johnson, Miss K. H. Peace; il. by E. L. H. Chic., C. H. Whiting, 1888. c. 17 p. il. obl. Tt., torchon, ribbon-tied, 25 c.

Jones, Leonard A. A treatise on the law of mortgages on personal property. 3d ed., rev. and enl. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 16+804 p. O. shp., $6.50.

Kay, D. Memory: what it is, and how to improve it. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 26+334 p. D. (International education ser., no. 8.) cl., $1.50.

Many years ago, Mr. Kay contributed an article on "Mnemonics" to the 8th ed. of the "Encyclopædia Britannica" and since that time, and indeed before, the subject of memory has had for him a special interest. The more he studied systems of mnemonics, the less satisfactory did he find them to be. It was only when he came to view the subject in connection with the facts of physiology that he arrived at what he believes to be a right understanding of it. Hence, he devotes much space to the physiological side of the question, showing the close and intimate connection that subsists between mind and body. His statements are supported by copious quotations from the literature of the subject.

Kebbel, T. E. Life of George Crabbe. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1888. 4-157+5 p. D. (Great writers.) cl., 40 c. Contains a classified bibliography by J. P. Anderson.

Keener, W. Albert. A selection of cases on the law of quasi-contracts, V. 1. Cambridge, C. W. Sever, 1888. c. 12+541 p. O. hf. shp., net, $11.50.

Kercheval, G. Truman. Lorin Mooruck, and other Indian stories. Bost., J. Stillman Smith & Co., 1888. c. 8+96+27+21 p. D. cl., 75 c.

"Threemen of Wallowa" and "Samuel, an Arapahoe," are the other stories. E. E. Hale writes an introductory note saying that the incidents described are substantially true, and Bishop Whipple, of the P. E. Church, writes a preface. He says the reform in the Indian policy of the United States "needs and must have the best efforts and warmest care of the largest-hearted men of the nation, or the last state will be worse than the first." All three stories are sad.

Lamartine, Alphonse-Marie L. de. Selected poems from "Premières et nouvelles méditations;" ed. with biographical sketch and notes by G. O. Curme. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1888. c. 32+179 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Contains a warm and instructive biographical sketch and many grammatical, explanatory, and literary notes. Born of royalist parents in 1790, Lamartine broadened until he became a leader in the party of liberal political ideas. He became the historian of the great revolution, and we might almost say, the author of the revolution of 1848. All his poems are inspiring to higher motives.

Lanciani, Rodolfo. Ancient Rome in the light of recent discoveries. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 29+329 p. il. O. cl., $6.

The excavations which the Italian Government has made since 1871, under Professor Lanciani's observation, and latterly under his direction, are here described. They have brought to light the Forum, the House of the Vestal Virgins, the Palace of the Cæsars, the walls of the Senate-house, and multitudes of statues, inscriptions, and other objects of historic interest. The New York Evening Post, in speaking of Professor Lanciani and his lectures on this subject, remarked: "Many of his discoveries, in fact, sound like fairy tales, or would do so if they were told by anybody but a man of science, who never for a moment allows his fancy to get away from the facts, and never produces a theory until he has placed the authorities under our eyes. No one, too, who has not followed the explorations of the last ten years in Rome, can guess, without hearing him, what these explorations have done to fill up the vast gaps in our knowledge of Roman institutions or manners. They in truth almost amount to a reconstruction of Roman history." Richly bound in red and white cloth. Contains a hundred illustrations.

Lang, Andrew. Grass of Parnassus; rhymes old and new. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 20+128 p. S. cl., $1.75.

Leander, R. Trümmereien: märchen selected, ed., and annotated by Alphonse N. Van Dael. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1888. c. 4+103 p. S. pap., 25 c.

A selection of tales written in good, easy German prose. It may be used in beginners' or intermediate classes, either as a reader, or for sight-reading. Only a few notes have been added; most of them give a more usual expression to explain the one used by the author.

Leon, J. A., and Clutterbuck, W. J. B. C. 1887: a ramble in British Columbia; map and 75 il. from sketches and photographs by the author. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 387 p. O. cl., $2.25.

Lovett, R. Irish pictures drawn with pen and pencil. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1888. 223 p. il. and map, O. (Pen and pencil ser.) cl., $3.50.

This is simply what it claims to be, "Irish pictures" of the most beautiful and most distinctive of Irish scenery. They are taken from photographs and sketches and represent amply and in excellent style the many spots of interest in the Emerald Isle. The text is entirely descriptive, the author excluding altogether political subjects. He glances at some of the most noteworthy men and deeds of the past, and has sought to catch and depict with his pen, as well as with his pencil, the most typical aspects of the Ireland of to-day.

*Lovett, R. Irish pictures drawn with pen and pencil. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1888. 223 p. il. and map, O. (Pen and pencil ser.) cl., $3.50.

I and II.* by 74 figures from drawings and diagrams by Inspector - Gen. Dr. Macdonald. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 24 + 241 p. O. cl., $4.50.

Marshall, Emma. Houses on wheels, a story for children. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1888. 5 + 391 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A family of well-to-do English children are taken by their grandmother, while their mother is abroad for her health. A traveling show comes to the village, and the children become interested in helping the children that spend their lives in the vans. An elder brother, a young Oxford student, expresses earnest theories of reform and works hard to get influential people to interfere and save the children that live in "houses on wheels."

Marston, Westland. Our recent actors; being recollections critical and, in many cases, personal, of late distinguished performers of both sexes, with some incidental notices of living actors. [2 v. in 1 v.] Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. 18 + 288 + 18 + 310 p. D. cl., $2.

Mr. Marston is an Englishman, and this work, as far as it goes, is an autobiography. It relates entirely to the actors he has seen during his life, or to those he has heard a great deal about. Beginning in 1834 to visit the London theatres, his first impressions were of Ellen Tree, the Vanderhoffs, and Macready. Accounts of their chief plays and parts and methods of acting are followed by similar accounts of the Kembles, Farren, Mr. and Mrs. Kean, Benjamin Webster, Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Warner, Samuel Phelps, the Sadler's Wells Co. in general, Charlotteushman, John B. Buckstone, Sheridan Knowles, Madame Vestris, Fechter, Adelaide Neilson, Rachel, and others.

Mason, Charlotte. Alma Ryan; or, steadfast and true. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1888.] 4 + 256 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Alma Ryan lives with her grandfather, the venerable vicar of a lovely village in the county of Kent, England. Her father's family begin to notice her when she is a girl of sixteen, and, according to a promise, she leaves her grandfather and goes to live with her grandmother, the proud Lady Diana Ryan. After many troubled years she is again happy in her pretty village home.

*Massachusetts. Supreme judicial court, Reports, 146, Jan.-May, 1888, W: V. Kellen, rep. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1888. c. 17 + 670 p. O. shp., $3.25.

Masson, Gustave. The story of mediæval France, from the reign of Hugues Capet to the beginning of the eighteenth century. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 38 + 354 p. D. (Story of the nations ser.) cl., $1.50.

"Gustave Masson says in his preface: 'Whilst attempting throughout the following pages to give the history of Mediæval France, we have allowed a large share to what may be called the intellectual side of the subject, more especially to the formation and progress of national literature. Without pretending to exhaust the topic, we have illustrated it by extracts from several authors, accompanied, whenever necessary, by a translation in English.' There is a glossary included.

Matthews, Brander. Pen and ink; papers on subjects of more or less importance. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. c. 10 + 229 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Contents. On the antiquity of jests; The ethics of plagiarism. The true theory of the preface, The philosophy of the short story; Two latter-day lyrists—Frederick Locker and Austin Dobson; The songs of the civil war, On the French spoken by those who do not speak French, Poker-talk. There are also two poems, one "Pen and ink," by A. Lang, and "An epistle to the author," by H. C. Sumner.

Meredith, G. The pilgrim's scrip; or, wit and wisdom of George Meredith, with selections from his poetry, and an introduction. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1888. c. 50 + 258 p. por. D. cl., $1.

In "Richard Feverel" Meredith mentions "The pilgrim's scrip" as a book published some years ago by Sir Austin Feverel. Mr. M. R. F. Gilman has adopted this happy title for a compilation of aphorisms selected from the writings of George Meredith. He has also written a biographical and critical introduction to the volume, giving a fair and interesting picture of the author, calculated to inspire a wish to read his remarkable novels, which, although written many years ago are only now gaining their deserved position in literature.

*Merrill, J. Houston. The American and English encyclopædia of law. V. 6. Northport, N. Y., E. Thompson Co., 1888. c. 6 + 920 p. O. shp., $6.50.

Miller, Emily Huntington. What happened on a Christmas eve. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. c. 3 + 276 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Three brothers of the Kendall family who have married and settled in the West bring their families home to the New England farm-house to spend their Christmas. The old-fashioned house proves delightful to the children who begin to think all the good times were in the past. The evening is passed in telling stories, some of which are very pretty.

Missouri Christian lectures: selected from the courses of 1886, 1887, and 1888. Published for the Missouri Christian Lectureship. Cin., Standard Pub. Co., 1888. c. 4 + 39 p. D. cl., $1.

The lecturers acknowledge no other Master than Christ, and have no other creed or test of fellowship than faith in Christ and obedience to Him. Their subjects are: The gospel's place in the development of humanity, the grounds of Christian fellowship, Pastors, visiting, The Hebrew poetry of the Old Testament, What it is to be a Christian, Materialistic evolution, The Son of God, Probation, Missions and the United States, and The Christ.

Morse, Lucy Gibbons. The Chizzles; a story. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 7 + 280 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Mrs. Chizzle receives a letter from her brother, married in France, who, thinking himself on his death-bed, desires to give his little girl into her personal keeping. She puts the little Chizzles, two bright boys, under the care of an old sea captain, and leaves for Paris. The story is told chiefly in letters to and from Paris. The little boys' bad spelling and sea-coast slang and the little French girl's ignorance of English lead to some amusing jokes. The author has herself illustrated the story, and the pictures are delicate and descriptive.

Munsey, Frank A. The boy broker; or, among the kings of Wall st. N. Y., Frank A. Munsey & Co., 1888. c. 243 p. il. O. cl., $2.

The scene of Frank Munsey's latest story is New York City. The hero is a Vermont lad whose business will undoubtedly excite admiration in the breasts of juvenile readers, whom the author has endeavored to benefit through the medium of Herbert Randolph. By interesting them in the career of a country boy he hopes to at once please their fancies and incite them to imitation or an effort to distinguish themselves. Bob Hunter and Tom Flannery, two newboys and important personages of the story, may reach another class of boys, who will be pleased with their amateur detective work and its results. Bob's rapidity in formulating and executing plans is also worthy of emulation. Well-known New York localities and several notorious criminals are introduced.

- Pugh, Sarah. Memorial of Sarah Pugh; a tribute of respect from her cousins. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888. c. 4-136 p. D. cl., $1.
Sarah Pugh was born in Virginia, October 6, 1800. She was an earnest member of the Society of Friends. In 1849 she established a school in Philadelphia, and all through her long career as a teacher of girls her influence upon their character was far-reaching and lasting. Her name is identified with all the great social movements of the century. She was an earnest worker for the abolition of slavery, for woman suffrage, moral education, and every reform that tended to truth, justice, and the improvement of her fellow-men. She was associated with all the prominent people of her day, and the extracts from her diaries give many interesting facts. She died in 1884.
- Rand, Rev. E. A. When the war broke out; or, sailor-boy Bob's sister. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. c. 3 368 p. D. cl., $1.25.
Last January the author published "Sailor-boy Bob." That hero's sister Alma is the heroine of this story. The Wakers lose their money. Alma takes boarders, and is a help to all who are privileged to live with her. Her lover goes to the war and fights gallantly in the Army of the Potomac. Alma does her hard duty at home, but when he is wounded takes her place as nurse in the hospital. The emancipation of the negroes and the draft riots of 1863 are brought in.
- Randolph, H. F., comp. The book of latter-day ballads, (1858-1888.) N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1888.] c. 12+264 p. S. cl., $1.25.
"As the object of the present selection is to indicate the growth and extent of English and American ballad literature during the last thirty years, no author has been allotted more than a single selection. The ballads have been arranged in chronological order, and their date of publication has been fixed by their first appearance in book-form. Fugitive ballads have for this reason been excluded. . . . The volume very imperfectly represents the work of American poets. In excuse for this defect I can only plead the unwillingness of various publishers to grant me permission to use pieces of which they own the copyright."—Preface. Bibliographical notes and indexes.

Raymer's tariff book: tariffs compared—the Mills bill and the Senate tariff bill. Minneapolis, Minn. C. D. Raymer, 1888. c. 36 p. D. pap., 15 c.

A reprint of the "Summary of the changes in duties from the first tariff imposed by the United States Government to the present time—changes proposed by the Mills bill" prepared by the American Press Association, and of the Senate Bill (giving the schedules in full), which is to be a substitute for title 33 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

Ruskin, J. Præterita: outlines of scenes and thoughts, perhaps worthy of memory, in my past life. V. 3, chapter 2, Mont Velan. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1888. 47+92 p. O. pap., 25 c.

Salomon, Otto. The slöjd in the service of the school; tr. by W. H. Carpenter; ed. by N. M. Butler. N. Y., Industrial Education Assoc., 1888. c. 179-205 p. O. (Monographs of the Indust. Educ. Assoc., v. 1, no. 6.) pap., 20 c.

Translated, with the sanction of Mr. Salomon, from an article that appeared in German under the title of "Der Slöjd im Dienste der Schule," in the Arbeiterfreund, 1886. Slöjd (pronounced sloid) is a Swedish term for which there is no equivalent in any other language. It has reference more particularly to that which is performed by hand. Thus, "slöjd training" means manual training and a "slöjdskola" an industrial school. The object of the author is to show the importance of physical labor in the service of the school.

*Sams, C. Whittle. A brief comparison of the most important statutes of the codes of Virginia of 1873 and 1887, being especially those referred to in "Minor's Institutes of Law."

*Schiller, F: von. Die Jungfrau von Orleans; eine romantische tragödie; with biographical notice, historical introduction, and analytical notes, by Jos. Gostwick. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1888. 16+240 p. S. cl., 60 c.

Scott, Sir Walter. Readings from the Waverley novels; ed. for school and home use by Albert F. Blaisdell. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 5+264 p. por. and il. D. (Cambridge ser. of English classics.) cl., 75 c.

Selections are given from "The heart of Mid-Lothian," "The talisman," "Ivanhoe," "The abbot," "Kenilworth," "Old Mortality," and some miscellaneous extracts. Each set of selections is preceded by a list of the characters and a brief story of the plot of the novel from which they are taken. There is also a short account of Scott and the Waverley novels, and directions for supplementary readings. Intended to serve as the basis of a more extended study of Scott's novels.

Serviss, Garrett P. Astronomy with an opera-glass: a popular introduction to the study of the starry heavens with the simplest of optical instruments. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. c. 6+154 p. maps, O. cl., $1.50.

The greater part of the matter composing this volume appeared originally in a series of articles contributed by the author to The Popular Science Monthly, in 1887-88. The reception that these articles met with encouraged Mr. Serviss to revise and enlarge them for publication in the more permanent form of a book. The aim of the author has been to encourage the study of the heavenly bodies by pointing out some of the interesting and marvellous phenomena of the universe that are visible with little or no assistance from optical instruments, and indicating means of becoming acquainted with the constellations and the planets. There are maps with directions to facilitate the recognition of the constellations and the principal stars visible to the naked eye.

Shorthouse, J. H. The Countess Eve. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 3-123 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 633.) pap., 25 c.

A walled city of Burgundy, France, in the year 1785, is the scene of two studies of temptation and the unseen influences by which human souls are guarded or betrayed, according to the predominance of the spirit or the flesh in their humanity. An actor and musician are introduced to Countess Eve by her husband. These four characters are analyzed in a masterly manner. Sin, repented of, atoned for, and forgiven is also studied in the character of the Abbess.

Simon, Jules. Victor Cousin; tr. by Melville B. and E. Playfair Anderson. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888. c. 220 p. D. (Great French writers.) cl., $1.

Victor Cousin was born Nov. 28, 1792. He was the son of a working jeweller of Paris. After brilliant academic studies his mind was directed to philosophy under Laromiguière, Royer-Collard, and Maine de Biran. He became professor at the Sorbonne in 1815, but was suspended on political grounds. In 1827 he was replaced, and shared with Guizot a power and popularity unexampled in university annals. His great work is "The course of modern philosophy." His biographer succeeded him in the chair of philosophy at Sorbonne.

Sleeper, H. D., comp. Songs of Harvard: collection of college songs and glees as sung by the glee-club and students of Harvard College. 3d ed. Cambridge, Mass., C: W. Sever, 1888. c. '86, '88. 104 p. Q. pap., $1.

Smart, Hawley. The master of Rathkelly: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 2+332 p. S. (Appletons' town and country lib., no. 16.) pap., 50 c.

Rathkelly is an Irish property. Its master is also Master of the Hounds. A story of the National Land League and its cruelties and inconsistencies. Hunting, racing, barracks, mess-rooms, elections, and the homes of the Irish peasantry are all realistically described.

The Master of Rathkelly is a soured old man. His youngest daughter is a proud young spirit who meets reverses of fortune with courage and common-sense.

*Smith, J: W. A selection of leading cases. 9th Am. ed. from the 9th Eng. ed. In 3 v. V. 1. Bost., C: H. Edson & Co., 1888. c. 5+822 p. (Amer. law ser., v. 1, no. 10.) O. pap., subs., $1.25.

Stevens, Agnes, comp. How men propose: the fateful question and its answer; love scenes from popular works of fiction. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888. c. 343 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A collection of extracts from the works of prominent novelists, showing the many and various ways in which they treat the marriage proposal. These selected love-passages will be found to possess a good share of warm human interest, and also to furnish material for a most agreeable and instructive literary study. No effort has been spared to include the widest range of authors and varieties of treatment.

Stimson, F. J., ["J. S. of Dale," pseud.] First harvests: an episode in the life of Mrs. Levison Gower: a satire without a moral. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 9+468 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author describes the present conditions of American social and business life as the "first harvests" of the virgin soil of American freedom. It is a brilliant satire, and the picture drawn of the leaders of society, their aims and ambitions, their ingrained selfishness and self-indulgence, of business men and their methods, of workmen, their wrongs and dangerous ignorance, is a scathing arraignment of society as it exists to-day, notably in New York City. The lawyer's training shows in the nice choice of words to convey fine shades of irony and wit. There is an overtone of hope and faith. Appeared as serial in Scribner's.

Stowe, Harriet Beecher. Flowers and fruit from the writings of Harriet Beecher Stowe; arranged by Abbie H. Fairfield. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 3+198 p. S. cl., $1.

This little book has been prepared with much intelligence and care, and includes the most striking and quotable passages from Mrs. Stowe's various works. They range "from grave to gay, from lively to severe," and form a book of quite remarkable variety, admirable for brief leisure moments. Side titles are inserted in the text for each quotation, so that one can see at a glance, by running his eye along the page, what is the subject of each of the selections, and can choose to suit his taste or mood.

Stranahan, Mrs. C. H. A history of French painting from its earliest to its latest practice; including an account of the French Academy of Painting, its saloons, schools of instruction, and regulations. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1888. c. 16+496 p. il. O. cl., $5.

A comprehensive and important contribution to the history of art. The subject is treated by centuries—the greater part of the volume, naturally, being devoted to the 19th century. It is not only for students but for the general reader, the writer's methods being exceedingly attractive and rich in details. It is illustrated with sixteen full-page pictures reproduced from French masterpieces, representing Millet, Gérôme, Troyan, Meissonier, Bourguereau, David, Le Brun, Watteau, Poussin, Boucher-Lepage, and others equally celebrated in French art. The well-known artist, Edwin H. Blashfield, designed the handsome cover. The paper, printing, etc., are very handsome.

Sumner, Heywood, comp. The besom-maker, and other country folk songs; coll. and il. by Heywood Sumner. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 6+26 p. O. bds., $1.

Some old-fashioned English country songs, quaintly illustrated.

Tempted London: young men. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, [1888.] 6+288 p. D. cl., $1.25.

These papers were printed in the British Weekly, commencing in October, 1887, and continuing until the end of April, 1888. They excited extraordinary attention, and were made the subject of sermons and courses of sermons in many churches and chapels in the United Kingdom. The facts upon which they are based were collected with great care by commissioners specially selected for the purpose. The plan of the work is to follow the career of a hypothetical young man who comes to London for the first time, to describe his surroundings, his lodgings, his business life, to explain his ways, his prospects; in a word, to depict as far as possible his life in London. Then follows in strict sequence a consideration of his temptations, ranging under three formal heads—Drink, Betting and Gambling, and Impurity.

Tholuck, A. Classics for the closet. No. 1: The Lord's Prayer; from the German, by Rob. Menzies. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1888.] 45 p. T. flex. cl., 20 c.

The Lord's Prayer, with helpful annotations and homilies.

Tolstol, Count Lyof N. Family happiness: a romance; from the Russian by Nathan Haskell Dole. Authorized tr. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1888.] c. tr. 2+129 p. D. cl., 75 c.

A romantic girl of seventeen, left with a governess and young sister in a dreary, deserted Russian country-house, sinks into unnatural apathy, from which she is aroused by her guardian, a man of thirty-six. He awakens in her a wish to be and to do, that she may fulfil his idea of girlhood. They marry. Then follows a study of a strong, fully matured man's love, and the incoherent, indefinite longings, emotions, doubts, and disappointments of a young girl's first love, which ranks with the finest work Tolstol has done.

Tolstol, Count Lyof N. What to do? Thoughts evoked by the census of Moscow. New authorized tr. from the unabridged Russian ms. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., 1888. c. 3+244 p. D. pap., 50 c.

The first edition of this book (see P. W., October, 1887, No. 818) was incomplete, owing to the impossibility of obtaining a complete copy of the original, many pages having been suppressed by the Russian Censor. A complete copy has now been obtained and this translation is unabridged. The great humanitarian holds that the object of a census is scientific. "A census is a sociological investigation, and the object of the science of sociology is the happiness of the people." The book contains a powerful chapter on the place of woman in society and her often neglected duties.

Trowbridge, J. T. Biding his time; or, Andrew Hapnell's fortune. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888] c. 3+190 p. il. D. (Start in life stories.) cl., $1.

Andrew Hapnell goes to live with his married sister after his mother's death and is looking for work when a letter arrives from his mother's brother, speaking of riches and offering a home to his sister's family. Andrew leaves Ohio and goes to New England, finds his uncle living in a miserly way and very cross and irritable.

He goes to work for a baker, lives with the old man, and finally, after "biding his time," finds the fortune in a most peculiar place.

True or false finance the issue of 1888; by a taxpayer. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. c. 41 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 51.) pap., 25 c.

Tunison, J. S. Master Virgil, the author of the Æneid as he seemed in the Middle Ages: a series of studies. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1888. c. 11+230 p. O. cl., $2.

The magical and prophetic character attributed to Virgil is one of the most curious and interesting phases of superstition, and it has not hitherto received the attention of English and American scholars which it deserves. Mr. Tunison's book aims to make up this defect. It discusses the diabolism, the science, and the prejudices—religious and social—of the middle ages as they are illustrated in the tales about Virgil. Those who admire the poet will find their interest in his worth quickened by a study of his character from an unusual point of view.

Two gentlemen of Boston: a novel. 5/4 rd. Bost., Ticknor & Co., [1888.] c. '89. 481 p. S. (Ticknor's pap. ser., no. 48.) pap., 50 c.

Upton, G. P. The standard symphonies; their history, their music, and their composers: a handbook. Chlc., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 321 p. D. cl., $1.50.

An introductory essay on the symphonies, followed by critical descriptions of the symphonies of Beethoven, Berlioz, Brahms, Gade, Goetz, Goldmark, Haydn, Liszt, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Raff, Rubenstein, Saint-Saëns, Schubert, Schumann, Spohr, Wagner, and a few lesser composers. Dedicated to Theodore Thomas, who "has made the American public acquainted with the highest form of musical art by his scholarly interpretation and great executive ability."

Wait, F. S. A practical treatise on insolvent corporations, embracing the rights, powers, and duties of receivers, the remedies of creditors, and the individual liability of stockholders and officers. N. Y., Baker, Voorhis & Co., 1888. c. 48+711 p. O. shp., $6.

Walsh, W. S. Paradoxes of a Philistine. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1889 [1888.] c. 3-192 p. D. cl., $1.

The author says the title of the book translated would seem to mean "Unrecognized truths by an anti-prig." He wittily explains the meanings of the words paradox and Philistine. It is a collection of essays, nearly all of which have already appeared in print, some in the Atlantic Monthly, some in American Notes and Queries, and the bulk of them in Lippincott's Magazine. Full of truths on timely topics put in an apt way.

Warner, C. Dudley. On horseback: a tour in Virginia, North Carolina, and Tennessee; with notes of travel in Mexico and California. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 2+331 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The two heroes of these tours are described as the "professor" and the "friend of humanity," meaning without doubt Mr. Warner and a friend. The journeys set forth in the title are made on horseback, and are described with all of Mr. Warner's well-known quaint humor. They are full of observation of the people and the country, and rich in valuable information.

Whitman, Walt. November boughs. Phil., D: McKay, 1888. c. 140 p. por. O. cl., $1.25. The aged author takes a backward glance over his literary career in an introductory chapter, explaining his idea of literary reform and the aim and scope of his "Leaves of grass." Many short poems on many occurrences of the years from 1850 to 1880 follow. The collection also includes estimates of Robert Burns and Tennyson. Some of the matter is old, but there is much that is new, and shows all the old fire and bristling individuality of the rugged old reformer. A portrait taken from life, at the age of seventy, forms the frontispiece.

Wiggin, Kate Douglas. The birds' Christmas carol. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889 [1888.] c. '86, '89. 3-67 p. il. D. cl., 50 c. A sweet story, that cannot be read with dry eyes, of a little girl born on Christmas day to Mamma and Papa Bird, whom they named "Carol." In her happy, tender way she taught her little nest-mates many lessons of love on earth, good-will towards men. She was delicate, and after making a merry Christmas for a large family of small children, she slipped away to her "an countrie" while the Christmas bells were ringing on her tenth birthday. Charminglly illustrated by the author.

J. W. RANDOLPH & ENGLISH, 1302 Main St., Richmond, Va., Catalogue, No. 8, of 1500 volumes of theological works. (50 p., 12°.)

FREDERIK MÜLLER & CO., of Amsterdam, have issued a "bi-centennial" catalogue of broadsides, portraits, and books relating to the accession of William and Mary to the throne of Great Britain. The total number of pieces enumerated is 256.

F. FERROZA, the Hindu bookseller, 122 Camberwell Road, London, Eng., whose first catalogue we noticed a couple of months ago, has issued another "Clearance Catalogue of Standard Books," printed in the same way as his first. He now, however, lays the type down on a flat surface, puts the paper on it and rolls it with a roller to take the impression. (27 p., obl. 16°.)

DAMASCÈNE MORGAND, 55 Passage des Panoramas, Paris, has issued "Bulletin Mensuel No. 23." These catalogues are perfect treasure-houses of good literature, and well worth preserving for their typographical excellence. Each issue is liberally illustrated with fac-similes of type and illustrations of the rarities offered, and full of bibliographical notes of a high character. (721-876 p., 8°.) The first issues of these catalogues now command 25 francs per volume in France.

(No. 14), Books and Pamphlets rel. to America, incl. a collection on American Revolution, and a number of scarce pieces respecting Pennsylvania, also voyages, travels, histories, etc., incl. many rarities rel. to Canada. (32 p., 16°.)

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE Polish scholar, K. Estreicher, has finished a complete bibliography of the literature of Poland.

THE Swedish writer of fiction, Emilie Flygaré Carlén, has just published "Gleanings from My Fifty Years of Authorship." A biography of her is affixed to her work by her friend, Birger Scholdström. Mme. Flygaré Carlén has attained the age of eighty-one years.

"MRS. MONA CAIRD, who has become known in connection with the question of the law of marriage, has finished a new novel, which, under the title 'The Wing of Azrael,' will be issued," says the Athenæum, "early in 1889 by Messrs. Trübner. Mrs. Caird has already published two novels pseudonymously, 'Whom Nature Leadeth' and 'One that Wins.' 'The Wing of Azrael,' though not polemical, deals indirectly with the question raised in the recent correspondence in the Daily Telegraph."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 8, 1888.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE TEACHERS' CATALOGUE.

WITH the growth of the school-book trade the Educational Catalogue assumed such proportions that it became necessary, in remaking it, as was done in 1887, to omit from it the large classes of books known as teachers' aids, supplementary reading, etc. This has been the cause of some criticism and complaint on the part of publishers and others, and it has been evident that something in the way of a supplementary catalogue of books for individual use by teachers or for use in schools otherwise than as general class-books, which should represent the entire trade, as does the Educational Catalogue, and not the interest of any one house, is much to be desired. We have now undertaken the preparation of such a list, which will be given in our issue for Dec. 22, under the title of "The Teachers' Catalogue." It will be of wide range, covering on one side not only teachers' aids in the specific sense, but books on the history and literature of education, biographies of educators, etc., etc., and on the other side books for the kindergarten, books for school exhibitions, books on industrial training, supplementary readers, and to some extent books in general literature offered for supplementary reading. In this last direction, however, the field is so indefinite that we have to confine ourselves to books of this character specially brought forward by publishers for this purpose.

We have already received from many leading educational publishers, in response to our circular letter, data as to their books and promises of support for the enterprise, and we trust that other houses interested in the classes of books named may follow their example in coöperating with us. The list will be of great use in schools, for permanent reference, and will be circulated widely among them at the beginning of the second half of the school year.

We ask our friends in the publishing trade who have not yet responded in regard to this Supplementary Educational Number to do so at the earliest moment.

WE make room elsewhere in this issue for a translation of a critique from the admirably edited literary magazine, Die Gesellschaft, published by Wilhelm Friedrich of Leipzig, in the first place, as a refreshing specimen of independent literary criticism—so rare in these days all over the world—and especially because it seems peculiarly adapted to pointing a lesson to our own people. Indeed, change the names and it might have been, with propriety, written of some of our own affairs. The minds of our growing generation are also being too much fed with stories of doubtful literary value, giving them pictures of life in crumbling monarchies, and notions of utterly false and unhealthy social conditions in other countries, instead of being roused to patriotism and future achievement by healthy American pictures of real life, and the possibilities of American manhood and womanhood. We are still a very young country, but in our babyhood we had Hawthorne, Longfellow, Bryant, Emerson, Whittier, Marsh, Bayard Taylor, Dr. Holland. What have we now?

HON. W. C. P. BRECKINRIDGE has introduced a motion naming December 19 as the day for the consideration of the pending Copyright Bill in the House of Representatives.

THE "LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY" COPYRIGHT CASE.

From the Nation, December 6.

THE official report of the copyright case which arose out of the unauthorized dramatization of Mrs. Burnett's "Little Lord Fauntleroy," has recently been published (Warne & Co. vs. Seeborn, Law Reports, 39 Chancery Division, pp. 73-83). This suit presents some points of more than usual interest. Mrs. Burnett published her work in the St. Nicholas, and arranged with Warne & Co. for its simultaneous reproduction in England, where the British copyright was registered by the plaintiffs. Neither in the arguments of counsel nor in the opinion of the Judge is it mentioned that the author is not a subject of Great Britain, nor is any notice taken of the fact that she was not at any time during the publication of her book within the territory of the United Kingdom. This is of importance to American authors, as going to show that simultaneous or first publication in Great Britain, together with registration there, will of themselves enable the author to maintain suit in defence of the copyright; and that the expense of a journey to Canada or other British territory at the time of publication may be omitted without jeopardizing the protection given by the English courts.

The defendant, Seeböhm, dramatized Mrs. Burnett's story in a three-act comedy, and wrote to the author for her sanction to its representation. This she refused to grant, being under the impression that she had legally reserved to herself the right to dramatize her own work. But the domestic copyright legislation of England does not enable the author to reserve this right. Any one may dramatize another's novel and publicly represent it without the least regard to the wishes of the author of the original. The defendant, therefore, was within his legal prerogative in producing his drama on the stage; and this was conceded at the trial, the counsel for plaintiffs admitting that it was "not sought to interfere with the representation of the play." Mr. Seeböhm, however, seems, in his dramatization, to have made more than "a fair use" of the original, the evidence going to show that the principal situations in the novel were reproduced in the play, and the plot of the latter was in all its salient points identical with that of the former, while all the principal ideas were taken from the novel; a considerable portion of the dialogue was copied word for word, and explanatory and descriptive passages in the story were introduced into the play in the form of dialogue. It was also in evidence that four manuscript or type-writer copies of the drama had been made, one having been sent to the Lord Chamberlain, and the other three having been retained for the use of the actors. The plaintiffs claimed that this imitation of the original, together with the multiplication of copies, constituted an infringement, and suit was brought for an injunction and a surrender of the copies. Damages were not asked for.

Justice Stirling rendered an opinion on May 10. After having made a comparison, he concludes that the play copies from the novel to an extent which would render it an infringement in case it had been printed and distributed. But the act of 1842, still in force in Great Britain, defines copyright to be "the sole and exclusive liberty of printing or otherwise multiplying copies of any subject to which the said word is herein applied;" and in previous decisions, as the Justice points out, it has been adjudged that the gratuitous distribution of copies may constitute an infringement. "This being so," he continues, "I am unable to see that the multiplication of an indefinite number of copies of a play (which, if printed and published, would be an infringement of copyright), for the purpose of enabling that play to be publicly represented, can be otherwise than an infringement," and he holds that what has been done and what was intended to be done by the defendant does constitute an infringement, no less than if the latter had printed and published his play; and a perpetual injunction is therefore granted to restrain Seeböhm from "printing or otherwise multiplying copies of his play containing any passages copied, taken, or colorably altered from the plaintiffs' novel." But in keeping with this qualified injunction, an order for the cancellation of the existing copies, requested by the plaintiffs, was denied, upon the ground that it may not be impossible for the defendant to sever the passages which he has extracted from the novel from the rest of his work; and in order that he may have an opportunity of doing so, he was required (1) to state on oath what copies exist, (2) to extract from them and cancel all passages "copied, taken, or colorably imitated from the plaintiffs' book," and (3) to satisfy the latter that all such objectionable parts have been extracted from his drama.

How much weight this decision may have in subsequent cases turning upon the dramatization of novels is a matter of interesting speculation. But a careful reading of the official report of Justice Stirling's long and cautiously worded opinion leads to the belief that conclusions based upon early and imperfect newspaper reports of the case claimed more than was warranted. It is clear that this judgment does not decide that an unauthorized dramatization of a novel for representation is not permissible under the English copyright law; nor does it forbid the making of such copies of the play as are necessary to produce the representation. The copies in this case were not ordered to be confiscated, but simply to be expurgated of the matter contained in them which infringed the copyright of the novel, the statement being distinctly made in the opinion, that "so long as he does not print or otherwise multiply copies of the novel, any person may dramatize it, and may cause his drama to be publicly represented." But the decision will certainly have the good effect of forcing the dramatist to use greater caution in preparing his play, and will check the unjustifiable wholesale appropriation of the original writer's work; and it is to be hoped that when the long-called-for codification of the jumbled mass of English statutes which relate to copyright is accomplished, the author will be definitely secured an equitable control over the dramatization as well as the translation of his work.

AN INTERNATIONAL WARNING.

Translated for the Publishers' Weekly from Die Gesellschaft.

THE most important literary journal of France, Le Livre, in a criticism on Engelhorn's Romanbibliothek, in its issue for September 10, makes the following telling arraignment: "This library could not be less German—twelve volumes only thus far are by native authors! From one point of view this is not bad, but, frankly, the proportion lacks balance. France has the lion's share; three dozen volumes for her, a good third of those thus far published. We should feel only gratitude towards Mr. Engelhorn for his zeal in spreading our literary works, if, alas, and the pity of it, Mr. Engelhorn did not seem to take too much concern for his own interests and too little for the cause of literature. Among these thirty-six volumes, although I find one Theuriet, two Daudet, and two Halévy, I also find six Gréville! seven Malot!! thirteen Ohnet!!! [The exclamation points are used by the French reviewer.] This bold plunge into mediocrity demonstrates either that Mr. Engelhorn knows very little of our literature—which we do not believe—or knows his public only too well. There might have been a more judicious selection, a selection more apt to give a truer estimate of French literature; we hope that Mr. Engelhorn will decide to make such at some future time."

Remember it is a Frenchman who writes this. That it should come to this! It is left to a Frenchman to ridicule the fact that Germans set aside their own good, modern literature, in favor of the most miserable Paris rubbish. That is the spirit of a part of the German publishing trade! So low has it sunk, that it becomes an object of scorn and derision to other nations, who see it cringingly and unworthily following in their footsteps and living on the filthiest and meanest scourgings of their literary tables. And these men who, like Mr. Engelhorn, expose themselves and us to the scorn of foreign nations, these offenders and sinners against the mind of the German nation, these usurers and money-changers, who should be driven from the temple of German literature by a new literary Saviour, pompously pose as the princes of the German publishing trade, the promoters of German literature, and have their merits written up by a crowd of paid scribes totally devoid of conscience. What the Messrs. Engelhorn and their kind are doing is nothing less than open treason against the mental life of the German nation, its systematic poisoning by foreign impurities. A large part of German publications and the feuilleton of the German newspapers are merely asylums for silly governesses and childless wives of petty office-holders, who, to fill their idle time and add a little to their meagre incomes, translate the most miserable trash from foreign languages for a mere pittance. This second-hand, starvation work is, of course, cheaper than the original creation of a mind that thinks independently and devotes months of industry and study to a work, and therefore the German publisher throws that cheap rubbish on the market and poisons the taste and the national feeling of the people without one qualm of his brutal usurer's conscience. This faction of the German book-trade has not a spark of feeling for national dignity and honor. What says our immortal Schiller? "Contemptible is the nation that does not gladly subordinate all to its honor!" Wherein could a great nation achieve more honor than in the cultivation of its national literature, of the national spirit in the same? Contempt is the only sentiment a man who loves his nation and its literature can feel for such usurers, and we sincerely wish that Mr. Engelhorn and his associates many receive much more such punishment as they have received at the hands of the plucky Frenchman. Let us hope that it may awaken the dying spark of national honor and fan it to a flame.

Still more contemptible, it seems to us, is that part of the German press—and it is no inconsiderable one—which, like the Berlin Tageblatt and the Borsencourier, takes every opportunity to neglect its responsibilities and go out of its way to snub the rising young German literature which is watched with interest by all foreign countries. It does not stop at the lowest machinations to underrate this literature, it lifts out unconnected passages intending to convey a wrong impression of the context—see the feuilleton of the Frankfurter Zeitung—and then gives articles columns long about the most miserable French or English scribblings, actually holding up the effete Parisian and London impotence as an example for the strong young German poet-race—and all because of the meanest motives of personal jealousy of the talents and successes of their colleagues and compatriots who are making their way to the front in spite of the hindrances this press is constantly putting in their way.

THE GROLIER CLUB EDITION OF THE PHILOBIBLON.

THE Committee on Publication of the Grolier Club announce that owing to unavoidable delays in the editing, and in the preparation of suitable type and engraved ornaments, it has been impossible to issue, as early as anticipated, the long-promised new edition of the "Philobiblon." This work, it may be interesting to note, was written by Richardus d'Aungerville, an English prelate, called also Richard de Bury, who was born at Bury St. Edmunds, in Suffolk, in 1281. He was educated at the University of Oxford, and entered the order of Benedictine monks. On the accession to the throne of Edward III., whose instructor he had been, he was promoted to various offices of dignity, and was finally made Bishop of Durham, as well as Lord High Chancellor and Treasurer of England. At Oxford he founded a library for the use of the students, which he furnished with the best collection of books then in England; and for the keepers of this library he wrote the "Philobiblon," which contains directions for the management of the library, and an elaborate eulogy of learning and the most charming treatise on the love of books, in Monkish Latin, which was first printed at Cologne, 1473, then at Spire, 1483, and finally at Oxford, 1509.

In his researches abroad Prof. West, of Princeton, discovered in the various public libraries of Europe a number of early manuscripts of the "Philobiblon," and has made an exhaustive study and collation of these, adopting the reading which, upon comparison, seemed to him authentic. The result, it is hoped, has been the production of a text and translation which will probably hereafter be considered as the only true and genuine edition of Richard De Bury's treatise. All the early printed editions, without exception, have been found full of errors, and the translations based upon them are of course incorrect.

The new book will be furnished to subscribers as soon as it can be properly done, about April 1, 1889. The two volumes will be printed upon specially ordered hand-made paper, in red and black ink, with illuminated initials and suitable typographical ornaments. The price of the two volumes, one containing the Latin text, and the other the English translation, will be together somewhere between $20 and $25, based upon the cost of production. As the publications of the Grolier Club are intended exclusively for the benefit of its members, the committee has decided to publish an edition consisting only of the actual number of copies subscribed for, including several copies for Prof. West, to be presented by him to libraries abroad, and to persons who have extended courtesies to him during his investigations. In addition to this, however, three copies will be printed on vellum, one of which will be deposited in the library of the Club, and two will be disposed of at auction at a regular meeting of the Club. Members may subscribe for one, two, or three copies each, as desired, but no one will be entitled to take more than three copies. Subscriptions will be received up to the 10th of January next, when the lists will be closed and the printing proceeded with without delay.

The Publication Committee has also decided to issue, in a limited edition, and printed and illustrated in an attractive form, an article lately written by Mr. De Vinne upon Christopher Plantin and the Plantin-Moretus Museum at Antwerp. This book it is hoped will be ready by Christmas-time, and a prospectus of the same will shortly be sent to the members.

FIFTEENTH CENTURY BIBLES: A STUDY IN BIBLIOGRAPHY.

From the Library Journal

UNDER the above title Messrs. A. D. F. Randolph & Co., New York, have just issued a monograph written by Dr. Wendell Prime, of the New York Observer, which may be considered as one of the most scholarly as well as one of the most complete treatises on the subject. Starting with the premise that "the first book is the Bible," the author proceeds to prove his assertion that it is the first book in the number of its editions, copies, and translations—its editions at the present time being numbered by the tens of thousands, and its translations by the hundreds—whereas of the "Imitation of Christ" (which ranks next to the Bible in the number of editions), first printed by Günther Zainer, of Augsburg, in 1468, probably 6400 editions are known; of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," ranking next to the "Imitation," first printed in London, 1678, 278 editions of the first part, 196 of the second part, and 73 of the third part are known; and of "Don Quixote," probably the third most popular book, of which the first part was first printed at Madrid in 1605 and the second part in the same place, 1612, about 300 editions are known, only one-third of which were printed in Spain. The second chapter discusses the Biblical conflict, in which is given at full length in an English translation the canon prohibiting the Scriptures published by the Council of Toulouse in 1229, and the Penal mandate forbidding the translation into the vulgar tongue issued by Berthold, Archbishop of Mentz, in 1486. The third and fourth chapters are devoted, the one to Manuscripts, the other to Block Books, both containing a large amount of interesting matter, clearly and concisely stated. The fifth chapter, to our mind the most important in the book, relates to the Gutenberg Bible. It contains the best bibliographical description of this magnificent book that we have ever seen in print. It also gives the list of known copies of the Gutenberg Bible, compiled by Dr. Allibone in 1882, with additional notes, and the prices paid at recent sales. The sixth chapter describes the Mentz Psalter of 1457, the first book with date. The seventh chapter notes the Bamberg Bible, from the place where it is believed to have been printed, or the "Pfister Bible," as it is sometimes called, from the name of its supposed printer, the second printed Bible, the date of which has been fixed as 1460. The eighth chapter treats of the Mentelin (or Strassburg) Bible, the third Bible, supposed to have been printed 1460 or 1461. The ninth chapter treats of the first dated Bible, printed at Mentz by Fust & Schöffer in 1462. The tenth, eleventh, and twelfth chapters are devoted to the Latin Bibles printed from 1462-1500; and the thirteenth and concluding chapter traces the "Vernacular Bibles," that is, the fourteen Bibles printed in High German from 1464 to 1518, and the three in Low German, printed at Cologne in 1480, Lübeck in 1494, and Halberstadt in 1522, as well as the Italian, French, Dutch, Bohemian, and English Bibles. We commend the book to the study of every one in any way interested in the history of early printing and Biblical literature. The book has been carefully and handsomely printed on laid paper with liberal margins. The volume is properly indexed. A. G.

COMMUNICATIONS.

MR. CUSHING'S "ANONYMS."

CAMBRIDGE, Dec. 1, 1888.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

SIR: My subscription list is not yet sufficiently large to enable me to publish my "Anonyms." Surely the larger libraries are able to buy such a work. Indeed I know that it would be good economy to do so. And other libraries might well adopt the course as suggested in the latter part of my circular. Will librarians run the risk of the work failing for the lack of their energetic action?

W. CUSHING.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE New York Ledger announces a number of unpublished poems by the late John G. Saxe.

INSTEAD of enlarging the Writer and increasing its price, as its publisher had planned, he will publish a companion monthly to be called the Author. The first number is promised Jan. 1, and will contain selected and original matter of special importance to writers.

THE current number of Harper's Weekly contains a supplement devoted to the seasonable subjects of blizzards, cyclones, and tornadoes, illustrated by William Hamilton Gibson and others, with a variety of striking sketches of the action of tempests by land and sea.

Das Centralblatt für Bibliothekswesen for November prints an article of considerable interest to amateurs of early printed books, in Dr. G. Knod's "Zur Bibliographie Wimpfeling's," a bibliography of the Heidelberg printer Wimpfeling. A valuable contribution to bibliography is Gottlieb's article, "Old Book Catalogues from Italy."

Our Little Ones and the Nursery continues to hold its own as a magazine for the youngest readers. Its poems, stories, and sketches are selected with the greatest care, are amusing and instructive, and every one of them is illustrated by an artist of the best reputation. All the reading-matter and every picture is original, prepared expressly for this work under the direction of Mr. George T. Andrew. Published monthly by the Russell Publishing Co., Boston, at $1.50 a year.

THE Technology Architectural Review, issued from the Architectural Department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology eight times a year, promises to give American students of architecture "some of the broad training in design that must form part of the only foundation upon which any successful architectural career can be built." The editors have set for themselves in the opening numbers a high artistic standard both of typography and illustration. Each issue contains a number of plates, photographic reproductions from original drawings, by the heliogravure process.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Moses King Corporation, lately organized under the laws of Maine, announces that it is prepared to meet its obligations as rapidly as they fall due. This Corporation claims to have contracted no indebtedness prior to Nov. 1, 1888. Moses King personally became involved by the downfall of Rand Avery Company. The business formerly carried on by him in his own name and also under the firm name of "Moses King Corporation" has been bought by the recently organized stock company which is to carry out his plan of publishing four series of guide-books and maps—"King's Handbooks," "King's 'How to See' Guides," King's 'Five-Cent Railroad' Guides," "King's 'Annotated' Maps."

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—The well-known and time-honored firm of E. A. Lewis & Co., booksellers and stationers at No. 354 Main Street, dissolved partnership Nov. 28, Mr. Lewis, the senior partner, retiring. The business will be continued under the firm-name of F. Slason & Co. by Francis Slason, who has been a member of the firm for the past thirteen years. "Mr. Lewis," says the Bridgeport Standard, "is one of the oldest and staunchest business men in this city, having come here in 1855, and he has seen the place advance in population from 12,000 to 50,000 inhabitants. He bought out the bookstore of Melancthon M. Hurd, No. 21 Wall St., where David Ginand is now located, and in 1875 the business was moved to its present location, where it has prospered under wise and honest management. Mr. Lewis in his retirement from active business life will take with him the well wishes of the business portion of the community as well as the general public, whom he has always treated fairly and considerately."

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The Samuel Dodsworth Book Company, booksellers and stationers, Leavenworth, Kan., have opened a mercantile stationery store in the Armour Bank Building of this city.

LYNCHBURG, VA.—D. B. Payne, bookseller and stationer, is dead.

MONTREAL, CANADA.—The firm of Dawson Brothers will be changed on January 1, two firms resulting from the reorganization. Charles F. Dawson, son of S. E. Dawson, and W. F. Brown will carry on the book and stationery business heretofore conducted by Dawson Brothers, each having separate control of these several departments.

NEW YORK CITY.—Wilbur B. Ketcham, 71 Bible House, N. Y., has become the agent in the United States for the publications of James Gemmell, of Edinburgh. A catalogue of the books is in preparation.

NEW YORK CITY.—The business of the late D. Van Nostrand will be continued by the D. Van Nostrand Company, of which Edward N. Crane is the President and Wm. H. Farrington Secretary and Treasurer. There will be no change in the general management of the business.

NEW YORK.—Herman Rosenthal & Co., booksellers, have been succeeded by Leon Last.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Christopher Sower Company, succeeding Sower, Potts & Co., has removed to 614 Arch Street. This company is incorporated and is a direct successor to Christopher Sauer, who founded the business in 1738. Charles G. Sower, a great-great grandson of Christopher Sauer, and a member of the firm of Sower, Potts & Co., is President of the new corporation.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Capital comments on the new book-store of W. H. Lowdermilk & Co. as follows: "The recent enlargement of the premises of Messrs. W. H. Lowdermilk & Co., the well-known booksellers of 1424 F Street, should call the attention of our citizens to the fact that we possess here one of the largest (if not the largest and most complete) book-stores of the kind in this country, and one which will compare favorably with the extensive establishments of the old world. The new edition comprises the whole of the adjoining store on the west, No. 1426. It gives the firm twice as much room as before, and enables them to show to great advantage their immense stock of books in all the branches of literature. . . . The two stores, now connected by archways, are each 85 feet long by 20 feet wide and are shelved from floor to ceiling. The books are arranged as nearly as possible by subjects, a method which enables one to see in a comparatively short time all the works on a given topic which may then be in stock. . . . Under each store is a large, dry, and well-ventilated cellar, in which will be stored the immense stock of Government publications (of which a specialty is made), the pamphlets (25,000 in number), duplicates and works unfrequently wanted. A branch house has recently been opened in Chancery Lane, London, through which a quick supply of English publications and weekly consignments of rare works from the London sales and stores will be received."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MRS. BURNETT's famous juvenile, "Sara Crewe," has been brought out in Germany in the Tauchnitz series.

"JOHN WARD, PREACHER," the brilliant novel by Margaret Deland, is in its fifteenth thousand. The avidity with which the public seized upon this book was almost equal to that with which it has devoured "Robert Elsmere."

D. C. HEATH & Co. announce an "American History," by Miss Sheldon, on the same plan as her "Studies in General History." This new book is for a younger grade and the weight of the work falls rather on observation and memory than on the reasoning powers, although a moderate exercise is given to these.

"THE book of the week," says G. W. Smalley in the Tribune for December 2, is "Earl Stanhope's 'Notes of Conversations with the Duke of Wellington.'" This little volume abounds in anecdotes of the most interesting kind; interesting, above all, as giving the Duke's opinions in his own words on people and events in his own time."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have issued, in a dainty binding of half morocco with parchment sides, several of their attractive books of poetry, including Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson's "Underwoods." The first volume of the limited edition of the "Cyclopædia of Music and Musicians" is nearly ready for delivery. In England the work will be published by Bernard Quaritch.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have nearly ready a new edition of O'Meara's "Napoleon at St. Helena," with copious notes and other additions, embellished by several colored plates, portraits, and wood-cuts. They also call attention to the fact that the price of the new edition of Villari's "Life and Times of Girolamo Savonarola," in two volumes, is $9, not $7.50, as was previously advertised.

WM. Q. JUDGE, N. Y., has just issued Mme. H. P. Blavatsky's new book, "The Secret Doctrine," the purpose of which is to "lay before the thinking world so much of the 'hidden wisdom'—that is, of a divine degree of knowledge possible to human beings under certain conditions—"as it is thought expedient to make known at present to men in general." The work is in two volumes and contains a copious index and a glossary of terms. The trade will be supplied by C. T. Dillingham.

JOHN WILEY & SONS have in preparation "A Technical Dictionary, which will define, as an authority, all the terms of Art and Industry," by Park Benjamin; "The Guide to Piece Dyeing," by F. W. Reising, a practical dyer and chemist, and giving specimens of his own color work and 100 recipes for the same; "Steam-Engine Design for the Use of Mechanical Engineers, Students, and Draughtsmen," by Prof. J. M. Witham, late assistant engineer U. S. Navy; and a "Treatise on Linear Differential Equations," by Prof. T. Craig, of Johns Hopkins University.

THE Johns Hopkins University Studies for 1889 will be devoted to: (1) "Arnold Toynbee," by F. C. Montague, Fellow of Oriel College, with an account of the work of Toynbee Hall in East London, by Philip Lyttelton Gell, Chairman of the Council; also an account of the Neighborhood Guild in New York, by Charles B. Stover, A.B.—(2-3) "The Establishment of Municipal Government in San Francisco," by Bernard Moses, Professor of History and Politics in the Univ. of California.—(4) "The City Government of New Orleans," by Judge William W. Howe.—(5) "The City Government of Chicago; with a bibliography on municipal government in the United States," by F. H. Hodder, Instructor in History in Cornell Univ.—(6) "A New England Village Community, a study of Wethersfield, Windsor, and Hartford," by Charles M. Andrews.—(7) The Study of History in France and Germany, by Prof. Paul Fredericq, of the Univ. of Ghent, translated by Henrietta Leonard.—(8) "Federal Government in Canada," by James G. Bourinot, Clerk of the Canadian House of Commons.—(9) "Local Government in Wisconsin," by David E. Spencer.—(10-11) "The Gilmer Letters, an account of the English Professors obtained by Gilmer and Jefferson for the University of Virginia," by William P. Trent, Professor of History and English in the Univ. of the South.—(12) "Higher Education of the People, a series of social and educational studies," by Herbert B. Adams, of Johns Hopkins Univ.

HIS PRIVATE COMMISSION.—Master Pattison to bookseller: "Say, boss, while dad's picking out th' 'Pete Parleys,' jest snake out a copy of 'Red Ripper Riglets, the Demon Pirate,' an' put it in th' bundle when yer do it up! Here's the scads."—Puck.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Dunton, Larkin. Methods of teaching arithmetic in primary schools. Bost., Eastern Educational Bureau, 50 Bromfield St., 1888. c. '87. 165 p. D. cl., $1.

Any child that does the work indicated by this book will learn numbers first, and then figures as the signs of the numbers. The subject-matter is broken up into easy stages; first, numbers from one to ten, then from one to twenty, one to one hundred, one to a thousand, and higher numbers. The explanations of the fundamental processes of arithmetic, notation, addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division are clear and complete. Every possible operation and combination of numbers from one to ten, ten to twenty, twenty to one hundred, are here given. Prof. Dunton is Head-Master of the Boston Normal School.

By the machinations of a jealous female fiend the lives of Angela Voght and Hubert Throckmorton become divided. Angela marries a rich man. Hubert at first is crushed, but finally writes a great poem which shows his heart to Angela. The plot is intricate and the element of mystery is kept to the end. The author's inability to write at first and his final struggle to produce a great work is a fine piece of literary work.

*Fawcett, Edgar. Miriam Balestier: a novel. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., 1888. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A volume of charming stories, told in simple yet graphic style, and with delightful humor and pathos. Among the best are "Doctor Scaroni," "Tear's grave," "Dead-shot Dan," "The curtain-man," and "Fragelda's gift." The author is the well-known comedian, seen so often in "The mighty dollar."

*Fotheringham, Ja. Studies in the poetry of Robert Browning. 2d ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1888. O. cl., $2.25.

Foxcroft, Elizabeth Howard, ed. Our glorified: poems and passages of consolation especially for those bereaved by the loss of children. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 136 p. S. cl., $1.

This collection possesses a sad interest in the fact that it was begun by Mrs. Foxcroft while she was under the shadow of a great bereavement, the loss of her cherished daughter, Beth, and was finished almost on the eve of her own death, in Oct., 1888. Her intense love for little children and her knowledge of them, learned in many years' work among them, is illustrated in this sympathetic selection of poems and prose passages from our best writers.

*Gilliat, Rev. E. John Standish; or, the harrowing of London. [A story.] N. Y., Scribner & Welford, 1888. il. O. cl., $2.

Gordon, Lydia L. From Lady Washington to Mrs. Cleveland. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1889 [1888.] c. 3+448 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Twenty-two wives of as many presidents are the subjects of these papers; several of them never lived to grace the White House, but their histories are full of interest. Each paper includes a brief history of the president's life and administration, which serves to make more vivid the position of the wife. The papers are unusually fresh and unconventional, and evidently written from new material, being full of new anecdotes and new impressions.

- Holcomb, Mrs. Helen H. Bits about India. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1888.] c. 272 p. il. S. cl., $1.
- This little book is full of interesting facts about India, its people, its customs, its worship, its private and social life—the very things that really tell most concerning a country and yet the very things which most writers are apt to overlook. The author has long been a missionary resident in India, and is thoroughly familiar with the things of which she writes so pleasantly.
- House, E. H. Yone Santo: a child of Japan. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1888.] c. 5+285 p. D. (The household lib., v. 4, no. 3.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
- "From time to time," says the Phila. Press, "we have noted the charm of Mr. E. H. House's story of 'Yone Santo, a child of Japan,' which has been running as a serial in the Atlantic Monthly. It was the merest thread of a tale—relating the miseries of a beautiful Japanese girl who, married to a vulgar native brute, learns to love an unscrupulous American, but is saved from sinning by the interposition of the narrator. The sweet simplicity of Yone's character, the hypocrisies of the mission people, the glimpses of Japanese scenery and society, make up the interest of the story."
- Howells, W. D. Annie Kilburn: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1889 [1888.] c. 331 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- Judge Kilburn and his daughter Annie had lived eleven years in Rome, when the Judge died, and Annie felt it her duty to return to the old homestead in Massachusetts, and look life seriously in the face, and do her duty to her neighbor. Annie's return to the narrow village life and primitive ways of her countwomen, after the larger, broader life she has lived in Italy, is well depicted, and her disappointment and ennui admirably described. A little plot, in which a love affair is involved and some excellent character sketches introduced, gives a most excellent picture of New England life in a manufacturing town.

- Lowell, Percival. The soul of the far east. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 4+226 p. D. cl., $1.25.
- A thoughtful review of the individuality, family life, language, art, religion, and imagination of the people of Eastern Asia, Japan, and Corea. Mr. Lowell spent several years in the East and is well qualified to write on the subject. He will be remembered as the author of "Chanson." His deductions on the present are summed up in a closing paragraph: "If these people continue in their old course, their earthly career is closed. Just as surely as morning passes into afternoon, so surely are these races of the far east, if unchanged, destined to disappear before the advancing nations of the west."

John Winter returns to his home after an absence of twenty years a repentant prodigal, but blessed in this world's goods. He finds a younger brother leading a wild, reckless life, and the one woman who had truly loved him, still unmarried, devoted to his unacknowledged son. John goes to live with his faithful sister Hannah, and with the help of his former friend contrives to make life brighter and better for those whom his early wildness had so lastingly injured.

A runaway accident deprived the Carys of their father and sadly injured Chrystal, the elder sister, who supplied a mother's place to her brother Jack and three younger children. They form a firm under the title-name, for the sale of wild flowers, and through the kindness of a little old gentleman and the ladies of the flower mission, the little family at length sees happy days. "Delta Bixby" is the fourth child of a student of Greek, who named his children by the letters of the Greek alphabet. He desires to see the world, and his father allows him to go from home. His adventures on sea and land make the story.

- Rouse, Lydia L. Angus Leslie's daughter. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. c. 232 p. D. cl., 90 c.
Mary Leslie is left motherless when about twelve years old; she is the youngest of six, and the only girl in the family. Her father is a hard-working Scotch laboring man, thrifty and honest. Mary's helpfulness and the family's simple sorrows and joys are the subjects of an instructive story.
- Rouse, Lydia L. The laird's son. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. c. 192 p. D. cl., 75 c.
The laird's son returns to his Scottish home after losing his right hand on the field of Waterloo. He marries, and the story is a succession of pictures of Scotch country life. The laird learns to control his naturally fierce temper, and when he is an aged man teaches his descendants lessons of religion and duty.

- Say, Léon. Turgot; tr. by Melville B. Anderson. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888. c. tr. 231 p. D. (The Great French writers.) cl., $1.
M. Léon Say, the eminent French statesman and publicist, has found a fortunate subject in this volume on Turgot. Turgot has been well called the most beneficent, if not the greatest of French statesmen. John Morley, in his essay on Turgot, places him above Burke. According to M. Say, Turgot is the political philosopher of the nineteenth, rather than of the eighteenth century. The volume on Turgot is, indeed, a study of French history, and deals with the economic problems of finance, trade, and labor, in which Americans are now so deeply interested.

A story of a Scotch factory town. It is given in the form of a confession from a man about to take his own life, in order to exculpate another who has been found guilty of a murder committed by the narrator. Though morbid, it is a strong story, with a love episode that is the basis of the crime.

Walworth, Jeannette H. History of New York in words of one syllable. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1888.] c. 3-186 p. il. O. bds., $1; cl., $1.50.

A gay binding, an attractive style, large type, and plenty of pictures make this a most desirable volume for young readers.

Warren, S: Ten thousand a year. In 2 pts. Pt. 2. N. Y., G: Munro, [1888.] 1+363-736 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1142.) pap., 20 c.

Warren, W: F., D.D. In the footsteps of Arminius: a delightful pilgrimage. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1888. c. 52 p. por. D. cl., 35 c.

In 1880 Dr. Warren sent to the Christian Observer three articles on remembered visits, while in Europe, to shrines associated with the memory of the great Hollandic theologian. These articles, with the notes published with them, corrected and enlarged, constitute the substance of this little volume.

*Wide-awake stories for the young. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1888. 196 p. il. sq. O. bds., $1.

*Wilcox, Ella Wheeler. Poems of passion. Edition de luxe. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., 1888. il. Q. cl., $4; full mor., $7.50.

Wilkie, Franc B., ["Poliuto," pseud.] Pen and powder. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1888. c. 4-383 p. D. cl., $1.50.

As correspondent of the New York Times during the late war, Mr. Wilkie had unusual opportunities of penetrating to the inner circles of events, and of meeting the heroes of the day. He was thrown naturally, too, with another class of men to whom scant justice has been done by the writers of the time—the "war correspondents" of all the great newspapers of the country, who followed the armies and did many deeds of heroism on their own account, and many also of reckless daring which never found a historian. Mr. Wilkie's book is a charming mixture of gossip and fact, about his own fraternity, campaigns and generals, and descriptions of southern and western scenes and events that never before found their way into print.

*Williams, F: Wells. The life and letters of Dr. S. Wells Williams. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1888. por. O. cl., $3.

Williams, J: Missionary enterprises in the South Sea Islands; with an introduction by the Rev. W: P. Breed, D.D. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1888.] 416 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.25.

This interesting volume takes us back to one of the earlier stories of this century of missionary heroism. For twenty-two years John Williams wrought with apostolic fervor and apostolic success in the islands of the South Sea. At last he fell a martyr at Eromango. This was about fifty years ago. This narrative of his missionary work is full of thrilling heroisms and wonderful successes.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Cosmopolitan magazine has been purchased by John Brisben Walker, who will be remembered as the founder of the Inter-Ocean. Mr. Walker is establishing new headquarters at 363 5th Ave., N. Y.

SOPHIE SWEET, an author who has won a reputation for her clever short stories in Harper's Weekly, will begin a serial story, called "Captain Polly," in the number of Harper's Young People issued December 25. The illustrations will be by Rosina Emmett Sherwood.

The Princeton College Bulletin is the title of a new quarterly publication to be issued from Princeton College. It will be philosophical, scientific, and literary in character, with President Patton as general editor, assisted in the various departments by several others.

THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH, editor of The Atlantic, will write of some bright memories of his birthplace, Portsmouth, N. H., in the January Scribner's. His paper, entitled "Odd Sticks," is the first of the series of final papers which last year became a feature of the magazine, inaugurated by the contributions of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Das Buchgewerbe is the title of a fortnightly journal to be issued in the interest of the book and kindred trades, by Paul Hennig, Winterfeldt Str., 10, Berlin. The journal will be under the editorial supervision of men well known in the various trades more or less directly concerned in the production of books. Judging by the table of contents, an interesting first number may be looked for early next year.

It may not be generally known that last summer the artist, Mr. T. de Thulstrup, was tendered the Russian mission—not to represent the United States at St. Petersburg, but to illustrate a brilliant series of articles on Russia, which are to appear in Harper's Magazine during the coming year. Mr. Thulstrup accepted the appointment. He spent several months travelling in Russia with Mr. Theodore Child, who will prepare one or two of the articles in the series.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE author of "A Bachelor's Wedding Trip" is Charles Pomeroy Sherman, a lawyer, of Philadelphia, and a bachelor.—W. H. H., in The Writer.

MRS. AMELIA E. BARR has written a new novel, "Woven of Love and Glory," a "story of a struggle for independence," which will first appear in The Sunday Magazine, an English periodical.

THE talented young New York artist, Mr. H. W. McVickar, whose drawings are to art what the most dainty vers de société are to poetry, will hereafter contribute exclusively to the Harper publications.

JOHN G. WHITTIER celebrated his eighty-first birthday in the most quiet manner possible on the 17th inst., at the farm-house at Oak Knoll, near Danvers, Mass. Among other gifts received by the poet was a bunch of roses from Mrs. John Phillips, of Commonwealth Avenue, Boston; a basket of rare roses and ferns from Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston; and a basket of eighty-one roses from a school in New York. From the colored school at Tuscaloosa, Ala., came the usual barrel of pitch-pine kindlings and two photographs, one of the school-house and the other of the children with uplifted hands voting their thanks to Mr. Whittier.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Library Bureau has removed to 146 Franklin St. The new quarters are but a few minutes' walk from the post-office, and cars connect with all railroads via Federal St.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Waterman & Amee, book-sellers, 5 Harvard Square, have taken another partner, and changed the firm name to Waterman, Amee & Co.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 22, 1888.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

OVER-VALUATION OF BOOKS.

THE following letters tell a story only too familiar to the trade:

OMAHA, NEB., Dec. 15, 1888.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: Can you inform me what remedy there is for me, in case I am overcharged in the amount of duty on books by the Custom-House officials? According to the enclosed letter from the Collector of Customs at Detroit, Michigan, it appears I have none, for, in reply to my complaint, he says: "All you can do in the matter is either to pay the duties demanded, or refuse the books." Now I have shown him that the books do not cost as much as they were appraised, for I have sent him the exporter's bill and catalogue with prices attached. I was charged at first $1.50 duty on 11 vols. of Wilson's "Tales of the Border," which sell at 20 c. per volume in Toronto, making the duty on the 11 vols. amount to 55 c. This exorbitant rate I refused to pay, and had it then reduced to one-half, or 75 c. for the lot; but as this amount was still in excess by 20 c., I complained again, and the enclosed letter from the Collector will show you the status of the case. I should therefore like to know what to do, for it is not the matter of the 20 c., but the principle involved, and "If there be a remedy, I will try to find it.

If there be none, I will not mind it."

Respectfully, H. SHONFELD.

CUSTOM-HOUSE, DETROIT, MICH.,
COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, Dec. 13, 1888.
H. Shonfeld, Esq., Omaha, Neb.

SIR, Yours of the 10th inst. to hand, and in reply will state that the Postmaster has received instructions in regard to the disposition of the packages of books addressed to you, viz.: to return them to this office, marking on the same "Refused," if you refuse to pay the duties on same. The books have been properly appraised by an officer appointed for that work, and there is nothing farther can be done in the matter by you. All you can do in the matter is either to pay the duties or refuse the books. Yours respectfully,

M. C. STRONG, Deputy Collector.

This case is trivial in itself, but is of considerable importance as illustrating the general practice in the case of books imported through the mails. As each item is of small value, there is little motive to make and carry through the necessary protest, and yet in the aggregate considerable injustice may be done.

The customs officers detailed to appraise small importations necessarily proceed on a somewhat rough-and-ready method of valuation, based on their general notion of what a book probably cost on the other side, sometimes under the mark and sometimes over. As a rule, no invoices or bills of any kind are submitted by the importer, and the small value of the articles thus imported does not justify much investigation.

When, however, the addressee or importer is fit to submit such invoices or bills, giving the actual cost to the importer of the article imported—provided there is no reason to suspect that reason of any private relations or arrangements this cost is made below "true market value"—the customs officer is undoubtedly bound to levy the duty on this cost. The submission of a catalogue showing the actual wholesale price in open market to be as alleged, is additional proof of the true market value. On the facts as stated, the customs authorities at Detroit are undoubtedly wrong in levying a duty above the 25 per cent. on the actual cost of $2.20, that is to say, but 55 cts. claimed.

The method provided by law for the correction of such overcharges is that of appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury, after paying the duty under protest. The protest must be made within ten days of the liquidation of duties by giving notice in writing to the Collector of the importer's dissatisfaction and of the grounds therefor, and the appeal lodged within thirty days of the liquidation with the Secretary of the Treasury at Washington, which may be done by mail. The Secretary's decision (which is made, of course, in minor cases by a bureau officer representing him) is final, unless the importer appeals within sixty days to the United States Courts.

This is, of course, a cumbersome way of rectifying an overcharge of a few cents, and our correspondent will probably prefer to save time and postage by standing the overcharge. But if he chooses "to fight it out" for the good of the trade, he will probably get a check from the Treasury Department for the sum of 20 cts. before many years have elapsed.

OUR Supplementary Educational Number, containing the Teachers' Catalogue of teachers' aids, school helps, books for supplementary reading, etc., is necessarily deferred to an early number in January because of the great amount of work required in preparing the list.

A STATEMENT quoted elsewhere claims that the profits on Mr. Rider Haggard's "King Solomon's Mines" have been enormous.

Mines" were $250 to the author and $60,000 to the publishers. It may be that Mr. Haggard preferred to sell his first manuscript at £50 in place of taking the ten per cent. royalty, not unusual in England and very general in this country, but we doubt very much that the profits reached £12,000. In that case, most American publishers would have done as Smith, Elder & Co. are reported to have done in Mr. Guthrie's case—make a further payment, despite the fact that "a bargain is a bargain," and that there is no legal liability to pay more. The publisher has a business motive, if no higher one, in the desire to keep the good-will of so valuable an author, instead of driving away the swan after it has laid its first golden egg. It is from such exaggerated statements as that quoted probably is, that the public gets its greatly exaggerated notion of the profits of publishers.

THE HOSPITAL SATURDAY AND SUNDAY ASSOCIATION, of New York City, again claims our attention in behalf of its worthy charity. The Association now represents 28 hospitals, and out of a total of 13,920 bed-patients cared for during the past year, 10,157 were free patients. In addition to this, medical aid was extended to upwards of 120,000 deserving individuals through the dispensaries and out-door departments connected with these institutions. The amount annually collected by the Association goes directly to the care-taking of the sick poor, and is especially devoted to the free treatment of those recommended by contributors to its fund. Contributions from the book-trade will be received by Mr. Henry B. Barnes, 111 William St., Treasurer of the Auxiliary for the Book and Publishing Trade of the Association.

THE ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA IN AMERICA.

G. W. Smalley, in N. Y. Tribune, Dec. 14.

AN interesting, even surprising fact relating to America came out at Dr. Robertson Smith's dinner to the Encyclopædia Britannica contributors. Mr. Black, one of the publishers, told the company the entire circulation of the new ninth edition was 50,000 copies, of which 40,000 went to the United States. Americans, that is, have bought four times as many copies of the best English encyclopædia as the English themselves have. America has, in fact, absorbed a million quarto volumes of this great work.* The American Minister was, in these circumstances, a most fitly invited guest. He was unable to attend, but sent a letter, ending: "The Encyclopædia Britannica is doubtless the most useful book in the world."

* [These figures, we presume, refer only to the editions handled in this country by Little, Brown & Co. and Charles Scribner's Sons, and do not include the two reprints of the J. M. Stoddard Co. and of the combination using the photographic process.—ED. P. W.]

THE MYSTERY OF THE CHRISTMAS BOOK.

O. B. Bunce in the Critic, Dec. 15.

THE senior partner of one of our well-known publishing houses said recently to his younger partners and head assistants: "I hope I shall never see another Christmas book published by us. After I am dead, do as you please, but while I live please make no more books for the holidays."

Inasmuch as the holidays are supposed to be the harvest-time of the book-publishers, this remark will surprise many of my readers. "Assuredly," it will be said, "the holidays are the publishers' money-making season. Look at the thronged book-stores, at the counters piled with volumes prepared for it, at the busy salesmen, at the innumerable parcels ready for delivery! And do we not know that on Christmas day countless thousands of volumes go hither and thither, making glad the hearts of their recipients? It cannot be possible that this gay and glittering season is in any form a delusion—that the sumptuous volumes that come forth with the embers of the year, with all the art, the taste, the care, the wealth, that are lavished upon them, do not bring substantial rewards to those who project them." These are natural comments, yet, strange as it may seem, it is not only possible but generally true that the making of Christmas books is not the brilliant thing financially that it seems to be.

I know how promptly my assertion will be met with the rejoinder: "If holiday books do not pay, why do publishers produce them?" Will the logical reader who asks this question explain how it is that people persist in investing in stocks, in face of all the disastrous consequences that commonly follow an excursion into Wall Street? Will they tell how it is that the gambler, wrecked many times, still returns to the gaming table, fascinated by its excitement and thrilled with assurance of better luck to come? The making of Christmas books is attended with just these conditions. It is a fascinating pursuit in itself, and its victims are always allured by the hope of a brilliant success next time.

A man who has once edited an art-book has awakened in himself an appetite that will be sure to hunger for the same kind of fruit again. The hunting through poetic literature for a subject, the contact and consultation with artists, the delight experienced as the drawings are brought in, the anxieties, often painful yet absorbing, which attend watching each illustration through the hands of the engraver, the study of designs for the binding—these appeals to the imagination, these exercises of taste and invention, although usually accompanied with many disappointments and vexations, are as exhilarating as champagne. Naturally they prove inducements for new ventures in the artistic field. The book of last year had not wholly succeeded; it had been praised; it had sold moderately well, yet not well enough to yield a profit; but next time the projector is sure that all will be changed. Mistakes had been made which he now knows how to avoid. The book came out too late; the price was too high; there were too many competitors in the field; the binding had been ineffective; the theme was not popular enough—thus the victim deludes himself with excuses and explanations, and soon plunges enthusiastically into a new venture for the next season, with too much likelihood of a similar experience.

The details involved in the production of an illustrated book are many, and the pitfalls into which an unwary editor may stumble are at every hand. The artist may fail to grasp the theme, and prove to have been a wrong selection; or the drawings may be admirable in the judgment of severe critics, yet be far away from popular understanding or sympathy; or the engravers may fail to render rightly the tones of the drawings; or the paper selected may be too pink or too red in tint, or otherwise deficient; or the wood-blocks may be spoiled by the electrotyper; or the printer, the excellence of whose work depends on conditions of the atmosphere, may fail to obtain good impressions of the cuts; or the sheets may be pressed before they are sufficiently dry, causing the ink to "offset;" or the binder's stamp for the cover, which looked so well in the colored design, may prove to be something positively ugly. If all these dangers are successfully avoided and the perfected book equals the expectations of its planners and builders, the triumph is complete—almost. For then comes the question, will it sell? Yes, somewhat. Few holiday books fail altogether, but the active sales are crowded into three weeks' time. During this short period orders flow in for it. In the last week there are many orders from distant cities and near cities; Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburg, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, demand more copies, all of which is very bustling and stimulating, and to an inexperienced observer success seems assured. But the investment in drawings and engravings requires a sale of perhaps three thousand copies before profit begins, and hence the activity, the bustle of the last week's demand may be considerable, and yet the accounts after Christmas show many copies left over and the book in debt. The unsold remainder is now packed away until the following Christmas, with the expectation that it will then be worked off and the financial scale turned. But as an old rustic acquaintance of mine was wont to say, "Calculization is one thing and realization another." When next Christmas comes, it is found that every one wants the new issues of the season, that the books of former years are an old story, out of date and out of fashion. The old king is dead; it is the new king that reigns.

Holiday books in recent years have multiplied greatly, because drawings may be reproduced by either photogravure or phototype. In the latter form the publisher makes no investment, except in the drawings. These are printed from photographic reproductions of the originals, at a rather large cost for each impression, but there being no investment in steel-plates or wood-blocks, a small edition is sufficient to pay. The ease and apparently little cost with which illustrations may thus be produced have led to the publication of ambitious and costly folios, many of which are very artistic and reflect great credit upon artists and publishers. But the size is cumbersome, the prices are high, and hence, although a small sale would be sufficient, I am afraid the results in most cases have not been pecuniarily gratifying. Phototype reproductions, moreover, are not always artistically satisfactory. In some instances the artist's drawings have been admirably repeated; but great care, large experience, and exact knowledge are necessary, and hence many attempts in this direction are scarcely acceptable.

It is supposed by many people that anything, especially in the way of a poem, will do for a Christmas book. So far from this being true, all experience has shown that favorite poems only will do for the purpose—poems like "The Deserted Village," Gray's "Elegy," "The Forest Hymn," and "Snowbound." Well-established favorites, such as these, alone will justify expenditure for illustrations, unless the artist has a great reputation. Recently a number of popular hymns and short religious poems have been issued in tiny volumes invitingly illustrated, bound in a showy manner, and sold at a low price—glittering trifles that appeal to the highest religious sentiment and the smallest incomes, and hence have been successful. But pretty much everything in the language well adapted for a Christmas book has been used. People whose recollections extend back thirty years will recall the charming volumes that came from the prolific pencil of Birket Foster. But Birket Foster has left no successor in England, and only in a few instances has his success been equalled here. He fairly exhausted English poetic literature, that is, the shorter poems adapted for illustration. Artists of to-day have been compelled to travel largely over his well-beaten ground, so far as the poetry of England is concerned. I am mindful, however, of one delightful idyl of Tennyson's that has not so far stimulated the ambition of any artist. I refer to "The Gardener's Daughter," a poem full of enchanting pictures. A dozen years ago two attempts were made to illustrate this poem, but the preliminary drawings were so unsatisfactory that the project was abandoned. It was then proposed to the English publishers of Tennyson to produce it in conjunction with an American house. "We should be glad to act upon the suggestion," was the reply, "but who can do it?" Since then a number of brilliant young artists have sprung up, and it may now be worth while to try again. Would it succeed? The chances for it would be as promising as for almost any other English subject, and this is all that can be said.

The ranks of experimenters in Christmas books, notwithstanding all these facts, are not likely to fall off in number, for a time at least. As one house gains experience and withdraws or narrows its operations, other houses eagerly enter the field. Sometimes the house makes a hit with its first book and then confidently rushes into other ventures, only to find that victory is not always to the brave. I recall an anecdote that is applicable here. "When I went into business," said an old publisher to me once, "my first book was a failure. One day a veteran of the trade walked into my office and said, 'I have come to congratulate you on the failure of your book.' 'To congratulate me!' I exclaimed. 'Yes,' he interrupted, 'for if your first book had been a success, you would have been sure that you knew everything, and have branched out recklessly. Now you have learned caution, and therefore your ultimate success is certain. So I congratulate you.'"

My observations have referred exclusively to books prepared especially for holiday sales, and which are not in demand at other periods. There is a large consumption at Christmas of books of a different character—books of a class which alone, I apprehend, prove profitable. I refer to choice standard editions of favorite poets, with or without illustrations, and sets of well-known authors, put up in attractive bindings. These are asked for at all seasons, and simply enjoy a stimulated sale in December. This demand, which may be always depended upon, which cares nothing for the fashion of the hour, is what, according to my judgment, the publisher should cater for. And I am informed that it has lately much increased, which may account in part for the ill-fortune that has befallen so many ambitious tomes called forth by the magic name of Christmas.

It is a wonder that so many copies of pictorial books are sold. What satisfaction, for instance, can it be for a gentleman to present to a lady a copy of a book—other copies of which have been paraded for six weeks on every book-counter in town, and which is therefore necessarily familiar to everybody—a book which very likely the lady herself has purchased as a gift for a friend. There is no novelty, no freshness, no element of surprise, in such a gift. How much better to select in time some choice copy of an English classic, in an unduplicated binding, or some neat set of books put up by a tasteful bookseller, for just such selection.

I have made no reference to books for children—juvenile books, as the trade classifies them. The aggregate sale of books for young people is something immense and incalculable, as we all know. Innumerable houses in which a book does not enter from Christmas to Christmas, open their doors at this season, if there is a child in the family, for something in the way of a book. But while the consumption of children's books is very great, the competition is intense, and in the struggle many promising works go to the wall. Very beautiful are some of the issues published for the little ones. One house in New York puts forth every season a volume for children that for artistic beauty is really captivating. This book—so choice, so charming in every feature—is, I am informed, printed in Germany, large editions being duplicated for America, for France, and for England; and by means of this great sale a return is assured which, if the work, with its large original cost, were made for one market alone, would be impossible to secure. Perhaps we shall in time see some such world-plan enter into the production of the Christmas book for elders. One thing to deter this, however, is that abroad, especially in England, Christmas books are almost exclusively for young people; gifts between adults are not exchanged nearly so generally as with us.

The activity in the book-stores may thus be accounted for by the purchase of children's books, of the works of poets, essayists, romancists, and historians, of Bibles, prayer-books, hymn-books, and albums, and of numerous miscellaneous selections—the gay and sumptuous volumes, which occupy so large a place on the counters, which have been produced at such great cost and with so much watchful care, filling but a small part in the general bustle.

AUTHORS' BARGAINS.

From the N. Y. Tribune.

MR. RIDER HAGGARD's friends complain that while he received only $250 for the original edition of "King Solomon's Mines," the publishers have made $60,000 out of the book. This is "business." Why should the author and his friends be aggrieved? Mr. Haggard should have made a better bargain, and, undoubtedly, in the future Mr. Haggard will do so. These inequalities of profit will by and by teach authors to change their methods of book-publication. Meanwhile they have no right to blame publishers, and must quietly submit to the plan of making their successful books compensate those publishers for the losses incurred on other people's unsuccessful books.

"Reform methods" of publication will need careful tests before being established. Mr. Haggard, as a country squire, with a fortune, might have tried experiments with safety. Why shouldn't a man who can afford it publish his own book, "taking the risk," as he would in any other business enterprise? If this became the custom wouldn't fewer and better books be published? And wouldn't this be a blessing to the reading world? These are merely queries, not opinions.

To comfort those who lament over Mr. Haggard's inadequate share of the profits of his own book, we may mention that while Mr. Anstey was paid only $250 for his "Vice-Versa," Messrs. Smith, Elder & Co., on finding it successful, sent him a check for $1250. Whether they regarded this as charity or "business" is not stated.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE AYRES LEAVITT.

GEORGE A. LEAVITT, one of the oldest members of the book-trade in this country, died suddenly at his residence, No. 802 Lexington Ave., New York City, on Tuesday night, December 18. He had been ailing for some time with an affection of the brain, but was apparently in good health up to the day of his death. Mr. Leavitt was born at Effingham Falls, New Hampshire, about sixty-eight years ago. When quite a boy he came to New York to enter the book business of his father, Jonathan Leavitt, then senior partner in the publishing and printing business of Leavitt & Trow.

The deceased afterward went into the book business with Mr. John K. Allen as partner, the firm-name being Leavitt & Allen. He gradually drifted into the auction business, which was started in the old building, corner of White Street and Broadway, and for a long time carried on in Clinton Hall. He went out of the book business about ten years ago, the World Publishing Co. being his last enterprise in that direction. The auction business, which was at different times Leavitt, Delisser & Co., Leavitt, Strebligh & Co., and Geo. A. Leavitt & Co., was in later years carried on by him in connection with his brother M. B. Leavitt. After the death of the latter, which occurred about six years ago, he carried it on alone until failing health caused his retirement in 1885. Eugene O'Con-was tendered a complimentary dinner at the Albion, London, a full account of which, reprinted from the London City Press, appeared in our issue of February 4. At that dinner Mr. Routledge gave an exhaustive sketch of his busy and prosperous life, from which we briefly extract the following facts. Mr. Routledge began his apprenticeship in the book-trade in 1827, with Charles Thurman, of Carlisle. In 1833 he entered the house of Baldwin & Cradock, and in 1836 he began business for himself, opening a retail store in Ryder's Court, Leicester Square, London. His first publication proved a failure, and he was obliged to accept a position in the Tithe Office, where he worked for four years. In 1843 he made a new attempt at publishing, and brought out Barnes' "Notes on the Old and New Testaments," in twenty-one volumes, published at intervals and edited by Dr. Cumming. This great speculation proved profitable, the two volumes of the Gospels reaching a sale of four thousand copies. In 1848 the Railway Library was begun, the first volume being "The Pilot," by J. Fenimore Cooper. The number of volumes in this series has passed 1000 and it still continues. In 1852 he published the first English edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," of which 500,000 copies were sold. The companion volume, "The White Slave," showing the other side, had a sale of over 100,000 copies. Mr. Routledge was also the first English publisher of the works of Longfellow, W. H. Prescott, Oliver Wendell Holmes, and Amélie Rives, and also publisher of the works of the late English novelist, James Grant. For the right to publish the five volumes on natural history by the Rev. J. G. Wood, the house paid £16,000. The "Romance of War" had a sale of over 100,000 copies. The Lytton family have received £40,000 from the house for publisher's rights. Mr. Routledge retired from active business in 1886 on the completion of his

The Literary News.

---

With 1889, the LITERARY NEWS will become a capital Dollar Magazine, while keeping to its specialty of giving in an hour's bright reading a bird's-eye view of new books and literary affairs.

A charming novel of New England life, by a new writer, will begin in January and run through the year.

A series of portraits, from original paintings by MISS DORA WHEELER, of Living American Authors, will make fine frontispieces to each number, accompanying descriptive sketches of "Authors and How They Work." Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Stowe will be among the first given.

Bright articles based on new books will be finely illustrated from them.

The "Survey of Current Literature" presents the best quick view of current literature given in any periodical.

A page of humor and miscellany, usually illustrated by "comics," will enliven each number.

Every bookseller who pushes the LITERARY NEWS, pushes his own trade also, because it is specially intended to help him sell books.

Any bookseller who takes 100 copies monthly has his own imprint-advertisement printed on front cover free. It becomes thus practically his own magazine.

Terms, One Dollar a year; Ten Cents a number.

TO THE TRADE: on sale and return, 6 cents a number; outright (10 or more copies), 5 cents a number; 100 copies monthly, with imprint, $5; 250 copies, $10; 1000 copies, $35. On single copies, mailed to subscribers from this office direct, at $1, one-third commission will be allowed.

NOTES IN SEASON.

ROBERTS BROS. publish this week "Sunday-School Stories on the Golden Texts of the International Lessons of 1889," by Edward E. Hale.

CASELL & Co. will publish at once the fourteenth and concluding volume of the "Encyclopædic Dictionary." This work has been in preparation for nearly seventeen years, and extends to no less than 5629 pages.

HARPER & BROS. publish this week in their Franklin Square Library Walter Besant's new and stirring story, "For Faith and Freedom;" and "The Peril of Richard Pardon," a new novel by B. L. Farjeon.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish next week a translation of Karl Marx's important work on "Capital," edited by Frederick Engels; also, in their Town and Country Library, "A Fair Emigrant," a story by Rosa Mulholland. Hereafter the volumes in this library will be put up in a neat cloth binding at 75 cents per volume.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish early next year for school use "Selected Poems of Wordsworth," collected and edited by A. J. George. The volume will contain lyrics, sonnets, odes, and narrative poems such as are requisite for a thorough understanding of the genius of the great poet. With the exception of the sonnets, which are grouped according to subjects, they will be arranged in chronological order. In the matter of annotation only such material will be furnished as the pupil would not be likely to find elsewhere.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. have issued an edition of "The Thumb Bible," by John Taylor (born in 1580, died in 1654), commonly called the Water-Poet. Taylor, after fulfilling his apprenticeship to a waterman, seems to have served in the fleet under the Earl of Essex. Afterward he took up the trade of a waterman, and for a time was an excise collector. He was not really a poet, although he could string rhymes together with facility. At the approach of the civil war, he retired to Oxford, and was a publican. His sympathies were wholly with the Royalists, and when the town surrendered, he returned to London, and there kept a public-house. Here he died. He published "Verbum Sempereternum" (an epitome of the Old Testament in verse), dedicated to Charles I.; "Salvator Mundi" (an epitome of the New Testament in verse). These two were published in one volume in 1693, and dedicated to the Duke of Gloucester, etc., under the title of "Verbum Sempiternum," being an epitome of the Bible, termed from its size "The Thumb Bible." It was reprinted in 1849 by Longman & Co., London, and again during the present year by Hodder & Stoughton.

RAILWAY LIBRARIES.

London Globe, Dec. 4.

To the lending of books there is no end. The circulating library is now an important element in English life, and widely spread as are its ramifications, it is possible, seemingly, to extend them even further. The experiment, at any rate, is to be made in Austria-Hungary, and on the railways there. In England Messrs. Smith & Sons have a circulating library in connection with their book-stalls, but they do not lend books for perusal on the journey only, charging a fee and taking the volumes back again at "the other end." Yet this is precisely what the Austrian firm propose to do. The traveller will be required to pay a deposit which shall cover the price of the book lent, and also a small charge, amounting to about threepence in English money. He will choose a volume on starting, and return it on arrival at his destination, where he will receive the sum deposited. No doubt the project will succeed, if the supply of books is found satisfactory by the voyager.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Lewis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

The Fox sisters were the originators of the "Rochester rappings," and were among the foremost exponents of Spiritualism. In this volume they tell the true story of the methods by which they produced the "rappings" once accepted as communications from the spirit land. The history of the fraud and of their own remarkable lives is extremely interesting.

- The translator is prof. of philosophy in the State University of Iowa. So much has been written about the great philosopher who defined his system of life at Ephesus about 500 B. C., by such distinguished critics as Schleiermacher, Casselle, Zeller, Teichmüller, Schuster, etc., that the translator apologizes for adding still to the many volumes of conflicting opinions. Heraclitus is the Greek thinker most in accord with the thought of our century. Mr. Bywater, an acute English scholar of Oxford, made a complete edition of the Fragmenta of Heraclitus in 1877, from which the present writer translates.

N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1888. c. 8+143 p. O. cl., $3.
- The present book had its origin in a lecture, read by the author Nov. 17, 1885, at the Ohio Mechanics' Institute. This lecture met with such favor, that it had to be repeated Jan. 9, 1886. Thereupon the author was urgently requested by his friends to publish his paper in book-form. To give the work the value which the author wished it to have, much new matter had to be added, and many recipes tried and experiments made. Thus all required time and delayed the publication of the work. The volume has, however, gained so in completeness that its value is doubly enhanced by the additions. The author is a mechanical engineer. A large number of the formulas given have been tested by him, and many of the processes communicated have been practised by him for years.

Again does Miss Murfree lay the scene of her novel in the mountains of East Tennessee. Teck Jepson, the despot, is only one of many striking characters that she graphically depicts as belonging to this region. "Marcelly" is as notable in her way as "Teck," and her fortunes are followed breathlessly to the end. The descriptions of scenery, the quaint ways and superstitions of the people, and the character drawing are all most carefully presented.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Law, King & Law, dealers in subscription-books, have sold out.

DES MOINES, IOWA.—W. W. Clark & Co., stationers and booksellers, Iowa, have sold out to W. M. Bibbins, who will continue the business at the old stand under the style of the Palace Book-Store.

GADSDEN, ALA.—John B. Roden & Co., book-sellers, have sold out.

MARTIN, TEX.—William Killebrew, bookseller, has lost his stock by fire.

MONTREAL, CANADA.—Messrs. Dawson Brothers announce that on and after January 1, 1889, they will withdraw from the retail business as booksellers and stationers, carried on by them in this city for the past forty years. Two firms will result from the reorganization of the business—Charles F. Dawson, son of their senior, will carry on the mercantile and manufacturing stationery business, of which he has for a long period been the manager. William Foster Brown, for the past twelve years with them, will succeed to the book and periodical business, which has for a long time been under his special care, and which will be carried on under the firm-name of Wm. Foster Brown & Co.

PALMYRA, N. Y.—H. D. Williams, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Charles H. Williams.

STOCKTON, KAN.—P. H. McKanna, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 29, 1888.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE LITERARY NEWS.

FOR many years it has been our endeavor through the Literary News to provide the trade with a monthly publication which might serve each bookseller, wherever he might be in the country, with an effective means of pushing sales. This has been fairly appreciated by the trade at large, although the development of other periodicals covering more or less the same ground has interfered with the natural growth which might have been expected. We propose now, however, to make several improvements in the Literary News, so that it may keep ahead in the competition for 1889, and shall therefore make it a popular dollar magazine, while keeping to its main feature as a means to help sell books.

The Literary News for 1889 will be illustrated with a series of frontispieces reproduced from original portraits, by Miss Dora Wheeler, of living American authors, which will be accompanied by interesting articles on authors and how they work. A serial story will be begun in the January number, with the intention of making the monthly issues of continuous interest; the novel is a very charming one, by a new writer, with bright and humorous pictures of country life, and will, we think, widely commend the magazine. Another new feature will be articles made up from the new books of travel, etc.; that in the January number will be on "The Pacific Coast in Recent Literature," which will be richly illustrated from Murray's "Twilight Land," Nordhoff's "Peninsular California," Roberts' "Shoshone," Torrey's "Santa Barbara Mission," etc. A number of other interesting features will be found in the January number, and throughout the year the Survey of Current Literature, in which we take especial pride as the best quick view presented of recent books, will be continued as an important feature. The Prize Questions, which have been so widely taken up by other periodicals, will be discontinued.

In planning this publication anew, we are endeavoring to make a dollar periodical which can sell on its merits, while at the same time making a commercial medium for local booksellers. We ask the coöperation of all booksellers, large and small, in selling this periodical, as each copy does its part to bring sales to the bookseller's counter in addition to the profit on the periodical itself. As advertised elsewhere, we shall be willing to send copies on sale and return to booksellers who are willing to push the Literary News, or to take their orders outright at a somewhat lower figure. The feature of imprint editions will be continued, so that any bookseller ordering a hundred copies may have his imprint on the first page. We desire to make a strong appeal to each bookseller whom this paper reaches to do what he can in promoting this old-established journal in its new shape. The Literary News is meant to be a help to intelligent bookselling, and we mean to make it tell in keeping trade where it should belong, i.e., in the intelligently conducted book-stores of the country.

ON subscriptions beginning in January, 1889, and thereafter, the subscription price of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will be $3.00 instead of $3.20 per annum. The 20 cents was a legacy from the old postal methods, and it seems time to give our readers the benefit of the reduction in postage. We trust that the even amount will be acceptable as a matter of convenience to our old subscribers and that they will do what they can to find new subscribers for us. Subscribers whose term begins after Jan. 1, but who have paid their subscriptions in advance, will have the 20 cents rebated to them. The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY may not make as much show as trade journals in other callings, but we are ready to invite comparison of the real solid work in its bibliographical and other departments with that of other journals representing other trades. From the same date, the price of advertising per page will be $20 instead of $18, but, as heretofore, special rates will be made for time contracts and repeated matter. The more support we get from the trade on either side, the better we hope to make the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

STATISTICS OF COPYRIGHT, 1887.

We take the following from the Annual Report of the Librarian of Congress for 1887, which, owing probably to the unusual pressure in the Government Printing Office during this election year, has only been recently issued:

The large business of the Copyright Office again exhibits an increase which runs beyond that of any former year. The business of the calendar year 1886 footed up an aggregate of 31,241 copyright entries, while that of the calendar year 1887 exhibits 35,083 entries, an increase of 3842 copyrights. The fees received for copyright amounted to $27,916.25, being an increase of $2494.37 over the preceding year. The copies of publications deposited to perfect copyright aggregated 53,924, being an increase of 3890 over the deposits of the year 1886.

The following summary exhibits the various classes of copyright publications entered in the office during 1887, with the aggregate number of each class:

NUMBER AND DESIGNATION OF ARTICLES ENTERED IN 1887.
Books .....	13,685
Periodicals .....	6,708
Dramatic compositions ..	936
Musical compositions .....	7,744
Photographs .....	1,850
Engravings and chromos. ....	1,848
Maps and charts .....	1,389
Prints .....	598
Designs and models .....	448
Paintings .....	898
Drawings .....	98
Total .....	35,083

The following statement shows the number of each class of publications actually deposited under the law requiring two copies of each publication to be sent to the Library:

NUMBER AND DESIGNATION OF COPYRIGHT PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED IN 1887.
Books (including all printed matter so designated) ..	19,159
Periodicals .....	12,108
Dramatic compositions ..	338
Musical compositions .....	13,308
Photographs .....	3,073
Engravings and chromos. ....	3,393
Maps and charts .....	1,901
Prints .....	414
Designs and drawings .....	176
Paintings .....	54
Total .....	53,924

As two copies of each copyright publication are required to be deposited in fulfilment of the law of copyright, the net additions to the collections of copyright material are 26,962 articles.

The discrepancy between the total entries of titles and the actual deposit of copies during the year has always existed, and is due to several causes: First. A considerable number of entries are made which are not followed up by any publication. This is generally true of the class of dramatic compositions, where no copies of the play may be printed at all. Other failures to deposit copies are due to the postponement of publication for months or years, to the duplication or change of entries, to the non-publication of books where renewal of copyright for an additional term has been entered, or to the abandonment of the idea of publication. There still remains, however, a considerable deficiency in depositing the copies of actual publications required by law, necessitating the issue from this office of many notices of delinquency to publishers or authors.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS—FOURTH ANNUAL DINNER.

THE members of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers walked to their fourth annual dinner under cloudy skies, but the stars shone brightly when they separated in the early morning hours. The feast was spread in the spacious dining-hall of the Metropolitan Hotel.

At 8.30 about one hundred members and their guests sat down to a dinner even better than the last, and which did full credit to the Committee of Arrangements—John A. McQuillan, John H. Black, Frank W. Bailey, Will L. Heyer, John H. Cooke, and H. W. St. John.

The Reception Committee were on the lookout to make things agreeable, and soon the company was settled according to the guest-cards, which this year took the form of drafts on the Metropolitan Hotel, with design of locomotive at full speed in left hand corner and the monogram of the B. C. T. stamped in blue in the centre.

The festivities began with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

The menu was printed in bright blue and pale green on rough parchment paper supposed to have been nibbled by the fish which appeared with rod and reel as cover design. The Brotherhood did justice to the good things amid much fun and chat. At 10.30 President William J. Kelly called the meeting to order in an unusually happy speech, in which he dwelt upon the enthusiastic good feeling among the members. A fitting reference was made to the recent death of their Brother, George A. Leavitt.

Letters of regret and telegrams were read from invited guests who could not attend. The letter from Mr. Henry G. Carleton was a particularly happy one, and was received with great applause.

The guests of the evening were Carl Levinson, Jos. Howard, Jr., Marshall P. Wilder, and E. S. Savage. Marshall P. Wilder was in excellent spirits and spoke twice, telling old and new jokes in his inimitable way and bringing down the house. Carl Levinson favored the company with song.

Prominent among the guests was Russell B. Harrison, son of the President elect, who is a bookseller in Montana. When called upon to speak, he made some very telling and witty remarks, amongst other things repudiating the title of bookseller, as thus far the sales of the Northwest consist chiefly of playing-cards, pistols, and poker chips.

John H. Black, chairman of the Souvenir Committee, presented the retiring President, Col. John H. Ammon, with a gavel, attached to a white watered silk regalia. Treasurer Eckstein and Secretary Hovenden were presented with gold-headed canes. Late in the evening a case of champagne arrived, with an accompanying letter, which was read amid cheers.

Chas. S. Plummer spoke on the experiences of the Brotherhood, and dwelt feelingly upon the spirit of fraternity and good fellowship fostered by the B. C. T. and renewed in its annual meetings.

The programme was gotten up in excellent taste. The front cover shows the arriving guests in evening costume and an array of attendant little butlers carrying in the good things. The back cover has a design of a big commercial travelling trunk, around which albums, books, envelopes, etc., are dancing.

GEORGE A. LEAVITT — IN MEMORIAM.

GEORGE AYRES LEAVITT, whose death was announced in our last issue, was born May 13, 1822, at Haverhill, Mass. His parents, however, belonged to Andover, Mass., where his father, Jonathan Leavitt, had a large bookbindery. Shortly after young Leavitt's birth—in 1825, we believe—the elder Leavitt removed to New York City to become a special partner in the book business of his brother-in-law, Daniel Appleton, who at that time had a store at 16 Exchange Place, opposite the Exchange Building, now the Custom-House. About 1830, Mr. Jonathan Leavitt went into business on his own account at the corner of Broadway and John Street, where his apprentice and, in time, right-hand man was the late George P. Putnam. Some ten years afterward Mr. John F. Trow, who also hailed from Andover, where he had worked for Flagg & Gould, whose "Codman Press" was quite famous fifty years ago, associated himself with Mr. Leavitt, the firm becoming Leavitt & Trow. In 1842, young Leavitt, who had been educated at the Phillips Academy, Andover, became a member of his father's firm. He learned the book business, if we are not mistaken, in the store of Robinson & Franklin, of New York, about the time that Augustus Flagg, afterward the managing partner of Little, Brown & Co., was a clerk in that establishment.

After his father's death, in 1851, George Leavitt continued the business alone for a year, and then took into partnership his fellow-townsmen, playfellow and schoolmate, Mr. John K. Allen, who had been brought up in the book business by Mark H. Newman & Co., at 199 Broadway, New York, the predecessors of Ivison, Blake-man & Co. The firm-name was changed to Leavitt & Allen, and their business removed to Vesey Street, near Broadway. They afterward removed to 27 Dey Street, and in January, 1856, to 379 Broadway, corner of White Street. A month previous Mr. Leavitt, at the suggestion of his father-in-law, James E. Cooley (at that time one of the best-known auctioneers in New York), whose partner, John Keese, had just died, entered upon the book auction business with the promise of the Trade Sale. Book trade sales had been carried on with more or less irregularities all over the country up to 1855, when the New York publishers, discouraged and disgusted with the abuses of the system, and with the condition of the book-trade in general, formed the New York Publishers' Association, to regulate as far as possible existing abuses.* This Association, which had headquarters, a library, and reading-room in Appletons' Building, 348 Broadway, appointed a committee, who canvassed the trade by means of circulars and personal application, and finally settled upon the details of carrying on the Trade Sales in New York and Philadelphia under the direction of the Publishers' Association. One of the most important regulations, and one that gave rise to a good deal of discussion, was that no book offered for sale could be withdrawn if it did not bring a satisfactory price. All books were to be sold at what they would bring. The first of these sales took place on September 18, 1855, at the auction-rooms of Bangs & Co., on Park Row. Every publishing house of importance, with the exception of Harper & Bros., contributed to the sale, the entire value of the books named in the catalogue being estimated at over $400,000. A week after the sale, on September 27, the Association gave an entertainment at the Crystal Palace to the principal authors, editors, publishers, and booksellers of the United States. It was a splendid success, but unfortunately it was the last of its kind. There were discontents even in those days, and, were it proper, some interesting history might be written in connection with this sketch. Suffice it to say that the Second Regular Trade Sale was held on March 20, 1856, at the rooms of Leavitt, Delisser & Co. Mr. Leavitt and his partner, Mr. J. K. Allen, and Mr. R. L. Delisser formed the auction firm, which had its quarters on the first floor of the large building on the south-west corner of Broadway and White Street; Leavitt & Allen occupied the store and basement, and John F. Trow's printing establishment the upper part of the building.

Leavitt & Allen did a fine publishing business from the start. Mr. Leavitt had inherited a good stock of educational books, to which his firm added from time to time such writers as Rev. Dr. Albert Barnes, Jonathan Edwards, Prof. John J. Owen, S. N. Sweet, Knapp, Rightmeyer, and others. They were especially successful in the publication of the "gift-books" and "annuals," popular thirty years ago, such as "Forget Me Not," "Memory's Gift," "Friendship's Offering," etc. Mr. Leavitt had a passion for this class of books, many of which owed their sale to his taste in get-up and arrangement. As many as fifty thousand copies of these books were sold annually. They also did a large business in works of standard authors, English poets, books for young people, and in writing and photograph albums.

In May, 1860, Leavitt & Allen, publishers and booksellers, and Geo. A. Leavitt & Co., auctioneers, removed to 24 Walker Street. Mr. Delisser had retired from the firm, and was succeeded by Mr. Allen, who continued to hold the fair o'clock in the morning till two in the afternoon during the fair.

Fairs were held in 1803 and in 1804 at New York City, at which gold medals were awarded for the best specimens of type, ink, and paper of wholly American manufacture used in printing a book of not less than 250 pages. The first of these medals was awarded to Jacob Johnson, of Philadelphia, for his printing inks, the ink used in the submitted book being pronounced superior to London ink.

In 1804, at the fourth meeting of the Company in New York, Matthew Carey was reflected President, Isaac Collins, of New York, Vice-President, and Thos. S. Arden, of New York, Secretary. The Company aimed by this award of premiums to improve the arts used in the production of books, and held these fairs for many years in New York, Boston, Newark, N. J., and Philadelphia. For a fuller account of the work of this Association, we refer our readers to the American Publishers' Circular and Literary Gazette, v. 1, No. 4, p. 50, issued September 22, 1855, from which the above facts are taken.

*The subject of trade sales had been an engrossing theme with publishers for many years. In 1801 an association called the American Company of Booksellers was formed, which was composed principally of members doing business in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. They sought to regulate the sales of books at fairs and prohibit auction sales by any members under pain of expulsion. Matthew Carey, of Philadelphia, was the first President of that Association. In 1802 twenty-four of the New York booksellers agreed to attend the literary or book fair held in that city in June, and recommended "booksellers in seaport towns and in towns accessible by water carriage to bring fair samples of the articles which they might have for sale or exchange;" and "those remotely situated," it was thought, "would despatch business by bringing all the articles they wished to dispose of at this fair." They gave notice that they had taken Mr. Boardin's Long Room at the Old Coffee House which would be open for the transaction of business from ten ceeded by James M. Alden, which occasioned the change in the firm-name. In February, 1861, both concerns removed to 21 and 23 Mercer Street, a few doors above Howard Street, which remained the Trade Sale Rooms for many years. The book-trade had by this time begun moving up-town, Grand Street and Broadway being about the centre. The civil war, which had involved so many firms in ruin, had almost passed over, when, in 1863, we believe, Geo. A. Leavitt & Co. found themselves in possession of a large lot of commercial paper that was never honored. After matters were adjusted there was very little left of the old concerns. Mr. Jas. E. Cooley took over the auction business, and the book business, which itself was solvent, was disposed of to meet the demands of the creditors of the auction firm. Mr. Leavitt became auctioneer for his father-in-law, Mr. Alden disappeared, and Mr. Allen decided to try his fortunes on the Pacific coast.

In 1864 Mr. Cooley removed his business to 498 Broadway, where, two years later, February 1, 1866, Mr. Leavitt succeeded him, having formed a partnership with Robert M. Strebelgh and his brother, M. H. Leavitt, under the firm-name of Leavitt, Strebelgh & Co. In 1869 they removed to Clinton Hall, and at the end of the next year the firm again became George A. Leavitt & Co., Mr. Strebelgh having retired.

In 1870 Mr. Leavitt again formed a partnership with his old friend, John K. Allen, who had returned from California, and Mr. Henry S. Allen, a brother of Mr. John K., to carry on a publishing and bookselling business at No. 8 Howard Street, under the firm-name of Leavitt & Allen Bros. This firm continued in business for nearly five years. In 1876 the partnership expired by limitation, Mr. John K. Allen retiring to take an important position in the American Bible Society. The business was removed to Clinton Hall, and the name changed to the World Publishing Co. Mr. H. S. Allen remained with the concern as manager. In 1878 Mr. Leavitt decided to give up the publishing and bookselling business, and after selling his stock he accordingly retired from that branch altogether, devoting his time and energies exclusively to the auction business. In 1885, as has already been noted, he practically retired from active business life, the reins having been put into the hands of Mr. Eugene O'Connor, who had been his confidant and trusted man of business for many years. His brother, M. B. Leavitt, died in 1882.

Mr. Leavitt married, in 1848, a daughter of Mr. Jas. E. Cooley, and had seven children, only two of whom survive him—a son and a married daughter. Mr. Leavitt has always been a familiar figure in New York book circles. He was a man six feet in height, well built, of fine carriage, and always dressed in excellent taste. He had hosts of friends, for after one had broken through his brusqueness of manner one always found that he was "all wool and a yard wide." No man could ever have had a better friend than George A. Leavitt, and that was probably the chief reason the deceased did not succeed as well as he deserved.

The funeral took place from the house of his widow, No. 802 Lexington Ave., N. Y., on the morning of December 21. The burial service of the Protestant Episcopal Church was read by the Rev. E. Walpole Warren, of the Church of the Holy Trinity. Many beautiful floral devices were displayed. A large number of friends attended. The burial was in Greenwood, Brooklyn, N. Y.

OBITUARY.

OLIVER DITSON.

OLIVER DITSON, the well-known music publisher of Boston, died on the 21st inst., at his home in East Brookline Street. For several years his health had been failing, and his death was therefore not unexpected. In January last he had a paralytic shock, and he had been unable to move about freely since that time. Mr. Ditson was born in Boston in 1811, his father's house being nearly opposite to that of Paul Revere, of Revolutionary fame. He received his education in the grammar schools, and early in life was apprenticed to Isaac Butts, a printer. He was afterward associated with Alfred Mudge, the well-known printer. In 1834 Mr. Ditson went into partnership with Samuel H. Parker, a music publisher. In 1840 Colonel Parker retired from the firm and Mr. Ditson became the sole proprietor. In that year Mr. Ditson married Miss Catharine Delana, daughter of Benjamin Delana, of Kingston, Mass., and a lineal descendant of Governor Bradford. Of their five children two are living, Mrs. H. Burr Porter and Charles H. Ditson, the junior partner of the firm of Ditson Co., who is in charge of the New York branch. Another son, James Edward, at the time of his death, six years ago, was the manager of the Philadelphia branch. In 1857 the firm-name was changed from Oliver Ditson to Oliver Ditson & Co., and Mr. John C. Haynes, who had entered Mr. Ditson's employ twelve years before, was admitted to partnership. For forty-three years this business connection was unbroken. Mr. Ditson was for several years President of the Continental National Bank. He was trustee of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' Association, in which institution he took an active part. He was also a director of the Boston Safe Deposit Company, and a trustee of the Franklin Savings Bank. His firm has branch houses in New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago.

LAURENCE OLIPHANT, the well-known writer, died in London, December 23. He was the only son of the late Sir Anthony Oliphant, and was born in England in 1829. At an early age he went to Ceylon, where his father was Chief Justice. He travelled considerably all his life, and gave to the world from time to time wonderfully vivid descriptions of his journeyings and adventures. His more important books are: "A Journey to Katmandu" (1852), "The Russian Shores of the Black Sea" (1853), "Minnesota, or, the Far West" (1855), "The Coming Campaign" (published anonymously in 1855), "The Trans-Caucasian Campaign of Omar Pasha," "A Narrative of the Earl of Elgin's Mission to China and Japan in 1857-59" (1859), "The Land of Gilead, with excursions into Lebanon" (1881), "Traits and Travesties, Social and Political" (1882), "Episodes in a Life of Adventure, or, moss from a rolling stone" (1887), and "Haifa, or, life in modern Palestine," 1887. His "Episodes in a Life of Adventure" is an epitome of all his travels. In 1860 he published his first novel "Patriots and Filibusters, or, incidents of political and exploratory travel." In 1870 he published his second novel, "Piccadilly—a fragment of contemporaneous biography," a bright exposition of London fashionable life. In 1883 he published his most successful story, "Altiora Peto." Two successful trifles of his known in this country are "Tender Recollections of Irene Magillcuddy," and the continuation, "Lady Huckleberry," which enlarges on the follies of the same heroine's husband.

AUTHOR AND CLASSED CATALOG RULES.

THE LIBRARY BUREAU, of Boston, has just ready "Rules for Author and Classed Catalogs as used in Columbia College Library," edited by Melvil Dewey, with "Bibliography of Catalog Rules," by Mary Salome Cutler. These rules were made up from the A. L. A. Code five years ago. Since then they have been in daily use in the Columbia Library training classes, and the two years in the Library School. For over two years they have been in type, subject to constant criticism and suggestion from those needing their help, and hundreds of minor changes in wording and illustration have been made in the effort to fit them as perfectly as possible for an invaluable guide to catalogers.

The most important aids are the graphic illustrations. Fifty-two fac-simile cards were found necessary to fully illustrate all the points. These include all details: the names, titles, imprint, capitals, spacing, indention, reference, and call numbers. They are printed twice in order to show the red down lines in proper position, and blue ink is also indicated by special type.

The work is printed on fine paper, 25 x 17<sup>5</sup>/<sub>8</sub>, allowing 3 cm. margin all round for side notes. The regular edition for the use of catalogers is interleaved with linen paper to admit of individual additions. This cataloger's edition is bound in full Persian morocco, flexible, in order to give the highest degree of convenience and durability.

RED TAPE IN LITERARY DEDICATIONS IN GERMANY.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

MISS VON HOERSCHELMANN'S two-volume "Kulturgeschichte der Cicerone für Italien-Reisende" has had the rare distinction in Germany of being by special permission dedicated to the Empress Frederick, before whom and the Emperor the lady has repeatedly lectured. Like everything else in Germany, the dedication of a literary work to a member of the imperial family is connected with an incredible amount of red tape. There is a codex in the laws relating to the imperial household according to which no scientific work may be dedicated to any member of the imperial family unless it comes up to a certain standard. A number of savants "sit upon" each work of this kind and determine whether the dedication is to be or not to be. One of the conditions is that the work shall contain views or discoveries hitherto not dealt with. Miss von Hoerschelmann's Cicerone could naturally not lay claim to this distinction, and it was owing to a special interference of the Empress Frederick that her two volumes passed the censor and were dedicated to her Majesty.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MISS OLIVE SCHREINER, author of "The Story of an African Farm," has written an allegory in The Women's Penny Paper. The first part is entitled "I thought I stood," the second part, "Once more I stood."

"A WELL-WRITTEN and risky book" seems to be the verdict of Belford, Clarke & Co. on the second venture in the field of fiction of Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, the author of "What Dreams May Come," which this firm published last spring. So serious is the question, apparently, that the publishers have not yet decided to risk the issue of the new work.

To discover a new gem is an event nowadays. Edgar Fawcett appears to have accomplished it. At any rate, he announces the completion, for Collier's Once a Week, of a novelette called "The Great White Emerald," in which he will expound his scientific paradox with his customary gravity and the intrepidity with which he always defends the bantlings of his industrious brain.

IN connection with a rumor that a Western literary man was gathering up the writings of Richard Realf, the poet's widow writes to the New York Sun: "Perhaps this man does not know that I have them copyrighted under the revised acts of Congress. All my husband's poems, lectures, and writings, together with his correspondence, papers, speeches, etc., and a number of pieces in manuscript never published, I have in my possession."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

DAVID MCKAY will publish a selection from the works of Walt Whitman, edited by Elizabeth Porter Gould.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish shortly "The Witch in the Glass, and other poems," by Mrs. S. M. B. Platt.

THE ALDINE BOOK PUBLISHING Co. state that they have sold nearly 10,000 copies of their "Europe Illustrated."

ESTES & LAURIAT report that they sold out their first enormous edition of "Chatterbox," and that a new edition was just off the press in season for Christmas.

HARRIET E. FRANCIS, the wife of the Hon. John M. Francis, of Troy, has written and printed for private circulation a book describing her travels with her husband, entitled "Across the Meridian."

JOHN MURPHY & Co., Baltimore, Md., have in preparation a work by Cardinal Gibbons, entitled "Our Christian Heritage." It is purely religious in character. The work may be expected early in the spring.

J. B. WIGGIN, 17 Bromfield St., Boston, has just published "The Wild Artist in Boston," a new story of love and art in Boston and elsewhere, giving jolly sketches of live artists of today. It is published anonymously.

THE LIBRARY BUREAU, Boston, announces to subscribers to the "Decimal Classification" that after many unforeseen delays, the complete Tables and Index of 20,000 entries was printed last month and will be in from the bindery this week. The regular edition, containing the introduction, cannot be had from the bindery till after the holidays, possibly by January 30. Those in special haste may obtain now the Tables and Index bound and in January the Introduction in pamphlet form.

THE Classic Publishing Company, No. 26 University Place, N. Y., has published a volume entitled "From Beginning to End," containing ten photographic reproductions of paintings of scenes in the life of Christ. Among the number are Ary Scheffer's "Temptation," Leonardo's "Last Supper," Doré's "Christ Leaving the Prætorium," and Gérôme's "Golgotha." The reproductions which are printed upon Japan paper, are accompanied by text by Drs. Talmage, Newman, Newton, Swing, Lorimer, and other clergymen.

MR. SARTAIN has completed his etching after Percy Moran's well-known picture, "An Old Song." Mrs. Runtz-Rees says of this etching: "Percy Moran thoroughly understands the interest which attaches to an unspoken story, and in this instance has been very fortunate in his interpreter. Mr. Sartain has rendered the subject with unusual freedom, and brought out very happily the contrasts of deep shading and tender delicacy." It will be published by J. D. Waring, 19 E. 16th St., N. Y., for the Society of American Etchers.

THE December number (No. 39) of the Riverside Literature Series (published monthly at 15 cents a number by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston) contains four carefully annotated papers by James Russell Lowell; "Books and Libraries," an address delivered in 1885 at the opening of a free public library, of especial value to book-lovers, and a most valuable aid to those interested in collecting books for private or public use; "Emerson, the Lecturer," a delightful paper on the sage of Concord, a most helpful introduction to his works; "Keats," a charming biographical and critical sketch of one poet by another; and "Don Quixote," a paper read before the Workingmen's College of London.

THE Committee on Publications of the Grolier Club announces that it has just ready "Christopher Plantin and the Plantin-Moretus Museum" in the form of a broad octavo of about one hundred pages. It will contain all the illustrations by Joseph Pennell and others as shown in the Century for June, 1888. The larger illustrations will be printed on separate leaves in ink of a different tint. The cover will be the facsimile of a Plantin title. Three hundred copies on paper and three copies on vellum will be printed and offered to the members for subscription, the list for which was closed to resident members on December 22, 1888. The subscription price for copies on paper has been fixed at $2.50.

COLONEL WRIGHT, the Commissioner of Labor, expects to send two volumes to Congress before the present session closes. The first will be the fourth annual report of the Labor Bureau, and will be devoted to the working-women in the great cities. The other volume will be the report on divorces and divorce laws, for which a special appropriation was made by Congress. The records of 2700 courts have been examined, and the volume will give, in classified form, the number of divorces, with causes, number of children, when divorced, and other accessible information. The agents of the Department of Labor are now at work on the fifth annual report, which will not be ready for a year yet, on the wages of railroad men.

D. APPLETON & Co. have now ready the first volume of "An Illustrated Encyclopædic Medical Dictionary," to be completed in four volumes, compiled under the direction of Dr. Frank P. Foster, editor of the New York Medical Journal, with the collaboration of a dozen of the leading physicians of America. It is to be a dictionary of technical terms used by writers on medicine, physics, botany, chemistry, zoölogy, and other collateral sciences in the Latin, English, French, and German languages. Accuracy, convenience of arrangement, and comprehensiveness are guaranteed by the practical scholars in charge of this herculean undertaking. The specimen pages submitted show good clear print and many illustrations, and have met with earnest approval from the medical press throughout the country.

"THE literary executor of Theodore Parker," says the Boston Transcript, "is preparing a new edition of his 'Historic Americans,' in which there will be added to Franklin, Washington, John Adams, and Jefferson, Parker's sketches of John Quincy Adams, Dr. Channing, and Webster. The volume will be twice as large as that edited by Octavius B. Frothingham, in 1870, and will contain a larger introduction and more frequent notes. Each biography will be short, not running beyond seventy-five pages, and these will contain the verdict of Parker on the life, character, and results of all of these great Americans, whose career covers the period from 1740 to 1850, or more than a century. The volume will be followed next summer by Parker's autobiography—a work essentially new, though made up largely from materials published by himself and others from 1850 to 1875. Many passages from the diary and letters will be given, however, which have never been published, relating to Parker's acquaintance with Alcott, Emerson, Margaret Fuller, Bettine Brentano, Garrison, Wendell Phillips, and other contemporaries."

SAMPSON LOW & Co. have in preparation "A History of English Bookselling," by Wm. Roberts.

MACMILLAN & Co. will issue immediately a new book by Mrs. Oliphant, entitled "The Land of Darkness, along with some further chapters in the experiences of the little pilgrim."

A WORK to be issued by the Cambridge University Press is "The Literary Remains of Albrecht Dürer," by W. M. Conway. The volume will contain transcripts from the British Museum manuscripts, and it will be illustrated.

"THE VILLON SOCIETY," says the Academy, "will shortly issue an addendum to their edition of 'The Thousand Nights and One Night.' The new volume will contain the stories of Aladdin and Zeyn el Amam, translated from the newly discovered Arabic text by Mr. John Payne."

MR. LOFTIE's new book, "Kensington: picturesque and historical" (Leadenhall Press), is, according to The Athenæum, "to have a novel binding suggested by Mr. Toer. Beyond the title in gold, the round bevel-edged cloth-covered boards are to be devoid of ornament except on the inner edge, which will have a 'roll' in gold, of the same character that a good binder puts on morocco and Russia."

THE Geographical Society of St. Petersburg has just issued a superb edition of the last work of Gen. Prjevalsky, entitled "From Kiakhta to the Sources of the Yellow River," an exploration of northern Tibet and the route across the Basin of Tarim by Lob Nor. The book gives portraits of the author and his companions and many maps and illustrations. Like all work done by this lamented author it is exhaustive and scholarly and a convincing proof that the untimely death of the writer is a great loss to Russian science.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

For 1888 (Sixteenth Year).

Large 8vo, about 3000 pages. With Duplex Index. Cloth, $2.00.

The Trade List Annual for 1888 contains:

1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names.
2. A complete list by author, title, and subject of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY from July, 1887, to June, 1888.
3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1888, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we have decided to apply it in the future to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for 80 cents per copy extra.

The American Catalogue

Announcement is made of the new volume of the American Catalogue, which will cover the period 1884-1890.

The edition will be 1250 copies only, and there will be no reissue. Subscriptions will be received prior to Jan. 1, 1890, at $10 in parts ($2.50 extra for A. L. A. half leather binding), payable one-half during January, 1890, balance on delivery. The publisher reserves the right to increase price thereafter.

About 100 copies each remain of the Subject Catalogue of 1876 (of which 250 more than of the Author Catalogue were printed), and of the Catalogue of 1876-84. Price, $12.50, sheets; $15, half leather, each.

While the immediate usefulness is, of course, less than to the original subscribers, who have had several years' use, these Catalogues are of permanent bibliographical value in any library or book-store, or to any collector, and with the exhaustion of the edition, their market price is likely to increase, as has been the case with the Author Catalogue of 1876.

The publisher is desirous of placing them with new and growing libraries, or with librarians, booksellers, or others, likely to become subscribers to the ensuing volumes.

He therefore makes the following clearance offers:

To any subscriber for the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1884-90 ($10), or to any new subscriber for the LIBRARY JOURNAL (with LITERARY NEWS), PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and ANNUAL CATALOGUE, 1888 (in all $10), either of the above Catalogues will be furnished at $5 additional, or both for $8 additional, in A. L. A. half leather binding.

To any librarian or bookseller sending new subscribers to the amount of $25, to either the AMERICAN CATALOGUE, 1884-90 ($10), LIBRARY JOURNAL ($5), PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY ($3), LITERARY NEWS ($1), or ANNUAL CATALOGUE, 1888 ($3), or any combination of them, either of the above Catalogues will be sent free, in A. L. A. half-leather binding; or, for new subscribers to the amount of $40, both.

This gives an enterprising librarian or library assistant, who will canvass trustees and borrowers, or a bookseller or clerk, who will canvass others in the trade and book-buyers, a chance to obtain these valuable helps free.

This offer will be withdrawn and the price of both Catalogues raised when the stock is reduced to 30 copies.
